ENGLISH NEWS.

LONDON, April 12.—Paris dispatches to the London Times says the report was widely spread last night that Montrogue had been taken.

A great offensive movement by the Versailles troops was expected to take place to-day.

A Versailles special to the London News says that Camp Sartony has been raised, and that the troops will march to Paris.

The Prussians have established batteries at St. Dennis, the guns of which point towards Paris.

The Curate of the Church of Madeline is reported as having been assassinated by the Parisian mob.

A Paris special to the London Telegraph says that the Curate of Notre Dame de Lorette has been pillaged.

Arrests are increasing.

Napoleon is ill at Chiselhurst.

The steamship Baltimore has been launched at Southampton.

A dispatch from Versailles states that considerable fighting is going on in the vicinity of Fort Montrogue and near Issy and Vanves.

When the dispatch left the houses of the insurgents were gathered in an immense force and were disputing every inch of ground.

The south side of the city has not been shelled by the Government troops as yet, but if the insurgents continue firing from the forts and show no signs of yielding, it is intended to shell with such vigor as to command the whole southern part of the city.

Sacking public buildings by the mob of men and women continues. Several attractive city churches have been pillaged and desecrated.

Paris is cut off from all communication with the outer world, and no message or messenger can leave the city without a permit from Gen. Dowbrowski.

FRENCH NEWS.

PARIS, April 11.—Evening—via London, 12.—The cannonade before Paris has recommenced, and many shells are falling about Fort Maillot and in the Champs Elyses.

Placards counselling conciliatory measures towards the Versailles Government have been destroyed.

The women of Paris have been invited to form military organizations for the defence of the city.

Fort Montrogue was attacked by the army of Versailles at ten o'clock this forenoon. A violent cannonade and rifle fire is yet in progress.

VERSAILLES, April 12.—The cannonading about Paris is less frequent to-day, and nothing of importance has transpired.

GERMAN NEWS.

BERLIN, April 12.—The Official Journal of to-day says Germany will only interfere in the affairs of France when it shall become necessary for the collection of money due herself.

HOME NEWS.

INDIAN DEPREDAATIONS.

Fire in Newbern—Damage Suit Compromised.

GALVESTON, April 12.—An Austin special to the Galveston News, says that Kerd and Miller's train loaded with bacon left Chihuahua for Fort Bayard and was attacked near the boundary by a large band of Indians. Kerd's wife and five other Americans were killed. The Chihuahua frontier Mexican troops pursued the murderous band across the boundary into the United States, and killed and captured eighty Indians.

The United States troops from Fort Goodwin went to protect the Indians and collided with the Mexicans. A fight ensued in which the commanding officers from Fort Goodwin and forty American soldiers were killed. The Mexicans numbered two hundred.

NEWBERN, N. C., April 12.—A destructive fire occurred this morning on Middle street, destroying seventeen houses. The following is a list of the sufferers:

James Schwenck, $1,000; Moses Patterson, $5,000; J. W. Huges, $1,000; Elias Davidson, $9,000; F. Ulrich, $3,000; F. S. Duffey, $1,000; Mrs. Custis, $3,000; Wm. Kosmowski, $9,000; A. McLacklin, $1,000; H. & B. Emauual, $3,000; W. Emstein, $75,000; O. Marks, $12,000; J. M. Angus, $10,000; E. D. Meadows, $10,000; Primrose & Tate, $500; J. McSorley, $1,500; Samuel Wood's estate, $10,000. The total insurance amounts to about $100,000.

The fire was first discovered near McLacklin's store, and spread down Pollock street to the National Bank, and down Middle street to the residence of Moses Patterson.

RICHMOND, VA., April 12.—The suit for $5,000 damages, instituted in the United States Court by Judge J. E. Wright, colored, of South Carolina, against the Richmond and Danville Railroad Company, was compromised this morning by the payment of $1,200 by the Company to the plaintiff. The damages were claimed by the plaintiff on the ground that he was forcibly ejected from a first-class car on said road solely by a fight against the Richmond and Danville Railroad Company, notwithstanding he held a first-class ticket. The case was partially heard on yesterday.

