PUBLIC LEDGER.
OFFICE—No. 13 MADISON STREET.

MEMPHIS:
Saturday Evening, Nov. 28, 1874.

Mr. Jo Locke has taken charge of the city circulation of the Ledger. The public can rely upon him for his prompt and regular delivery.

EDITORIAL DIGNITY.
Artemus Ward used to say that he was a great singer, but that when he sang everybody cried. So it is in a certain sense with some newspapers. For instance, take the LEDGER. We got off, as we thought, two capital little bits about so many of the worthy citizens of Paris, Tennessee, holding office. It happens that our next Governor, a Congressman, a State Senator and a floating Representative all live in the pleasant little town of Paris, and we were guilty of perpetrating two squibs about all the citizens of the place being officeholders. But the Intelligence, which is a modified pattern of the old National Intelligence, failed to see the joke. What does the editor do? Throw his heels over the desk and take a hearty laugh? Not a bit of it. He put on his spectacles and went without his dinner doubtless to indite nearly a column editorial on the subject. Why, bless your soul, Colonel, we were for Porter, and Atkins, and Allen, and Cole, and feel partial to Hamby, or almost any other man that Paris would endorse. We are proud that any town in West Tennessee can make such a good showing of able and true men, and can sustain such a sterling paper as the Intelligence. Its merit is only excelled by its dignity.

Tax Ledger's article in regard to taxing railroads has gone the rounds of the State press and attracted a general attention, which attests the importance of the subject. We think it a foregone and incontrovertible conclusion that railroads and all their appurtenances are liable to be taxed as other property. It only remains for the Legislature to determine how the assessment shall be made, as the property of one company may lie in many counties. At the same time it may be well to ascertain what railroads have violated their charters and what steps are necessary for the protection of the public against studied and persistent imposition. Let the discussion go on until the most practical and definite conclusions are formed in the minds of the people.

We frequently receive a laudatory prospectus of some weekly paper started away up North, which is followed with something about like this: "If you kindly insert the above prospectus and letters in your valuable journal and send us a marked copy, we will be happy to send you our paper gratis until the end of 1875." It invariably happens that we do not care to do $27 worth of advertising for a $3 paper which will be sure to be burned up with the stubble and rubbish that daily comes through the mails. If we want any of these ephemeral journals we will send the money and become a regular subscriber; if they want to advertise in the LEDGER let them send the money in advance.

ONCE on a time many years ago one dark and rainy night there was within a big castle, surrounded by a moat and a wall with a draw-bridge and a big gate watched by fierce bulldogs, a grand wedding. After supper they had a game of "hide and seek," and the bride hid herself in a big iron chest with a spring lock, and she was never found alive. Generations afterwards her skeleton was found in that rusty old chest. Now who knows but that V. V. Smith, of Arkansas, may have suffered a similar fate? Even now he may be sweating his life away, and downwards, in a Saratoga trunk. One thousand dollars reward! Renew the search!

The coming United States Senator from Nevada is said to be one Hon. Wm. Sharon. When his daughter married lately he gave her a solid $1,000,000. Jones was thought to be worth some thing, but Sharon went several millions better. He can afford to spend his winters occasionally in Washington.

THE Mobile Register never uttered truer words than when it said that "independent candidates always land in the bosom of the Radical party. Whatever their professions may be, their triumph always ensures to the advantage of the negro and to the sorrow of the white man."

Miss Susan B. Anthony made a canvass in the State of Michigan in behalf of woman suffrage. It is a noticeable fact that wherever she made the hardest fight just previous to the late election, she was lightest in her favor. When she voted to win she ought to take the other side.

The President thought he could issue rations to the folks out West who had been overrun by grasshoppers, but he had no funds on hand for the Tusculum sufferers. Kansas went Republican, you know; perhaps Alabama did not.

We are much obliged to the Southern Express Company for a file of Wednesday's New York paper, as it is so early this morning.

SUGGESTIONS are now in order for the next Legislature. The Chattanooga Times thinks the Legislature might do a worse thing than to inquire into the amount of church property exempt from taxation—not to tax it, but to see how much there is of it.

GOVERNOR AMES of Mississippi has been extensively petitioned to resign. There is no positive information that he will accept the invitation. Ben Butler is not ready to support a son-in-law at present.

