SOMERVILLE Reporter: Last month there were shipped from Somerville 1069 bales of cotton against 1256 for the same month last year. Since the 1st of July the shipments aggregate 1718 bales, against 1680 for the same time last season.

Mr. RUFUS McPHERSON, a grandson of Major Campbell Wallace, formerly of Knoxville, committed suicide in the Kimball House at Atlanta Wednesday afternoon. He was a popular and capable business young man, twenty-four years of age, but whisky upset his reason. His remains were forwarded to Knoxville for interment.

THE two excellent newspapers, the Press and the Eagle, at Pine Bluff, have been consolidated, and will appear hereafter daily and weekly as the Press-Eagle, under the proprietorship and editorial control of S. C. Ryan and Arthur Murray. These are experienced, energetic, talented young men, and will doubtless issue a lively and influential paper. They occupy a fine field and know how to deserve success.

STRAWs, the illustrated paper published at Louisville, has a large cartoon this week, called the "New Turnout." Arthur appears in a fine carriage with his hat in one hand and a large bouquet on the other. Grant is the driver, and the horses are labeled "North and South." Hayes and John Sherman, also in liver, occupy back seats as outriders. Conkling poses himself gracefully on the steps of the White House, as if waiting to be invited to take a seat in the carriage. It is a very good take off on some of the characters.

POSTMASTER RILEY, of Knoxville, stepped down and out of the office he has filled so long last Wednesday night, and turned over the place to Judge O. P. Temple, the new appointee. Riley is a clever gentleman, and gave entire satisfaction to the business public, but not to Hook. This change is the result of an old feud within the ranks of the Republican party. Judge Temple represents the best type of native Republicans to be found in the South. He is a lawyer of decided ability, and is an eloquent speaker. He is a man of means, of scholarly tastes and high social position.

ACCORDING to Republican calculations the next House of Representatives will stand 147 Republicans, 136 Democrats, 9 Greenbackers and 4 Independent. It is claimed that in voting for Speaker of the House five of the Greenbackers will support the caucus nominee of the Republicans. This would give the Republicans 152 votes. Should all the Greenbackers and the Independents vote with the Democrats, the Republicans would be reduced to a majority of one vote. But of this there is no probability. The five Greenbackers, though not named, are said to have given assurance of voting with the Republicans. It will require seventy-seven votes, therefore, to nominate a Republican candidate for Speaker. The leading Republican candidates are General Keifer, of Ohio, and Kassim, of Iowa.

New York Stock Market. NEW YORK, November 4.—The stock market opened generally firm and higher, the greatest improvement being in Indianapolis and Bloomington, which opened at 49, against 48 at the close yesterday. In the early dealings the entire list became strong and an advance was recorded of 1/4 to 1/2 for Northern Pacific preferred, Northwestern common and preferred and Wash and Pacific preferred being the most prominent in the improvement. At the first board the upward movement was checked, and under the influence of somewhat free sales, prices declined 1/4 to 1, the latter for Denver and Rio Grande. Pacific Mail declined 1/4 at the opening and subsequently rose to 11, and later reacted 1/4. Wheat is fairly active and lower.

RAILWAY RATTLE.

Moves and Counter Moves—Accumulations of Freight.

A Scheme to Go Through the Indian Territory. NEW YORK, November 4.—The Union and Pacific has given formal notice that the agreement of the Pacific Mail has been cancelled. It is reported that the Union and Central Company are willing to form a new alliance with the Pacific Mail upon terms somewhat less favorable to the steamship company, and also to purchase the two Pacific Mail steamships, forming a China line. A probable satisfactory adjustment may be made within a short time, if not stock will, in the opinion of insiders, go down considerably. The pool in Texas Pacific are actively at work for an advance in that stock. Vanderbilt is said to have bought Northwest yesterday. Fully two thousand car loads of freight have accumulated at stations awaiting the completion of the Lexington and Big Sandy extension of the Chesapeake and Ohio road. Confederate bonds are weak. A scheme for the extension of the Atlantic and Pacific across the Indian Territory will soon be announced.