We enter our protest against the very general use of "slang" phrases among young ladies who ought to know better. Nothing is more shocking to a refined ear than the language of the street loiterer from the lips of a lady.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Sherman's resolution instructing the Finance Committee to consider, during recess, the best system for reducing taxes, was adopted.

Robertson moved to amend the order of business so as to allow the consideration of the House Amnesty Bill.

Edmonds objected, and the motion goes over until to-morrow.

The Kuklux bill was debated without any voting.

HOUSE.

The House resumed the Deficiency Appropriation bill to-day.

The Senate amendment appropriating $12,000 for the benefit of destitute aged persons in the District of Columbia was concurred in.

A long discussion ensued on the amendment repealing the law requiring Congress to meet on March 4th, but with no action. The amendment had passed, but is being reconsidered.

WASHINGTON.

Loyal Claims Commission in Session.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The second session of the Southern Claims Commission met to-day. Several cases were set for further hearing. The Commission considered the claim of the late auditor, Martin, for articles taken from his plantation, in Alabama, during the war.

The question of jurisdiction over claims for the rent of occupied public buildings in the South was presented, but the Commission decline to answer until a case involving the point comes up.

Public notice is given of the desire of the Commission, to have the petitions addressed to the claimants, and the evidence accompanied by all the written evidence, of whatever character, in the possession of the claimants. They also decided that their rules did not require the iron-clad oath attached to petitions to be wholly in writing, but that a printed form may be used.

REPRESENTATIONS TRUE AND FALSE.

The representations true and false, of Kuklux outrages are doing untold damage to the South, both where this findish organization does in truth exist, and in localities where they have never had an organized existence. In point of fact, their existence in the South cannot be denied, except by those who are so blinded by certain localities are equally undisputable. In East Tennessee they have not, nor can they have an organized existence for the very potent reason, that public sentiment will not tolerate such lawlessness, which is the only sure prevention of the depredations of such lawless "Klans." Where public sentiment approves, or even winks at such atrocious conduct, as has characterized the operations of the Kuklux Klan since its organization in the late rebellious States, there is no amount of character of force which can be employed by a Republican Government which can even check the operations of such organized resistance to law and government. Until public sentiment is educated, and popular feeling so wrought upon by the press of the country, that no one who convives at such lawlessness can, or will be, respected or treated as a gentleman, there is no adequate remedy for these unbearable evils. A large standing army in the South can only prevent their devilish deeds in the immediate vicinity of their rendezvous, and the country actually traversed by their patrols and scouts, while the rural districts are unprotected by actual force, will be more subject to the depredations of these marauding bands of midnight assassins than before; and as they are driven from one locality to another, they will become more desperate and reckless, and their proscription of all who oppose them more bloody and relentless. The only permanent remedy lies in the proper education of public sentiment, and it is within the duties and power of the secular press to apply this remedy, but it cannot be done from the standpoint and warped views taken by the party organs of either political party in the Southern country.

The charges made by the republican press are too general in their nature, and too vague as to the localities where the "Klans" have an actual existence; while on the other hand the democratic press generally deny that they have an existence, or become their apologists or defenders. This great power, so potent for good or evil, has lost all its influence by this questionable course, and the country is left to adopt some other less effective means to overcome the pernicious teachings of unprincipled and irresponsible demagogues, who would sacrifice the best interests of the country to gratify their personal malice, and pave the way for their own future aggrandizement. If the democracy are aggrieved by the present administration of the government, let them not employ such questionable means for relief. The principles of our government are broad enough to place it within the reach of all to redress their wrongs in a lawful way, without making these atrocious and revolting in the blood of innocent victims. While the republican party will be acting more consistently with its past record to level its batteries upon the actual wrong-doers, than by its present indiscriminate fire upon both the guilty and the innocent, let them give the locality in every instance, and the names of parties, where it is possible. They will thus shame the guilty and save the guiltless from insult and injury. If the press of the country would discuss this question from the proper standpoint, and do justice to passing events, the evils complained of would be corrected, and good feeling soon take the place of the present bitter animosities.

