The powers that be do not seem to be in any hurry about the appointment of a new postmaster for Prescott. Postmaster Marsh has long since expressed his desire to retire, but the administration does not seem to be in any hurry about releasing him. The Ford family seems to have the inside track for the position, but whether it will be George Washington Ford or Patrick Ford that secures the position is yet an unanswered conundrum. George W. has served the people here in the capacity of city treasurer, and gave good satisfaction. He is well qualified for the position. Patrick, or as he is better known, "Pat" Ford, has also been honored by his fellow citizens by being twice elected county and public administrator, and should be struck with postoffice lightning he would have to resign that position.

THE COHEN EXAMINATION.
The Defendant Exonerated from all Blame.
In examining the testimony, taken in the Cohen case, before Court Commissioner McGrew, we found that Spencer had for a long time premeditated an attempt on Cohen's life, having often boasted in public that he would "kill Cohen and throw his body into a canyon so deep that the crows could not fly to it." The character of the deceased and his general reputation as being a desperate and turbulent, and his readiness to resort to arms to settle his personal grievances, no matter how trivial, combined with his action toward Mr. Cohen, created the universal impression in the community where he resided, between the two partners whenever an opportunity, deemed favorable, by Spencer, might present itself, and led to many warnings being given to Mr. Cohen by friends of both parties, to be on his guard. How prophetic these intimations were was clearly shown by all the testimony in the case. From each witness as the story of the affray was narrated to the commissioner, the intent of the deceased to carry out his oft repeated threats against the life of Cohen, vividly demonstrated, while the place and time selected by him for making the assault, left no doubt that his plans had been well matured. That they miscarried was a general cause for comment, with all parties acquainted with the two men, Spencer having in the last twenty years borne the reputation of one of the most aggressive and reckless desperadoes in northern Arizona, whose prowess as an athlete had won for him the name of being without a peer in Mohave county, so far as fistie encounters were concerned, while his skill with more deadly weapons had been long noted, while Cohen is of far smaller stature and slighter build, and prior to this difficulty had borne a most excellent reputation for peace and quiet. In dismissing Mr. Cohen from custody, Commissioner McGrew said that while Mr. Cohen had not even availed himself the privilege of testifying in his own behalf, the defendant could be held in no way responsible for the death of the deceased, as from the evidence given by the prosecution alone, there could be no doubt but what Cohen was forced to pursue the course which resulted in the death of Spencer, as being absolutely necessary to the preservation of his own life.

DANGEROUS DRUGS

How to Control Effectually All Such Horrible Habits.
Baker, J. F. Post-Register.

A gentleman who has spent the summer abroad, said to our reporter, that the thing that impressed him most of all was the number of holidays and amusements and the little anxiety the people display in the conduct of business affairs. "Men boast here," he said, "that they work for years without a day off, in Europe that would be considered a crime."

"Then, I suppose you have been advertising extensively?"
"Not at all. We have always heretofore closed our laboratory during July, August and September, but this summer we have kept it running day and night to supply the demand, which has been three times greater than ever before in our history at this season."

"How do you account for this?"
"The increase has come from the universal recognition of the excellence of our preparations. We have been nearly ten years before the public and the sales are constantly increasing while our newspaper advertising is constantly diminishing. Why? Because our scientific and medical authorities, now publicly concede that our Warner's safe cure is the only scientific specific for kidney and liver diseases and for all the many diseases caused by them."

"Have you evidence of this?"
"Abundant. Only a few weeks ago Dr. J. I. Stephens, of Lebanon, Ohio, a specialist for the cure of narcotic, etc., habits, told me that a number of eminent scientific medical men had been experimenting for years, testing and analyzing all known remedies for the kidneys and liver, for, as you may be aware, the excessive use of all narcotics and stimulants destroys those organs, and until they are restored to normal condition habits cannot be broken up! Among the investigators were such men as J. H. Hall, J. D. President of the State Board of Health of Iowa, and Alexander Neil, M. D., Professor of Surgery in the college of Physicians and Surgeons and president of the Academy of Medicine of Colorado; but, after exhaustive inquiry, reported that there was no remedy known to science or to scientific inquiry so effective as Warner's safe cure."

"Are many persons addicted to the use of deadly drugs?"
"Yes, there are many millions of people in the world who use opium alone, and there are many hundreds of thousands in this country who are victims of morphine, opium, quinine and cocaine. They think they have no such habit about them—so many people are unconscious victims of these habits. They have pains and symptoms of what they call malaria and other diseases, when in reality it is the result of these habits. He also says that moderate opium and other drug eaters, if they sustain the habit, will find it difficult to give up the habit, but if they take our safe remedy, can keep up these habits in moderation."

"Will you not do this discovery give you any real notion of the power of safe cure?"
"No, sir; for years I have tried to convince the public that nearly every disease of the human system originates in some disorder of the kidneys or liver, and hence have logically declared that our safe cure was essential, and that a large percentage of these ailments would disappear. The liver and kidneys seem to absorb the poisons from the blood and become depraved and diseased."

"When these eminent authorities thus point out that there is no other way to throw off the frightful effects of all deadly drugs and excessive use of stimulants it is an admission of their own great as any one could desire; for if through its influence alone the opium, morphine, quinine, cocaine and other habits can be overcome, what higher testimonial of its specific power could be asked?"

"You really believe then, Mr. Warner, that the majority of diseases come from kidney and liver complaints?"
"I do. When you see a person mooping and groveling about, half dead and half alive, year after year, you may surely find him in the habit of using opium, morphine, quinine, cocaine and other habits, and they are the cause of his trouble."

"The other day I was talking with Dr. Fowler, the eminent oculist of this city, who said that he had the patients who came to him for eye treatment were affected by advanced kidney disease. Now many people wonder why in middle life their eyesight becomes so poor. A thorough course of treatment with Warner's safe cure will clear the blood, and the power of taste, smell or become impaired in other functions of the body. What man would not give his all to have the vigor of youth at command?"

"The intelligent physician knows that these complaints are but symptoms; they are not the disease, and they are symptoms not of disease of the head, the eye or stomach, or of virility, necessarily, but of the kidney poison in the blood, and they may prevail and no pain occur in the kidneys."

It is not strange that the enthusiasm which Mr. Warner displays in his appreciation of his own remedy, which restored him to health when the doctors said he could not live six months, should become infectious and that the same would yield pay tribute to its power. For as Mr. Warner says, the sales are constantly increasing while the newspaper advertising is constantly diminishing. This speaks volumes in praise of the extraordinary merits of his preparations.
