COTILLION PARTY.—Jull Potvin will give a dance at the Alpena House, on Chisholm street, on Thursday evening of this week. Invitation cards have been issued, and it is expected that there will be a goodly number present. Bill $2.50.

FIRE.—Week before last the mills of Rogers & Molitor, at Rogers City were consumed by fire, as was, also, a large quantity of lumber. The total loss is in the neighborhood of $20,000, and was insured for from $8,000 to $10,000. These enterprising gentlemen have already commenced the work of re-building the mill, and they will push it forward as fast as possible.

CARLETON.—We understand that an effort is being made to secure an evening of readings from the young Michigan poet, Will. M. Carleton.—He recites his own productions—"Betsey and I are Out"—"Over the Hills to the Poor House," etc., etc., and has everywhere met with large houses. We believe our citizens would be glad to hear him, and trust that he can be secured.

FIRE.—An alarm of fire was given shortly after 7 o'clock last night, caused by the burning of some rags belonging to one Bloomrosen, an enterprising pedler, which were stored in a shed attached to H. Hyatt's building, and occupied as a dollar store by H. H. Wittelschaffer. A large crowd soon congregated, and the fire was soon extinguished. There was no need for the services of the Fire Company, although those gallant boys were prompt to the call, as they ever are. Mr. Hyatt immediately caused the rags to be removed. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

Signs Fail.—Last Friday two young ladies in this city, who believe in signs, noticed a rooster crowing at the kitchen door, and supposed of course that they would have company that day. Soon after one of them accidentally dropped the dish cloth, which was, also, another sign for company. And during the day one of the ladies went out of one door, and entered the house by another. Three such signs surely could not fail, and they accordingly dressed themselves to receive their company. At tea time no visitors having arrived, the conclusion was jumped at that they would certainly put in an appearance soon. But at 10 o'clock the fair believers in signs were forced to think of the old maxim, that "all signs fail in dry weather."

Y., where she lived with her husband eighty-two years, and who died seven years since at the advanced age of 103 years. She was married at the age of fifteen years, and has never worn glasses, doing her own work for eighty-two years.

Not long ago some hunters and "prospectors" encountered in a ravine to the north of Tucson, Arizona, toward the Salinas, a party of hostile Apaches. After the fight the pouches of the slain Indians were found to contain several golden bullets, hammers out of nuggets picked up by them in the course of their rambles. "These bullets," says a correspondent, "I saw and handled at the time, and am thus enabled to confirm the account of Aubrey, whose statement with regard to the use of gold bullets was received some years ago with ridicule and doubt."