BY CABLE. LONDON, November 4.—A semi-official telegram from Constantinople says: Ambassadors have been informed that in consequence of the tranquillity in Tripoli, it is intended to recall part of the troops and supersede the Governor. Giovanni Domenico Ruffini, the Italian novelist, is dead. LONDON, November 4.—A correspondent at Armagh, speaking of the "tears that the Land Court will be blocked, says: "As soon as a few decisions have been given, and as soon as the tendency of the decisions begins to be grasped by landlord and tenant, an amicable arrangement will take place in an overwhelming proportion of cases."

MAIDSTONE, November 4.—The trial of Arthur Lefroy for the murder of F. J. Gold, on the Brighton railway express train, in June, has commenced. ROMK, November 4.—The government has prohibited the meeting of the Republicans and Anti-Clericals to commemorate the anniversary of the battle of Mentana.

LONDON, November 4.—There is some reason to believe that the Irish government had information of the serious designs of a section of the extremists to promote risings throughout the country, before the progress of the Land Act had time to create a better feeling among the people. The government, however, was well prepared.

PARIS, November 4.—Negotiations for the Anglo-French treaty will be suspended until after the formation of a new Cabinet. France has asked an explanation of the arrest in Russia of three French men.

A Chief Engineer Shot. DENVER, November 4.—The Republican's Buena Vista special says: John Evans, chief engineer of the Denver, South Park and Pacific railroad, was this afternoon shot and dangerously wounded by a discharged employe. The assailant was arrested and locked up.

Arrested as a Defaulter. NEWARK, N. J., November 4.—H. B. Marchbank, a well known resident of Belleville and former corresponding clerk of the Mechanics' National Bank, was arrested last night on a charge of being a defaulter to the bank the sum of $50,000 within three years. Marchbank left the bank about two years ago and the defalcation was covered up. He has not yet given bail, and is in custody of the United States Marshal.

The Weather To-Day. WASHINGTON, November 4.—Tennessee and Ohio valley, slightly warmer with southerly to westerly winds, and a stationary or slowly falling barometer and fair weather. For the Missouri valley, partly cloudy weather, with a light snow in the extreme northern portion and variable winds, mostly from the south to west, with a rising temperature and stationary or falling barometer.

ST. LOUIS.

Investigation of the Alleged Pool of Railroads and Coal Operators.

ST. LOUIS, November 4.—The investigation being conducted by the Illinois State Board Railroad Commissioners at Belleville progresses. Two witnesses testified on the part of the complainants, one of whom had been obliged to quit mining on account of the treatment received at the hands of the railroads. The general tenor of the evidence was the same as previously given. Mr. Beard testified that he was formerly an independent operator, but was compelled to join the Coal Exchange because he could not carry on business successfully outside of that organization. George W. Parker, President of the Cairo Short Line, and also President of the pool testified at length. He gave a full history of the freight war dating back to 1865. From that date to 1879 there was a great cutting of freights, and much money was lost by the roads. In the latter year a pool was formed to stop cutting and it was agreed that each road should haul a certain proportion of coal destined for St. Louis. An agent of the pool ascertained each day how much coal had been delivered, and how much was needed to supply the city. Cars were then allotted to each road and to each mine on the different roads, and there was no discrimination between the roads or the operators or between the Exchange men and non-Exchange men. They gave no operators all the cars he wanted, and they received as many or more complaints from the members of the Coal Exchange as from the independent operators. They aimed to give the miners an equal chance, and to bring to the city all the coal needed by the consumers and dealers. Mr. Parker disclaimed emphatically that the pool attempted to restrict the amount of coal brought to the city or to in any way regulate the prices, and denied that any profits on coal or any money whatever is divided among the Coal Exchange men or the railroads.

Description of Jesse. To the Editor of the Courier-Journal. SEBASTIA, Mo., October 20.—He is six feet tall, has a grand, pair of shoulders straight and broad without the slightest inclination to stoop a full chest tapering toward the waist he has a remarkable fine figure it is his face, that makes the strongest impression on one's memory. He has a broad, high forehead that recedes almost to the eyebrows, his eyes are blue and decidedly good, though partially thrown back by his prominent nose and cheek bones. His nose has just enough of the eagle peak about it to escape being Roman, his hair and complexion is sandy. When last seen by the writer a few weeks ago, he was smooth shaven and did not look to be over 22—though he is 34. He is a man of superior courage and intellect and every feature denotes that of a great soldier. And in looking at him it is hard for any one to believe he is the greatest robber that has ever lived.

