SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT. WHO WILL BE THE LUCKY MAN... DISCUSSION LAST NIGHT

In the School Board--The New Board to Decide on the Sixth of August.

The school board met last night in adjourned session for the transaction of unfinished business. President Brown in the chair. Messrs. W. E. Campbell, Kate, Pallett, the new member from the first ward, Judge W. P. Campbell, Levy, Van Ness, Tucker and Wingard present.

Mr. Pallett, in a late meeting elected by the board to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Caldwell's having left the city, presented his outline of office, which was placed on file, and Mr. Pallett was regularly enrolled a member of the board.

The chair thought that in the absence of a better suggestion, that the regular course of business had better be adopted. The reading of the minutes was dispensed with, and the reports of the various committees called for.

Mr. George E. Campbell, from the committee on furniture, reported that the committee had received a communication from the Grand Rapids (Michigan) Furniture company, which stated that some slight change desired in the school desks could not be made owing to the lack of time. The committee was instructed to relieve the furniture as ordered.

The committee on buildings and grounds reported that they had a proposition from Mr. Crawford to lease a building for school purposes at the Burton car works. The proposed lease was read, but created considerable discussion. The price asked, $50 per month for an entire year, was considered too high. A motion to amend by changing to $20 per month. After a good amount of amending, substituting and a motion to lay on the table, the matter was laid over until the next meeting.

The committee on janitors was called, but having made its report on those appointments at a former meeting, had no report to make. The next committee called for was the committee on teachers and salaries, of which Judge W. P. Campbell is chairman.

It was pretty generally known by everybody present (and that included quite a number of spectators) that there would be a rather lively discussion over the question of removing the present city school superintendent, Prof. Chidester, and selecting a new one, or perhaps deferring action on the latter until some subsequent meeting. In order that the public may be assisted in more thoroughly understanding the proceedings of last evening, pertaining at least to the matter above mentioned, it will here be in place to give a brief resume of the circumstances which led to the same.

Prof. Chidester, the present superintendent has been the incumbent for the past two years. When the question of selecting a superintendent for the ensuing year began to be discussed early in the season, there was developed some opposition to the reelection of Prof. Chidester for another year. This opposition does not seem to have been for any specific purpose or for the benefit of any other particular candidate, but was based purely and wholly upon the grounds of expediency, those participating in the opposition asserting that they believed that the remarkable development of the city and its school system, demanded a change in our educational institutions a man possessed of more of the attainments required in a man capable of filling the position of superintendent of schools in a city the size of Wichita.

While some of the board announced themselves as of that opinion, others believed him thoroughly competent and favored his re-appointment. Even a large number of the patrons of the schools became more or less interested in the matter, on one side or the other. It was supposed that the affair had been definitely settled when at the meeting of the school board on the night of June 4, they elected or they did not elect as the sequel may prove. Prof. Chidester, superintendent for the ensuing year, now, right at the close of our session, was or was not Prof. Chidester legally elected at that meeting? The school board consists of ten members, six constitute a quorum. At the meeting in question there were seven present. When the vote on superintendent was taken five voted for Mr. Chidester and two against. This, those opposed to the reelection, was not an election, as not a majority of the board, or, rather, not a quorum voted on the question and hence, they say, it was no vote.

member from the first ward, Van Ness and Wingard. Now, W. E. Campbell, George E. Campbell and M. W. Levy. Mr. Tucker begged to be excused from voting and was granted that privilege. Judge Campbell then moved that the board declare a vacancy in the office of superintendent of schools, which was seconded by Mr. Levy.