REPUBLICAN.

Mothers-in-law are usually the subject of derision to Pamela, but the old lady makes the following exception:

Happy the man who, when he takes a bride, espouses her alone, and none beside;

And doth not find, as many husbands do, That he has married her relations too.

Who parents both, departed have this life, Her sole regard that he may comprehend.

And prove the else friendless orphan's only friend.

What mortal ever yet the husband saw Blest in the mother he acquired by law?

Exceptions to all rules there are beyond Long live thy mother-in-law, Lord of Lorn!

Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad.

Four fine passenger coaches for the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad, passed down two nights ago. We understand that there is iron enough now at Chattanooga to finish the line of road.

German Peace Celebration on Monday.

From our exchanges we clip the following brief notices of Monday's celebrations in the various cities of the Union:

NASHVILLE.

A detachment of the police headed the procession, then came the Grand Marshal and Aldis with standard-bearers, followed by the Rock City Band. A small detachment of German United States troops, followed by the Turner Sharpshooters, in command of the sturdy General Trauernight, who marched at the front.

The Turners, a large association, followed the advance guard, after them came the German and Swiss Relief Society, who made a fine display.

Now came a cavalry escort and following a large wagon decorated with evergreens, full of little girls dressed in white and waving flags, while above stood a beautiful young lady, Miss Fleck, under an arch of evergreens, personifying the Goddess of Liberty. The wagon was followed by another decorated wagon, which there was another decorated wagon similar to the first, with a young lady, Miss Mary Kuhn, dressed in character to personify Germania.

Then followed cavalry; Glen's photograph car, the Cigar Make's Union, smoking and making cigars; German Butchers mounted on two decorated wagons, designated Young America and Young Germania; wagon full of Wood-workers; the Brewers' Association; Printers, Harness-makers, Black-smiths and coopers in decorated wagons.

The Banner says the procession took about a half an hour to pass a given point, and contained probably two thousand people. Great credit is due to those who had the arrangements in charge, for the whole affair was one of the finest that Nashville ever witnessed. The streets along the route of march were crowded with people, and the display astonished many by its magnitude.

Speeches were made by Mr. Chas. Nelson, J. B. Jeup, ex-Gov. Foster, D. W. Peabody and John Rhea.

WASHINGTON.

President Grant and Secretary Boutwell reviewed the procession as it passed the Executive Mansion.

The procession of the different German organizations in the line of march passed the residence of Baron Gerolt, which was tastefully ornamented in front with a fine flag of the North-German Confederation, surmounted by shields and banners of various designs. While the procession was passing the Baron came out and stood by the doorway uncovered, and bowed, while those in the procession gave him cheers in passing.

On reaching the park there was speaking from the stand by several gentlemen, including Baron Gerolt.

NEW YORK.

The procession headed by the city of New York comprising five divisions, started at 11 o'clock, and after a review by the Governor and Mayor, assembled in Tompkins Square, where a grand mass meeting was held in honor of the day. The city presented a holiday appearance.

The procession, in point of numbers and enthusiasm, excelled any similar display ever witnessed in this city. From an early hour the streets were crowded with organizations proceeding to the rendezvous and with citizens desirous of witnessing the pageant. The streets along the line of march were densely crowded, as were every window and balcony commanding a view of the scene. Flags were displayed from almost every house. The majority of the German stores were closed, the proprietors and employees participating in the procession.

At the mass meeting at Tompkins Square, held after the procession, and which was a vast assemblage, speeches were made by Horace Greeley, ex-Governor Solomon, of Wisconsin, Oswald Ottendorfer, and others. Gov. Solomon, in his address, said the whole civilized world had reason to rejoice at the victory of Germany, who, unlike France, was not actuated by the spirit of glory and courage, and desired only to be allowed to cultivate her fields in peace.

