

SELECTION OF DEPOSIT GROUNDS.

The joint committee this forenoon definitely selected the grounds for the depot of the St. Cloud and Pembina Railroad. They are located on the north side of Breckinridge avenue, running from its beginning back to where it is intersected by St. Jo street—being a tract equal to two blocks in width and four in length, and comprising twenty acres. From the Court House to the middle of the tract, where the depot buildings will be, is a distance of less than five squares, directly west. The following resolution offered in the committee by H. C. Barback, Esq., was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Railroad Committee select, as depot grounds, those designated on Barback's map, (made by T. H. Barrett), by black lines drawn by Engineer Morris, and that the same be given by responsible citizens for said depot grounds and right of way through the city free of cost to said railroad company.

A bond has been prepared and is now being freely signed by our most responsible business men.

The location is one of the most convenient and acceptable that could have been chosen, and suits all parts of the town.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

The St. Paul Press makes an extended notice of the railroad progress of Minnesota during the year 1871. Grading and track laying have been done on eleven different lines. The length of track laid during the year was 451 1/2 miles, making with what was previously constructed a total of 1,550 1/2 miles of railroad in the State.

Minnesota has now about one mile of railroad to every 360 inhabitants—a greater ratio than any other State except Nevada, which happens to be traversed by the Central Pacific. Minnesota has, in fact, as many miles of railroad as Wisconsin, with twice the population, and more miles of railroad than Massachusetts, with nearly three times the population.

The present year will add at least five hundred miles more, making a grand total of over two thousand miles of railroad in a State which emerged from a territorial condition but about fifteen years before.

The Lake Superior Times closes an article on the St. Cloud and St. Peter railroad with the following:

"And now, St. Cloud, you stand to Superior as next in order, and you become a railroad center. Shall the main question be now?"

A petition is in circulation asking the Legislature to pass "An act to provide against the evil resulting from the sale of intoxicating liquors in the State of Minnesota." It is the act prepared by the late Temperance Convention at Owatonna. It makes penalty for the liquor liable for injuries done, either to person or property, by intoxicated people. The main features of the act are good.

After skulking for several days, Tweed appeared at the Sheriff's office in New York on Friday morning, and offered his son Richard as surety in place of Farley, who had withdrawn. He also resigned his position as Commissioner of Public Parks, and G. W. Vannort was appointed to the place. It is believed Tweed will not venture to claim his seat as Senator at Albany.

L. E. Otis, who removed three years ago from Blue Earth, in this State, to Missouri, writes that he will soon return, and is glad to get back. He advises any who may think of leaving Minnesota for Missouri to stay where they are. This is the almost unanimous verdict of those who have ever left this State. They are seldom contented until they get back.

The Minneapolis Tribune foils up the building and improvement statistics of that city for 1871, at $1,558,507; St. Anthony, $344,985; on the Falls, $100,000—total, $2,003,792. This, it claims, shows a greater sum expended on the "win cities" for improvements than at any other place west of Chicago.

An appeal goes up from all quarters to Senator Ramsey to change the name of his new Territory to something else than "Ojibway." Surely something at least a shade more agreeable might be found. We know of no reason why this generation and all posterity should be afflicted with such a horrid name for one of the future States of the Union.

HAVING, at the end of a twenty years' law-suit, obtained the title to the water power at Taylor's Falls—one of the best in the State—Caleb Cushing is willing to sell it on condition that it be improved. The citizens are agitating the propriety of the purchase being made by the town.

In a letter published last week, Queen Victoria expressed her deep sense of the sympathy extended by her subjects during the illness of the Prince of Wales. She also conveyed the thanks of the Princess Alexandra, and asked that the prayers of the people for the complete recovery of the Prince be continued.

ALTHOUGH some excitement exists throughout the State concerning small pox, we have noticed but one death reported, that of a Swede woman who came from New York to Minneapolis. There are said to be no more cases there.

RECOGNIZING that St. Paul show December last to have been the coldest known in Minnesota for twelve months, and it wasn't a very bad month, after all.

THE ONSLAUGHT ON NORMAL SCHOOLS.

The editor of the Anoka Schools was strongly opposed to Normal Schools until he became more thoroughly acquainted with their workings, and then their warm advocate. In a late issue he says:

"And now comes from all quarters, except the localities specially interested, a hot blast of indignation against the Normal School expenditures. If some of the denouncers knew a little better what they were talking about, their 'views' might alter."

The attacks on the Normal Schools come mainly from persons who practically know nothing whatever about them. They find it cheap and easy to talk and write against these institutions, charging extravagance in appropriations for their support, without devoting the time necessary to examine whether the money thus expended is not put to the very best possible use. No intelligent, unprejudiced person can spend a day or two in one of these schools without being fully impressed with the fact that the influence they will exert in developing the minds of the children of this State is far beyond price.

MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE.

The Fourteenth Session of the Legislature assembled at St. Paul on Tuesday. The following officers, the selection of the Republican caucus, were elected:

Speaker—A. A. Harwood, of Mower. Assistant Speaker—W. A. Heikelius, of Fillmore. Sergeant-at-Arms—Edward Ely, of Wilkin. Enrolling Clerk—Miss Alice Webber, of Ramsey county. Engrossing Clerk—Chas. W. Folsom, of Chicago. Chaplain—Rev. J. Mervin, St. Paul. Fireman—Chas. E. Chappel.

