MISCELLANEOUS.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—Ninety-one counties give Greeley 23,000 majority. The Democratic majority on joint ballot in the Legislature is 56. Eight Democratic members of Congress were elected.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Grant's majority in the State is about 56,000. The Republicans have 37 majority on joint ballot.

The editor and proprietor of the Evening Journal was fined for contempt of court. The cause was his comments on the pending trials.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 9.—Brown is elected Governor by 3,000 to 5,000. Greeley's majority is 8,000. Whitthorn is elected in the Sixth District. The Republicans and Independents have the Legislature.

FORTRESS MONROE, Nov. 9.—Col. Titus C. Rice, a recluse who has been living on an old barge here since the war, committed suicide last night about nine o'clock by shooting himself through the head with a rifle. Some twenty years ago he was a prominent citizen of Richmond and Colonel of the famous Black Horse Cavalry. During the war he acted as a government pilot on the James river. He was a native of Connecticut and was about 70 years old.

Col. Henry M. Baker, of Meagher's Irish Brigade, is dead.

ALBANY, G.A., Nov. 9.—The malady is here. Two deaths have occurred.

GALVESTON, Nov. 9.—Texas is largely Democratic, with four out of six Congressmen.

RICHMOND, Nov. 9.—Should some losses and gains occur in unheard from portions of the State, Grant will carry Virginia by about 3,000.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—Greeley's majority will not reach 1,500. The Congressional delegation stands: 4 Democrats and 2 Republicans.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Tribune concedes Virginia, Alabama and Tennessee to Grant, and claims Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Indiana and Missouri. Texas is doubtful. It gives Grant 42,000 in Ohio and 129,000 in Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—It is stated that Langdon, the colored lawyer, will succeed Solicitor Bristow. Congressman Bingham succeeds Curtin as Minister to Russia.

GOING WEST.

How the Democracy Embarked for Salt River.

Pursuant to a secret circular issued from the office of the "big organ" a crowd of gloomy individuals gathered on the banks of the Holston late last night to embark upon Salt river. Usually, such crowds, though sad, go harmoniously and offering mutual consolation, but last night we think if the Democratic Exchequer had permitted it, two boats would have been furnished the quarrelling half famished disheartened crowd, for the Cheathamites and Johnsonites were cursing each other deep and loud.

HOW THEY EMBARKED.

When they got ready to embark the question was raised who should take the bow of the boat. Crozier said that this Andy Johnson bolting wing should go in first. They had played thunder with the party and ought to go in first. Col. John Williams said as far as that was concerned he didn't much care. The Union men always had to lead when there was work to be done or danger threatened and he guessed they could do so again. He had with him a copy of the "constitution" and an "American flag," as he prayed during the canvass that he hoped when he died to be buried with the revered instrument of the fathers and the stately emblem of the nation. Col. John said he was willing to take the post of danger, but he didn't want the bow of the boat, so he proposed to put Fleming there, as he was a pilot at the helm of the "big organ" to guide the people. The editor accepted the post. At this point several Cheatham men spoke up and said that as a "guide" he wasn't worth a cent. They had no objections to his being put at the bow for a figure head, but they wanted one of the "old guard" at the helm to steer the craft. The "big organ" was lightning on the "straight ticket" in August but it never could be trusted again. If its editor took the bow he might get salt water enough sprinkled on him to "keep" him, but if not he would go off again first chance. They agreed, then, that he would have to go up the river to the highest point with Andy Johnson, Colyar, Baxter and the Banner and Avalanche. The junior editor of the "big organ" was there with a smile "childlike and bland" and with his

He had it under his arm but it was throwing up his fried cork, sick as ever. The Johnson men took the front of the boat. They had a strong iron box in which was carefully packed the "Constitution" and a history of "my Policy," with his "Moses" speech and the flag in which to wrap Andy's stalwart form.

