Work is soon to be commenced on the new iron bridge over the Hiwassee river at Calhoun-Charleston.

The Greene county fair comes off on the 20th and 30 of September. The Intelligencer urges everybody to get ready for it.

Athens Post: "A bear weighing 800 pounds was killed near White Cliff Springs on the 6th instant.—Wm. M. Dixon, Riceville, is building some splendid carding machines."

The most artless fashion editor yet heard from is the young person who closed her remarks one day by saying she didn't know any more than, but was going to church the next day and would learn something.

Cleveland Banner: "The robbery of Hiram Mayfield, between Benton and Ducktown, in Polk county, on the 15th of January last, which is going the rounds of the newspapers, turns out to be a huge falsehood, as nothing of the kind, or akin to it, ever occurred."

Mr. F. Slataper, of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, is in the city. He visits our locality for the first time, partly with a view to recreation, and partly with a view to observations on our coal and iron resources. He is a Civil Engineer of distinction, and a practical business man.

Bristol Courier: On Sunday evening, about 3 o'clock, the residence of Mrs. Newland, on the Reedy Creek road, sixteen miles west of Bristol, was destroyed by fire. It is thought that the fire, which originated in the kitchen, was accidental. Mrs. Newland's loss is from $3,500 to $4,000.

Greeneville Intelligencer: There has been a great deal of sickness and several deaths in Hawkins county during the past month. The disease, says our correspondent, seems to be an epidemic altogether unknown in this country. It is something like measles, but a more fatal malady.

Sweetwater Enterprise: Will Cleveland went South last Tuesday, the 9th, with another lot of fine cattle, which were raised in this county.—A good many of our citizens are complaining of severe colds. Several cases of pneumonia, in our town and vicinity. We understand that about sixteen of Prof. Bachman's school have the mumps.

Athens Post: "Knoxville has another baby sensation. The results of illegitimate flow in and out of that city as regular as the tides of the ocean." Wrong again. The girl is at home in Jackson, Campbell county, and got on the train with her baby at London. How far down the road she has been is not known—but probably as far as Athens.

In speaking of schools the Greeneville Intelligencer has the following: "We are glad to state that Mr. John K. Miller, of Knox county, with P. Ottinger as assistant, has opened school at Cane Branch, in this county. They have 103 scholars—perhaps the most flourishing school in the county. We believe their school got $300 of the Peabody fund some weeks ago."

Chattanooga Commercial: "The City of Knoxville" arrived yesterday afternoon, with over 7,000 bushels of grain and a considerable amount of miscellaneous freight.—Mrs. Swisher, 70 years of age, and relief of the late Jesse Swisher, died in Charleston yesterday morning of paralysis.—Wheat sold on the wharf yesterday, all the way from 75 cents to $1.00, a good article bringing from 90 cents to $1.00. Corn was sold at 81 and 82 cents per bushel.

The Good Templars' Histrionic Association have determined to play "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" at the Opera House in about two weeks, for the benefit of Mr. Phillips, who suffered so heavily by the late fire, having lost all his furniture and clothing. A large number of citizens have promised to give the society all the assistance possible to make it a success, and as the object is a good one, we trust that the Opera House will be crowded to its utmost capacity.

One of the editors of the Milwaukee Sentinel tells us that he has been struggling with his moustache for two years, and yet it consists of but nine hairs. He ought to know, occupying the position he does, that a respectable moustache can't be produced without brains.—Louisville Courier-Journal. Well, we don't propose to exhaust our brains in that way. If the editor of the Courier-Journal had any brains to start with, he must have a frightfully long moustache. He has squandered none of his brains in his editorial columns.—Mt. Sentinel.

Greeneville Intelligencer: The jury now trying Frank Sevier is the second colored jury ever summoned in this county. Judge Randolph, of the Second Circuit, often orders a colored jury when the parties are colored.—Valuable chalybeate water has been discovered near Cross Anchor. It has been analyzed and found to be very excellent for invalids.—We have heard of several cases of meningitis in this county. It is said to be very dangerous—does its fatal work in a very short time.—The county site question is now agitating the "sovereigns" of Sullivan county. Some want it removed from Blountville to Union. If they have as much trouble about it as the Cooke county people have had, they had better go slow and proceed judiciously.—Mrs. Burts, of Washington county, has milked on an average 4 cows, and has sold as the product of those cows 734 pounds of butter at something over an average of 22 cents per pound, after supplying the family with an abundance of good milk and butter.

