MASSACHUSETTS is again excited over the liquor question.

THERE was method in some of Guiteau's madness yesterday.

A DARK horse is beginning to be talked of for the speakership.

The tariff convention in New York was largely attended. It adjourned yesterday.

GUITEAU got excited over the questions put to him by Mr. Porter, and we should say, damaged his case.

The Michigan sufferers are much more comfortable in these improvised homes than has been anticipated.

It is conceded that Hon. Edward McPetersen will be elected clerk of the House. He is a most efficient officer.

A PARTY of excursionists from Nashville have been attending the Atlanta Exposition, and they express great satisfaction with what they saw there.

MR. A. B. MULLETT denies that he is the author of charges against ex-Secretary Sherman, or that he wants his partner to be Supervising Architect of the Treasury.

THERE are now 728 convicts within the walls of the penitentiary at Nashville. For this number there are a few more than 300 cells. The number in the prison, at the coal mines and on farms is 1400, and it is believed the number will be increased by the first of January to 1500. From these statistics, crime appears to be on the increase in Tennessee, and the question of enlarging the penitentiary is becoming a live one.

CHIPCO, THE SEMINOLE CHIEF.

A Savage Who Once Tossed Up a Babe and Caught It upon the Point of His Knife.

Bartow (Fla.) Informant.

The news has just reached us of the death of Chipco, the chief of a band of Tallahassee Indians, on the 16th of October last. This noted Seminole warrior, as near as can be learned, was a little over 100 years of age, and had, up to a few months back, been able to engage in the hunts and annual festivities of his tribe, but has at last had to succumb to old age. He fully participated in the long Seminole war and at the time Billy Bowlegs and his companions were deported to Indian Territory—in 1856—Chipco and his band managed to elude their pursuers, and have since lived here and there in the Kissimmee country, though of late years their main camp has been about twenty-five miles east of here, near the Catfish lakes. Though not actively engaged in the memorable Dade's massacre, in 1835, Chipco was present at many massacres and battles of minor importance. In talking over his past career he always expressed regret but for one deed, which was the killing of a white infant by tossing it up and catching it as it came down on the point of his hunting-knife. The usual formalities peculiar to Indian tribes were gone through with at his death. Six fine horses and many fat hogs were shot and killed at his grave, and his rifle and hunting accoutrements, together with cooking utensils, were buried with him, so that he might have the use of them in the "happy hunting grounds." The remnant of Chipco's band now numbers but three warriors, with their women, children and negroes, and the chieftain's mantle has descended on the shoulders of Chipco's oldest son, who will be known in diplomatic circles as Tust-moogee Tansky.

Feeble Ladies.

Those languid, tiresome sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet; that constant drain that has taken from your system all its elasticity; driving the bloom from cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvelous remedy, Hop Bitters. Irregularities and obstructions of your system are relieved at once, while the special cause of periodical pain is permanently removed. Will you heed this?—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

THIRTY years ago one hardly dared sleep in a house not protected by a lightning-rod. Twenty years ago lightning-rods were believed to be perfect protectors "if well pointed." Ten years ago people began to discover how the world had been humbugged, and to-day not one man in thirteen has any faith in the rods or will put one on his house.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.: FRIDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 2, 1881.

NO. 153.

GUITEAU

STILL ON THE WITNESS STAND.

He is Pressed Closely in the Cross-Examination.

Becomes Excited and Very Impatient.

And Then Obstinate and Declines to Talk.

Makes a Bad Showing for Himself Generally.

WASHINGTON, D. C., December 1.—A heavy shower which passed over the city about 9 o'clock this morning served to keep many from going to the court-house to-day. At the opening of the court, however, every available spot in the court room was occupied. A majority of the visitors to-day were males, but still quite a number of ladies were present. Upon entering the witness box Guiteau, before resuming his evidence, to the public for money to conduct his defense. Judge Porter then began rapid fire of interrogatories eliciting from the prisoner that he was physically a coward and always kept away from personal danger. Morally he was brave as a lion, when he thought the Deity was back of him. Deity influenced him to remove the President. In his opinion doctors killed President not he (Guiteau)—acts of Jones and Mason in attempting to kill him were wrong, and they ought to be punished unless they could show that they were inspired by Deity. Witness soon showed

MADE AN APPEAL.