THE CHEATHAMITES followed, cursing things blue. Maj. Tom O'Conner was in the lead. He said it was all right, it wasn't the first time he had gone up, but that there was one consolation, there would be several penitentiaries up there to lease, and plenty of men to work in them. He thought it rough, though, that so many ribs had to be dragged up by such a beggarly crowd of Johnsonites. Caldwell was on hand. When the canvass began he was as fat and slick and plump as a well fed ox. He was feeling mighty bad last night, though. The "Battering Ram" had struck him square in the stomach and he looked something like this:

The "Little Giant," Thornburgh had driven him over the mountains on the double quick and he was the worse for the service. He had in his pocket a petition to have the district changed. He said he was like Horace Greeley, firmly persuaded that running for office was not his forte, and though he never expected the district to trouble him again, he never wanted another Democrat butted with that "Battering Ram," as long as Thornburgh was pushing it. He's little said, but oh! me he's like a steam engine, in a race for Congress. Arthur Crozier came along just before the boat started by with a

It contained a white hat and coat, all that is left of Greeley.

Several of the leaders proposed staying to watch the "radicals" for fear they would divide the farms and mules with the "niggers," but Mabry said Sam Ivins was at his Post at Athens and he was shrewd enough to swap the colored folks out of their farms and mules and save the nation.

Just about the time the craft was to sail somebody rolled several barrels of something into the boat that looked to us mightily like apple jack, but they all insisted it was coal oil. A Greeley man said it was "rum." Greeley said they all loved it, and he was right. So they started for Salt river. We expect to hear further from them.

GREELEY is so badly whipped that he will concede anything. Yesterday's Tribune concedes Tennessee to Grant. We knew we had them badly scared at Nashville, but we didn't know it had extended to New York.

LETTER FROM SENATOR BROWNLOW.

His Views of the Result, State and National.

The following letter from Senator Brownlow to the New York Times, was read last night at the jollification meeting. As the Senator has not been in condition to be heard from much during the canvass, his host of friends will be interested in hearing his views of the glorious victory of Tuesday.

The Senator talks out boldly with his usual vigor and his letter will be read far and wide.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Nov. 9, 1872.

EDITORS TIMES: When, during the past summer, I addressed a brief communication to our Republican State Convention urging them that we select our strongest men and run them as candidates for every office to be filled, from Governor down to the lowest officer, some of my best friends thought I had made a mistake.

That course was adopted, however, and the result wholly vindicates the propriety of the policy adopted.

The Republicans have literally swept the State, electing eight of the ten members of the next Congress, while the race for Governor is close, both parties claiming it.

At the moment I write it is not yet known whether Grant or Greeley has carried the State. So close is the contest it will require the official vote to decide it.

With a sufficient number of Grant speakers to have thoroughly canvassed the entire State, I doubt not the Republican ticket would receive the electoral vote of Tennessee.

As to the Legislature we have as many members as the re-actionary, secessionist element and by the aid of the progressive men, the loyal men elected as "Johnson Democrats," we have a majority.

Such a spectacle as a majority in both branches of the Tennessee Legislature loyal to the Federal Constitution as amended and elected by the free, unshackled suffrage of the whole people, is indeed cause for hearty congratulation with every well wisher of his State and country.

For nearly four years the Legislatures of Tennessee have mainly consisted of men openly hostile to the progressive legislation of the times and original secessionists boasting of their attempts at the dissolution of the Union. Now we have a majority, national in feeling and progressive in spirit; men attached to the Federal Union. With such men in power, Tennessee may look forward to immigration, to manufacturing, to the building up of a liberal system of free public instruction and to the development of her vast mineral and other resources.

For this overwhelming triumph of Republicanism in Tennessee, the State is largely indebted to the able, just and firm administration of President Grant.

While more vilely slandered and misrepresented than any of his predecessors, his character has been completely vindicated and his Administration more heartily endorsed by his countrymen than any President since Washington.

If the popularity of the President shall continue as I doubt not it will, it is more than probable he will be re-elected for a third term. Indeed, rather than put in third, this corrupt old Democratic party, I would favor the election of Grant for life.

Any description of the contest in Tennessee would be incomplete without reference to the canvass of Horace Maynard with ex-President Johnson. The vigor and ability with which Maynard met Andrew Johnson and vindicated the principles of the Republican party, and the Administration of General Grant, have never been equalled in any canvass in Tennessee.

It has been a great while since a Southern man was Speaker of the National House of Representatives, and the Southern Republicans will, in all probability, put forward Horace Maynard as their candidate.

His great ability, familiarity with parliamentary law and services rendered the party, eminently qualify him for the Speakership, and, in the opinion of his friends, give him claims to that high position.

To the New York Times I return thanks for its great service to the Republican cause in the contest just closed. Southern Republicans look to it as their National Representative paper.