James N. Ray's Sentence for Counterfeiting.

Soon after the Federal Court met yesterday morning, Col. Baxter arose and in substance stated that he had noticed from the newspapers that James N. Ray had confessed his guilt to the charge of counterfeiting preferred against him by the Government. He said that he arose to a personal explanation. More than twelve months since, at defendant's request, and in connection with other counsel, and upon the assurance by defendant of his innocence, supported by a brief of the evidence, which he assured us he would be able to adduce in his behalf, I cheerfully and gratuitously undertook to defend him against the charge of counterfeiting, imputed to him by the Government. Relying on the evidence as sufficient to vindicate him against the charge preferred, we were ready for and urged defendant to try. But through some influence not known to us, the defendant initiated and has since carried on negotiations with the representatives of the Government, which has resulted, at the present term, in a confession of guilt. The defendant had the unguessed right to do this, and I do not complain at all. But I desire to say publicly, and to the Court, that I have had no participation in the negotiations, which has led to this result, and that I am in no way responsible for it.

Maj. E. C. Camp followed Colonel Baxter, stating that he had appeared for Mr. Ray under the same circumstances as those stated by Colonel Baxter. He considered the relation of counsel and client of such a character that he desired to protest against the action of Mr. Ray in assuring his counsel of his innocence, while at the same time he was negotiating with the Government for terms on condition he submitted his case. In one other case of a similar character he had commented severely upon a witness for the Government, but had failed to produce his proof to justify his comments in that case, because he expected in the case of Ray to testify to this testimony fully. But the defendant had confessed his guilt, and that in face of his assurances to the contrary, and in the face of what seemed proof enough to establish his innocence. He was not aware of the character of the negotiations with the Government prosecutor, and intended no reflection on him.

Col. Caldwell, one of Mr. Ray's counsel, said that, at the request of Mr. Ray and Judge Andrews, he had communicated with his Honor (Judge Trigg) in reference to Mr. Ray's submission, and what the Court's views on the subject were, as Judge Andrews felt it would be improper in him to approach the Judge on such a subject. So far as he knew, the negotiations to which the gentlemen had referred in their remarks had been honorable and fair.

MR. RAY'S STATEMENTS.

In reply to Col. Baxter's statement, Mr. Ray stated that it was due his counsel to say that they had acted upon his statements of his innocence, and that at the time he could have proved that he was innocent, but that since then two of his witnesses had been removed, one by death and one by being killed on the Cincinnati railroad. He was anxious to get out of his present position, so that he could make a living. He thanked Col. Baxter, for he had refused to charge him a fee and had always acted upon his assurances of innocence.

THE SENTENCE OF THE COURT.

The Judge remarked that the statement of counsel that they had believed the accused innocent strengthened his opinion that there were mitigating circumstances in the case. So far as he knew anything about the case, there was no ground for reflecting upon any one. The law left the punishment to the discretion of the Court to make it either fine or imprisonment, or both. He had thought a good deal about the case, and had concluded to sentence the prisoner to two months imprisonment, and as Mr. Ray had expressed a wish to go to Scott county, he would send him two months to that county jail. He would also fine him $1,500. He would further do what he regretted to be compelled to do, strike his name from the roll of Attorneys of this Court. The Judge said he believed this punishment was sufficient for the prisoner under the circumstances. He had thought over the whole case, and this sentence, which was a little stronger than the Government seemed to think necessary, he had concluded would be about right.

The prisoner was given over to the custody of the Marshal.

This is the last of quite a number of cases of a similar character, which were notorious throughout Eastern Tennessee. The indictments were found upon information obtained by Government detectives, acting in conjunction with the Government officials here. The fact that every one of the parties have pleaded guilty to the charge, is conclusive evidence of the thoroughness and completeness with which these officials performed their task.

Nearly all of those implicated at the same time with this defendant are now in the penitentiary, and there was no little unfavorable comment yesterday, on the light sentence passed upon Ray. To say that it did not meet with public expectation is what must have been apparent to every one who was on the streets. The current criticism is that he of all others knew he was committing a grave crime and that his sentence should have been of equal severity with his confederates.

KNOX COUNTY NEWS.

Accidents and Deaths—A Roll call—Poisoning Crows.