The chair asked there were any reasons and Judge Campbell said: "I don't object to giving a few reasons, Mr. chairman." He gave his reasons in substance as follows: In the first place, not a majority of this board ever elected anybody superintendent for the coming year. But, that is not the reason. I put it upon the ground that we ought to have some other person for superintendent than the present incumbent in a city the size of Wichita, with fully 40,000 inhabitants and so many different schools and school houses as we have. Mr. Chidester is not qualified; he is not a big enough man for the position. He showed that in the past two years. I recommended him again last year because I thought he was a safe man. The judge did not think from what he had heard, that Mr. Chidester visited the schools as frequently or as thoroughly as a superintendent should. He did not believe, either, that the other teachers looked up to the present superintendent as they should to the right sort of a man. His acquaintance with representative people of the city was too limited and he was not a man who is able to meet and impress the business men of the city, as to his merits. The speaker also thought we ought to have more talent; we pay enough to have a good man.

Chairman Brown asked the vice president, Mr. Van Ness, to please occupy the chair while he took the floor and spoke against the motion to declare a vacancy. He prefaced his remarks by saying, that it might possibly be considered a piece of presumption on his part to leave the chair, but apologized for the same by saying that he felt compelled to do so, "when a movement of this kind is made, involving the honor of the board and of the city, and the citizens who have their interests at heart." He continued by cautioning the board not to take any such step under what he characterized as the leadership of some, who had led them into grave errors in other matters. He said he was acquainted with the history of the board, for two years and had acquired the habit of looking for the best interests of the city. One of the members of the board, he said, was at one time superintendent of our city schools and by the same leadership was removed. The new appointee after a very brief acquaintance was also removed by the same leadership and a new man elected. He did not believe in rushing things. That superintendent was summarily removed a few days under the same leadership, they want to remove the present superintendent, Mr. Brown, continuing, said, "and now, I ask you, if following under this reckless leadership is not a dangerous thing?" He did not care to discuss the question of the legality of that election, he appended to the board to be very sure of the ground, to be very certain that removing Prof. Chidester was the proper course to pursue. He asked, "is the city of Wichita willing to stultify itself?" And he added, "this is the question of the city. Mr. Brown expressed himself in no uncertain words when he said, 'I desire to denounce such proceedings as this as a piece of elementary ignorance will permit.' Although he might not be satisfied with all of the actions of this board, still he was ready to stand by and sustain the board. The gentleman took occasion to say, that he did not care for the imputations, the sneers and wares as the called, the sneers to our school system, but he pledged himself to stand by it.

In speaking of Prof. Chidester he said that he considered him fully competent to fill the place, and gave him a very complimentary recommendation. He asserted that he had visited the schools, he thought, as much and as thoroughly as any other member of the board, and his information from the teachers was that Mr. Chidester was not derelict in the number or the length of his visits to the schools. He thought an established man will do better than a new one, especially as this work here requires not only a man who can conduct schools after they are established, but start new schools out in the proper way.

Judge Campbell answered Mr. Brown, saying that he did not consider himself called upon to defend himself. In all matters connected with the school board, he had done what he thought was to the best interest of the schools. Mr. Geo. E. Campbell, he said, was never removed, but a motion was made to fill the place to whom the board discovered they had been mistaken and they let him go. He had always given Mr. Chidester his hearty support during school years, and said nothing until it came time to choose his successor. He thought Mr. C's success largely due to the efficient corps of city teachers, and changed Mr. Brown to call up the teachers and let them speak for their opinions of Mr. Chidester.

Mr. Brown said he was willing to do that. The judge said he had all possible interest in having good schools. He had a great many children. The last time he connected them were seven. Mr. Levy said that a number of irrelevant things had been said. He thought that Wichita, as the largest city in the state was entitled to better talent, a man of more scholastic attainments than Mr. Chidester possessed. He had (as he told both Mr. Brown and Mr. Chidester) nothing against Mr. Chidester. He was in favor of a change but thought the incoming members could be held responsible for the condition of the school. He therefore moved that the further consideration of the matter be deferred until the next regular meeting, the first Monday in August (the sixth) and as all of the new members but the two from the Fifth ward were present, they would be fully acquainted with the matter.