SIGNS OF IMPATIENCE.

and irritability, and striking his open hand upon a desk, emphasized every sentence he uttered. When pressed for answers, he finally became obstinate and shouted to Judge Porter: "I know you well and I know bigger men than you are. I've saw you shake your finger at witnesses in New York, but you CAN'T SCARE ME."

And shortly after, when asked if he believed in the Ten Commandments, to which he replied in the affirmative, and if he believed that the commandment "Thou shalt not kill," ought to read in his case

"THOU SHALT KILL,"

he became exceedingly violent and refused to discuss that matter at all. There was no murder in his case and no killing. It was simply for the jury to determine whether or not his action in removing the President was inspired by Deity. It was all nonsense to split hairs any longer over that word. It must be distinctly understood that the removal of the President was the act of Deity. Witness proved and after flatly contradicting the testimony of General Logan, Colonel Reed and the other witnesses, positively refused to answer several questions, his invariable response being: "I decline to discuss that with you."

DECIDEDLY OBSTINATE,

Witness seemed greatly annoyed at Judge Porter's habit of pointing his finger at him by way of emphasizing his interrogations, and again broke out, saying, "You need not point your finger at me, Judge Porter; I've seen you do that before, but you can't scare me."

HE MUST ANSWER.

Witness was readily driven from one position to another until confronted with the evidence of his own witnesses, when he would impossibly pronounce their evidence false. Once he emphasized his contradictions by saying, "Anything that I swear to, Judge, is true; you can put that down as a fixed fact." Being pressed as to how he proposed to raise funds, which he said he was expecting to receive. The witness replied: "I intend to borrow it from some of my friends," and told how he borrowed the money. The witness was questioned as to the purchase of a pistol. Guiteau

BECAME VERY INDIGNANT.

at Judge Porter's use of the word "murder," and shouted fiercely: "You seem to delight in the use of the word 'murder.' There's no use of your whining in that way. The mere outward fact of, how he removed the President, has nothing whatever to do with this case.

The prisoner, with flushed cheeks and the

AIR OF A TIGER

at bay, hurled his replies at Judge Porter for two hours, continually interrupting, however, the course of questions, and reply, to insist upon his position in relation to Deity being thoroughly understood. His shrewdness in determining and anticipating any point which might be made against him was a marked feature of the investigation. Judge Porter pressed him very closely to fix the day when he received his alleged inspiration to remove the President, and Guiteau finally shrieked out: "To remove "All this loose talk, I want you to know, that I would have removed the President at any time between the middle of June and the 2nd of July. If I had found an opportunity I would have done it for the good of the American people."

At 12 o'clock a recess was taken for one hour.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH ASSOCIATION.

What the Doctors are Doing at Savannah.

SAVANNAH, GA., December 1.—The second day's session of the American Public Health Association was very interesting. The following papers were read: By Dr. J. J. Speed, of Kentucky, on inside sources of disease; Dr. A. J. Miles, Ohio, on history of sunstroke mortality in 1881; Dr. J. F. Adams, Massachusetts, on malaria in New England; Hon. Erasmus Brooks, N. Y., on duties of the citizen to the State in maintaining public health; Dr. Isaac Jones, Scranton, Pa., on school hygiene; Dr. Albert C. George, U. S. N., on the pernicious effects of tobacco on youths; Dr. Lewis A. Fulligan, on fraternity among scientists; Dr. C. B. White, of sanitary association, yellow fever epidemic of 1878—read by Dr. Gustavus Devron, New Orleans; Dr. M. T. Rennels, Indiana, impure water and its dangers; Dr. T. C. Duncan, Illinois, the atmospheric element in local epidemics; Dr. S. Herrick, of Louisiana; on railroad sanitation; Dr. B. J. Jeffries, Mass., on the control of defective sight on the land or sea; Dr. A. L. Gihon, U. S. N., on health, the true nobility.

