

HE DEFIED TEDDY AND GOT AWAY WITH IT

INTERESTING INCIDENT IN THE HISTORY OF ARIZONA RECALLED AT WILLCOX MEETING.

Special to the Journal-Miner.
WILLCOX, Ariz., Oct. 25.—Before a crowded house in Morgan hall here tonight, Judge Joseph H. Kibbey, made one of the best speeches he has made so far during this campaign. Reference was made by the chairman of the meeting, M. A. Morgan to a recent article in the El Paso Herald regarding the action of some 600 Arizonans in going to the relief of endangered Americans in Cananea during the administration of Governor Kibbey. When he arose to speak Judge Kibbey stated that there had been some slight inaccuracies in the article which had been called to his attention and he then proceeded to detail the circumstances of that episode.

American lives and property having been placed in grave danger by uprisings and disturbances in Cananea, said Judge Kibbey, a bunch of good red-blooded Americans from in and around Bisbee and Southern Arizona decided to go to their rescue. There was no time, said he, for the policy of wasteful watching. Something had to be done and done immediately. Thomas H. Rynning was then captain of the Arizona Rangers. "Without my knowledge he quickly gathered about him about 600 staunch and fearless citizens and went to Cananea as was proper. Before he left he mailed me his resignation as such officer and then cut the wires so I could not communicate with him or be communicated with. He went to Cananea, accomplished the object of his trip, and returned with his men to this Territory. I tore up his resignation and at the first opportunity promoted him. I also told him that if he needed any further assistance that all the power and strength of the Territory of Arizona, which I could command as governor, was at his disposal, if necessary. I then at the first opportunity in person reported the matter to the president of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, and the only answer or comment I got was one of his characteristic grins and there the matter ended," concluded Judge Kibbey.

"Not a protest was filed by the Mexican government," said Judge Kibbey, "because we had at that time a good red-blooded American president, who meant what he said and whose word on behalf of America was respected throughout the world, because other nations knew he meant just what he said. Regarding the situation in Mexico during the past three years had one word been spoken by a real American in the White House at the outset it would have saved it all so far as American lives and property were concerned," said Judge Kibbey.

Joe V. Prochaska, candidate for secretary of State, made a splendid talk in which he went into facts and gave figures to show that Arizona was not Democratic nor Republican but independent, and closed by telling the audience he would like to hold at least one job which had a salary attached to it. He was well received.

J. Harrie Cloonan, candidate for corporation commissioner, made a good talk in the course of which he stated that Colonel Roosevelt had paid high praise to the ability and fearlessness of Judge Kibbey and had said before a packed audience that Judge Kibbey was the one man who had during his term as president really licked him. He told of his experience in work of a nature to fully qualify him for the position of corporation commissioner.

Judge O. J. Vaughn, made one of the best talks ever heard in Willcox. His argument was clear, forceful and convincing. Many of those in the audience came to him after the meeting and told him they liked his address very much and intended to support him. He dealt upon the necessity for a non-partisan Supreme court and the only step the people of the state could take in that direction now under our present system was to split the political complexion of the court.

The members of the party were accorded a big reception here. A band gathered at the hotel and with many blazing red fire sticks the big crowd took up the line of march to Morgan hall. The hall was beautifully decorated and was completely filled with people. After the meeting a big dance was pulled off for the benefit of those in attendance.

HE P DEFEAT DEMOCRATS

ROSE WINSLOW MAKES A TOUCHING APPEAL IN BEHALF OF NATIONAL SUFFRAGE PARTY.

(From Saturday's Daily)
Last night before a well filled house, Miss Rose Winslow, that young labor Joan of Arc, fired for the National Woman's party the last ringing shot of this campaign. Some of the audience, gathered together under the purple, white and gold banner of the Woman's party, that decorated the theatre, were enjoying a scene that will be part of the political history of this State. Although the Eastern envoy, Mrs. Boissevain, was detained by serious illness in Los Angeles and obliged to cancel her Arizona dates, her appeal from the voteless woman of the East to the West was read by Iris Calderhead, and copies of this appeal were distributed freely throughout the audience.

Miss Cory, acted as chairman in the absence of Mrs. E. W. Wells, county chairman of the Woman's party, and spoke of the splendid fight that Mrs. Boissevain made on the coast that her Arizona dates might not be interrupted; how she had fainted during her Los Angeles speech, and was finally forced to give up the idea of making the Arizona trip.