POWELL'S STATION, Feb. 12th.

To the Editors of the Chronicle:

Spring.

Butterflies, "party spell."

Bob Wood has had strawberry blossoms.

Sabbath school opens at Powell's Station next Sabbath.

There was a baptizing at Hiskell's Station yesterday.

Mrs. Emaline Ogg, wife of Henry Ogg, died on Friday.

David Coffman, who lately split his foot open with an ax, left the house, Saturday, riding a mule, but the mule soon returned minus the rider. Search was made and after considerable hunting he was found in the woods in a state of mental derangement. Circumstances showed that the mule had thrown Mr. Coffman and his shoulder and neck seemed to be severely shocked. He was taken home and recovered his senses, but could not explain the circumstances of his accident. Strange to say he left home with a gun and was riding on a shawl and when found he was seated by a tree, a considerable distance from where he had been thrown, still holding to his gun and shawl.

The crows are more numerous than ever known in this section. Where they find a field of corn they riddle it in a twinkling. I have seen them find a stump of log containing insects, and they would crowd to it in such numbers that the earth would be covered with a struggling heap of the famished birds. Some of the farmers have resorted to poison, to protect their corn fields. One man has killed more than fifty. He put strychnine on corn and placed the grains where the crows would find it. When they picked it up some fell dead on the spot. The alarm was instantly given and the horrified multitude of crows, like a black cloud, arose from the corn field and lighted on the trees near by. In a moment others began to fall from the limbs, and the frightened flock flew away, many continuing to fall from the flock as it went.

The late freezing weather has been a trying time on wheat, and it looks the worst for it. But the most damage has been done to the young grass, sown last fall; much of it has been frozen out.

I have been thinking lately, that I would like to hear what has become of the handy "quills" that used to put so much glow into the CHRONICLE. Where is "Henry"? He used to do up our East Tennessee in a masterly manner. Has the tomb encased him? Where is "Gnorts"? whose articles have been set up by many a jolly printer, all around from Knoxville to New York. Is "Occasional" never to have another occasion to enlighten us? If so then "Semi-Occasional" stands a poor chance. Let us hope they may yet "itemize" for the thousands, who read the CHRONICLE. If the records show that "Fax" has left this uncertain sphere for another, where his name will have more company, I assume the pleasant duty of christening the first correspondent, who steps into his shoes. His name shall be "Sassaparilla." Let us hear.

Rev.

We have secured the services of Mr. J. R. Brooke, formerly foreman for Mr. Francisco, and one of the best workmen in the State, and who would be pleased to have you give him a trial when you wish a neat and good pair of boots or shoes made to order. Repairing promptly done.

St. John's Church Calls a New Rector.

[From Knoxville Daily Chronicle, Feb. 12.]

The Vestry of St. John's Episcopal Church, at a called meeting held last night, decided to send a call to Rev. Samuel Ringgold, of Hannibal, Mo., to take charge of the parish. The call was unanimous, and it is almost a certainty that he will accept. He was here last spring at the invitation of Dr. Howard-Smith, and together with Rev. William Gray, of Bolivar, and Dr. Howard-Smith, conducted a series of meetings that resulted in great good to the parish. During his visit of two weeks, preaching every day, Mr. Ringgold made a deep and happy impression upon the parish and we might say upon the religious element of the entire city. He will come with the good will of every parishioner and his services will undoubtedly be very acceptable.

The Vestry also requested Rev. Dr. Humes and the Wardens to Communicate to the Standing Committee of this diocese the earnest protest of the Vestry against the confirmation of Rev. Dr. De Koven as Bishop of the Diocese of Illinois.

A Verdict in the $75,000 Suit.

The great suit which has occupied the attention of the Circuit Court and the public for five days, ended, so far as the jury is concerned, yesterday afternoon, with a verdict of $1,500 for Mabry. The railroad company entered a motion for a new trial, which will probably be argued on Saturday.

Our original notice of the suit has attracted very general attention, and been a subject of comment, which we did not care to republish during the trial. The Memphis Appeal said that lobbyists would watch the case with interest. The Chattanooga Commercial commented unfavorably upon it, and the Union and American put it up as "Mabry's Big Suit."

Parts of the evidence we did not comment upon at the time the case was being tried, but one portion of Colonel Nelson's evidence showed that Senter was a "handy Governor" to have along with a traveling party.

