

The Farmer.

WORK FOR JUNE.

Continue to plant corn at all favorable opportunities, plowing up deeply a few acres after every rain, and putting it into the ground in the best manner. Ourselves and many others in various parts of the country, made very fair crops last year after the "later rains" of June and July—but the sooner you plant now the better. After the first hoeing, give your corn a top dressing of Gypsum, Ashes, and Salt—10 parts of the first, 4 of the second, and 1 of Salt. It will be of great benefit in a dry season, and no injury at any time. Work your early corn as often as possible, giving the roots a deep mellow bed in which to extend themselves, and leaving the surface level and well pulverized. Plant plenty of Cow Peas. Plant also, plenty of Pumpkins among your corn, or in a separate patch. Milch cows and hogs relish them greatly, and they are quite fattening when boiled with meal or bran. Cotton will need constant and unremitting attention during the present month. Scrape and mould the plant as soon as possible; keep the weeds down, and the ground in a state of fine "tilth."

Sow, in the drill, in your richest land, large quantities of Corn and Millet for fodder. Sweet Potato slips should be transplanted now as soon as possible. Dip the root in a thick batter—made by stirring fine leaf mould and scrapings from the cow pen into water—plant them pretty deep, and shade the ground around them with a few handfuls of leaves, and they will "grow off" finely, even in thisty weather. Just before sundown is the best time for this operation with "slips." Wheat, Oats, and early Millet may now be cut, and stacked up carefully on a platform of rails raised several inches above ground, or which is still better, put under cover immediately.

THE KITCHEN GARDEN. Little can be done the present month in the Garden with the exception of mulching, weeding and watering. Mulch everything—trees, shrubs, vines and vegetables—covering the surface of the earth, as far as the roots extend, with four or five inches of pine straw, chip mould, spent tan, sawdust or forest leaves—and you will find that trees and plants thus treated grow much faster, and receive little or no check from the long continued drouths of midsummer. Water should now be freely applied and regularly applied to all your growing vegetables, in the manner heretofore directed—leaving no moisture exposed on the surface to the sun's baking rays. This is an excellent time to attack the weeds, and you must show them no quarter. Cut them down and let them die on the surface; or, dig them up, and burn them, root, branch, and seed. Seeds of Cabbage, Cauliflower, Celery, etc., may be sown under low arbors, made of brush and pine tops, in order to shelter them from the fierce rays of the sun. Water often, until the plants are well up, when a liquid manure may be used alternately with the water, from time to time. Plant a full crop of Okra, without delay. Plant Peas and Sweet Corn and Snap Beans, for a succession. Transplant Tomatoes, Cabbages, early Celery, etc. and pick out Celery, Cauliflowers and Brocoli. Pinch off the leading shoots of your early Tomatoes, Lima Beans, Melons and Cucumbers, if you want the fruit to set early; and give the plants liquid manure, if you desire large specimens. Strawberry Beds must be kept free from weeds, well mulched with leaves or "broom straw," and freely watered in dry weather. If you desire fruit, cut off all the runners they appear, and keep cool and moist. But if you wish to increase your plants, the mulching may be dispensed with, (except immediately around the plants,) and the surface must be kept clean, open and mellow.

WHEAT FLY.—The American Agriculturist says it is asserted by those who have tried it, that one bushel of unslacked lime, ground to a powder like gypsum, to the acre, sowed in the spring, just after the frost has disappeared, will effectually prevent the ravages of the fly. The experiment is worth remembering. Contracts have been made by grain dealers to deliver between the 20th of June and the 20th of July, at Chicago, free on board, 35,000 bushels of corn, at 70 cents, 10,000 bushels at 72 cents, and 5,000 between the 20th of July and 20th of August at 75 cents.

FOR SORE THROAT.—Take a teaspoonful of sweet oil, and half as much spirits of turpentine; unite them, and with the mixture rub the throat, and wear a flannel around it.

Fact and Fancy.

A California Scene.

The following is a curious anecdote, and when the history of gold digging comes to be written, will deserve a place in it.—One of the miners died, and having been much respected, it was determined to give him a regular funeral. A digger in the vicinity, who, report said, had once been a powerful preacher in the United States, was called upon to officiate; and after "drinks all round," the party proceeded, with becoming gravity, to the grave, which had been dug at a distance of a hundred yards from the camp. When the spot was reached, the officiating minister commenced with an extempore prayer, during which all knelt around the grave. So far was well, but the prayer was unnecessarily long, and at last some of those who knelt began in an abstract way, to finger the loose earth that had been thrown up from the grave. It was thick with gold; an excitement was immediately apparent in the kneeling crowd. Upon this the preacher stopped and inquiringly said, "Boys what's that? Gold?" he continued, "and the richest kind of diggings, the congregation are dismissed!" The poor miner was taken from his grave and was buried elsewhere while the funeral party with the parson at their head, lost no time in prospecting the new digging.

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS.—A correspondent of the Columbus, (S. C.) Times gives the following melancholy illustration of the uncertainty of the types. A young gentleman by the name of Conkey having been united in the holy bonds of wedlock, sent the marriage notice with a verse of his own composition to the printer for publication: Married.—At Gosham, Feb. 28th, A. Conkey, Esq., Attorney at Law, to Miss Euphemia Wiggins. Love is the union of two hearts That beat in softest melody; Time with its ravages imparts No bitter fusion to its ecstasy.

