

CONSISTENCY.

The Wichita Eagle keeps up a vigorous beating of the tom-toms for the g. o. p. but between the lines can be read the fact that it is done with about as much relish as the turning of the crank of the grindstone affords the boy who has hold of the crank.

Col. Murdoch is not the man to sulk because he was turned down in a political convention, and the fear that some people may think so may account for the increased beating of the tom-toms just at this time.

You may know that he is giving the grindstone a few vigorous turns to keep from being prodded by the man holding the axe.

And then on the following day when you read this comment on the Homestead riot you conclude that he has been musing to himself and arriving at conclusions forced by sound reasoning:

"The terrible scenes and occurrences at Homestead, Pa., are not only distressing to contemplate, as to their immediate results, but they are taken as indices of a condition existing, or liable to be brought into existence, that to many persons is alarming. Everybody agrees that there is something radically wrong somewhere, and the sooner it is discovered and steps taken to right it, the better for the peace of the country and the safety of life and property.

In all candor, Colonel, is it not time to stop playing this forced game of party fealty? If there is something radically wrong somewhere, and the sooner it is discovered and steps taken to right it, the better for the peace of the country and the safety of life and property.

The terrible scenes at the Homestead iron mills did not seem to disturb the serenity of Andrew Carnegie to any extent.

London under date of July 8, says: LONDON, July 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Miss Whitfield and Mr. Armitage left Bremer, Aberdeenshire, this morning with a splendidly equipped four-in-hand.

How much patriotism do you suppose there is in Andrew Carnegie? Of course he wants his wealth in gold, so that he may transfer it to whatever clime he may choose to reside in.

We hear of a number of old soldiers who have recently been approached by Republicans and berated and persuaded by them to forsake the People's party.

A Monster Porker.

We stated in an issue of a few weeks ago that W. C. Hutchinson had brought to Sumner county the first pair of Ohio Improved Chester White pigs. We have since discovered that we were badly mistaken unless there is still a difference in the Chester Whites brought in by Mr. Hutchinson and the herd owned by J. K. Moore.

Charged With Embezzlement.

M. B. Keagy, who resides on a farm just east of the city, one of the best known men of Sumner county, formerly county treasurer and a man who has a legion of friends, is being tried for embezzlement.

Mr. Keagy had been unfortunate in business transactions, suffering from loss from a mixture of accounts while he was county treasurer, and had used the money belonging to his ward, in his business, and when called upon to pay it over could not do it.

The law firm of Herrick & Davidson are representing the ward in the proceedings against Mr. Keagy and A. E. Parker is defending him.

The case was called in Justice Gilmore's court Monday morning. After the evidence had all been presented, the case was passed for argument by the attorneys until Thursday morning and no decision has been made by the court as yet.

This charge against Mr. Keagy is a very serious one and on account of his prominence in Sumner county is attracting considerable attention.

John Wilcox, a resident of the west side of town lost his barn by fire last Wednesday.
