

RALPH CAMERON SURE TO WIN MORRISON SAYS

ONLY APATHY AND OVER CONFIDENCE AMONG REPUBLICANS CAN BEAT ANGEL TRAIL CANDIDATE

That Ralph Cameron will win the race for delegate to congress on the bit is the firm belief of Robert E. Morrison, who has just returned to Prescott after accompanying the nominee on a speech making tour through the principal towns of the four northern counties. Only one thing can prevent a great republican triumph November 3, according to Morrison, and that is over confidence. If the election was to take place tomorrow, Cameron would come to the range between Yavapai and Maricopa counties with over 1500 plurality over Mark Smith.

"I am not in the habit of making political boasts. In fact, I believe I have the reputation of being rather conservative in making claims before the votes are cast," said Mr. Morrison last evening, "but if I was ever convinced of a political outcome in advance of its happening, I am thoroughly convinced that Ralph Cameron is going to win his fight by an overwhelming majority."

Cameron held four big meetings while I was with him at Kingman, Williams, Flagstaff and Winslow. In all the political campaigns in which I have taken part, I never witnessed such enthusiasm as that which I witnessed at the Cameron meetings. We were met at the train at every town we visited by big delegations of the leading men of the town and section and escorted to our hotel. The reception committees were not partisan in their nature, but scores of democrats, many of them the best known men of Northern Arizona, took Cameron by the hand and pledged him their support and votes. Scores of leading democrats are making no secret of their intention of supporting Cameron. I believe that Smith himself is hurting his own campaign more than anything else. I was told by men who attended his meeting at Winslow or Williams that he made the statement that later in the campaign the territorial committee would issue a pamphlet which would be sent to every voter setting forth in detail the many things he has accomplished for Arizona in the past twenty years.

"All over the north the voters are wondering why Mark Smith, if he is so filled with the record of his accomplishments, does not spit them out. The republicans have raised that issue in the territory and the men who have attended Mark Smith's meetings have attended expecting to hear Smith's answers to the republican charges that he has done nothing, and that his office has been treated as a sinecure."

"At the Cameron meeting every hall was crowded to its capacity and many were unable to gain admittance. People drove many miles to attend and assure Ralph Cameron that they were tired of twenty years of nothing done, and that they intended to place him in congress and then expect him to do things for Arizona. Especially enthusiastic was the meeting at Winslow. There the opera house has a seating capacity of 400. Every seat was occupied, the aisles were filled and many could not gain admittance. There also many democrats came to Cameron with pledges of support. I found that the young men of northern Arizona are going to Cameron in a body. It is not because Ralph Cameron is a republican, but the people in the north know him and they believe in him. The idea has gotten abroad throughout Arizona that Cameron is a winner, and once that idea is firmly seated in the minds of the people you can no more stop any man's triumph than you can stop a great river reaching the sea."

"Mark Smith's campaign is patterned after that of his master Bryan. It is anything to catch votes. Why, he even had the audacity in one of his meetings up north to tell the farmers that if Taft is elected and a republican congress, the tariff is to be so revised as to place wool on the free list. I would like nothing better in this campaign than to take the stump with Mark Smith and answer his own arguments. He would defeat himself by an overwhelming majority. The forest of a republican congress putting wool on the free list makes one think one of two things—either Mark Smith is suffering from softening of the brain or else he imagines his Northern Arizona wool growing bearers are themselves suffering from paresis. In 1893 the Cleveland congress put wool on the free list. Will Arizona growers ever forget the consequences? The wool product of Arizona rotted in the warehouse until McKinley and a republican congress restored the duty and wool leaped many cents in price. The wool growers have been making money ever since. Yet Mark Smith has the audacity to go before a wool growing constituency and claim that the republican congress and president are going to take away the prosperity a republican administration has given them."

"Cameron, as I stated before, will win and win big. If the republicans only take off their coats and work until election day. The only danger now is apathy—over confidence. Cameron is making a campaign unprecedented in the history of Arizona. He leaves Springerville Monday on a horseback trip of 125 miles through the wildest mountain section of eastern Arizona, ending up at Clifton. He will meet hundreds of voters who never before saw a delegate to congress—and he'll get all their votes. He'll win sure."