Rose Winslow plunged immediately into the causes for the existence of the Woman's party. "I look back over that long line of women who went before me," she cried, "the martyrs of 68 years. Women who asked in vain and were insulted and scorned, who saw the black man freed and the white woman pushed aside, and I see the hope in this; we are asking the free woman to free their sisters, we are no longer begging as these patient women were forced so humiliatingly to beg.

"We have turned our back at last on the East where we have so long battled against the vicious interests, where we have gone to defeat 29 times in the last 50 years; we have come to the great West which has embodied in so much of its legislation the great principles of freedom, and asking the co-operation of our sisters."

"The girl who grew up as a child in the mills of the Eastern industrial centers, made a passionate appeal for the women who mint their own lives into dollars they may never spend, in the crushing factories of cities like Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. She told a touching story of the unjust discrimination suffered against the ignorant and foreign-born women—those never welcomed as citizens by a president, unable to escape from the gray prison house of their lives.

"With wages lowered because they were foreigners, unable to bargain, victims of a cruel bonus system, she described women victims supporting families on wages that were unheard of in the West. The thing that is so hideously unjust, she said, in a country that claims it does not believe in class, is just the fact that the employer can use his influence to lobby against the women of labor and keep them from even a hearing. Often the voteless women making the fight for shorter hours, or minimum wages, are not even allowed a hearing.

"When I appeared before the legislative committee of labor and industry in my own State," the speaker said, "the protesting chairman who did not want my appeal to be heard, said, 'what right has this woman in this legislature?' Yet I, all of us had a right, according to him, in working unbearable hours under unbearable conditions in the mills of that State.

"If you men of the West could only realize what happened to the oppressed women of labor in the East, when they are hungry and cold in the picket line, they are compelled to listen to the whisper of the white slaver tempting them with meals and warmth and comfort. There is always a price on a woman. The fact that we accept these hideous facts, that we let such conditions exist without lifting our voices in protest, is unbelievable. Yes, we freed the black man in the South, but what are we doing to free these exploited wretched children? President Wilson tells us to wait a little while and talks about moons and tides. We have waited for more than 50 years."

On the question of the child labor bill, Miss Winslow said: "It is more important to conserve the mothers of the race, to give them the power to protect themselves and their children, than to pass a compromise child labor bill. She went on to show that women had worked for child labor legislation for 20 years, to be handed a measure affecting but 150,000 children governed by interstate commerce regulations which failed to touch the child slavery of the Gulf States and many sections of the East. She pointed out that the president had not excited himself over the year-old child labor bill until the death of the "progressive" measures expedient for campaign purposes.

Miss Winslow fired a parting shot on militancy in suffrage, pointing out that people unsympathetic to the Woman's party were cutting down in the most ruthless fashion the banners of this party, tearing down posters advertising their meetings in some of the headquarters, and actually destroying the property of the headquarters. Clearly, said Miss Winslow, the militancy in this campaign is on the part of the opponents of the Federal amendment.

On the stage at the meeting, welcoming the young ardent advocate of justice to all women, were Mrs. M. B.

ANOTHER FAKE BARTENDER LETTER COMES TO LIGHT

Enemies Of Campbell Resorting To Dirtiest Kind Of Politics In Effort To Injure His Candidacy.

PHOENIX, Oct. 28.—Another of the fake "bartender" letters being circulated by Governor Hunt's satellites has come to light. The governor's friends have been trying to keep these letters out of the newspapers as they were meant for the eyes of ardent Prohibitionists only. The latest letter was circulated at Florence. It purports to be a photographic copy and it is believed that it was executed at the State prison.

Here is the latest output of Hunt's letter factory:

Los Angeles, Oct. 4.
Frank Murlock,
Dear Sir: Grover Hayes told me that you was in Reno and I thought I would write and ask you if you wanted a job doing some political work in Arizona.

All the saloon men and bartenders who used to live in Arizona have formed an organization to help elect Campbell governor. He is running on the Republican ticket and if he is elected can get some favors of him. We might get a bill through the legislature that will help us and Campbell will sign it all right.

Bert Eames told me in a letter you was in Reno on a paper so I thought I would write and ask you if you would like to get to Tucson and do some writing for us and help get out some circulars. Telegraph me and I will telegraph you a ticket to come here and we will go to Tucson together. There will be a month's work for you and I hope you take the job. Let me know quick as you get this and I will telegraph a ticket and money for expenses coming down. There is about 400 of the old saloon bunch clubbed together and some of the wholesale cigar and whiskey houses on the coast have put up some money for us so we have got quite a lot of money and your money will be sure. We got to elect Campbell if we can. Be sure and let me hear from you just as soon as you get this.

