"Madame Bishop, as 'Galatea,' gave great satisfaction with her rendition of songs that were artistically given, although evidence of too light a character for her voice, which was easily capable of greater efforts, and it was not until she sang the aria from Massenet's 'Le Cid' that her magnificent soprano had an opportunity to display its power and beauty. She has a clear, dramatic soprano of unusual purity, great range and volume. Under fine control, as the delicate shading of the lighter music of songs of light in the more dramatic song in which the voice had full sweep to rise to its highest range and to its fullest volume. She sang as an encore 'Zingari,' by Donizetti, but the aria from 'Le Cid' was her best work." -Louisville Commercial.