Considerable discussion arose about the matter in view of the application of a candidate for the superintendency had been kept. The chair and clerk explained that they had been made in an informal way and only to be presented in case of a vacancy. These gentlemen said they had shown them to the committee on teachers. When Prof. Chidester was elected, Mr. Brown said he had returned the applications to the parties that made them, as they had returned them to him. On Mr. Levy's motion to defer until August 6th, the vote was as follows: Ayes--Messrs. Levy, Pallett, Tucker, Van Ness, Wingard and Brown--5. Noes--Messrs. W. P. Campbell, G. E. Campbell and A. Katz--3. On motion of Mr. Levy the board adjourned.

Mr. Rumsing, of Boston, representing the Thompson-Houston electric light company, has arrived in the city. He will at once proceed to put in the wires and machinery for the Riverside motor line, two miles of which will be put in immediately.

J. L. (Bunnie) Mead left yesterday for Helena, Montana, to spend the summer with his father, J. R. Mead.

DESEETER. Deputy Metcalf night before last made the arrest of John McCaffrey, a deserter from Co. F, 8th cavalry, U. S. A. The eighth was the regiment that passed through here last Sunday; and McCaffrey is said to have deserted from the regiment at Ft. Reno, I. T. He was taken to Leavenworth where he will remain until sent to military prison by order of court martial.

Y. M. C. A. ECHOES. An interesting and practical gospel address by Rev. S. F. Taylor, of Columbia, Mo., at the young men's meeting from 4 to 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Meeting in same place: brick church corner of Lawrence and First.

Young men's prayer meeting at 8 o'clock tonight. Business suspended. Officer Fenner was wandering along on West Douglas avenue yesterday afternoon. He soon became suspicious at the corner of brick just below the Douglas avenue house and went over to investigate. The result of the investigation was seen afterwards when he turned over to the city a jointist named Hill and one case of beer.

About midnight a colored man was brought down from East Douglas by Officer Dennis. He was found doing quite a good business at one of the joints on the corner of the Douglas avenue house. He gave the name of John Mays and will have a hearing in the police court this morning.

Last night a boy in passing by the Bryan Fruit Co's store on North Main, maliciously struck one of the large plate glass windows of the store. The window passed a few minutes afterwards but the boy had made good his good escape. A colored boy, about 10 or 12 years of age named Mitchell, was brought down to the station yesterday afternoon by Officer Beahrs and lock up in the cooler. He was found playing around on North Fourth avenue in much the same garb as Adam were in the early days of the garden of Eden.

An old drunk named John Fore is in the cooler awaiting a hearing in police court this morning. Night before last Officer John Knight and Mr. Cooper having heard that there was a case of domestic violence at the corner of Second and Market, went up to investigate. They found a man, his wife and a sick child within, and listening to the story of the former they each gave one dollar to relieve the want of which they had heard so much told in such a pitiful strain.

Yesterday afternoon a boy came running up to the police station and told the officers that "a man down there was beating his wife to death." John Knight hurried off to see what was the trouble and upon entering the room into which he had gone the day before on a charitable mission he found the same man standing over his wife trying to choke her to death. He held a gold of him and found that he was in a state of beastly intoxication. The fellow turned upon the officer and was making a play to whip him when John gave him a shove and sent him reeling back into the room. He was too drunk to make any further resistance and permitted the officer to administer undisturbed the wants of the woman and child. As the officer left the room he made some very pertinent remarks as to giving money in charity to be spent in whiskey.