HENRY T. ROGERS.
Telegraph care Hollenbeck bar, Los Angeles. Be sure and keep this under your hat as we're doing this work secret and working under cover. Campbell don't want it public. He says it would lose him a lot of the church vote.

Addressed:
Frank M. Murlock,
Reno, Nevada,
Reno Commercial Club.

This rough and crude piece of work on the part of the Hunt machine may have deceived a few people but they are no longer deceived and a strong reaction has set in against a man who would stoop to such low politics. The Republican State committee knows two persons to whom Governor Hunt personally sent these letters, one of whom he requested to quietly circulate the same.

Tom Campbell has made a clear declaration of his position on prohibition to the Arizona Temperance Federation. The fake letters put out by Hunt are the best evidence that he is slipping fast and has to resort to desperate tactics. His opponents will not be surprised at anything and look for a lot more rough work on the part of his managers just before election.

YAVAPAI COUNTY TO EXHIBIT AT FAIR

(From Sunday's Daily)
Yavapai county will be well represented at the coming Arizona State Fair, to be held at Phoenix, November 13-20. This year particular attention will be given to the mining exhibit and it is now planned to have one of the largest as well as one of the most representative exhibits in this department. Special space has been allotted Yavapai county in the mining building and Secretary Grace Sparkes of the Chamber of Commerce will begin at once collecting and arranging for this exhibit.

It is the general consensus of opinion that a mining exhibit at the State Fair will be of great value to Yavapai county. A special trip will be made to Phoenix within the next few days and plans laid for the placing of this exhibit. In the meantime, all mining companies and operators who have not exhibits at the Chamber of Commerce, or at the fair grounds, should make it a point to see that specimens are sent in immediately to the Chamber of Commerce office.

The agricultural exhibit will again form one of the principal displays in the agricultural and horticultural hall. Fair Commissioner John Bianconi will have direct supervision of this work and a beautiful display is assured. Yavapai county has been the bone of contention for many years in this department and there is no question but what this year's exhibit will cause all of the other Arizona counties, Maricopa included, to sit up and take notice. Many special features will be introduced and one in particular which should prove a decided drawing card for Yavapai county.

For quick and artistic job work, the Journal-Miner is the place.

CAMPBELL CALLS OFFICIALS MAKE IMPORTANT MOVE

THE TURN ON HECKLER AN INSPECTION OF PROPERTY BY NEW STATE OPERATORS

COMPARISON OF HANDS SHOWS THAT CANDIDATE WORKS WHILE QUESTIONER DOES NOT.
KINGMAN, Oct. 28.—Tom Campbell spoke at Oatman yesterday afternoon and at Kingman last night, both meetings drawing large crowds. At Oatman he engaged in an argument with a Socialist following his speech which amused the crowd and was discomfiting to the questioner when Tom Campbell made the man hold up his hands beside his own and the miners saw evidences of hard work in Tom's hand which was not apparent in the hand of his adversary, and the miners laughed and applauded when the speaker designated his questioner as a man who sat down while other men worked.

Mr. Campbell at Oatman and in Kingman talked straight from the shoulder on the industrial situation in Arizona. The Oatman crowd was composed mostly of miners and the big fellow left them with no doubt of his sincerity in championing the cause of capital and labor and bending to neither. He talked from his automobile, as did John L. Gust and George H. Smalley, who accompanied him, and the crowd surrounded the car, fully 500 people being present. V. S. Rowley occupied the front seat in the car and introduced the speakers. Mr. Campbell and the State candidates made many friends and supporters in Oatman, and when they left the camp the crowd lingered and engaged in arguments on their own account, precipitated by the strong speech of Mr. Campbell.

The Elks' theatre in Kingman was filled to its utmost. Tom Campbell held the crowd for an hour, after speeches had been made by Henry L. Eads, candidate for congress; John L. Gust, for attorney general; H. E. Matthews, for superintendent of public instruction, Doane Merrill for State auditor and George H. Smalley for tax commissioner.

Mr. Campbell charged the State administration with being extravagant and went into detail showing the waste of public money. He pointed out a constructive policy of reform which would save the taxpayers a large sum of money annually.

