TARRANT'S SELTZER WATER
There are martyrs to headache who might be cured by using Tarrant's Seltzer Aperient. The stomach, overburdened until its recuperative power is weakened, revenges itself upon the poor head, which it makes to ache and torture the sufferer. The use of this aperient will carry off naturally, and almost imperceptibly, the offending cause. The disease is removed and the head easy to ache.

PROPOSALS.
Sealed proposals will be received at my office on to 4 o'clock P. M. of Monday, Oct. 29, 1917, for the clearing and grubbing of Long Lake avenue, two rock walls, from Michigan street to the city limits. J. D. TURNBULL, Commissioner.

Pencil Points.
Dr. Gourdeau has returned home.

Wm. Carney has opened his new store on Chisholm street.

Annual meeting of the Board of Supervisors next Monday.

Circuit Court commenced yesterday, with not a very large docket on hand.

Lumbermen are already preparing for operations in the woods this winter.

Nearly every day some of our citizens are returning from a trip to the Centennial.

A grand Hayes torch-light procession on Washington avenue last Thursday night—one lantern.

Martino will exhibit at Alpine Hall, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week.

Dr. Kibbee, the dentist, left town yesterday morning, but will give our city a call before the close of navigation.

J. H. Fletcher & Co. have taken the contract for putting a tin roof on the brick block now being built by Geo. L. Maltz & Co.

The Olympic boys did very well at Au Sable, and by special request they went to Tawas to give an entertainment on Monday evening.

Work goes rapidly forward on the bricks block being erected on Water street. The walls for the first story of both blocks are already up.

Rev. W. W. Rafter starts for the Centennial this morning, and there will be no services at Trinity Church for two weeks, but Sunday school as usual.

A lady's glove was lost, somewhere between Hitchcock's brick block and the McDonald block. The finder will confer a favor by leaving the same at this office.

Owing to some detention, Prof. William did not arrive in town in season to give his entertainment on Monday evening. We believe it will take place ere long. Due notice of the time will be given.

S. Rosenthal returned home on Monday, and brings us the news of the marriage of Miss R. Alpern of this city, to Isaac Tummeng, of Syracuse, N. Y. The happy couple are expected home this week.

A long, prosperous and happy life, is our hearty wish.

As there seems to be a general misunderstanding in regard to the penalty for betting on elections, we give the law below:

The People of the State of Michigan enact: That any person who shall either directly or indirectly bet, wager, or hazard any money or other property upon the result of the election of any officer of this State or of the United States, shall, upon conviction thereof, be liable to a fine at least equal in amount to the amount of money or the value of property so bet, wagered, or hazarded; provided that in no case shall such fine be less than five, or more than five hundred dollars.

Is it not about time that the conventions for nominating candidates for county offices are called?

The people are becoming anxious, and want to know who are the parties that will be placed in the field for their ballots this fall. We believe there was an understanding between the chairmen of the two county committees, that if the Democrats would call their convention first last spring, the Republicans would do likewise this fall, and as there is but a short time now before election, the call should be made without delay.

Why delay? It surely can result in no good.

About ten days since a scow anchored near Nine Mile Point for the purpose of taking on a load of posts, and a heavy gale coming on, the men at work loading were induced to go aboard, which they did, dressed in clothing suitable for loading posts from the water. The wind increased, and in the night it was discovered that the vessel was dragging anchor, and there was danger of going ashore, so the captain ordered all hands on deck, set sail, and the boat darted off before the wind, finally bringing up at Port Huron, where the men were set ashore, without money or clothing to cover themselves decently, and nearly two hundred miles from home. They telegraphed to parties in Alpena for money to pay their way back, which they received, and on Monday they arrived in this city, probably with the determination to refuse all offers of shelter on board of vessels in like condition in the future.

Kelley's Speech.
The speech of R. J. Kelley, last Friday evening, was the result of an effort on the part of the Republicans to do something, if possible, in the way of counteracting the mischief to Grantism caused by the address of Hon. Chas. S. May. As Mr. Kelley is a leading Republican, and the representative of the administration party in this city, of course something of more than an ordinary address was expected. However, as is the case with most of Republican speakers of the day, Mr. Kelley was very bitter. The first charge that he made was that the Democracy dare not be judged from the past, and that during the seventy years of Democratic rule, they had done nothing for the country. Now let us see how correct he was. According to his own statement the Democracy took charge of the affairs of the nation when there were only thirteen States, and the national debt was something like $80,000,000, and continued to manage the affairs of the country during that seventy years, while it grew to be the greatest nation on the earth, and within that whole time, Mr. Kelley was able to find five dishonest officers, who had been guilty of robbing the people. But he forgot to mention that more money had been stolen from the people of this country by corrupt officials during the last four years of Republican rule than during the whole seventy years under the Democracy. He asked where there was a Democrat who was not glad when the south was successful in the conflicts with the Union army; and he undoubtedly ignored the fact that more than one half of the leading officers and soldiers of the Union army were made up from the Democratic ranks, and that to-day they are supporting Tilden and Hendricks. And when he said that the Reform party advocated repudiation of the national debt, he made a statement that he knew to be false, if he has ever read the platform of that party. He asserted that Belknap had never taken any money from the government; but Belknap took thousands upon thousands of dollars from the meagre wages of the soldiers who risk their lives in the defense of the government, and yet he goes unpunished—his resignation having been accepted by a Republican President "with regrets." Mr. Kelley stated that the southern part of Indiana was a copperhead district, but he did not tell his hearers that history shows that that district sent out more soldiers, and those that have a more brave record, than the "loyal" northern portion of Indiana.

Mr. Kelley wanted his audience to distinctly understand that the Democracy had never done anything for the laboring man, but the Republicans had given them the eight hour system. That was surely a cheeky assertion. He neglected to say that the Republican party had merely given to the men in the employ of the government, the privilege of working eight hours a day and receiving pay for ten hours. He did not tell us that the Republican party had done nothing to relieve the man who works in our mills twelve hours a day,—he forgot it—but simply that the eight hour rule was confined to government clerks, etc.

The speaker acknowledged the letter to Mr. May, and then said that he was not brave enough to stand up and let a slippery-tongued gentleman fire at him for half an hour. No, he was not brave enough to face Mr. May, but, oh, how courageous he becomes when that gentleman is hundreds of miles away. He then rushes to the rescue, and with his natural ability, abuses Mr. May because he refuses to countenance corruption in the management of the affairs of the United States government.

Through the whole course of his remarks, Mr. Kelley spoke with the utmost derision, and at last closed by a declaration of secession if Tilden is elected. Oh, Kelley, don't secede; we beg of you not to.
