Three ways of harvesting corn fodder are in vogue in different parts of the country. In the South, inslavery times, at least, the practice of gathering the leaves from the stalks was quite general. It was the work of children, or men and women not adapted to hard field labor. The leaves were simply pulled from the stalks by hand, laid on the ground in bunches till they were wilted, when they were bound up in bundles and then placed in stacks, or under sheds, or in barns. No food is more highly relished, by stock of all kinds, than this. It is excellent for producing milk : young stock thrive on it exceedingly, while horses will leave a manger of oats for a taste of these sweet leaves. Of course, the amount of labor required to harvest the fodder in a large field, in this manner, is very considerable.

Throughout New England, and to a considerable extent in the other States, the practice of cutting the stalks before the corn is harvested.

Take a ham weighing about eight or ten pounds, soak it for twelve or twenty-four hours in cold water, then cover it with boiling water; add one pint of vinegar, two or three bay leaves, a little bunch of thyme and parsley. The dried and sifted will do, or even the seeds of parsley may be used if the fresh cannot be procured. Boil very slowly two hours and a half, take it out, skim it, remove all the fat except a layer about half an inch thick, cut off with a sharp knife all the black-looking outside; put the ham into your dripping-pan, fat side uppermost, grate bread-crust over it and sprinkle a teaspoonful of powdered sugar over it; put it in the oven for half an hour, until it is a beautiful brown. Eat cold. Cut the nicest portion in slices; the ragged and little odds and ends can be chopped fine and used for sandwiches; or by adding three eggs to one pint of the chopped ham and frying brown, you have a delicious omlette for breakfast or lunch. The bone should be put into the soup kettle. The rind and fat should be rendered and strained for frying potatoes or crullers.

At a Sunday school service held not long ago, an amiable clergy man, endeavoring to illustrate the necessity of the Christian profession in order rightly to enjoy the benefactions of Providence, spake as follows: "For instance, I want to introduce water into my house: I have it pumped. The pipes and faucets are in good order, but I get no water. Now, why do I get no water?" The reason he wished the young people to see was that he had made no communication with the main in the street. But the boys were too intent on plumbing and water rates. "Now why do I get no water?" "I know," shrieked a little one; "you don't

The Gift Concert of the Masonic Relief Association of Norfolk, Postponed.

OUR readers will see from an advertisement in another column that the Grand Gift Concert, which was to have been given by the Masonic Relief Association of Norfolk, Va., on the 3d of September, has been postponed until Thursday, the 19th of November.

As the Directors remark in their Card,

As the Directors remark in their Card, there are many persons who desire and intend to invest in this enterprise, but have been deterred from so doing by the belief that a postponement would take place, and they were unwilling to purchase tickets until they felt assured that a day had been fixed when the drawing would positively take place. In consequence of this impression, the sale of tickets—while largely in excess of the number sold previous to the postponement of the first Gift Concert given by the Association—has not been to such an extent as to enable the Directors to make a satisfactory distribution of prizes or to aca satisfactory distribution of prizes or to ac-complish the object of the Concert proposed to be given. It is therefore the interest of all concerned that the drawing be deferred until the day designated in the announcement; and we doubt not that the action of the Directors will meet with the hearty approval of their patrons, and that the result will prove satisfactory to them.

They are the cheapes They are the best to the satisfactory to them.

The Last Grand Gift Concert in aid of the Masonic Relief Association of Norfolk Postponed.—To the Public.

In selecting the 3d day of September as the date upon which to have their last Gift Concert, the Directors of the Masonic Relief Association were influenced by the belief that there would be a sufficient length of time between the publication of the scheme and the above-mentioned date to enable them to dispose of such a number of tickets as to ensure a full drawing and an avoidance of scaling the prizes. While the enterprise has been liberally patronized by a large number of purchasers of tickets in every section of the United States and the British. Provinces, yet the impression seems to have prevailed with many who were willing to aid in the work of completing the Masonic Temple in this city, by investing in this scheme, that the Concert would be postponed, and as a consequence they have declined to purchase tickets until an announcement should be made that a day had been fixed upon when the drawing would positively take place. The Directors, being assured that their patrons will be satisfied with the reasons actuating them in making a postponement, have selected. Thursday, the 15th day of November,

Thursday, the 15th day of November, as the time to hold their Second Grand Gift Concert and Drawing, and they hope that orders for tickets will be sent immediately by all who desire to obtain one or more of the valuable Cash Prizes which they offer. The public may be confident that the same fairness and honesty which characterized their first drawing will be observed in this.

MINNEAPOLIS

HER TRADE, FOR 1874.

We the undersigned, Wholessie Dealers and Manufacturers of Minnespolis, take pleasure in announcing to our numerous friends throughout the Northwest, that we are this year better prepared than ever before to offer superior inducements to the trade, both as regards extensive stocks and the lowest market prices. Our goods are eccived direct from first hands, both in this and foreign countries; and with our geographical position and excellent facilities for the prompt shipment of goods to any oint desired, we can assure the merchant a cordial welcome to a market second to no other in the Northwest. Our Commission Merchants also solicit consignments, and shippers will find here one of the best Western markets for all kinds of farm produce.