In testifying about their trip to New York, to see the President, Col. Nelson testified that while in New York he speculated some in Tennessee bonds. It was done in this way: He says he wrote several articles for the newspapers calculated to depreciate the bonds. He had Gov. Senter interviewed by a correspondent. In this interview the Colonel said he wrote the Governor's answers in his presence and with his consent, and they were so published. The purport of their interview was to depreciate bonds. When the bonds got low enough he invested and sold and made enough to pay the expenses of his trip, but how much more he did not say.

Pass on the Light.

Dr. J. B. Lindsey, the indefatigable President of the State Teachers' Association, is not content to allow his excellent lecture on Normal schools to pass by unheeded and unheard. He proposes to deliver it during this week in East Tennessee. He proposes to speak in Murfreesboro' on the subject Monday night; Chattanooga Tuesday night, and Knoxville Thursday night. Now is the time to strike, and if the Legislature establishes Normal Schools, as we trust they will, the people ought to be instructed as to their nature and aims. The lecture of Dr. Lindsey does this thoroughly.—Kenner.

We have had no other information as to Dr. Lindsey's proposed lecture here, except the above paragraph in the Enquirer. He is a gentleman of high culture and an earnest friend of general education. If he visits our city he should command a large audience.

Since writing the above, Mr. J. A. Ray, Chairman of the Board of Education, received a note from Dr. J. B. Lindsey, of Nashville, saying he would arrive in Knoxville at noon on Wednesday, and desired on Thursday night to present his views on an educational system for the State. The Board of Education will, no doubt, make arrangements for the address and give our people, and the Grangers from all over our State, who will be here at that time, an opportunity of hearing one of our most earnest and intelligent friends of education. Dr. Lindsey came legitimately by his zeal in educational matters. His father before him held a prominent position among educated men in the Capital of the State and wielded an influence for great good in his day, and now his son has taken the father's place and is battling nobly for a superior educational system for Tennessee. His views are endorsed by Dr. B. Sears, agent for the Peabody Fund, a man whose ripe education and long experience in such matters give his views peculiar weight.

Let all the people come out and hear Dr. Lindsey and show that they are real friends of education for the masses.

We learn that the Board of Education had a meeting yesterday evening, and will make all necessary arrangements for the address, Dr. Lindsey, it will be remembered, was in our city during the educational meeting last year, and made many friends, and we trust he will have a large audience.

Died.

In this city on Monday, the 15th inst., of pneumonia, at 7 o'clock p. m., Mrs. Nancy Barry, in the 65th year of her age.

The deceased was the wife of our old and esteemed fellow citizen, H. Barry, Esq., and her death will be regretted by a large circle of relatives and friends. She was born in Loudon county, Virginia, April 22, 1807, and while yet a child her parents removed to Roane county, Tennessee, where she lived until her marriage, the 23d of January, 1823, when her husband came to Knoxville, which has since been her home. While very young she joined the M. E. Church, of which she was a consistent member until the time of her death. She was the mother of fourteen children, ten of whom are living and all of whom have reached years of maturity.

The fatal illness, to which latter disease she had been subject, she had been confined to her bed since Monday, the 8th instant, the greater portion of which time she was under medical treatment, but it was not until her span of life was almost run that she was regarded as in a critical condition. She retained full possession of her faculties almost to the moment of dissolution, conversing rationally, though with an effort, just a few moments before her death, and experienced no fear nor expressed reluctance to cross the dread river.

Ripe with years, having almost reached the allotted three-score years and ten, she calmly passed away—

Like one who draws the drapery of his couch, A sweet calm, and lives due to pleasant dreams.

A Veteran of 1812.

Among the Grand Jurors now attending the Federal Court is an old veteran of the War of 1812, now residing in Monroe county.—Michael Girdner. He was born in Greene county, on the 24th of December, 1794. At the age of eighteen he enlisted in the U. S. Army at Greenville under Capt. Alex. A. White. He was made Orderly Sergeant, and brought seventy or eighty men to Knoxville and lodged in the barracks in rear of where the Franklin House now stands. When Mr. Girdner came to attend the Federal Court last month, he good humorously called upon the proprietor of the Franklin House and informed him that he had called to collect his rent as he had never surrendered his title gained by squating on it in 1812. After the war ended and Gen. Jackson disbanded his army, Mr. Girdner came back home and soon after married a daughter of Capt. Wear, of Blount county. For many years he has resided in Monroe county. He was in Knoxville on last 4th of July to attend our celebration and says he will come to the next celebration. He is a strong friend of Burnside and Grant.

