T. W. TURLEY, of Franklin, was appointed Wednesday Special Judge by the Governor, to act on the Supreme Court bench during the sickness of Judge Freeman.

Mr. ALBERT McNEAL, administrator of the estate of the late Mr. Bills, of Bolivar, who was a party to the street railroad suit, has sold the block of stock ($8000) owned by Mr. Bills to Mr. Frank Davis for $5 cents, which was its full market value for the present. The stock was offered to the other side but this was the highest offer made.

Mr. L. D. Hamner has sold a half interest in the Mason Call to Mr. Joseph Townsend, a young gentleman well known to the people of Tip-top county. This week's issue contains the announcement and the further news that the paper will henceforth be issued from Covington. Mr. Hamner has for over two years published a very new and acceptable paper, and in removing to Covington enters upon a wider field than necessarily losing his old subscribers. The Call is a sound, healthy, low tax paper, and one of the ablest edited and conducted in this end of the State. We hope it will continue to prosper and wield a wider influence in behalf of the rights of the people.

Mr. William Waldorf Astor, late candidate for Congress in the Eleventh District of New York, does not walk around in the mud and rain as much as he did before the election, nor does he seek out the horny handed sons of toil with the same unselfish zeal or set up the beer with regularity as he did last week. The boys drank his beer with commendable sympathy and condensation, and some of them even expressed their good fellowship for the poor millionaire by calling for a more expensive drink, and stuffing a few ten cent cigars in their hip pockets when the box was passed down the counter. But sad as the commentary on human nature may seem, inconsistent and ungrateful as it unquestionably was, these same boys felt a reminiscence and a sense of delicacy about stuffing the ballot box in his favor on election day. There may have been a wisdom and a kindness in this far above the present comprehension of Mr. Astor. The workmen in the goodness of their hearts saw that the druggery, mental and physical of political life did not agree with his health. And having a sort of grudge at Fowler, the Democratic candidate, they quietly concluded to get even with him by sending him to Congress. Fowler is in for it by a large majority, and will have to be in for it, unless he dies, resigns, or gets out of the country. Astor is to be congratulated. He can now afford to have his boots blacked, to ride from one block to another in a carriage, to foot up the expenses of the canvass instead of footing it around the ward eight hours a day. He will also have time to revise and paste in a scrap book the complimentary notices he paid for in certain newspapers, the speeches he made and intended to make, with the election returns as a sort of foot note. Mr. Astor is to be envied; he is on the safe, easy side, while Fowler will have a world of bother and be liable to make a thousand mistakes.

COURT HOUSE NOTES.

To-morrow is motion day in the Criminal Court. Judge Eldridge this forenoon appointed Mrs. B. A. Smith administratrix of the estate of her deceased husband, Julius V. Taylor was appointed administrator of the estate of the late M. D. L. Stewart, which estate is valued at $1000 in notes, dues and cash in hand. A marriage license was issued to-day to Lewis Pierson and Persilla Mason.

Fire This Morning. A fire occurred about 7 o'clock this morning on the west side of Main street above Adams, by which H. A. Thoms' undertaking stock was injured to the extent of twelve hundred or fifteen hundred dollars by water. Henry G. Hampe's barber implements to the extent of $150, and A. Dertlinger's shoemaking shop, $100. The fire originated in the latter's quarters. Pat Kelly's saloon was slightly damaged by water and the windows were scorched and defaced. The building had the roof destroyed. It was a one story, shabby sort of an affair and belonged to minors, names not ascertained. The loss by the flames was covered by $1000 in the North German, and $1000 in Murphy, and Murphy's Agencies. Mr. Kelly also held policies in the latter Agency. Hampe and Dertlinger were not insured. The building was of little value.

A Respite. The negro, Nelms, who murdered Rufus Armstead in a cold blooded and premeditated manner on Mr. Ed Hart's plantation, July 6th, 1880, and was to have been hung on Hernando, DeSoto county, Miss., to-day, but the tragedy has been postponed to a future occasion, the culprit having appealed his case to the Supreme Court. Many will remember that Nelms was employed by Mr. Hart as a farm hand, and Armstead, who was the manager, never saw him more than a time or two and then only for a moment. One Sunday afternoon, a day or so after Nelms was employed and as Armstead was passing from the sheep lot through a gate, Nelms poured a load of buckshot into his side from an ambush without warning, the load causing Armstead's death wound. He lived a few hours, and said the only thing he regretted about dying was that he had been shot down like a dog, without warning, and he disliked to die with such an unceremoniousness.