The association went on an excursion down the harbor this morning, tendered by the citizens.

Georgia's Railroad Commission.

NEW YORK, December 1.—The Chamber of Commerce to-day received a report from the special commission on railroad transportation, in reference to the workings of the Georgia railroad commission. The report states that in two years it had done away with unjust discrimination, both as regarded localities and individuals. It was resolved to print and distribute the report.

TELEGRAPHIC SUMMARY.

The president and a number of prominent members of the executive committee of the Cotton Planters' Association, left Washington yesterday for Atlanta to make arrangements for the accommodation of members while visiting the exposition. The Supreme Court of Maine has unanimously decided that Governor Plaisted has no power to make certain removals without the consent of the council.

G. D. Herring, Southern Express agent on the Iron Mountain Railroad, disappeared from his train Wednesday, with some money packages. He subsequently returned to Cairo voluntarily, and refunded the entire amount he was accused of appropriating.

The shock of an earthquake was felt at Agram Wednesday, the severest experienced since the great catastrophe of November 1880. There has been a large falling off in the taxes on cigars, tobacco and spirits in the Milwaukee, Wis., district, which the collector attributes to heavy rains, which have made traffic, other than by railroad, impracticable, and to the strike of cigar-makers in Milwaukee.

Yesterday morning about 3 o'clock, a party of masked men went to the jail at Oxford, N. C., and took out two colored prisoners, charged with the murder of Lynch, the silver-smith. They were taken to the spot where the murder was committed and there hanged.

JAMES R. KEENE.

Speculator and Owner of Foxhall.

This gentleman, noted on Wall street as the man who has Jay Gould down several times, and on the turf as the owner of Foxhall and other racers, came to New York from the Pacific slope a few years ago. He is about forty-five years of age, shrewd, cool, ambitious and bold. While not uniformly successful, he has always managed to make his gains more than offset his losses. His winnings on the turf, particularly during the last season in France and England, have been very large. When he came to New York he had determined on "cleaning out" Wall street, but he was not very successful in this undertaking. In fact, Wall street got rather the better of him. In the big Western Union deal, when over 100,000 shares of stock were purchased, Gould and Keene withdrew with spoils to the amount of $700,000, but in the division that followed Gould got the money, and Keene had to pocket his wrath. Then came the Atlantic and Pacific pool, in which Keene and Garrison were joined and to which Gould was admitted. Gould went West, and Keene and Garrison went in for themselves, but more stock was piled on them than they could carry, and Garrison sold out. Gould had been selling all the time they were purchasing. This time Russell Sage came in winter to the amount of $200,000, principally at Gould's expense. Keene, however, had not included in the transaction, and came out ahead. In the spring of 1878, Gould again went West. He was carrying $22,000,000 of Union Pacific at the time, and nearly all of it borrowed money. Keene got up a big scheme then. It was to make a dash on the market and send prices down with a run. Gould returned and found things in a fearful condition. He unloaded 40,000 shares of stock, and but for Sage coming to his assistance, would have been compelled to leave Wall street. One of Keene's operations was getting into a deal on Union Pacific at 55 and selling at 95, making $400,000. He is regarded as one of the richest operators in New York.

THE TOMSTONE DISTRICT.

