Third Day of the National Encampment at St. Louis.

The Parade One of the Grandest Sight Ever Beheld.

The Streets Thronged With People—Anxiety to See "Uncle Billy."

Annual Address of the Commander-in-Chief—His Greeting to the People of the Pacific Coast for Their Hospitality Last Year.

The Citizens of St. Louis Also Thanked for Their Generous Welcome—46,157 New Members Enrolled During the Last Five Quarters.

THE BOYS IN BLUE Most of the States Represented in Camp and Parade—Oration to the "Old Hero."

St. Louis, Sept. 28.—Rain continues to drop down steadily and with increased showers. Everything is drenched and the order of the citizens and soldiers is dampened. Thousands of veterans, after awaiting twenty-four hours in the rain to realize the promises of the signal service of fair weather have started for home; yet there are many thousands left, and Grand Marshal Grier has issued an order to prepare a parade.

The order to fall in for the parade was received at the various camps and headquarters shortly after 9 o'clock, and the men tumbled out of their tents and rooms prepared for battle with the elements, armed with rubber coats and umbrellas, trousers rolled up and mind set to give St. Louis the promised procession, if not in overwhelming numbers, at least with enough to make a good showing of appreciation of the city's efforts to entertain. Shortly before 11 o'clock the column was formed and Grand Marshal Grier ordered the escort of mounted police forward. Then followed the grand marshal with his chief of staff, General A. J. Smith, and aides of Logan post, of St. Louis, mounted, and Springfield, (Mass.) battalion as special escort to the commander-in-chief, who followed a few yards behind, wrapped in a rubber coat and smiling and bowing to the crowds who lined the streets. He was greeted with cheers all along the line of march. His staff of one hundred men, mounted, preceded twenty carriages moving three abreast, in which were the war governors and their honored guests. In the lead was one occupied by Mayor Francis and General William F. Sherman. Although closely sheltered from rain and sleet, the crowds on the sidewalks soon found where the ex-commander was, and cheer upon cheer marked his progress down the street, while frequent groups of men would rush to the carriage door and grasp his hand. Then followed the divisions of the Grand Army, ten in all, in the order of the Missouri, commanded by Colonel Nelson Cole, was given the right of the line. They had come with several thousand men, and even with the rain and mud had a column of marching men.

The ten divisions were as follows: First, Department of Missouri—Colonel Nelson Cole, assistant marshal. Second, Department of Illinois—Colonel J. C. Butler, assistant marshal. Third, Department of Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Ohio—Governor Thomas C. Fletcher, assistant marshal. Fourth, Department of New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, New Jersey and Virginia—Colonel D. P. Dier, assistant marshal. Fifth, Department of California—New Hampshire, Vermont, Potomac and Maryland—Major Lee Rezure, assistant marshal. Sixth, Department of Indiana—Major J. F. Wegel, assistant marshal. Seventh, Department of Iowa, Nebraska and Colorado—General John McNeil, assistant marshal. Eighth, Department of Kansas—Colonel Joo Gondolfo, assistant marshal. Ninth, Department of Michigan, Minnesota, Delaware, West Virginia, Washington Territory and Kentucky—Colonel Charles G. Sidel, assistant marshal. Tenth, Department of Arkansas, Florida (Gulf), Dakota, Oregon, New Mexico, Montana, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Georgia, Texas, Utah, Arizona, delegate of the Naval Veterans and Sons of Veterans—Captain Henry Leigenharts, assistant marshal.

Here and there a post with muskets or drum corps broke the monotony. As the column passed under the beautiful, stately glass transparency of General Grant, between Locust and St. Charles streets, all the men uncovered their heads and passed under it in silence. The head of the procession reached the G. A. R. arch, which spans Olive street, at noon, and Commander in Chief General Sherman, Vice President Hanchell Hamilton, war governors and other distinguished guests, left the carriages and took positions in the grand stand just east of the arch across the street and facing the stand. Grand Marshal Grier and staff sat in their saddles, while the rain increased in volume and for an hour and a half poured down the heads of the passing soldiers. Missouri's contingent was twenty-five minutes in passing, Illinois fifteen and Kansas twelve. The other states were represented by posts and regiments. Along the line of march were thousands of boys in blue who thought it too wet to march. In the balcony the grand stand Commander in Chief Fairchild and General Sherman, partly protected from the storm, bowed to the guests as they passed. Continuous cheering went up from each post as they filed by in company front. Here and there throughout the different divisions marched a colored post and their salute was invariably a signal for applause from those in the grand stand, which several times was taken up by the crowd and prolonged into a hearty cheer. The dripping flags received much boisterous notice, and as a squad carrying tattered remnants of battle flags passed by the excitement became unbounded. Throughout the column an occasional warrior carried a cane

President Cleveland and Governor Hill Endorsed—Cook for Secretary of State, Wemple for Comptroller, and Fitzgerald for State Treasurer.

MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICANS. The State Convention Meets and Nominates Its Men.

Boston, Sept. 28.—The corridors of the Tremont house were filled with delegates to the Republican state convention today. At an early hour this morning the main topic of discussion was the nomination for attorney general, which seems to have been settled in favor of Hon. A. E. Pillsbury.

At the conclusion of Mr. Rockwell's speech, which was often stopped by applause, the chairman of the committee on resolutions reported the following platform: First—The Republicans of Massachusetts, in convention assembled, submit to the people of the commonwealth this declaration of principles upon which they confidently appeal to the intelligence and conscience of the citizens. Believing in protective tariff, recognizing the benefits it brings to our country, by giving our people more various industries, more constant employment and better pay, furnishing an incentive for the full development of our resources and securing for our market the best in the world to our own producers.