DUNHAM, SLAYER OF SIX WITH AN AXE IS CAUGHT

RODE THROUGH THE CITY OF SAN JOSE AND GOT AWAY FROM HORDE IN PURSUIT

SHERMAN, Texas, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Mary Zimmerman, of San Francisco, this afternoon positively identified Bill Hatfield, in the Grayson county jail, as James C. Dunham, wanted in San Jose, California, for the murder of six persons.

At the time of the murder in May, 1896, Mrs. Zimmerman claims to have lived just outside San Jose, a mile from the place where the wholesale slaughter took place. After much persuasion Mrs. Zimmerman consented to go to the county jail, and see if she could identify Hatfield. At the jail when Hatfield was brought into the room where Mrs. Zimmerman preceded him, those present say he showed every sign of recognizing the woman, then wouldn't notice her any more. Mrs. Zimmerman, after a careful look, declared the man was undoubtedly Dunham.

DUNHAM'S CRIME THE SLAUGHTER OF SIX

SAN JOSE, Calif., Sept. 19.—The news that the Texas suspect, Bill Hatfield, had been positively identified as James C. Dunham, has created intense excitement here. There has for twelve years been a standing reward of $10,000 for the arrest of Dunham by Santa Clara county, and other rewards offered bring the amount to $14,000.

Dunham's crime in May, 1896, is accounted as the most fearful in the annals of California, not even excepting the double murder of Minnie Williams and Blanche Lamont by Theodore Durrant in a church in San Francisco just preceding the Dunham crime. Dunham, who belonged to a very high respected family of this county, went to the home of his father-in-law, Colonel R. P. McGilneay, murdered Mr. and Mrs. McGilneay, Mrs. Dunham, the murderer's wife and Col. McGilneay's daughter, Minnie Shessler, a hired girl, Col. McGilneay's stepson, James Wells, and a hired man. McGilneay and Wells attended a fraternal meeting at the town of Campbell, about two miles from the McGilneay homestead. In their absence Dunham, who was a student at the Catholic college at Santa Clara, went to the McGilneay house and killed the three women with an axe. Then he lay in wait for the men and slew them with the same weapon.

After the deed, Dunham mounted a horse and riding at top speed, passed directly through the city of San Jose and escaped into the wild mountainous regions surrounding Mount Hamilton, on which the Liek Observatory is located. Before daybreak hundreds of men were on his trail. Two days after the man disappeared into the mountain fastnesses, a shot was heard and an hour later Dunham's pony emerged from the hills onto the road. It was supposed that Dunham had committed suicide, but a thorough search of the entire region failed to reveal his corpse.

Since then scores of men have been arrested in different parts of the world on suspicion of being the murderer. The only person spared by Dunham on the night of the tragedy was his year old baby which was found sleeping peacefully in a crib where its mother, grandmother and nurse were lying with heads crushed by the murderous axe.

The McGilneay family were among the best known in California. Col. McGilneay had charge of the Santa Clara county horticultural exhibit at the Chicago world's fair, was president of the Grange and an authority on agriculture. Dunham had separated from his wife and revenge is supposed to have been the cause of the crime. His relatives changed their name to Cobb. One beautiful sister died of a broken heart.

Cameron's successful onslaught upon the stronghold of the Democratic candidate among the old-timers and miners of the different large camps in the Territory is creating consternation in the camp of the Kelly syndicate, and it is now feared that the expected reward from their work in reporting "great" crowds that hear Mr. Smith will not materialize, for the defeat of their candidate becomes more and more certain each day.—Tucson Tribune.

YAVAPAI'S EXHIBIT MOVING TO THE FAIR

Collection Increased By Over a Ton Of Ore

(From Tuesday's Daily.) With five tons of Yavapai county's mineral exhibit from the territorial fair grounds in Phoenix, three tons of the mineral treasures of the new copper country tributary to the Arizona and California railroad and agricultural exhibits from the Salt River valley in a sixty-foot express car, Fair Commissioner A. A. Johns arrived here yesterday from Phoenix on his way to the Albuquerque exposition and national irrigation congress.