He looked with much anxiety for the next issue of the Gosham Sentinel in order to see his name in print. The compositor into whose hands the notice was placed happened to be on a spree at the time, and made a wonderful blunder in setting the type. Here is the notice as printed: Married.—At Gosham, Feb. 28th, A. Donkey, Esq., Eternally at law, to Miss Euphemia Piggins. Jove is an onion of two heads That beats its softest mellow, Time with its cabbage heads, imparts No better foe for extra pay.

The feelings of the said Alexander Conkey on seeing this piece, can be better imagined than described. "Speaking of snuff," said Mrs. Partington, smiling, "such as this can never be dilatory to health. The flavor is as beautiful as the balm of a thousand flowers. Talk of the injurious tenderness of snuff, indeed. I say it has the effect to extenuate life, for the old Mrs. Aims, who took snuff all her life, lived till she was nearly a century, and then at ninety-seven had her days shortened by leaving off taking it. I don't think there is anything harmonious in it, and many a poor creature with a guitar in his head has been cured by it."

Is there a better specimen of punning that is found in the last two lines of Hood's "Faithless Sally Brown?" Indeed, the whole stanza is perfect. Ben was a sailor; His death, which happened in his berth, At forty odd befel; They went and told the sexton, and The sexton tolled the bell.

A HARD SUBJECT FOR LIGHTNING.—With a view of testing our readers, powers of credulity, we clip the following from the Boston Post: "While Mrs. Danforth, of Warren, Pennsylvania, was engaged in housework, a lightning stroke descended upon her, burning the hair from the crown of the head to the back of the neck, melting her hair pins, and proceeding down her body—leaving its marks as it went—until it passed through the floor. Strange to say, the lady is rapidly recovering."

The young lady that ran away with the man of her heart, was overtaken at Rochester. Her attempt to commit suicide by swallowing her lover's boot-jack, proved a failure.—The young man has turned his attention to navigation, and now drives a horse on the canal.

The man that can stop rum-drinking "whenever he has a mind to," has gone west to dine with the Perpetual Motion.

An editor * * * West says he felt called upon to publish Father Walworth's sermon on the "Location of Hell," as it was a question in which nearly all his readers were deeply and warmly interested.

Marriage.

We clip from Dr. Edward Thompson's letters from England, the following racy remarks on the different views which obtain respecting marriage: One says—

"I wish to take advice about a serious matter that weighs heavy on my mind."

"What is it?"

"Get-thing married. Is it the best?"

"Well, whom have you in view? If she is young, handsome, and virtuous, the sooner you get her the better.—Who is she?"

"O, nobody in particular; it is marrying in the abstract that I am thinking about.—That is young Germany."

"Zounds! I love her, and I'll have her if I have to swim the river for her!—Young America."

"No use to deny me or run from me. Where you go I will go, where you stop I will stop, where you live I will live, where you die I will die, and where you are buried there will I be buried."—Young Ireland.

She is worth three thousand one hundred and twenty-seven pounds, six shillings and four pence half penny, which, under the circumstances, is not quite sufficient!—Young England.

GOOD INVENTION.—An inventive genius, desirous of promoting the domestic rearing of hens, has invented a contrivance to keep them from scratching up the garden. It is a small instrument, somewhat resembling a very long spur, attached to the hind parts of a hen's leg. The instrument is so arranged, that when the hen is about to scratch the earth, the spur catches in the ground before her foot has fairly descended, and obliges her to bring the foot down quietly and harmlessly a little in front of the place which she has aimed at. The hen thereupon tries the other foot with a like result. She keeps on trying, and before she is aware of it the machine has walked her right out of the garden. This will be just the thing when the 'hen fever' returns.

Dean Swift said, with an ingenuity of sarcasm which has never been surpassed, "I never saw a man in all my life who could not bear the misfortunes of another perfectly like a Christian."

Elevating the masses! This is what takes place on the Mississippi every time a high pressure steamer bursts up.

God requires the service of the whole being. Strive therefore for a pure heart, a clear mind, and a sound body.

PRAYER.—Robert Hall said of family prayer, "It serves as an edge border, to preserve the web of life from unravelling."

Men are born with two eyes, and with but one tongue, in order that they should see twice as much as they say.

Voltaire said of an apothecary, that his employment was to pour drugs of which he knew little, into a body of which he knew less.

CERTAIN GAME.—The Grand Jury of Petersburg have presented three persons for "betting at a certain game called bluff." Those who have played the game consider it rather uncertain, than otherwise.

Politeness is one of the cheapest things in the world. It pays the best dividends; and no one ever yet lost anything by investing in it.

Epigram. Said Eliza to a reverend Dean, "What reason can be given: Since marriage is a holy thing, That there is none in heaven?"

"There are no women," he replied, "She quick returned the jest—'Women there are, but I'm afraid, They cannot find a priest!'"

"Why, Ned, ain't you ashamed to walk the streets with twenty holes in your stocking? why don't you have them mended?" "I am above it," replied Ned, "for a hole is the accident of the day, but a darn is premeditated poverty."

A lady being asked why she always came so early to church, replied, "Because it is a part of my religion never to disturb the religion of others." Ladies in general please copy.