Tomstone is about 5,000 feet above the sea level. In the spring and summer we have every day a fresh breeze from the southwest. The nights are calm, cool and delightful, with no moisture in the atmosphere—always cool enough to sleep under a blanket. In the latter part of June the rainy season begins, and continues till September; scarcely a day passes during this season without a shower, with occasionally one of the grandest old thunder-storms you ever witnessed. Such a storm as a tornado or a destructive wind is unknown here. In the fall, and up to Christmas, everything is green and beautiful. In January and February we have some frost and a little snow, which never remains twenty-four hours. Take it the year round there are but few better climates to be found than that of Tomstone. The peculiar location of two of the oldest towns in the Territory, Yuma and Tucson, both in a low basin, and nearly surrounded by high mountains, which cut off the breeze, except the hot winds that pass over the great sandy desert, has given rise to the many false reports about the climate of this Territory. Except a few spots in low valleys the climate is comparatively pleasant. There are, beside the Colorado, several smaller streams which pass through the country, such as the Gila and the San Pedro. These streams are small, but always have running water. Around the base of nearly all the mountains springs of water break out, but the peculiarity of the soil is such that they sink out of sight before they run 500 feet. The water supply of Tomstone is from one of these springs, which breaks out at the base of the Dragon mountains, and is piped nine miles to the city.—Arizona letter.

The Fearful Tale a Telephone Told.

Cincinnati Commercial. Two mighty hunters of Clifton. After a fruitless search for game in the neighborhood of St. Marys, between Toledo and Dayton, during which they lost a valuable dog, they started home. From Dayton they telegraphed to the residence of one of them to have the family carriage sent to Cumminsville to meet the train. The message was delivered so late that the family contented themselves with telephoning to the livery and undertaking establishment in Cumminsville: "Meet Mr. M. and party at depot to-night." Express No. 3 was late that night and it was near midnight of Friday last when, in the drizzling rain, the nimrod, alighted at the station and looked around for the expected vehicle. A man, in a rubber coat and cap and with whip in hand, approached and said: "Where is it?" "What?" gasped Mr. S., a ghostly suspicion beginning to dawn upon him as he discerned a long, low wagon, with a rubber awning drawn over it, standing near by. "Why, the body, of course," said the stranger; and the mistake became apparent. The hunter, the undertaker, the men were angry also, and refused point blank to go to the stable for another conveyance, saying they had been waiting for hours under a message from a telephone station, which read: "Meet Mr. M. and body at Dayton express to-night." The hunters trudged home through the rain, one carrying fifteen pounds of fish, and the other loaded with wrath, and if the usual effort has been made to keep the adventure quiet, it has failed.

GROWTH OF THE FROG TRAFFIC.

In spite of the prejudice existing against the frog, eating has now established itself firmly as an American institution. For a time it was confined to the Eastern States, but soon the hardy Westerner succumbed to the custom of effete Europe, and Chicago and San Francisco are as deeply in the mire as Boston or New York. At Elgin, Ill., there is a man who found it so profitable that he went into the business a few years since of raising a peculiar kind of frogs for the Western markets. While here in many cases they are sold under fictitious names, it is said that in the West they are served up as fried frogs. A considerable improvement has taken place in this trade recently, and a dealer says, there is a good demand for all that can be secured. Many restaurants and most of the hotels have the delicacy, though not on the regular bill of fare, only serving to order. A large part of the frogs sold here are native, but there is a serious competition on the part of the Canadian article. In Canada the business is conducted on a large scale, and the industry, which lately received considerable encouragement by the very largely increased demand, is at present very promising. Numbers of boys who have become quite expert spear the frogs in the country ponds and streams, and sell them in the city to the commission dealers, from whom they receive 5 to 10 cents a dozen. The commission men skin, pack in ice and ship them to the Northern and Western cities, where the delicious tidbits bring them a handsome profit. In this city frogs are sold generally by the dozen, and bring from 20 to 50 cents, according to quality. As the demand increases, the business will furnish quite a source of rural income, and thrifty Cape Codders might consider this suggestion, as from personal observation it is known that vast numbers of frogs are there which now live to a respectable, serene and honored old age. The subject of canning frogs is now being talked of, and efforts are being made to discover a good process for this purpose.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

PREMATURE LOSS OF THE HAIR.

May be entirely prevented by the use of BUNNETT'S COCOON. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. It softens the hair when harsh and dry; it soothes the irritated scalp; it affords the richest nutriment; it prevents the hair from falling out; it promotes its healthy, vigorous growth. It is not greasy nor sticky; it leaves no disagreeable odor. Bunnett's Flowering Extracts are known as the best.