In conclusion, I would say the Republican party in Tennessee was never as strong or hopeful as now.

Respectfully, W. G. BROWNLOW.

Johnson and Maynard.

There is no member of the Radical party in Tennessee, as a thinker and speaker, better than Horace Maynard. People were gathered by Andrew Johnson's fame, and then captivated by the graces and eloquence of Horace Maynard, and have voted for him. It thus happened that Andrew Johnson has not only been defeated, fearfully defeated, but the people have pronounced against him as a popular declaimer. He was heretofore deemed unequalled in a peculiar capacity for self-adaptation to popular passions and caprices. He is shown by Maynard even of this dignity. The Pequot Congressman has improved vastly in personal appearance. He dressed well and looked well and spoke with great effectiveness. And thus the great revolutionist of parties has not only wrecked parties, but wrecked his own fortunes and at the same moment lifted to the proudest eminence among Tennesseeans his life-long partisan enemy, Horace Maynard. —Memphis Appeal.

LETTER FROM SENATOR ANTHONY.

How They View Our Victory Abroad.

Below we publish an extract of a letter received by Gov. Brownlow yesterday, dated Providence, Rhode Island, November 6th. The distinguished writer, Hon. Henry B. Anthony, is one of the ablest and finest men in the United States Senate. Senator Anthony's letter shows the estimate placed upon our victory abroad. It is as follows:

"I congratulate you again and again on the glorious news from all parts of the country, and especially I sympathize with you in the vote in your own gallant and glorious State, with whose history your name is so honorably associated."

"Under the above heading the Press and Herald publishes the report of the superintendent of public schools at Lynchburg, Va., for the month of October and says it is 'a good and beneficial plan, which should be followed here.' If the writer had only taken the trouble to refer to the files of the Chronicle he would have seen that the plan had been followed and the reports and workings of the schools at Knoxville given in full by the reporter of this paper in the issues of September 26th and October 25th.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The Katie Putnam comedy troupe have concluded their engagement at the National Theatre and will depart to-morrow on a Southern tour. The stockholders of the Patriot have resolved to suspend publication Monday.

There is no abatement in the horse disease at Chicago. It has also reached Cincinnati. Some cars are running here, drawn by four feeble horses.

HOME NEWS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—A delegation representing all the Southern steam boat lines, leave on Sunday to attend the general convention of steam boat men at Cairo, on the 14th of November.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 9.—A dispatch from Helena says the cargo of the Katie will be saved except the cotton in the hold, which will be slightly damaged, but ultimately saved. The machinery, furniture and state room doors of the boat are all that will be saved.

The Katie was two years old and cost $195,000—was insured for $60,000 and belonged to Miles Owen, of Memphis. She can be raised.

FOREIGN.

DRESDEN, Nov. 9.—Six cases of cholera have appeared, three fatal. Two were Americans—a child and a young lady. The police authorities say it is only cholera morbus. The first case came from Pesth.

The following conversation recently occurred between the seven-year-old son of a prominent official of the Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis railroad and a sixty-year-old bachelor uncle, whom the youth was visiting in Vermont:

"Uncle Martin, why don't you get married?"

"Well, all my brothers are married and happy, and I fear, were I to try it, I might not get a good wife."

"Never mind, Uncle Martin," responded the sympathizing little fellow, "you just come down to Xenia, where I live, and get you up the wobbler girl in the business."

It is needless to add that Uncle Martin contemplates an early trip to Ohio.—Ohio State Journal.

Miss Nellie Grant.

"Mrs. Grundy," of the New York World, writes from Washington:

"The family speak of Miss Grant as having grown and developed much during her travels. They rather discourage the idea that she will enter fully into society the present winter. She is only seventeen, and can well afford to wait. There is great rejoicing among her relatives over her return, as she is almost idolized by her aunts and uncles as well as her parents. But then, to speak the truth, she has an unusually lovely disposition, and although an only daughter, is totally unspoiled."

Chancery Sale.

Mr. Shropshire sold quite a number of city lots yesterday in front of the court house in pursuance of a decree from the Chancery Court:

Mr. J. T. J. Lewis purchased the interest of James Cowan, (col) in lot No. 22 in Jos. L. King's Addition to Knoxville, for $100.