Secretary—A. E. Hall, of Hennepin. Chief Clerk—Maj. John C. Hamilton, of Olmsted. Assistant Clerk—Sam. Nichols, of Otter Tail. Enrolling Clerk—M. H. Scribner, of Mower. Engrossing Clerk—F. L. Mescham, of Washburn. Sergeant-at-Arms—Thomas George, of Faribault. Fireman—Ole Solberg, of Blue Earth. Chaplain—Rev. S. T. Sherrill, of Steele. The usual committees were appointed on mileage; to fix time for joint convention to canvass the vote of the last election; to wait on the Governor; etc. The House resolved to give each member $15 for stationery.

It is expected that the inauguration of the State officers and the delivery of the Governor's message will take place to-day.

The St. Paul papers of December 23d contained the following telegraphic paragraph: MARTIN, Ohio, Dec. 21.—Three boys, named L. G. Gregory, W. Coan, and Charles Follet, were drowned while sailing to-day. They belonged to the first class of the town.

A private letter gives a sad sequel to the already painfully sad item. On the Sabbath following the drowning of the three boys, as the caskets were ranged side by side in the church and the minister was conducting the funeral services, a disturbance was heard without, and in a few minutes the announcement was made from the pulpit that a lad, the son of a widowed mother, had just broken through the ice and fallen into the river in front of the building, and been drowned.

The Russian folks are wonderfully tickled over the little situations the young man Alexis has received from the people of this mighty nation. The Journal de St. Petersburg, the Russian official organ, says the cordial reception of the Grand Duke Alexis in the United States creates a profound sense of satisfaction throughout Russia. The existing relations between the countries are strengthened by the noble hospitality with which the son of the Emperor has been received, and are now more than ever a pledge of enduring friendship.

The St. Anthony Water Power Company have paid their proportion of the "apron fund," and their subscription to the citizens' fund. The subscribers to the $100,000 fund will now be called on to pay up.

MINNEAPOLIS has now two opera houses—although the last is an "Academy of Music." It was built by Jos. Hodges; 80x114 feet, three stories high; first floor for stores, second for offices and third for music hall; total cost, $85,000.

The Second Minnesota Regiment will hold its annual reunion at Rochester on Friday, the 19th inst. The address will be delivered by Lieut. A. R. Hall.

A NEW paper, called the Times, has been started at Henderson, by Pendergast & Colton. It is Democratic in politics—otherwise, quite unexceptionable.

THE PROSPECT FOR 1873.

After an extended visit away down east we find ourselves at home once more. During our journey we found very many who are anxious to emigrate to Minnesota. We came back more in love with Minnesota than ever before.

True, we have cold weather, but it is a steady cold, and far preferable to the heat and cold, the sunshine and cloud, and rain and sleet, and northwester and thaws, all occurring during one week, with a little mud thrown in.

The East is in a prosperous condition. They want the products of our soil and are ready to pay a good price for them. We must endeavor to supply them. Farmers of Minnesota! There is daylight ahead. West as well as all of the Northwest, will be wanted. We must live economically, diversify our crops, and there is no doubt but that we shall come out well enough.

There will be a large emigration this spring into our State from New England. Men of capital are coming here. Very many from the Canadian are also coming. We may be certain of pretty good times, agriculturally speaking, the next year.—Farmers Union.

MINNESOTA RAILROADS.

Viewed from a Philadelphia Standpoint. Minnesota, her papers claim, by the completion simply of lines projected and under construction, will take place in the front rank of railway supporting States. The main trunk and lateral branches of the Northern Pacific alone will add, in the next twelve months, a thousand miles or more; and by the time the many local enterprises have been perfected the State will rank with many of the older and richer commonwealths. Moreover, extended as the young railway system already is, the rapid and steady increase of population, and the consequent and speedy growth of new towns and villages, will eventually give the State a greater stretch of track and a greater aggregate of railway property of all sorts than any other State in the Northwest. Indeed, a railway system commensurate with their capacities and resources will demand this ultimate expansion. It is now universally conceded, as a question of political economy that the railway makes the State. The measure of thorough development of any territory is its railway facilities and accommodations. Pennsylvania has been standing in the very front so far, but it behoves her to keep at work if she would retain her old ascendancy. We have still vast interior tracts for settlement and development, and the best way to do in to gridiron them with railroads.—Philadelphia Press.

Owatonna is to have a national bank.—Chas. Steele, of Berlin, sowed three acres of ground to Sorghum and barley, which yielded over 300 bushels. So say the Owatonna Journal.

The Rushford Journal says a man named Olaf Hanson started out in a snow storm with a bottle of whisky, and was afterwards found frozen to death. Whisky is pretty sure to kill a man, in one way or another.

We learn that Messrs. George A. Brackett and Anthony Kelly packed over a million pounds of pork in Minneapolis last season, and that they will pack double that amount this year. The more the better for our farmers.—Farmers Union.

The Albert Lee Standard tells of two children who, about three years ago, were born on the same day. They were both attacked with the scarlet fever later, and both died on the same day. The parents lived about a mile apart.