DR. FELIX W. FINEST, of Jonesboro, is a candidate for State Comptroller. He is a well-known citizen, and has served two terms in the State Senate.

The plasterers' strike at Nashville is over. It wouldn't stick any longer.

A Sad Bereavement.
Mr. E. Whitmore, of the LEDGER, received a dispatch this morning from New Orleans announcing the death of Willie, the little son of Wm. L. and Mrs. Georgia Chandler, which took place in that city this morning at 8 o'clock. The child was about four years old, and as bright and promising a child as ever gladdened the hearts of fond parents and friends. Mr. Chandler went to New Orleans to live about three months ago, after a long residence here. They had only two children, a girl and a boy. The daughter who survives is about twelve years old and the only living child. Willie was the special pet and favorite of Mrs. and Mr. Whitmore, who had long been a member of the household. They expected to start to New Orleans on a pleasure trip in a day or two and to meet Mr. and Mrs. Chandler under happy circumstances, but Providence designed it otherwise. The journey is deferred and sadness reigns where joy only a day ago reigned supreme. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler, who scarcely knew that they had taken up their residence in another city, will deeply sympathize with them in their sad bereavement. They mourn, but not without a bright and sustaining hope that the little cherub has been transferred to a purer and brighter world where partings and funeral plumes and shadows are unknown. We tender our sincere and heartfelt sympathies to the parents and immediate friends of the family.

NEW YORK.
A Wrecked Engine Throws Three Hundred Operatives Out of Employment.
New York, November 28.—Couplings connecting the engine with the machinery at Clark's Thread Works, Newark, New Jersey, broke yesterday, and the engine, relieved of the weight, ran away and was entirely wrecked. The driving wheel, weighing twenty-two tons, flew to fragments. A panic seized the employes, and they fled from the building, but escaped harmless. The loss was twenty thousand dollars on the machinery and six weeks' time to three hundred of the female operatives.

A committee was appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to consider the subject of the revision of the wool tariff, and recommend the abolition of all classifications for the purpose of levying duties, the establishment of a uniform duty of twenty-five per cent. ad valorem as being calculated to yield sufficient revenue to the Government and relieve the wool trade of innumerable vexatious and impediments of the present law.

The Postmaster General's Report.
WASHINGTON, November 28.—The report of the Postmaster General is completed. Revenues for the year ending June 30th, 1874, were $24,696,598; expenditures, $32,126,414; estimated expenditures for the year ending June 30th, 1875, are $36,964,034; total estimated revenues, $29,148,156, leaving a deficiency to be appropriated out of the general treasury of $7,815,878. These estimates do not include appropriation for steamship service and stamps, amounting to $2,998,500.

CINCINNATI.
Boiler Explosion—Charley Ross.
CINCINNATI, November 28.—The boiler on a portable saw mill, near Cambridge, Ohio, exploded on Thursday, killing two men and wounding two others.

The boy in the family of J. W. Peyton, Barbourville, West Virginia, supposed to have been the missing Charley Ross, was found, upon investigation, to have escaped from a neighboring poor-house.

FOREIGN.
PARIS, November 28.—Thiers yesterday in an interview with a representative of the La France newspaper said that the Italian unity was irrevocably accomplished, and if France wishes to preserve the friendship of Italy she must recognize this fact, and not adopt a clerical policy toward that country.

Escaped Prisoner.
OTTAWA, ONTARIO, November 28.—Chester Campbell, alias Anderson, in jail for forgery, shamming sickness yesterday and begged the keeper to make up his bed. While the keeper was doing so Campbell knocked him down, locked him inside and escaped.

Probabilities.
WASHINGTON, November 28.—For Tennessee, the Ohio valley and the lower lake region, lower temperature will prevail, with northeast to northwest winds, rain or snow, followed by rising barometer.

River Telegrams.
CINCINNATI, November 28.—The river is twelve feet nine inches and rising. It is raining.

PITTSBURGH, November 28.—The river is five feet eight inches and falling slowly. The weather is cloudy.