Second, We favor liberal appropriations for the navy, for improvements and proper national aid, to education, also pensions for disabled soldiers and sailors, to meet further questions of the treasury surplus and recommend such reduction of internal revenue taxation as exigencies of the case may require. The time has come for congress to carefully consider the question of the internal revenue system and of tariff making in the national interest and the administration of our custom laws, especially in regard to fraudulent under valuation. We believe in honest ballot, north and south, and that every citizen shall be allowed to vote and have his vote counted. We condemn the systematic suppression of the Republican vote in Southern states and the recent unwholesome election frauds in certain northern cities to maintain the party, and that the ballot box shall always be of cardinal Republican principles. We pledge ourselves to maintain the existing civil service law, and to bring the present law of the national civil service law, as passed by the Republican congress, and demand that it be extended to other departments not now under its provisions. We approve of the present civil service law, and we call attention to the fact that the Democratic party, by its present administration, has demonstrated that the efficiency of the law is utterly destroyed when administered in a hostile spirit.

We point to the array of shameful appointments by the present administration and also to the president's endorsement of special pleading in Michigan and other states. It further proof were needed it has been furnished by the recent Democratic convention in this state, which shows that the Democratic party in Massachusetts stands with that party throughout the country in support of the doctrine. To the victors belong the spoils. We demand the cessation of compulsory coinage of silver, the passage of a national bankruptcy law, and the protection of our fisheries interest without yielding, and of the international right recognizing intemperance the most fruitful source of pauperism, crime in politics and social degradation. We believe in the most thorough restriction of the liquor traffic and enforcement of the law in its suppression. We approve the action of the last legislature in enacting so many temperance statutes and demand the continued enactment of progressive temperance measures as the policy of the party. It also favors submission to a vote of the people of a prohibitory amendment to the constitution. The rest of the platform deals with state matters.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted, not one dissenting. Mr. Hoar took the platform and in a brief address nominated Oliver Ames, of Boston, for governor. The convention unanimously nominated Ames by acclamation, J. Q. Broxton for lieutenant governor, H. B. Price for secretary of state, Amos W. Beard was chosen state treasurer, Charles H. Ladd was then named as auditor, A. J. Waterman was nominated for attorney-general, when the convention adjourned.

DEMOCRATS AT SARATOGA. The Convention Called to Order and Work Commenced.

SARATOGA, Sept. 28.—The day opened dark, gloomy and cold. The committee on contested seats did not adjourn until 6 o'clock this morning, and it is said left things pretty much in the same shape as recommended by the state committee. If nothing unforeseen arises business can be completed in three or four hours. At 10:10 o'clock the clerk of the state committee, Mr. Bocca, called the convention to order for a moment to make the announcement that all members of the committee on resolutions were requested to meet at Governor Dorsheimer's room at once. This was received with surprise, as it foreshadowed some trouble with the Special Dispatch to the Daily Eagle. ASHLAND, Kan., Sept. 28.—The proposition to vote $30,000 court house bonds was carried yesterday by 550 majority. The building will be erected at once. Clark county flourishes and Ashland builds and booms.

Fair at Clay Center. CLAY CENTER, Kan., Sept. 28.—The Clay county fair opened here today with a good attendance, considering that the weather is simply horrible. There is a good string of racers in attendance, also a number of fine draft horses.

The Fair at Ottawa. OTTAWA, Kan., Sept. 28.—The Franklin county fair commenced yesterday. Entries are more numerous than former years, but owing to the continuous rain the attendance is very light. Bicycle races, under the auspices of Ottawa wheelmen, have been postponed until next month.

Base Ball News. CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The Western association of professional base ball clubs was organized last night. Delegates representing eight western cities elected officers and signed an agreement forming the new organization. The circuit is to include Omaha, Chicago, Kansas City, Lincoln, Des Moines, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Milwaukee.

Horrible Outrage. CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—A Corpus Christie special says: News has reached here from the lower Rio Grande country giving the details of a daring and heinous perpetration of a recent outrage of the border counties on September 13. Juan Garcia Barza, a rich ranchman, while a short distance from his home, situated between Las Delicias and La Guadalupe, was surrounded by five desperadoes and robbed of $300. He was then taken across the river to the other side and held in a cell. Barza's captors made him write his family, saying unless they immediately raised and paid to an individual named by the letter the sum of $15,000 by September 18 he would be shot.

Weather Report. WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. 1 a. m.—For Missouri—Rain followed by warmer clearing weather, light to fresh variable winds, becoming southerly. For Kansas—Warmer, fair weather, except rains in extreme eastern portion, light to fresh winds.

Negro Riot. GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 28.—The News, Columbia, Tex. says: In a fight Sunday night in Matagorda county, between a large mob of negroes and a posse of whites, under the command of Captain Balda, four negroes were killed, including Barton Hawkins, one of the leaders. It is not known how many were wounded. The whites lost two horses, and the negroes confirm the first report that the trouble arose over the death of Jerry Mason, a colored constable, who started out to arrest a white planter named Sabarna. Several hundred negroes congregated at Benton, killing Sabarna and his friends. After the fight Sunday night the negroes dispersed for the time being, but further trouble is anticipated.

Postponed—Purses Offered. KANSAS CITY, Sept. 28.—The directors of the Kansas City fair voted today to postpone it until October 10.
