

INSIST SYLVANITE IS BONAFIDE BONANZA

Youngest Mining Camp Does Not Lack Boosters

BISBEE, Jan. 1.—City Attorney Fred Sutter brings careful confirmation of the unvarying reports of Sylvanite's steady progress. The Woods, Gold Hill, Holcomb and Wake Up Charley are shipping ore and the value of the properties are increasing in value as the development is carried forward. The purchase by Carlton of the Neihart property is characterized by the same odd and interesting feature that has been a concomitant of the development of many another gold mine. Careful examination showed that the material being thrown over the dump was rich ore. Samples of the dump's average sent to Woods of Denver gave returns of about $100 per ton. There have been many similar cases in Colorado. The most notable was that of the Camp Bird mine one of the best—if not the best—of the Centennial State's gold producers. The present owner of the property discovered that rich ore was being dumped on the waste, and secured a lease on his lease to purchase the mine.

That the present case is similar is certain, for Wood is one of the best chemists and assayers living. Mr. Carlton, who purchased the Gold Hill, is a banker of Colorado Springs, and not of Cripple Creek, as erroneously stated in a Sylvanite dispatch of recent date. In returning assays for some of the samples sent from Carlton's property Woods states that Sylvanite ore required about forty times as much lead in assaying as other ores. This may account for the apparent inability of many assayers in this region to get returns from Sylvanite ore anything like those given by Barlingame and other well known assayers of Colorado.

The second payment, $1600 in amount, has been made on the Holcomb, making $2400 paid on the group to date. The purchase price is $48,000. It is now known as the Sylvanite Consolidated Mining Company and is employing nine men.

Monday a crosscut being driven on the Wake Up Charley struck a vein of rich ore, that looks good and pays beautifully.

The Nedderland property, the Holcomb and Gold Hills mines, has a shaft now 35 feet from which assays running as high as $610 have been received. This shaft contains sylvanite ore that became spattered with gold bubbles when subjected to the heat of a forge. Newcomb, president of a Cripple Creek bank, George C. Fry, manager of the Trust sampling works of Cripple Creek, and Hamlin, a prominent lawyer of the Rocky Mountain state, are the present owners of the property.

Mr. Sutter will not take active management of the Sylvanite properties in which he is interested, at least until after the holidays.

WILL INVESTIGATE GIANT POWDER EXPLOSION

(From Wednesday's Daily.)
It was reported here yesterday that the powder which exploded and wrecked the plant of the Black Mountain Copper Company in the Mineral Point district Sunday morning at 11 o'clock was manufactured more than a year ago. It is alleged that the sticks that comprised the forty pound box that exploded were marked "October 1907" indicating that the explosive was made at that time.

An investigation is being made and it is rumored that the firm which sold the powder will be requested to replace the wrecked building and damaged machinery.

The boiler is dented badly in one end. The boiler head was blown out and several of the flues damaged. The boiler fixtures and connections were destroyed. The air compressor and hoist were slightly damaged. Both can be repaired at a nominal cost.

The foreman's escape from death or serious injury was almost miraculous. He walked out of the engine room a few moments before and was standing near the shaft when the explosion happened. He was struck in the back by parts of the flying wreckage and thrown against one of the uprights of the gallow's frame, which prevented him from falling in the shaft. He recovered from the shock shortly afterwards and was found lying on the ground covered by splintered timbers from the wrecked building. His injuries are slight.

HUMBOLDT PLANT ORGANIZATION PROCEEDS

(From Wednesday's Daily)

It was learned yesterday from a reliable source that good progress is being made in the organization of the allied interests of New York the representatives of which recently purchased the holdings of the Arizona Smelting Company and the Consolidated Arizona Smelting Company, into a new company. The promoters expect to have the financing of the new company completed soon when work will be started repairing and making the necessary changes in the Humboldt smelters preparatory to resuming operations.

The plan of organization contemplates the recognition of the stockholders of the old companies by the payment of assessments levied on their holdings. This will enable the new management to take care of the unsecured claims against the bankrupts in a equitable way later. It is expected that the secured claims against the old companies will be paid at an early date.

It is anticipated that when the new company resumes operations it will have $1,000,000 in its treasury to be applied to the purchase of ores and the payment of running expenses. Some of the largest financial interests in New York are associated in the new organization and it is given out that the plant will be operated on a strict business basis, the intention being to equip it from time to time with machinery best adapted to economic operation and reduction of the ores peculiar to the territory tributary to it.

The full purchase price of $200,000 was paid when the title passed to Hooley and Ackenbeck of New York December 21. The formal transfer of all the properties will be made to the new company as soon as all details of its organization are arranged.

Remarkable Story

The story of Mrs. Matilda Warwick, of Kokomo, Ind., as told below, proves the curative properties of that well-known female remedy, Wine of Cardui. Mrs. Warwick says:

TAKE CARDUI

It Will Help You

"I suffered from pains in my head, shoulders, limbs, side, stomach low down, dizziness, chills, nervousness, fainting spells and other female troubles. I was almost dead. Three doctors did not help me. At last, I took Cardui, and with the first bottle obtained relief. Now I am cured. But for Cardui, I would have been dead." Try Cardui.
