

ANOTHER "SEA SERPENT" REVEALED. A Hissless Monster Discovered in Lake Ontario. From the Orange Publication. We know that it has been customary for the manufacturers of the marvellous revive at intervals the story of the "Sea Serpent," which has gone the rounds of the papers "many a time and again," and been laughed at by the public, as it should have been. In the face of this fact, we do not hesitate to present the following statement, which we believe to be true in every particular, for the reason that we have it upon the testimony of eight persons, six of whom saw, each for him and herself, all that is contained in the statement, who for reasons given saw only a portion thereof. If we were permitted to give the names of those who make the statement no one at all acquainted in Oswego would doubt it for a moment. The following is the statement: Last evening about 8 o'clock, a party of four ladies and four gentlemen of this city went out upon Lake Ontario for a ride in a four-oared row boat. They were in the lake about two miles. It was still daylight when the party started. The evening was pleasant, with almost no wind, and the moon, though not shining very brightly, made objects plainly discernible on the lake. There were a number of sail vessels in sight, as also a few row boats. On the return of the party, when opposite the hill upon which the Sheldon residence stands, about three hundred feet from the shore and about ten o'clock the occupants of the boat, who were singing at the time, heard a peculiar noise which attracted their attention. About two hundred feet ahead of them, and within one hundred feet of the shore, they saw what they at first thought to be a log floating in the water. The peculiar noise was repeated, and this time it was apparent that it came from the vicinity of the "log." The steersman directed the boat towards the "log" as he said, for the purpose of rescuing the cast-away "bull-frog." Immediately that the boat's head was turned, the party all saw a most horrible sight. The form of a huge snake was raised fully fifteen feet into the air, and brought down in two or three or four times in quick succession. A noise similar in nature to that heard previously, but greatly increased in power, was heard; the reptile settled into the water, and with its horrid head elevated about two feet above the surface, began to move off towards the center of the lake, repeating the noise, which sounded like the hollow of a bell, and lashing the water into foam for a distance of at least fifty feet behind the head. When the monster raised its head, the two ladies who sat facing the scene, screamed and fainted. The other two, though terribly frightened, kept their eyes fixed upon the monster until it disappeared. The men seemed paralyzed by the sight, and state that they were unable to make a stroke of the oars. They were not near enough to see the shape of the head, but unite in saying that the body of the animal was at least two feet thick at the neck, and gradually increased in size down to the water. The belly seemed of a light color, and the back black. We did not see this thing ourselves, and simply give the statement as it is made to us. It has, in all probability, been made to others, by the parties who saw the sight; and we feel assured that, while some may attribute it to hallucination, and endeavor to account for it on the theory of heated imagination, none who know the parties will for a moment doubt their perfect sincerity. The ladies have not yet recovered from their fright, and the men say they hope never again to be compelled to witness such a fearful scene. WE have in transit and shall receive next week the
