

REMEMBER.—The public should remember that next Monday is the day set apart for the assembling of the county convention.

RATIFICATION.—The citizens of Shelby county met in convention at Memphis on last Saturday and ratified the proceedings of the Philadelphia Convention.

I have carefully read and considered the address and the principles of public policy and constitutional law therein contained, and without regard to the language in which they stand expressed, they meet my full, unreserved and cordial approval.

Gus. A. Henry, Landon C. Haynes, Gen'l Stoneham, Hon. W. T. Avery and Col. Bob. Crockett also addressed the meeting and urged the people to stand by the Philadelphia convention.

In the report of the Committee on Resolutions, which was unanimously adopted, we find the following words:

"Duty and interest alike prompt us to receive frankly and cordially this the first and only offer of reconciliation which has been made since the termination of the struggle, by our late foes.

The first resolution promises to secure the triumph of the declaration of principles as put forth by the Philadelphia convention, while the second declares "that only in the success of these principles do we discern either for the north or the south security for the present, or hope for the future."

ASSASSINATION.—Last Saturday, while Col. M. C. Galloway, editor of the Memphis Avalanche, was at the office of Messrs. L. Van Laner & Co., Assessor M. H. Woods, who had taken offense at publications made in the Avalanche, took the occasion to call Col. Galloway to account for the same; a difficulty ensued, during the course of which Wood thrust a walking cane at his intended victim—the cane was an ingeniously constructed weapon, combining the qualities of a rifle and common walking stick—knowing that it would be seized, and when Col. Galloway has grasped it, Wood pulled the trigger of the well masked weapon and discharged its contents into the Colonel's hand.

President Johnson left Washington City a few days since enroute for Chicago, whether he goes to attend the laying of the corner stone of the Douglas monument. All along the route he is traveling grand ovations are extended him. In New York a grand dinner was prepared for him, which cost $10,000. At every city and depot he is greeted by thousands of his admirers.

Our governor, so-called, has been belching fire and brimstone again. He is out in a long letter to the "loyal" men of the State, and makes an apology for its appearance. He is furious; raves at rebels in general; snorts at President Johnson; stabs at the Philadelphia Convention; calls upon the north-western States to protect "loyal" men; threatens to throw an army of one million of men around the White House and exclude all who do not think as he does; in fact, he flounders around like a caged rat, and then winds up by saying:

"It is proper for me to state that my term of service will expire in October, 1867, and that I shall not be a candidate for re-election to the office I now hold, or to any other office within the gift of the people."

The first sentence we know to be correct; the second we doubt very much, for he is just insane enough to believe that he has a whole kingdom of his own in East Tennessee, and that voters under the franchise law sustain him in his radical views.

Declines the Honor.—Lat Saturday a copy of the Memphis Post warmed its unwelcome appearance into this staunch old conservative town, and, as a matter of course, was looked at just to see how many unwarranted assertions it contained.

From Europe.—The Paris correspondent of the Post says the Empress of Mexico was so far succeeded in her mission as to induce Napoleon to extend the time for the payment of money due France.

ORATOR OF THE DAY.—We are pleased to announce to the public the gratifying fact that Egbert H. Osborn has notified the committee of arrangements that he will deliver the oration on the occasion of the fourth coming tournament, which is to be held at this place on the second Friday in October next.

Horace Maynard

This man, who, years ago, came into this State as an adventurer, and who, by his deceitfulness and cunning, induced a portion of this people to believe him worthy of office, has thrown off the mask which he has worn for "policy's sake," and has the impudence to assert that it will not be long before the negro is allowed to marry into our best white families.

I am an Abolitionist, and have always been one; I was accused of being one when I first immigrated to this State. The charge was just; I was full and running over with Abolitionism, but I denied it for policy's sake. I am proud to-day that I have been classed among the persecuted set, and deem it the highest compliment to be denounced as such.

WHAT THEY THINK OF HIM.—A correspondent, writing from France, under a recent date, in speaking of the attentions paid General Beauregard, says:

"The General has likewise received from a government, which I am not permitted to name, an extremely brilliant offer, which, however, he declined. He was offered the chief command of an army of 80,000 men, a salary of 100,000 francs per annum, and a donation of lands worth a million of dollars, with the grand nationality of himself and his family. The General declined, saying that his sword belonged to his country, and he would never draw it except for her. There is one question which is asked him almost every moment: 'In case there should be war between a European power and the United States, would the South revolt?' The General always replies that he thinks not, and this answer invariably seems to cause astonishment—why, indeed, I cannot say."

ANOTHER LOOKING-GLASS SMASHED.—A dispatch from Nashville says that General Fisk, of negro-bureau notoriety, has had the glass smashed out of his bureau, and that he is to be mustered out of service to-day. Andy Johnson threw that brick. Fisk's successor has not been named in public as yet.

On Dr.—It is asserted that Stanton, the blood-reeking assassin, will soon be relieved and his place given to a better man. A dispatch says that he will be let down easy. He should be made to fall as heavy as possible, for no man ever held a position yet that was as mean as he is, not excepting lunatic Brownlow.

President Johnson left Washington City a few days since enroute for Chicago, whether he goes to attend the laying of the corner stone of the Douglas monument. All along the route he is traveling grand ovations are extended him. In New York a grand dinner was prepared for him, which cost $10,000. At every city and depot he is greeted by thousands of his admirers.

We yield the greater portion of our space this week to the Address of the Philadelphia Convention. Read it, for it will repay a careful perusal. It is a masterly effort and commends itself to all law-abiding, well-thinking men.

Indiana Elections.—The election in October is for State Secretary, Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney General and Superintendent of Public Instruction, members of Congress, a Legislature and county officers. Gov. Morton's term does not expire until the next year.

Cholera Reports.—NEW ORLEANS, August 29.—There were only ten cholera deaths yesterday. ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29.—Ten cemeteries report seventy-three cholera burials yesterday. CINCINNATI, Aug. 29.—There were twelve deaths from cholera reported to-day. NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—No new cases of cholera are reported. WASHINGTON, August 29.—Ex-Gov. Morehead, of North Carolina, died yesterday at Roxbury, Alam Springs, Virginia. MEMPHIS, August 30.—Sixteen cases and twelve deaths from cholera in this city yesterday.

From Europe.—The Paris correspondent of the Post says the Empress of Mexico was so far succeeded in her mission as to induce Napoleon to extend the time for the payment of money due France. He refused to loan Maximilian 10,000,000 to equip troops in Mexico, but consented to furnish the material from the French arsenals, and also not to withdraw the French troops before January.

AN ACT to restrict the navigation of the Big Hatchie River. Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, That all laws declaring the Big Hatchie River navigable above the point on said river crossed by the Memphis and Ohio Railroad, be, and the same are hereby repealed.

Speaker of the house of Representatives.—JOSHUA B. FLETCHER, Speaker of the Senate. Passed November 25, 1865.

An editor describing the effects of a squall upon a canal boat, says: "When the gale was at its highest point the unfortunate craft leaped to the larboard, and the captain and another cask of whiskey rolled overboard."