The murderer escaped for a time, but was pursued to the swamps, where he underwent trials and hardships of a most thrilling character. Three weeks afterward he was captured, and was finally tried and sentenced to hang November 27th, of last year, got a new trial and was again convicted, this time sentenced to hang to day, and now appeals to the Supreme Court.

Two brothers of the murdered Armstead arrived here to-day, on their way to Hernando to witness the execution, but hearing that it would not come off, did not proceed further. The killer, Nelms, was instigated to the bloody act he perpetrated by a brother of his having been killed some time before, while about to be arrested by a brother of Rufus Armstead. Nelms is reported to have said he would kill Armstead if he had to slaughter a baby.

Several colored men who harbored Nelms while a refugee were mysteriously and wantonly slaughtered afterward in Tunica county by unknown persons.

BY CABLE.

LONDON, November 11.—Reports from all parts of County Cork disclose the most extraordinary eagerness on the part of the farmers to go before the Land Court. In some districts large sums are being subscribed toward the foundation of a mutual protection fund.

The large reduction of rent by the sub-commissioners under the Land Act causing an outcry on part of the landlords and they demand a government compensation.

The six passengers who embarked at Gibraltar on the steamer Calliope were Armenians, not Americans.

VIENNA, November 11.—In consequence of the satisfactory explanations in recent speeches Count De Rablanti, Italian Ambassador here, has withdrawn the request for his recall.

DUBLIN, November 11.—It is stated that Kettle is threatened with paralysis and Boyton has lost the sight of one of his eyes.

A TOWN ON FIRE.

And the Chances Are That It Will Nearly All Go. St. JOHNS, N. B., November 11.—A fire broke out in Woodstock at midnight. It caught in the Institute building, and is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. A high wind is prevailing, and all efforts to stop the progress of the flames have been unavailing. The Western Union Telegraph office, both in the depot and regular office, have been destroyed, and it is impossible to get particulars. At 1 o'clock the operator in the depot office told the operator at St. Johns: "The flames are coming down on me, and I must go." A few minutes afterward the circuit was discovered open, and it is presumed that the station building is gone. At 3 a.m. the operator in the general office said: "The upper half of the town is gone, and half of the lower. The flames are all around me, and it is getting too hot to stay any longer. I expect the office to catch at any moment. Dr. Smith's residence is gone, the Free Baptist Church is burned, and the Register office is in flames. Efforts are being made to save the new hotel, but it is now in great danger. If the hotel goes it will be difficult to save the town."

These are the last particulars that have reached St. Johns. It is feared that there have been losses of Woodstock in St. John river, and the shire town of Carleton county. It contained over one hundred stores, had a large number of hotels, several foundries and factories, and a population of four or five thousand.

Sale of a Fine Stock Farm. LOUISVILLE, November 11.—The North Elkhorn stock farm near Lexington, together with a great stable of racers belonging to Mr. H. Sanford, was sold yesterday to D. Swever. The price of the stock is not yet made public. The sum paid for the land, 547 acres, was $60,000. The deed was acknowledged this morning and forwarded to New York for Mrs. Sanford's signature.

River Telegrams. PITTSBURG, November 11.—River 3 feet 7 inches and rising. Weather clear and cool. LOUISVILLE, November 11.—River rising—7 feet 3 inches in the canal, 5 feet 3 inches in the chute on the falls. Weather cloudy and chilly, with rain at ten o'clock. Departed—Thomas Sherlock, New Orleans.

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.

Twenty-three Convicts Killed by a Freight Train.

Quite a List of Calamities.

St. LOUIS, November 11.—A special from Columbia, Missouri, says: The evening passenger and mail train from Centralia to this place, on the branch road, about six miles from here, struck a cow on the track, and the engine, tender and express car were derailed. The engineer, Wm. Dayton, and the fireman, Thos. Purdy, both of Centralia, were badly scalded, the latter to such an extent that he cannot possibly survive.

A special from Corsicana, Texas, says: A report reached here last night that a freight train on the International & Great Northern road ran into a convict gang at Riverside, killing twenty-three convicts and wounding a large number. The accident is attributed to an open switch.

A special from St. Joseph, Missouri, says: An accident occurred on the Hannibal & St. Joseph road, between Turney & Lathrop, about eight miles from Kansas City, last night. Freight train No. 12, going east, and freight train No. 9, collided in the darkness. The engineers, when too late reversed the action of the locomotives, and barely saved themselves by a timely leap. Both engines were hopelessly demolished, together with eighteen freight cars. Among this number were two cars full of oil, property of the Union Tank Line, which were completely destroyed. Daniel English, brakeman on No. 9, was instantly killed, and his body afterward was found fearfully mangled among the wreck. Frank Newhall, conductor of No. 12, was injured on one of his knees. Several others sustained injuries of more or less serious nature, but none proving fatal.