The Reception to Bishop Quinard. Nashville World, 3. The reception of Bishop Quinard on his recent return from England, previously announced, was given at the residence of Rev. Dr. William Graham, at 82 South Vine street, last night. A large number of the parishioners living in the city were present. Bishop Quinard was looking unusually well, and his genial talk was greatly enjoyed by the guests. All spent a pleasant evening. Elegant refreshments were served. A number of the gentlemen were accompanied by their families. The following is a list of those present, as far as could be obtained: Messrs. Hopkins, Yeaman, S. M. D. Clark, Captain Drouillard, Major Willis, G. M. Jackson, E. B. Dallas, Judge H. H. Harrison, W. Fisher, George R. Knox, Rev. S. Harrison, Rev. Mr. Thompson, Mrs. Maury, Mrs. Trabue.

The Wise Eye Correspondence. CHATTANOOGA TIME, 3. Dr. Julia Wise, of Memphis, editor of the Mississippi Valley Medical Monthly, and Drs. Duncey and Deering, J. Roberts, of Nashville, editors of the Southern Practitioner, fell into a sharp dispute, professional and editorial, in the course of which the Practitioner referred to Dr. Wise as "The Inmate Lancelotti, whose intellectual development is as limited as his prepice, is trying to lie out of having made an unwarranted and imbecile attack," etc.

We have taken no pains for we cared nothing about the matter—to inform ourselves upon the merits or demerits of the controversy. But we have to say that the foregoing extract from Dr. Yre and Roberts of one of the charges brought against them. None but a blackguard and bully could resort to such an attack, and none but a filthy habitue of the slums could get his conscience to pervert the honest terms of an honorable profession into obscenity. It won't much matter what Dr. Wise may now do or say, he will hardly find himself capable of getting down to the level of his adversaries.

THE NEW YORK WORLD.

Rumor That It Will Pass into the Hands of Henry Waterson.

Special to Nashville Banner. NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The latest gossip in connection with the New York World is that Henry Waterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, is to become editor-in-chief, succeeding William Henry Hurst, John Gilmer Speed, formerly of Louisville, and for some time past the managing editor of the World, is to be relieved by Young E. Allison, the present city editor of the Courier-Journal. Mr. Speed will be connected with the World in an editorial capacity, and Mr. E. Speed, late editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer and a new addition to the World's staff, will be retained. The reasons assigned for the contemplated changes are simple but strong. The World has not proved a success, either as a political or news journal, and as an investment it has always been more or less a failure. Mr. Hurst is a gentleman of culture and an excellent writer, but while he has brought the World into a certain prominence in a political way he has not made the stock worthy the title of a capitalistic business. The retirement of Mr. W. A. Paton as business manager, and the succession of a son of General Thomas T. Eckert to that position, the World has retrograded to a certain extent, and the necessity for an older and more experienced person in the counting room is strongly felt. It is said that Mr. Waterson and Mr. W. N. Haldeman, his partner and business manager of the paper, do not enjoy together that harmony which should prevail in newspaper offices, and that this fact has much to do with Mr. Waterson's desire for a change of location. Mr. Emett G. Logan, managing editor of the Courier-Journal, will, it is believed, succeed Mr. Waterson as chief editor. Mr. Allison is a rather young man for such a responsible place as that to which rumor assigns him, but those who know him say he possesses journalistic talents far beyond those of any Kentucky editor, and is therefore well fitted for it. He is ambitious, and considers New York the best field for advancement. Besides he is a great favorite of Mr. Waterson. It is also reported that Mr. O. O. Stealey, who has been with the Courier-Journal for more than a dozen years, and who is land in hand with Mr. Waterson, will be given a position of trust on the World, either as the head of the Washington bureau of correspondence or as traveling correspondent. Should the changes referred to occur, the World will be in a better position to believe they will, the hand of Jay Gould will no longer be visible in its conduct, but that of Mr. Tilden, whose protégé Mr. Waterson, will plainly be seen.

Rescued from Death. William J. Conklin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs, followed by a severe cough. I was so weak at one time that I could not walk my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I got a bottle, when to my surprise and gratification I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have in the past three years. I write this hoping every one afflicted with diseased lungs will be induced to take Dr. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured." Sold by druggists.

Business men will find it their interest to have all their job printing done at the PUBLIC LEDGER job printing office, 13 Madison street.