ROBBED OF SEVEN DOLLARS. This world is not always one of unalloyed care and supreme content for the trudging tramp after all. Once and a while they are made to feel the pang which so often comes to the eyes of the innocent accumulator of the world's filthy lucre. No doubt there is now and then one who for a time imagines that his world holds no more happiness for him than for a Grouse or a Douglas Donkey. Such a one crossed our path or rather the threshold of our kitchen door yesterday. He was a rosy-cheeked, fair-faced fellow, with a pair of eyes of intense blue, and a nose of the profession. His little bundle was rolled extra neat, and about his neck was a bandana scarf, neatly held by a golden shovel. Noticing that he limped sadly in his off foot we suggested a stumped role and a wreck of a freight train. He acknowledged the stumped role, near the corner of an empty freight, where he was discovered by a brakeman, who called the conductor, when they promptly went through him, taking his seventeen dollars and twenty-five cents, which that corporation had paid him but the day previous. The loss of the money was not so much and he had no doubt that the employees of the road stood in great need, but they threw him on a springing and almost crushing his foot and ankle. In reply to our suggestion that after a good breakfast he had better go to the officers of the company and report the outrage he showed a disinclination to worry worthy officials whose life must already be a burden, with so trifling a matter as a missing pocket and the loss of a few dollars, but they threw him on a springing and almost crushing his foot and ankle. In reply to our suggestion that after a good breakfast he had better go to the officers of the company and report the outrage he showed a disinclination to worry worthy officials whose life must already be a burden, with so trifling a matter as a missing pocket and the loss of a few dollars, but they threw him on a springing and almost crushing his foot and ankle.

THE SAME SPOT. Another Barn on the site of the Goldbach Fire goes up in the flames. Yesterday afternoon a fire alarm was turned in through the telephone service from North Topeka. No 2 having a straight run up the avenue made fine time and was soon at the scene of the conflagration, a stable in the rear of John L. Jacobs' home, No. 222 North Topeka, No. 1, not receiving the place of the fire so distinctly, were delayed for a few seconds, but followed quickly on No. 2. The water was soon playing on the flames, but it was too late to save the building or its contents. It was a frame structure, filled with household goods, and burned like tinder wood when once under way. The barn was built on the site of the one which were stored Mr. Goldbach's manufactures and which burned about a year ago. In the building had been stored the household goods of Eli Huffman and wife shortly after the departure of Mrs. Huffman for the east two months ago. They were a complete loss. It was the property of John Dibley, of Pennsylvania, a brother-in-law of Mr. Jacobs. The barn was not insured, the household goods were insured in the Orient for $700. The origin of the fire is a mystery, and about the only explanation advanced is that it was the work of an incendiary. Mrs. Jacobs heard someone on the building about 2 o'clock and it was but a short time afterwards that it was discovered. The family, too, have wondered regarding the origin of the fire, which may yet be made public through other channels than the press.

STRUCK WITH A STONE. Young Willis Wadley Makes a Savage Attack Upon Ira Mehegan, of the European Hotel. Yesterday, shortly after noon, a young man rushed into the office of the European hotel, on East Douglas avenue, and apparently without saying a word to any one threw a rock at the clerk, Ira Mehegan, striking him upon his head. Mr. Mehegan at the time was bending over the counter looking over some accounts which lay spread out before him, and thus the attack was entirely unexpected to him. He rolled from the stool to the floor, the blood gushing from a long, deep cut upon the side of the head. The stone rebounding, struck a plate glass in front, breaking it. In the meantime the boy who had thrown the stone, as well as two companions who had come to the hotel with him, were making away as fast as their legs would take them.

The injured man was carried up to his room and Dr. Graunman, to dress his wounds. The stone had made a deep, ugly cut on the side of the head, and while it was serious it was not considered a fatal injury. The force of the blow had stunned Mr. Mehegan, and even last night he had not entirely recovered consciousness. It was soon discovered that the stone had been thrown by Willis Wadley, and that his two companions were Charley Short and Ed Nathan, latter generally called "Reddy." All had disappeared. "Reddy" was arrested about 6 o'clock and locked up but afterwards released. A warrant was sworn out at Justice Hammond's for Wadley's arrest, but at a late hour he had not been found and was believed to have left the city.