Dampness in the Air. WASHINGTON, November 11.—For Tennessee and Ohio valley, threatening weather and rain, with east to south winds and falling barometer, with a stationary or slight rise in the temperature. For the Missouri valley areas, rain or snow followed by partly cloudy weather, with falling barometer and winds mostly from the east to south during the rest of Friday, with a slight rise in the temperature.

New York Stock Market. New York, November 11.—There is a strong party in the Northwest. The advance yesterday was on the reports of the dividend on common. It is understood that the officers of the Union Pacific and Pacific Mail Companies were in conference yesterday upon the subject of the new contract in the advance in the Burlington & Quincy and the Illinois Central, caused by covering of shorts. It is reported that the Columbus, Hooking Valley & Toledo Company sold its new issue bonds to a New York syndicate upon satisfactory terms.

The banks report an unusual demand for small bills, and that a growing disposition to increase circulation is manifested.

11 a.m.—The stock market opened irregular, but in the main firm and in many instances at an advance on yesterday's closing quotations. Elevated shares were the chief features and speculation. Manhattan selling at 3 to 35 and reaching to 53; Metropolitan rose 1/4. The general list fell off a fraction in early dealings, but soon became firm, and an advance of 1/4 to 1 1/4 was recorded, and the latter for St. Paul preferred which advanced to 125. Richmond & Danville, St. Paul common, Northern Pacific preferred and Rock Island were also prominent in the improvement.

Orphans' Home Burned. READING, Pa., November 10.—The Orphans' Home at Womelsdorf was burned this morning. The children escaped. Loss $20,000. Insurance $12,000.

Getting Ready to Rebuild. OLD ORCHARD BEACH, November 11.—The Blaine, Lawrence, Aldine, St. Cloud, Belmont and Fish Hotels burned here last night. Loss, $72,000.

Blaine's Successor. PORTLAND, Me., November 11.—The Republican State Central Committee elected Wm. P. Erye Chairman, in place of J. G. Blaine, resigned. Resolutions complimentary to Blaine were passed.

Blaine's Successor. ST. LOUIS, November 11.—The Hannibal & St. Joe bond case is to be brought before the Supreme Court. The petition for the writ of mandamus is to be filed at Jefferson City in court against the State Treasurer, based on a refusal of that officer yesterday upon a demand made by the company to testify to the government that said company had paid into the State Treasury a sum of money equal in demand to all indebtedness due or owing by said company to the State, and all liabilities incurred by the State by reason of having issued its bonds and loaned the same to the county, as a loan of the credit of the State, to-wit: three millions of dollars,

MISSOURI MURDERS.

Wealthy Farmer Killed by a Policeman.

St. LOUIS, November 11.—At Scandia, Mo., Frank McNally, a policeman, shot and killed Wm. Hyde last night. Hyde was a farmer residing in Benton county. McNally was trying to arrest Hyde, who was on a drunken spree. Hyde was a wealthy man.

Walker Peoples, a man accused of the murder of one Macomb in the southern part of Wayne county, and who escaped from the Greenville jail last Sunday, was captured in the vicinity of Poplar Bluff, Mo., yesterday by Charles N. McCormick. A reward of $1000 was offered for Peoples's capture.

TEXAS TOPICS.

On to Mexico—Two Miles a Day—The Rio Grande Up. St. LOUIS, November 11.—A dispatch from Laredo, Texas, says: The temporary suspension of work on the Mexican National railroad, across the Rio Grande, by order of the Mexican authorities, has ended. The first construction will cross in a few days, after which the company are prepared to lay two miles of track per day. The International road has laid its track to within thirty miles of Laredo, and will lay 1 1/2 miles per day until it reaches the Rio Grande.

A special from San Antonio, Texas, says the Rio Grande river at Brownsville is higher than at any time since 1848. The water is within half a foot of the main piers of Matamoros, and about three fourths of the town is under water. Great damage has been done, and there is much suffering among the poorer Mexicans. Since the 15th of September it has been raining every day in the southeastern counties.

MURDERER ARRESTED—FIRE.

CHICAGO, November 11.—A special from Omaha, Neb., says: A man was captured at Grand Island, Neb., believed to be Edward Maxwell, other wise Edward Williams. He has been identified by Deputy Sheriff Knight, of Peppin county, Wis., and by two brothers of the murdered Sheriff, Coleman, who have applied to Governor Nance for requisition papers.

At three o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the four story building Nos. 25 to 31 River street, occupied by Knolls, Cloyes & Co., grocers, which in an hour and a half had done considerable damage, aggregating, with the water damage, twelve to fifteen thousand dollars.