The industrial situation was taken up here with renewed zest by Mr. Campbell because of the incident at Oatman, and he charged Governor Hunt with inciting class hatred in his public speech at Phoenix, a copy of which he had with him.

Mr. Campbell came out flat for prohibition, and followed by reading letters sent out from the governor's office at the eleventh hour for the purpose of attempting to discredit Mr. Campbell with those who favor prohibition in Arizona and the enforcement of the law.

EXCELLENT SHOWING MADE BY CLIMAX

(From Sunday's Daily)
S. L. Duncan, who was in the city yesterday from the Climax camp, on the Hassayampa, en route to Chlo-ride, to take charge of the property of the Arizona Ore Reduction Co., a new mining movement in which shareholders of the Climax are interested, stated that the last run of the Climax mill was exceptional in the clean-up of bullion, a bar of gold valued at over $2,000 being the product of one man's work for three months in mining and a mill run of only a few days. The plating ran to as high as $75 to the ton, a record but seldom reached in the history of the property. The Climax is to suspend for a short time, or until the Mohave county holdings of the company are in action.

GOHEEN CLAIMS THE OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT

(From Sunday's Daily)
Max Goheen, who had been driving Tom Campbell through Arizona in auto during the past month, was an arrival Friday night from Phoenix, having business to look after. In speaking of the outlook for Campbell's election, he said:

"The Yavapai boy has made a whirlwind canvass and our meetings have been unusually large and enthusiastic. Campbell takes immensely, and with his striking personality and candid representations, one cannot but believe he is a winner. Enthusiasm for him has been genuine, and I cannot draw any other conclusion from the sentiment so pronounced, all over the southern part of the State, as to lead to any other belief than that he will be the next governor of Arizona."

TELEPHONE MEN RETURN FROM WEEK'S TOUR OF COMPANY'S LINES IN YAVAPAI COUNTY.

(From Saturday's Daily)
Manager R. M. Beuhler, of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company, returned yesterday from a week's inspection trip by auto with the general officials of his company. In his party were: Vice-President and General Manager E. M. Burgess, Secretary J. E. MacDonald, General Traffic Superintendent W. F. Cozad, and Division General Manager C. E. Stratton.

The inspection trip covered approximately 1,000 miles, running from Springerville in the east, to Oatman in the west and from Grand Canyon in the north, to Wickenburg on the south, taking in every community. He states that the officials of the company are more than pleased with the outlook and prosperous condition of Northern Arizona and that since leaving Denver, they have not seen as much activity as was evidenced throughout Northern Arizona towns, especially in the mining camps.

On the strength of this trip, the company will expend a large sum of money within a very short time for additional toll lines.

COPPER BASIN IS CLAIMING ATTENTION

(From Sunday's Daily)
Another strong development company is to enter the Copper Basin district, with the completion of the organization of the Jerome-Prescott Copper Company articles of incorporation for which have been filed with the State corporation commission, which has arranged to take over the 30 gold and copper claims comprising the Sanders group, situated two miles west of the Phelps, Dodge & Company's Commercial mine and the Loma Prieta property.

The property, which has been developed superficially the past eight years by the former owners, is said to have one of the best copper showings for a prospect in the entire Copper Basin district. Two distinct copper ledges trend across the entire 30 claims, and small veins of chalcopryrites may be seen coming into the shaft and tunnels practically from the grassroots. This ore is of the same character as that encountered in the Loma Prieta, and assays of from 6 to 40 per cent have been obtained at various points on the group. In addition there is an 18-inch gold vein trending across six of the claims, from which, with a three-stamp mill on the property, the former owners have secured a return of $30 per ton in gold.

The company which will develop the property will have identified with it a strong directorate of local mining and business men, and will begin its career with no debts and a treasury of 1,000,000 shares of a total capitalization of 1,500,000 shares, par $1. It is stated that no pre-organization stock will be offered for sale to the public at any price, the preliminary organization having already been financed by the pre-organizers and that in all probability, the initial issue of treasury stock will be underwritten by New York investment houses, thus precluding the necessity of conducting a local sales campaign.

The first meeting of the stockholders will be held next week, at which time officers and directors will be elected.