Mr. Mahan, the proprietor of the hotel, says that the only reason he could assign for the assault was that Wadley had attempted to average a fancied wrong done his sister by Mehegan. This girl, Mattie Wadley, had been employed at the European as a waiter, and she had been charged with peevishness by the clerk and finally dismissed last Saturday. Wadley, thinking that the clerk was to blame for this, and knowing that the two were not friendly, threw the stone and punished him as he did. "Reddy" last night told the other side of the story. He said that a few days before her dismissal Mattie Wadley was for some trivial matter twice knocked down in the dining room by Mehegan, and that she would have been knocked down a third time had not another waiter interfered and prevented it. This affair was kept from the brother's ears until yesterday when he accidentally heard of it. He immediately went to his sister and upon learning from her of what had happened was true started out to hunt up Mehegan. The two men, "Reddy" says, came with him and endeavored all the way from Wadley's home on South Washington to the hotel to dissuade him from his purpose.

It is due to Mr. Mehegan, however, to say that he is considered a quite inoffensive young man of excellent habits and that the statement of his assault upon Miss Wadley is denied by Mr. Mahan.

NOTICE. A gentleman in the city representing the Chicago Electric Motor of New York city, has submitted a proposition to the Fairmount street railroad company to put in two miles of apparatus and equip a number of their cars with the electric motor. If it operates successfully in the two miles they will then extend it to their Fairmount, Burton and proposed lines. They have the matter under consideration and will not act for several days. The same gentleman proposed estimates to the Wichita street railway company and offered to equip the following lines for them: Main street from Thirteenth to Lincoln; Douglas avenue from Seneca (West side) to College Hill; Topeka avenue from Twenty-first to Douglas; Oak from Main to Cleveland. The car is to be equipped with a six and a half horse power motor, will be noiseless and make a speed of 15 miles an hour. The operating expense is said to be only 50 percent of operating with horses.

FROM THE PROVIDENCE WELLS. The friends of Reverend Hamilton will be glad to learn that his health has been greatly improved by his stay at Providence Wells, Butler county. He writes his physician: "I feel very much improved and we are all having a good time. This is certainly the place to recuperate. The mineral water and that awful mixture you gave are turning things upside down. We are living principally on fish, fresh eggs, country butter and chicken, fishing excursions and pleasure drives. Prof. Taylor and I fished three hours this morning. The fish were all good sized fish, so you see we are progressing." We expect to pull freight for the city next Monday.

CONCERT. An organized company known as the Willing Workers who have been rehearsing the past week or two will present at the Garfield opera house, next Wednesday night, July 18, a musical concert. These Willing Workers are working in the interest of the Second Baptist church. They have taken great interest in the work and a very elaborate program has been prepared, and will no doubt be very interesting.

THE COURTS. JUSTICE COURT. Dick Graffin, the young man who is alleged to have shot at and wounded George Davis, was yesterday brought down for a hearing before Justice Hammond. Mr. Adams appeared for the state and Mr. Conly for the defense. The case was, however, continued over until Monday.

George Tangle was also brought in the same court for a hearing. He is charged with breaking into the house of Joe Woodson on North Wichita. His case, too, was continued until Monday. John P. Mahan swore out a warrant at Justice Hammond's for the arrest of Willis Wadley whom he charges with an assault and intent to kill upon Ira Mehegan, a clerk at the European hotel. A mistake was made in yesterday's report in stating that B. D. Hammond swore out a warrant for the arrest of the colored man for stealing a saddle belonging to Mr. Hammond's son and not to Orin Rank.

POLICE COURT. John Brown was the name given by the old gentleman whom Marshal McNamee arrested the day before. He paid a fine of $5 and costs and was dismissed. John Wyman and Harry Simpson, the two men who engaged in one of the three racket at the Douglas Avenue house the night before, yesterday answered to disturbing the peace. They were each fined $5. Simpson paid the amount. Wyman paid $2.50 and put up a watch for the payment of the remainder. Mrs. Harp and Miss Sherman turned in their fines of $10 each yesterday. W. G. McColliver was the man whom the dog tag collectors were after yesterday. They had issued a warrant charging him with harboring dogs upon which the license was not paid. The hearing of the case was continued until the 14th.