Effect of Mahone's Victory.

WASHINGTON, November 9.—It is generally conceded by Democrats in Washington this evening that the anti-Bourbons in Virginia have elected their State ticket by a decisive majority, and that there will be an anti-Bourbon majority in the Legislature. Impressed with this belief, the Democrats are engaged in active operations as to what will be the political consequences of what they style "Mahone's Victory." Of course, their first sensation was one of incredulity, and that was followed by emotions of despair. "Virginia has gone to — and North Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas will follow if we are not — careful," exclaimed a Bourbon politician in one of the hotels this afternoon. The opinion that the result in Virginia portends a general political disintegration of the Solid South is held, and freely expressed by nearly every Southern politician on meets here, and occasionally one of them is heard to whisper that this is the very thing for which he has hoped and yearned.

One of the most curious speculations in which some of the Democrats indulge may be outlined as follows: Mahone is now the central figure in Southern politics, the recognized leader in the revolt against Democracy. He is in high favor with the administration and the Republican party of the North. If the anti-Bourbons have a majority in the Legislature just elected, why may not President Arthur offer a seat in the Cabinet to Mahone as a representative Southern supporter of the administration, and what is to hinder Mahone from being the Republican candidate for Vice President in 1884. The transfer of Mahone from the Senate to the Cabinet would not change the political complexion of the former body, because he would be succeeded by a man who would loyally support the administration. As a member of the administration Mahone would be able to exert in a number of Southern States the same influence which he has used to demoralize and defeat the Democratic party in Virginia. The gentlemen who indulge in these and similar speculations, frankly admit that there are, in several Southern States, thousands of men nominally Democrats who are only kept in the party traces because they lack fearless aggressive leadership.

A Playful Little Nursery Tale. Little Johnny is an Audient Necessity. One day Billy and Sammy were playing in a mud hole, and Billy said: "Now let me play we was a barnyard. You be the pig and lie down and walter, and I'll be a bull and beller like Wedding Etiquette. Chicago Tribune. "Excuse me, gentlemen," said the young lady, "but which one of you is the society editor?"

"We don't keep one on this paper, Miss," said the critic, "but the whole gang take a crack at that style of journalistic labor once in a while. Is there anything we can do for you?"

"I was going to ask," said the girl, "if it would be too much trouble for you to give me some hints as to the proper way to receive and dispose of guests at a wedding, how the supper should be served, and so forth."

"You want to know what is an eagle and roachery, as the French say," remarked the horse man. "We can give you the correct pointer. Are you the blushing bride?"

"Yes, sir," said the girl in a rather weak voice, "that is what I am."

"Oh I understand," said the horse editor. "I appreciate your feelings. I was once young and bashful myself. Now about this wedding. The receiving party is easy. After the nuptial ceremony is concluded you and Mike—"

"But his name isn't Mike," said the young lady. "His name is—"

"I know all about that," said the equine journalist. "Of course his name is Adelbert or Reginald, or some other dry goods clerk nonsense, but in giving advice, we always allude to the sucker as Mike, and call the bride Hannah. It saves time. Now, after you and Mike are married, you want to jog along home and plant yourselves at the back end of the parlor. Better have a floral bell, or something like that, to stand under, because it is considered the correct thing, and makes a better tot ensemble, as the French say. Then the guests get in line and go by you on a slow walk—a kind of we-buried-him sadly-by-dead-of-night clip, and you shake hands with each one and say, 'Thanks awfully,' and they look at you and Mike as if you were a couple of prize cattle and feel sorry for you."

"And the supper?" said the young lady.

"Oh, yes, the supper. Well, at some weddings they feed in the dining room, and at others each guest sits at a chair and has his lunch brought to him. Now, I always advise the use of chopped feed at weddings—bring on their ham and sandwiches and ice-cream at the same time. They can't eat the sandwich first, you know, because if they do the cream will melt and if they throw in the cream to start with the sandwiches, like Banquo's ghost—they will not down," and the horse reporter winked vigorously at the dramatic critic in order to attract the attention of that person to his able joke. But the critic was trying to smoke a cigar that the advance agent of the whales had given him, and did not look.

"Of course," continued the biographer of Goldsmith Maid, "it would be better if you could give each guest a box of sticks and throw the feed in early in the evening, but this is not often practicable, so you had better keep on the old racket."

"I am sure I am very thankful, sir, for the interest you have taken in this matter," said the girl, and I shall follow your advice. Which is the way down stairs, please?"

"There are two ways," replied the horse reporter. "You can jump down the hatchway or take the stairs. Our elevator never runs."