State Credit.

We are afraid some of our friends at Nashville are agitating and introducing matters not calculated to enhance the credit and integrity of the State. Our Constitution and statute books bristle with homestead and exemption laws, and the sense of pecuniary obligation is already largely impaired among the people. Everything that tends to increase the evil, the masses holding that if it is right for the commonwealth to disregard its obligations, it would be right in the individual. We deprecate agitation of the subject, because we know it is fraught with mischief.—Athens Post.

About Bitters.

At certain periods of life a tonic is necessary; but there is danger in using stimulants that injure the organs of digestion while giving temporary relief. To obviate this, and present to the public a tonic free from alcoholic poison, Dr. Greene prepared the Oxy-genated Bitters, a sure cure for Dyspepsia and all kindred complaints. Sold everywhere. John F. Henry, Curran & Co., Proprietors, 8 and 9 College Place, New York.

Lecture on Grip by Bishop Haven.

To the Editors of the Chronicle:

This afternoon the Holston Seminary was favored with a visit from Bishop Haven, Revs. Marshall and Manker, of Knoxville, and Rev. N. G. Taylor, D. D.

To-night a large audience was entertained by Bishop Haven, who delivered an able and pointed lecture on "Grip" or "Hold Fast."

The lecturer holds the attention, not by the power of delivery, but by his profound thoughts; not by rhetorical flourishes, sometimes called oratory; but by sound logic. Like the mathematician, he presents his proposition clearly and concisely, then, by forcible argument and apt illustration forces the hearers to accept his conclusions. He is certainly gifted with the power of illustration. Every proposition was enforced by striking illustrations.

I should give a report more in detail, but time forbids. Suffice it to say that it was an eminent success. History, science, art and language, all seemed to lay their most precious treasures at the lecturer's feet, out of which he selected the best.

It was also a financial success, the proceeds of which are to be appropriated to the Holston Seminary. The next lecture will be delivered on the 27th on The Tyrant who rules in America, by Prof. Milburn; who will be followed by Rev. N. G. Taylor, D. D., and Hon. Horace Maynard.

REBUS.

New Market, Feb. 12.

Bad Roads Ruinous to Business.

CARTER'S FURNACE, TENN., February 10th, 1875.

To the Editors of the Chronicle:

In my last, I stated that winter had forsaken us up here, but alas how changed! Instead of the balmy air removed what medical science is unable to cure when neglected too long. Medical men think no medicine has yet been discovered, which will cure a cough as quickly as Symphys.

Exposure begets a cold. With the cold comes a cough. A cough neglected, is consumption, which means death. Beware how you neglect the cough, as your life may pay the forfeit, for a first simple remedy remove what medical science is unable to cure when neglected too long. Medical men think no medicine has yet been discovered, which will cure a cough as quickly as Symphys.

One Martin Ford, a citizen of Anderson, was indicted in the Federal Court for illicit distilling, or for concealing that which he had distilled some three years ago. Last January, Ford submitted to the charge. His Honor Judge Trigg, sentenced him to two months imprisonment in the Anderson county jail, and the Court having the utmost confidence in his veracity, with the exception of the illicit business, they directed him to go out to Clinton, and report to Mr. Brock the jailor for imprisonment, and he did as directed by the Court. Brock asked Ford if he had a mittimus, to which Ford replied no, but the Judge said for you to put me in, and keep me for two months. The jailor said, I can not, under these circumstances, and asked Ford what was his idea for wanting to be put in prison. He said he wanted to get out in time to plant a corn crop this coming spring. Ford told him that he had several times left, but has been back several times, asking for admittance, without, however, gaining it, as no mittimus had arrived. Since his last visit, the mittimus arrived and now Ford has to be locked up.

The Contract for Iron and Steel Rails for the Cincinnati Road.

On Tuesday evening the Board of Trustees of the Cincinnati Railroad concluded a contract with the Cleveland Rolling Mill Company, represented by the Vice-President of the company, Henry Chisholm, for the delivery of the iron and steel rails to be used in the construction of the Cincinnati Southern Railroad.