NAME COMMITTEE TO HELP BOY SCOUTS

(From Saturday's Daily)
For the purpose of stimulating interest in civic work among the younger boys and men of Prescott, at the last regular meeting of the Yavapai County Chamber of Commerce, it was decided to have a committee of three, headed by Acting President E. J. Mitchell, to work with the chief of the Boy Scouts, R. B. Wester. Within the next few days this committee will get together and formulate a definite plan of action. It is proposed that a trophy be offered to the troops making the best progress along civic lines within the next six months. In other cities the Boy Scouts have done much towards assisting the commercial organizations and it is planned that Prescott's organization shall follow suit.

A resolution of thanks was unanimously offered the Boy Scouts who so ably assisted in the work during the Northern Arizona Fair.

SOME AERIAL TRIP

(From Saturday's Daily)
W. W. Bass, of the Grand Canyon, will establish an aeroplane passenger service at the park within a few weeks, according to word received here. Passenger-carrying machines will take the tourists out over the big canyon and show them as much scenery in 15 minutes as they could see in a week on horseback. Bass states,

LARGE SUM TO BE EXPENDED IN GETTING THE NEW GOLD BONANZA INTO ACTION.

(From Saturday's Daily)
Returning from Long Beach, Cal., a few days ago, after consulting with associates of the Maricopa Queen Oil Co., W. S. Wilhelm, general manager, announced yesterday that the equipping of the New State holdings in Hassayampa district with a compressor, drills, hoist and other large machinery had resulted from three-shift mine force would be placed at work. The construction of a new camp at the mine in which a dozen new buildings are to be erected at once will soon be under way and the repairing of the road for taking in machinery and material will start next week. Back of this expenditure, Mr. Wilhelm states, is the fact of the property holding up as sinking the main shaft goes ahead, or conditions being permanently determined.

The vein on Thursday night had widened to 34 inches, and grab samples taken therefrom, to the number of four were assayed in this city, giving an average valuation in gold alone of $45 to the ton.

Mr. Wilhelm said: "My company has expended over $40,000 in this field, and we now see the way open for being remunerated. The New State does not have the earmarks of making a mine, as that condition has arrived. The vein is widening with each shot in the shaft, and the ore body is in a compact state. Purchases have been made of machinery and contracts are to be closed for construction of buildings. Our affairs are in very satisfactory shape, and to drive ahead with energy will be the motto in the future."

MOOSE FAVOR WORLD COURT LEAGUE

The following resolutions were adopted by Loyal Order of Moose, Lodge No. 319, at meeting held October 27, 1916:

Whereas the Loyal Order of Moose in convention assembled has voted to use their influence toward the establishment of universal peace, and Whereas the objects of The World's Court League, Inc., are stated to be: "To advocate, and by agitation and appeal, to secure the support of all peoples in the establishment of a world court for the settlement of all justifiable questions of dispute that may arise between nations—a rational alternative to war.

"Until the efficiency of an international court has been recognized by the laws and practices of civilized nations, the league likewise recognizes the right of every nation to adopt adequate measures for national defense," and

Whereas, the national convention of the Loyal Order of Moose has endorsed the program and objects of the World's Court League as herein before set forth;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved; that the Lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose, approves the action of the national convention and pledges its loyal support to the program of The World's Court League, co-operating with the aforesaid league as far as possible, to secure the establishment of a court of nations.

W. M. POULSON, Dictator.
WALTER KROHN, Secretary.

MONICA REORGANIZED; BIG WORK TO START

(From Saturday's Daily)
Arrivals yesterday from Kirkland brought news that the Monica mines were being shaped up for immediate resumption, under orders received a few days ago from W. W. Copp, at Los Angeles, who will be general manager of the newly organized company which has taken over the prominently known gold property. Mr. Copp was formerly in charge and individually operated the group, making determinations by which an enlarged plan of operating has been consummated. He is to arrive at the camp early next week to take charge. Production was heavy under the Copp administration, and a large line of dead work was performed in the old workings owing to the mine having suspended several years ago, and which handicapped mining on the scale outlined. Under the new arrangement ample funds are assured for the Monica, and the current belief is that the property will prove a big success.

STOCKHOLDERS FILE SUIT TO INTERVENE

(From Thursday's Daily)
Twelve hundred stockholders filed a motion to intervene in the suit against the Hull Copper Company, which was started in the Superior court several weeks ago by several of the heaviest stockholders. George W. Hull, president of the company, is alleged to have sold the company's mine for $1,000,000.

Several of the largest stockholders filed a suit to recover the amount due them. Yesterday approximately 1,200 other stockholders filed a motion to intervene and receive their share of the dividends in case the court decides in favor of the plaintiffs.