A NEW STORY OF DANIEL WEBSTER.

A writer in the Boston Transcript tells this story, never before given to the public:

Mr. Webster, as is well known, was very apt in his classical quotations—although less varied and less persistent in his study of ancient authors than was his friend Rufus Choate.

In recollection he was regarded as an "often infatigable" Mr. Webster—and this, or temporary absence from home, gave rise to the following incident when he was living in New Hampshire:

A professional brother, resident in another place, had endorsed a note for him to one of the Portsmouth banks, and was notified at its maturity that the same had not been paid. He immediately wrote to Mr. Webster and requested his attention to it. The reply was to the following effect:

"Give yourself, my friend, no uneasiness about the matter. My appeal to the bank has been as that of Nisus to the Ritual of old, to avert the impending fate of his friend Euryalus: Me, me, adamo quifecit in me convertita, ferrum!"

To his appreciating classical surety on the note it was not necessary to give the literal translation—"I am present who did the deed; against me, me only, turn the weapon of your warfare." Suffice it to say that the appeal to the bank was, in this instance, a successful one—and the surety, as he informed me, had no further trouble in the matter.

ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE BANQUET.

Two hundred and fifty persons sat down to the splendid banquet of the Army of the Tennessee at the Burnett House, Cincinnati, on Thursday night. The dining room was handsomely decorated. Governor Hayes responded to the toast, "Our Country," Gen. Sherman to "The Army," Admiral Porter to "The Navy," Secretary Belknap to "The Army of the Tennessee," General Meade to "The Army of the Potomac," Gen. Cox to "The Army of the Ohio," Gen. Cist to "The Army of the Cumberland," Gen. Pope to "The Army of the Mississippi." There were five other regular toasts.

Not one of the Vehicles, made by Jno. H. Reynolds, Cleveland, Tennessee, has failed to give satisfaction. Ordered from respectable men in all parts of East Tennessee.

NICE RULING ON PARLIAMENTARY LAW.

On the demand on Thursday, by Senator Thurman for the division of the resolution authorizing Budget and Goldthwaite to be sworn, and instructing the committee to examine into the questions involved hereafter, the Vice-President decided that the resolution could be divided as the semi-colon, but could not, as it read, be divided as Senator Thurman desired, as to the names, the Jefferson Manual stating that to be divisible a question must contain two substantive propositions, either of which could stand by itself if the other were rejected. He also quoted British precedents from Hatsell, in 1640, 1724 and 1770, where this point was argued fully and thus decided. In cases like the present, when a resolution was so worded as to names that it did not come within Jefferson's rule the object desired must be obtained by amendment.

Schuyler Colfax is now regarded both here and in England as the best parliamentarian in the world. Editor Standard—New York.

State News.

The third quarterly session of Good Templars was held at Chattanooga on Friday. Between two and three hundred delegates were present. Yesterday they went on a picnic excursion.

A man named Bernard Schiff was killed in Nashville last Sunday night by walking on the eastern portico of the State capitol, falling a distance of thirty feet to the terrace below. His left arm was broken and the top of his head badly crushed in. The unfortunate man survived his injuries but a few hours.

The cornerstone of a new Catholic Church was laid at Edgefield last Sunday afternoon, in accordance with the impressive ceremonies of that church.

The confidence game is extensively practiced in Memphis.

Three colored ruffians engaged in a game of cut-and-thrust in Memphis last Sunday night, and in the melee one of them named Albert Jackson was mortally wounded.

Improved Seed.

The farmers of East Tennessee are indebted to the enterprise of Messrs. Hough & Church for the introduction of new and valuable seeds, grains, &c., and if they take advantage of it, by planting in due season, will realize larger profits after paying double price, even for new seed, than by using the old. They have just received a new variety of Irish potato, the "Peerless," which is said to be one of the finest esculents grown.

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR.

The symptoms of liver complaint are unsteady and pain in the side. Sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, bowels in general become constipated, and the patient is liable to have been done. Often complaining of weakness, debility, and low spirits. Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but with painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done.
