

FIRST EDITION.

11.30 P. M.

PERHAPS Henri Gibson can tell who committed the forgeries.

MR. CONKLING is supported by less than one-third of the Republican members of the New York legislature. Not much of a vindication.

HON. HORACE MAYNARD was orator of the day at Newark, N. J., on Decoration Day.

Is forgery a virtue under the "new gospel of political salvation," of which Henri Gibson is the exponent in these parts? Perhaps Henri can tell.

EVIDENCE of base forgery in the ranks of those who preach the "new gospel of political salvation" accumulates every hour. What do you think of such a gospel?

It would be an easy matter for a man who will write a letter and forge Senator Harris' name to it, to forge names to a petition.

We hear from persons every day in the country who have understood that their names were signed to petitions against the present incumbent in the Knoxville postoffice, and who say if they were it was a forgery. Let the forgers be exposed.

We are authorized by E. W. Adkins, clerk of the circuit court of Knox county, to deny that he ever signed such a petition as the "official brief" published in Gibson's paper. What other forgery was committed?

HON. S. M. DYER, authorizes us to deny that he ever signed such a telegram as the "official brief," published in Gibson's paper, represents him as having signed. He pronounces it a forgery. Evidence accumulates that a large number of the names signed to it in relation to the Knoxville post-office were forgeries. Who are the forgers?

The Henribgibson represents that 2,028 names were signed to "petitions against Rule's appointment." How many of these are forged? We challenge the publication of the names. If they will produce petitions now on file in the Post-office Department with two thousand names of "Republican voters living within the delivery of the office" against Rule's appointment, we will guarantee that they shall have no more trouble over it, so far as the present incumbent is concerned. This is a fair proposition. They say they have them. Now let them produce the names.

The action taken on the tariff question it is calculated will increase revenue $4,000,000 or $5,000,000. No action was taken in regard to the English debt. The House banking bill, which failed in the Senate, excluded this debt from the banking scheme. The executive will soon make use of his authorization to contract for New Orleans railroads. The Tapolovanna railroad scheme will probably fail.

There is too much rain for good crops in this section. The Assessment Laws. Nashville Banner: James N. Nolan, comptroller of the State of Tennessee, has issued the following circular, addressed to county court clerks and assessors, under date of Nashville, May 23:

Your attention is called to an omission in the abstract of the assessment law, printed on the lack of the property schedules, section 31, sub-section 7, should close: "Provided, that no taxpayer shall be required, in estimating his personal property, to include notes which are the purchase money for land sold by him and still assessed to him."

"Attention is also called to section 7, sub-section 2: 'Return must be made as the law requires, but all tax upon merchandise must be collected by the county clerk.'"

In the compilation of the above, the following important omissions are noticeable: to-wit: Section 31, sub-section 5, should close: "Provided, that no taxpayer shall be required in estimating his personal property to include notes which are the purchase money for land sold by him and still assessed to him. Also section 7, sub-section 2, should read: 'Return must be made as the law requires, but all tax upon merchandise must be collected by the county clerk. The abstract also fails to state that property schedules must be sworn to before the assessor.'

Court Decree at Greenville.

Morristown Gazette: In the chancery court at Greenville, week before last, a final decree was rendered in the case of the widow of Andrew Johnson, jr., vs. the administrators and heirs of the late ex-President and W. R. Johnson. The decree was an agreed one, with the understanding, on both sides, that after taking effect in the case was to be taken to the supreme court. Several interesting legal questions are involved as between the claimants, one being whether the cotton factory at Union is to be regarded as personal or real. The next estate for distribution will amount, it is said, to at least $100,000.

From the Hub.

There is perhaps no name offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

Conflicting Postal Orders.

SPECIAL to the Cincinnati Commercial. WASHINGTON, May 31.—The Carmichael postal card affair is likely to lead to another prosecution after Carmichael has had his trial for using a postal card to express his opinion of Senator Mahone "As that damn dog." Carmichael's friends say they are informed by long experienced officials of the Post-office Department that the detention and inspection of the postal card by Post-office Clerk Bell was a plain violation of the statute, and Carmichael's trial says that they intend to have the question judicially determined whether a post office clerk can read postal cards at his pleasure.

In this connection a situation has been made—the suit brought in Denver against Senator Dorsey and others, alleged to be connected with the Star route contract, and to the telegraphic order purporting to emanate from the P. O. office Department addressed to the Postmaster at Denver, and instigating him to seize and forward to the department all the papers addressed to certain parties involving controversy.

The postmaster at Denver, so it is said, on receiving the order, consulted the attorney-general of the United States, and concluded that unless the correspondence between Dorsey and his friends could be brought under the head of obscene or indecent literature, the postmaster by complying with the order would render himself liable to be sent to the penitentiary.

This case is strictly with the postmaster's own opinion on, and his reasons for not complying with the order were sent to Washington, to be laid before the President. The President's general is understood to deny any knowledge of the telegraphic order sent from here to the postmaster, and to have instituted an investigation in order to get at the case.

Governor Hawkins and Others to Visit U. S. Governor Alvin Hawkins, Secretary of State David A. Nunn and Comptroller Jas. N. Nolan, of Nashville, have signified their intention to attend the commencement exercises of the University of Tennessee, in this city, next week, and have their rooms already engaged at the Hattie House. It will be a literary treat which all should enjoy. Further particulars will appear in our next.

Five Men Killed in One Day.

Bristol News: Last Thursday was the bloodiest day known in the history of Scott county, Va. At Osborne's Ford four young men were killed, James Baker, about some pasturage amounting to only one dollar and a half. They rushed upon Baker, who ran between two houses and then escaped to the road, down which the four followed him the distance of a hundred yards, when firing was opened to overthrow him, he whirled upon them, drew his pistol and killed the entire quartette as they came. First came Alex. Osborne, a wild, reckless sort of a fellow, in the lead. He was shot through the heart and fell dead. Next came the two Rider brothers. One was shot through the heart and fell dead. The next one was shot through the chest and died in a few hours afterward. The name of the fourth young man is not furnished us, but he fell mortally wounded, and at last accounts was alive, but expected to die. Baker at once surrendered to justice, but was not even placed under arrest. At Nickelsville, ten miles or so to the south of Osborne's Ford, Sylvester Stapleton shot and killed his own cousin, James Kilgore. Both these men are from the noted Salt-yertown settlement on Copper Ridge, a few miles southeast of Nickelsville. They were young men, and had been wrestling, in which Kilgore was too hard for Stapleton, but they separated peacefully. Some time afterward they were near each other, when some remark was made about Stapleton's shirt being torn in the wrestle, when the latter immediately walked up to Kilgore and stabbed him in the breast. He walked to the porch of Campbell's store and, exclaiming "I am killed," fell and expired.