CLOSED. Officer Jake Harmon was last evening telling how a joint which had sprung up on his beat happened to die a natural death, and without the least assistance from the law. The place referred to was a little joint operated by a Dutchman out on the corner of Ida and Douglas. Here the dispenser of the ardent opened up for business but the police kept his house under such a strict surveillance that he could have little or no trade. He soon grew tired of this sort of thing and yesterday turned in and drank up every drop of beer and liquor in the place. He became considerably under the influence and while in this condition removed every vestige of his former business.

Not Exactly What We Seem. Do many of us strive to make ourselves seem in our little world? Do we not rather hide under all manner of disguises, do we not try to seem better, kinder, more innocent, purer, wiser, wittier than we are? Do we show to everybody the tenderness of our temper? Do we go about admiring freely that we told an untruth this morning; that we have been guilty of listening to what was not intended for our ears; that we ate a glutinous meal; that we hurt the feelings of all our family by our malicious speech; that we slandered an acquaintance; that we took more than our share of the day's pleasure; that we had the first reading of the daily paper; that we snubbed our dependents; and were rude to our superiors and were altogether unlovely? No! We carry the blindest expressions that we know how to wear, on the side toward the world, portraying the best disposition that we know how to counterfeit, we turn up our eyes in horror at the person who does tell untruths, we speak with scorn and old sneers of people who do lie; and we are not aware of them to hear; we wish about that we had more appetite, for we eat no more than the bird in the field, we are brags of riors; we despise a goodly and slender, we row from the comfortable chair when mamma comes in; if there is any one present to see us do it, we air the paper for grandmas without so much as glancing at it; we speak with a voice of silver to our inferiors, so far as our unconscious power of impudence goes we appear to be altogether too certain, too good, too human nature's daily food. It is, in fact, our aim to seem so much better than we are, that it amounts to seeming what we are not, to an actual disguise, and if one who thinks he knows us well should ever chance to meet our soul power in the presence of the Lord of the other life, he will certainly not have the least hope that he has ever met that soul before.--Harper's Bazar.

Not Exactly What We Seem. Do many of us strive to make ourselves seem in our little world? Do we not rather hide under all manner of disguises, do we not try to seem better, kinder, more innocent, purer, wiser, wittier than we are? Do we show to everybody the tenderness of our temper? Do we go about admiring freely that we told an untruth this morning; that we have been guilty of listening to what was not intended for our ears; that we ate a glutinous meal; that we hurt the feelings of all our family by our malicious speech; that we slandered an acquaintance; that we took more than our share of the day's pleasure; that we had the first reading of the daily paper; that we snubbed our dependents; and were rude to our superiors and were altogether unlovely? No! We carry the blindest expressions that we know how to wear, on the side toward the world, portraying the best disposition that we know how to counterfeit, we turn up our eyes in horror at the person who does tell untruths, we speak with scorn and old sneers of people who do lie; and we are not aware of them to hear; we wish about that we had more appetite, for we eat no more than the bird in the field, we are brags of riors; we despise a goodly and slender, we row from the comfortable chair when mamma comes in; if there is any one present to see us do it, we air the paper for grandmas without so much as glancing at it; we speak with a voice of silver to our inferiors, so far as our unconscious power of impudence goes we appear to be altogether too certain, too good, too human nature's daily food. It is, in fact, our aim to seem so much better than we are, that it amounts to seeming what we are not, to an actual disguise, and if one who thinks he knows us well should ever chance to meet our soul power in the presence of the Lord of the other life, he will certainly not have the least hope that he has ever met that soul before.--Harper's Bazar.

Pipes for Authority. Citizen (to stranger)--What are your politics, my friend? Stranger--I have no politics this year. I'm leader of a brass band.--New York Sun.

It is said that blind headed Indians are becoming common, and the plug hat of civilization is thought to be responsible.

"Woolenite" is a new word used to designate the man who wears garments entirely of wool.