Death of the Oldest Printer in the United States.
Nashville Union and American, 28th.)
The following Associated Press dispatch reached this office last night: "St. Louis, Nov. 26.—Wm. L. Barry, aged 96, supposed to be the oldest printer in the United States, was buried here yesterday. His first 'take' as a journeyman was Washington's obituary. At 90 years of age he worked at the case in Nashville Tenn."

Mr. Barry was well known in this city, having spent most of his long life in the Nashville printing office, the last work he did here being done in the Union and American book room, in setting up the proceedings of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, two years ago last fall. He attended the meeting of the Tennessee Press Association at Lebanon, two years ago next May, at which time he was hale and hearty.

He was the father of David and Richard H. Barry (the latter having been one of the proprietors of the old Nashville News) and the grandfather of W. W. A. Barry, of this city. For several years he had been making his home with a son-in-law residing in St. Louis.

Amusements.
MEMPHIS THEATRE.—There was a large and fashionable audience at the theater last night to witness that most amusing pantomime, Humpty Dumpty. Geo. Fox's Humpty Dumpty is a most laughable character, and he is probably the very best clown and comedian on the stage. Possessing wonderful facial expression, his appearance on the stage is always greeted with applause. In the pantomime he is ably seconded and supported by Mr. C. K. Fox as Pantaloon, C. W. Ravel as Harlequin, and Miss Louise Boshel as Columbine. Miss Boshel possesses an expressive face, good figure and activity, all of which came in play during the performance of the pantomime. Her dancing is especially graceful and devoid of that objectionable lofty kicking which is seen so oft in the ballet. Her wonderful and graceful performance on the slack wire was deservedly applauded last evening. The other specialties are most attractive, especially the Olympian and Calisthenical exhibition by Mlle Lucia and Orrin Brothers, staff bell ringing and horn solo by Miss George Dean Spaulding, harp playing by W. P. Spaulding, character songs by Mr. Dunbar, Swiss warbling by Devereaux, Swiss bell ringing by the Spaulding Troupe and acrobatic acts by the Orrin Brothers. There will be a matinee to-day, and to-night an exhibition will be given for the benefit of the Tusculum sufferers.

LITTLE NELL.—This clever little actress and Memphis favorite will commence an engagement at the theater on Monday evening at "Fidelis," in the Fire Wail. When last she appeared in our city she drew large and fashionable houses during the entire week. During her engagement she will appear in many other attractive roles.

BENEFIT FOR THE TUSCUMBIA SUFFERERS.—To-night the Fox troupe, at the solicitation of several citizens, will give a benefit for the Tusculum sufferers. The benefit has been hastily gotten up, probably too much so to realize the expectations of its friends and advocates. Saturday night is the very worst night for theatrical attendance in Memphis—indeed, it would have been better to have waited until next week and in the meantime make all the necessary arrangements. But as the benefit will come off and the object meets the approbation of all people, the theater to-night should be crowded by our citizens.

JEFFERSON OPERA HOUSE.—The business at this popular place of amusement still keeps on the increase. Little Dot, Abbie Farnsworth and M. Jean Dupont, the new appearances, walked at once into public favor. To-morrow evening Mark Grayson, the popular sensation author and actor, makes his appearance in the celebrated drama of Struck by Lightning. Mr. Grayson also assumes the direction of amusements during his engagement. Manager Steele promises increased attractions in rapid succession.

St. Patrick's Church Fair.
Last night, again, the Assembly Hall was actually jammed. From the remotest points of the city large parties, interested in the honor of one of the churches or societies, kept pouring in till a late hour. Standing room could scarcely be obtained around the polls as "hotter and hotter the contest grew."

When the result of the voting on the altar flowers was first called out, St. Peter's was ahead by a slender majority. For two hours more the voting went on with unabated enthusiasm; and when the last call was made for the evening, St. Bridget's had cleared a majority of five, St. Peter's stood second, St. Patrick's a close third, with St. Mary's far in the rear. Yet, to the rescue! No less enthusiastic was the voting on the gavel and dressing gown between the different societies. Crowds of supporters grouped around their respective presidents, who watched the tide of victory with much anxiety. For a long time to have the knights of Isis failed to support the renowned chivalry of their name, but all the time the "cold water name" of St. Bridget's parish maintained an unbroken front, and at the last call, scored a large majority. The other societies are sitting "on the ragged edge."