Six lots in Temple's Addition to Knoxville, the property of J. Davenport, deceased were sold as follows:

H. M. Aiken purchased lots Nos. 102, 101, 100 and 99 for $1,333.

W. H. Fisher, lot No. 99, for $40.

L. C. Shepard, lot No. 89, for $45.

Six lots were sold in Sneed, King & Co's Addition to Knoxville as follows:

J. S. Payne, lot No. 137, for $305.

G. M. Brainer, lot No. 302, for $40.

G. M. Branner, lot No. 228, for $87.50.

L. C. Shepard, lot No. 229, for $91.

L. C. Shepard, lot No. 231, for $107.

L. C. Shepard, lot No. 237, for $150.

The James M. Lomas property, about 574 acres, was purchased by John Cox, et al; at the minimum price, of $10, per acre, a total of $5,740.

Measurably Popular.

Judge Benj. G. Owen, of some local reputation in and about Knoxville, and who traveled on foot from one end of the "Battering Ram" District, starting from his supposed mineral discoveries in the North Carolina mountains, and discovering to the stone-dye regions of Clay county in the vicinity of Bowling Green, Kentucky, at the opposite end of this unseemly Congressional boundary, it will be remembered, concluded he was not strong enough to make the race for Congress, and gracefully retired from the canvass. But the fit of political ambition on him was strong and he announced himself as the Democratic candidate in the hopelessly Republican Senatorial District, which includes Jefferson and Sevier counties. The "Judge" ran with much "agility," considering everything, receiving 401 votes in Jefferson and 177 in Sevier county, which was just 19 more in Jefferson and 16 more in Sevier than the regular "nominee" of the Sparta Convention received in the same counties. The "Judge" says he could have done much better, if he had not been compelled to carry A. Caldwell on his back.

Addie Hubbard Combination.

This troupe which performs here on Monday and Tuesday night, are told comprises some of the best theatrical talent of the country. The following persons, some of whom are favorably known in this community, compose the company: Mrs. Addie Hubbard, Miss Lillie Gorman, Mr. Hubbard, C. L. White, S. Kennedy, John Mack, E. L. Myers, Eugene Liles and Ed. Graves, making a total of nine favorite performers. Their programme for Monday evening is a splendid drama, entitled "Ingomar," also an excellent musical olio; to conclude with the side-splitting farce, "Limerick Boy." Admission, 75 cents, with no extra charge for reserved seats, which can be had at the East Tennessee Book House; Gallery 50 cents. And as there is no doubt but what they will have a crowded house, all desiring good seats had better secure them early to-morrow.

Public Schools in Lynchburg.

Under the above heading the Press and Herald publishes the report of the superintendent of public schools at Lynchburg, Va., for the month of October and says it is "a good and beneficial plan, which should be followed here." If the writer had only taken the trouble to refer to the files of the Chronicle he would have seen that the plan had been followed and the reports and workings of the schools at Knoxville given in full by the reporter of this paper in the issues of September 26th and October 25th.

"THE RECORD."

Prospectus.

The want of a religious paper, which should possess certain well defined characteristics, has long been felt in East Tennessee. Such a paper, it was seen, should be so cheap that every family might take it; yet so high toned, fresh and vigorous as to be highly esteemed; so local in character as to interfere with none of our able religious weeklies, published abroad; and so exclusively religious as to compete with none of our progressive secular papers.

It is proposed to meet this want by the publication at Knoxville, Tennessee, of a paper called THE RECORD, which while especially under Presbyterian auspices, shall sincerely aim to develop the religious interests of East Tennessee. The news of all the churches and religious bodies in our section will be thankfully accepted, and will be given as fully and impartially as possible.

The great aim will be to acquaint our churches with one another and place our people in practical sympathy with the great religious movements and the earnest Christian thought of the age. Politics will be entirely excluded. Nothing uncharitable or partisan or controversial will be admitted, but only that which is hoped may promote the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ, in whose name this enterprise is begun.

We desire to place the paper in every family in East Tennessee, and to this end earnestly ask the co-operation of every Christian worker. That cheapest excellence may be combined, it will be issued monthly, but on good paper, and in the best style, and will consist of eight pages, large quarto.

The first number will be issued early in January, 1873. Now is the time to subscribe. Subscription, FIFTY CENTS A YEAR, invariably in advance. Address all articles for insertion to Rev. P. D. Cowan, Editor.