He added another ton of the Yavapai exhibit to the collection here and stopped over today before continuing on his way. Copper bars and ores from the United Verde mines weighing an additional half ton were loaded in the car at Jerome Junction.

Accompanying the exhibit from Wickenburg was a barrel of Hassayampa water taken from the historic stream, the history of which is entwined in the romances and tragedies of pioneer days. The barrel is varnished, with golden hoops.

DESERTS NEVADA TO RETURN TO PRESCOTT

(From Tuesday's Daily.) Disgusted with his experiences in Nevada, W. M. Campbell has returned to Prescott and purchased his former business here. In conversation with several friends yesterday he said that business conditions in the Sage Brush State were worse than reported and that thousands of people were flocking from the country, many penniless.

Miners are deserting their holdings, leaving their horse furnishings and personal belongings behind and he saw instances where saloon keepers left their business places for other parts with the doors open and stock of goods at the mercy of the public.

He met many former residents of Prescott in his travels, who expressed a longing to be here again, many asserting that they expected to be here in time to vote at the coming campaign.

REPORTS ANENT WICKENBURG.

Charles Hyder says that during his recent trip to Prescott he heard considerable talk of a railroad from Wickenburg through the mining country east of here. This is one of the good things promised us by Frank Murphy a few years ago, and if it comes now or soon, it will be welcomed mightily.

A road from here to Briggs and connecting with the Crown King road would give Wickenburg a great outlet as well as inlet, and would make four gateways of commerce for the town. The talk may be premature, but it seems to be persistent. The route has been declared as feasible by railroad men. We need that road and we need a smelter. We must have the smelter before another is started at any point, in which event such an institution for Wickenburg would be delayed for years. The way to get a smelter is to go after it. It is rumored and with a color of foundation that the town will soon be supplied with a sampling works. This will be a great benefit to the miner and prospector in the country as they can find a ready market for their ores and it will also encourage the development of many properties now lying idle.—Miner.

NEWSPAPER CHANGE

(From Tuesday's Daily)

J. V. Van Eaton, who has been named with the Journal-Miner for past four months in the capacity of night editor, left Sunday to accept position on the staff of the Bisbee view. Mr. Van Eaton is a man of wide newspaper experience, and a telegraph editor and "make-up" man, is probably without a peer in Arizona. He goes to his new position with kindest wishes from this office, from the many friends he has met during his stay here. The vacancy will be filled by Mr. R. E. Rhinck, formerly of the Los Angeles Herald, and is a gentleman equipped by education and training to maintain the literary standard that has been established by the Journal-Miner. He will arrive this afternoon from Los Angeles and enter immediately upon duties.

YAVAPAI EXHIBIT TO START EAST MONDAY

(From Sunday's Daily.)

After securing a two ton exhibit of ores from the mines of the new copper country tributary to the Arizona and California railroad, A. A. Johns arrived home yesterday morning and last night for Phoenix. He will exhibit the Yavapai county mineral exhibit now in the territorial fair grounds, Monday afternoon with the exhibit and the C. collection on his way to the Albuquerque exposition.

Included in the two ton collection from the Arizona and California road copper country is one piece of ore weighing 580 pounds. It assays 19 per cent in copper and 13 ounces in gold. The chunk was taken from the Williams mine owned by J. A. Doyle. It is the largest piece of any of the collection and is remarkable in not only size but richness.

Fair Commissioner Johns is very enthusiastic over the mineral possibilities of the new copper country, says there will be great activity that region this fall and winter.

Rings Round Eyes

77-3

The ill's peculiar to women, take different forms. Some ladies suffer, every month, from dark rings round their eyes, blotches on their skin and tired feeling. Others suffer agonies of pain, that words can hardly express. Whatever the symptoms, remember there is one medicine that will go beyond mere symptoms, and act on the cause of their troubles, the weakened womanly organs.
