

A MINNESOTA MAN CREATES SENSATION AT WHITE HOUSE

Wanted to See the President and Was Armed To Enforce His Request—Makes Desperate Fight When Refused.

Washington, Oct. 5.—A desperate hand to hand encounter with an armed man who was determined to see President Roosevelt, occurred in the vestibule of the white house, shortly before noon today. The man who gave the name of Peter Elliott and his home as Minneapolis was overpowered by the officers on duty at the white house. He was then placed in a police van, in the custody of two officers, and started for the jail. Seemingly then for the first time that he was under arrest, Elliott began a most furious struggle for his liberty. He drew a revolver and finally wrested the weapon from the man's hand. The officers were unable to control the violent man. Officer Cissell summoned help, by discharging his revolver when Chief Officer Thomas Stone Parker, of the white house force, rushed to the van and assisted in overpowering the violent man.

CLUB LADIES TALK BUSINESS

Interesting Meeting of the Monday Club.

Plans Are Formulated For the Practical Work of the Next Year.

The Monday club held its initial meeting for the year on Monday afternoon in the bright sunny and cheerful room in the public school building occupied by the kindergarten. There was a good attendance of members, and great interest was manifested in the meeting. The president, Mrs. B. D. Billingham, presided, and Mrs. T. A. Bate read the minutes of the last meeting.

This young German, whose conduct during the six years that he has been in prison has always been perfect, has just been pardoned out; but in what condition? A medical expert who has examined him reports that "the whole of the left lung is involved with the tuberculosis process, and the apex of the right lung also shows evidence of trouble." Efforts are now being made to secure his pardon from the German government for the military offense of desertion, so that he may go home to his mother in die.

This is only one instance; there are other states where conditions are fully as bad. Such facts are now being made known to the need of having the more humane half of society, the maternal element, more fully represented in public affairs.

If the mothers of New York and other states had a vote, would they keep up prisons 20,000 miles as to inflict pain and suffering upon men and boys who have been sentenced only to a short term of confinement? Alice Stone Blackwell.

Close of the Dells. Granite Dells resort, after a very successful season, most gratifying to its management, Ed Shumate, was closed on Sunday for the season with an interesting programme. Mr. Shumate is the first person who has been able to make a complete success of this resort and he has accomplished it in a most admirable manner. To start with he fitted the place in good shape and provided such forms of entertainment as the public demanded. An important factor in its success also has been the excellent eating house which he has maintained in connection with it.

To third of a series of games of base ball between the Whipple and Iron King teams was played and each club had won a game great interest was centered in yesterday's game, as it decided the merits of the respective teams. That is in one sense it did, in another it did not, as the losing team of yesterday might be the winning one in the next game. The teams are very evenly matched as has been shown by the scores, that of yesterday's deciding game being five to four in favor of the Whipples. It is believed to have been the best played game of the season, and the score would indicate as much. The line up was as follows:

Whipple.—Feldennip, catcher; Joplin, pitcher; Shearer, short stop; Adkins, first base; J. Lynch, left field; Blake, center field; Henry, right field.

Iron King.—Cole, catcher; Neaboff, pitcher; Shidler, short stop; Anderson, first base; Demary, second base; Adkins, third base; Lynch, left field; Blake, center field; Henry, right field.

The Iron King team made three scores in the fifth inning and one in the ninth. The Whipples made two in the first, one in the fourth and two in the fifth and did not play their ninth.

Thought It Was Secret. A well known uptown man, a lover of fine horse flesh, saw a fine buggy horse which he thought he wanted. He located the owner and asked the price. "One hundred dollars," was the reply. After looking the animal over and trying her speed he concluded it was a good trade, and wrote out a check for the amount. The next day he found that the mare was blind, but this did not hinder her speed or detract from her general appearance. He drove the animal for several weeks and succeeded in attracting the attention of another lover of horses, who made a proposal to buy.

"Well," said the owner, "I gave $100 for her, but I'll let you have her for $25 if you want to buy."

"After looking her over and taking a short ride behind her the man decided to buy. He paid over the money and took the mare. When the animal was unhampered the first thing she did was to run against a post; then, by way of emphasizing the fact that she was blind she fell over a barrel. The next day the buyer came back with blood in his eye.

"Say, you know that mare you sold me?" he began. "Well, she's stumped."

"I know it," replied her post owner, "with an easy air."

"Well, you didn't say anything to me about it," said the purchaser, his face red with anger.

"Well, I'll tell you," replied the other, "that fellow who sold her to me, he said she was blind, and I met and concluded he didn't want to know."

A Reform Is Needed. The safe case of a young German who has just been pardoned in New York state calls attention anew to the need of more modern and humane methods of dealing with prisoners.

Every step of the six hundred miles, and not a foot of the track but he notes carefully, and it is said his vigilance has averted numerous accidents where wrecks might have occurred on account of broken rails or washouts.

Though not employed by the company he thoroughly believes that he is, and his hallucination is further encouraged by a remittance of money which is paid to him at the end of his "division."

Who provides this money is not yet certainly known, but it is supposed to be sent by a wealthy brother living in San Francisco. He is frequently seen by the trainmen, who all have a cherry word for the old man (he is past sixty) and often try to prevail upon him to ride.

He always refuses, saying that by doing so in a piece of Grand Canyon country, and if an accident occurred the company would blame him for it. He always carries his blankets, a tin can, some ground coffee, and other food, besides a canteen of water.

Sometimes he necessarily passes close to a hole among the "trees" which are collected for classification by November 1.