This evening some rare fun is looked for. The beaten ones are determined to rally to the front and make a vigorous onslaught. The various tables and the noble and energetic ladies should not be forgotten. Any one who wishes to spend a really pleasant hour should not fail to go to the Assembly Hall for the coming few evenings. The ladies have pledged themselves to spare no pains to make everything agreeable. And if you wish to "trip the light fantastic," the amiable and accomplished Mat McKee will be sure to make such things enjoyable.

THE APPEAL TESTIMONIAL.
That Mysterious School Question

To the Editor of the Ledger:
I beg leave to say to you and the public that the communication published in your paper of Friday, November 27th, signed "A Linden Street Teacher," and the editorial comments based upon it, are erroneous, both in stating or intimating any contribution to the public teachers throughout the city; and I am responsible for the proposition to have the teachers contribute toward a testimonial to the Appeal. I have before, in a published communication, assumed the entire responsibility of that proposition. But as the fact does not seem to be yet fully understood, I now reiterate the assumption: It is not true that either Mr. Slaughter or Mr. Pickett was a prime mover in the proposition; nor did Mr. Pickett know that it was proposed until after I had, on consultation with the principal of Alabama street school, permanently dropped the matter, and had by a note requested Mr. Slaughter, and through him, his teachers, to do the same for reasons previously published. I intimated to Mr. Slaughter that Mr. Pickett would teach my school if requested, so that I myself might propose a voluntary contribution to the public teachers throughout the city; and I even named the sum from each teacher that I deemed sufficient for the testimonial. I fully credit Mr. Slaughter with no other object than to communicate my proposition to the Linden street teachers, but he may have misapprehended my remarks, as our interview was a hurried one on the street. I am yet at a loss to say any wrong in proposing the testimonial, and my reason for dropping the matter was, as before stated, a fear lest somebody might misconstrue my motive. C. H. COLLIER.

Great Red Store's Vagaries.
The cause of the Red Store's success is buying goods cheap for cash, selling goods cheap for cash, and dealing with every one alike in a fair and square manner.

Why the Red Store is gaining such great popularity: Because of its efficient system in management, its able and attentive corps of salesmen and ladies, and above all, to strict attention paid to assert nothing either verbally or written that cannot be fulfilled by us.

Why good mammas should invariably visit the Red Store: Because children cry for it, they must have it, only from the Red Store of course.

How to solve the national problem of political economy: By coming to the Red Store to clothe and shoe yourself with the least possible expense.

The true philanthropist is not he who theorizes, but he who practices real good by inventing or producing something that will ultimately benefit his fellow men. For us, we simply claim the credit of having improved the art of selling the cheapest dry goods.

Moral: Go to the Red Store and patronize home industry. The man who is blind to Red Store bargains would not notice the carcasses of his sweatheart.

An eye to futurity—The woman with a parcel from the Red Store. The prudent and economical housewife at early morn may be seen wending her way to the Red Store.

What caused such good cheer to the hearts of so many families on the last instant? Why, the fact of the monthly bill being much smaller than usual, while the lads and lasses are clad even better than ever.

Jealousy, you naughty green-eyed monster, thou hast poisoned the minds of our competitors, who are envious of our great progress. Charity to all, malice to none; we pray for the salvation of our neighbors, especially those who have appropriated for their use our long-established and well paid-for color—the great Red.

Something for the masses.—A great deal of sickness might be avoided in this malarial climate by frequent ventilation of the bed-rooms in day time, and a cheerful fire in the evening to remove dampness. Above all, carpet your rooms. This you can easily do by going to the Red Store. Hard times need be no excuse, for we sell carpets at prices that bring them within the reach of every one; in fact, the price paid for one year's scrubbing almost exceeds the cost of a carpet sold and put down by the Red Store.

How to be happy.—Tubs plenty of outdoor exercise, eat nothing but what is wholesome, and wear nothing except from the Red Store. Contract no bills but what you can pay (ours are C. O. D.); send your children to the Sabbath school on Sunday and you come to the Red Store on Monday.

By observing the above suggestions you'll attain a venerable old age, which is the prayer of your humble servants of THE GREAT RED STORE.
