Cotton Land in Egypt.

"The agricultural question in Egypt is far more important than the political question, and in it lies the happiness of the Egyptian people." This is the opinion of Halim Pasha, heir presumptive to the rulership of Egypt. The Prince Halim further remarks: "A strong executive government that can give full scope to all that is good in the Anglo-French central system, a compulsory system of public instruction and the use of artificial fertilizers on the American system to recuperate the soil, which is gradually being impoverished by the present cotton crops, which takes more out of the soil than the annual Nile deposit puts into it. Acres of land which ten years ago produced ten kantars of cotton now only produce two and a half or three kantars. The fertility of the Nile deposit is greatly exaggerated, and unless artificial fertilizers be introduced it will soon be impossible to continue the present cotton yield. This is only done now by extending the area of cotton production and planting with cotton land that was formerly planted with beans and corn."

A Pretty Story.

A Paris newspaper tells a pretty anecdote about Ambrose Thomas, the composer, and his dairy villa of Argenteuil, which, in September, 1870, he was compelled to abandon on the approach of the Prussians, with out being able to remove any of his artistic treasures or curios. As soon as the village was occupied, a young staff officer, charged with quartering the troops, appeared at the villa and asked of the trembling concierge who occupied the lodge, M. Thomas having locked up the main building ere leaving for Paris. "Who lives here?" "M. Ambrose Thomas." "The composer?" "The same." "The officer took a card from his pocket, pencilled a few words upon it and shoved it under the fastened door; then, obtaining a piece of chalk, inscribed some words on the panel and departed. No soldiers were billeted there, and when a new regiment came up and the villa was visited, the quartermaster read the chalked inscription and passed on to another house; and so all through the siege, to the wonder of the care-taker. When the armistice was signed and Paris' gates were opened, M. Thomas hurried off to Argenteuil with a sinking heart, being sure that his dwelling had been profaned, if not plundered. To his surprise, however, he found it just as he had left it, and on opening the door discovered the card of the young Prussian officer, inscribed with his name and rank, and the words, "Nephew of Meyerbeer."

The Malley Trial.

The following is a part of a recent day's report of the trial of the Malleys, at New Haven, charged with the murder of Jennie Cramer: Queer place this, where jurors, judges, prisoners and sheriffs dwell together and the law of the land is defined and applied by the gentlemen of the jury. This, by the way, is a curious fact. Imagine the scene—Locality, the Tontine dining room. Enter, first, two deputy sheriffs and two men on trial for murder. Handcuffed? Oh! bless you, no. In they come and take prominent seats. With them is the father of one of them. Every waiter in the room is crazy to wait on them; mere patrons can get what they want when they can. Shortly after, in comes the judge before whom they are tried. He sits at an adjoining table, when presently two counsellors for the defense sit by him. Then come the jurors. Isn't it queer to New York eyes? I should say so. Does it do harm? Not in Connecticut. Because she's used to it. Queer place, queer people.

The Type Struggle.

An article on German versus Latin type, in a recent number of the Deutsche Rundschau, sketches the history of a struggle in Germany which must end at last in the triumph of common sense over sentiment. The Gothic type was the creation of the earliest German printers, who wished to make their books as much like contemporary manuscripts as possible. The Latin type presented at once a close approximation to the character of classical antiquity and rebellion against the monks, from whose manuscript character the Gothic type was developed. In 1639 Liebnitz urged upon his German countrymen the abandonment of the Gothic type for the more cosmopolitan "Antiqua," and in the following century it seemed as if literary Germany were about to take his advice. Toward the end of the eighteenth century the new type became a burning question. Goethe was at one time on the side of change; Kant, on the other hand, protested energetically against the abandonment of the national character. At the present day victory is once more inclining to Rome against the barbarians. Forty per cent of all books printed in Germany in 1880 were printed in "Antiqua," and the proportion is steadily increasing.

Very Classical.

Dr. Schliemann lives in princely style in Athens, in an imposing marble palace, which bears on its front above the door, the inscription in letters of gold: "Hail to Ilium." Here, every other Thursday evening during the winter, he entertains a hundred or more professors, journalists and statesmen. The spacious parlors afford room for more than three hundred guests. All the decorations of the house commemorate Dr. Schliemann's great researches. The floors are paved with Italian mosaics, the walls covered with Pompeian frescoes and patterns of objects found at Troy and Mycenae, and Homeric mottoes and inscriptions abound. At the family table classic Greek alone is spoken, and even the servants have classic names—the gardener is Priam, the porter Bellerophon and the two nurses Heuba and Polyxena.

BASE BALL.

Holly Contested Game Yesterday Between the Lone Stars and Reds.

At Olympic Park yesterday one of the finest games of ball ever played in this city was witnessed. Up to the sixth inning not a run had been made when, by an error of the Memphis Reds, the only one made on their side, the Stars scored. In the eighth inning the Reds scored two runs, which closed the game. Only half dozen errors were made on both sides. The crowd in attendance was estimated at from five to six hundred, and the weather was extremely delightful for the sport. The game was played inside of an hour. The Lone Stars arrived from New Orleans yesterday, and go back to-morrow. They began another game with the Memphis Reds at Olympic Park this afternoon.

POLICE POINTS.

Twenty-nine cases were tried to-day. Romeo, not Shakespeare's sweet creation though, was arrested for a violation of the sanitary laws. Henry King paid three dollars for sleeping on public property—a sidewalk—last night. John Martin said he was from Pittsburg, and this was his first visit to Memphis. "To give you pleasant remembrance of us, I'll give you a twenty-day dose of Island tonic," said his honor. "It was beer and not brandy that I drank, Your Honor," said Jim Gates. "Bad selection, Jim; stick to brandy in future. Two dollars—next case."

Mass Meeting.

A grand ratification meeting is announced for to-morrow evening at the Exposition building by the Republicans and Greenbackers, the object being to ratify the nominations recently made for county offices. The nominees are expected to be on hand to make addresses and discuss local, as well as the national, politics. Other speakers have also promised to attend, and orations are expected from Colonel Thomas A. Hamilton, now rising into prominence as a gubernatorial candidate; also Edward Shaw, who has good chances for the Congressional candidacy and is the best orator in the Republican party at this end of the State, also Prof. B. K. Sampson, W. H. Deadrick, J. D. Odell and others. Those who sympathize with the struggles making by this voting wing of the Republican party of Shelby county are earnestly requested to participate in this meeting. The ladies have been numerous invited and good music has been engaged. General L. Jennings, the Secretary of the committee, has issued a programme of the proposed meeting and it has been scattered broadcast among the people.

The ladies of the Central Methodist Church will give an ice cream festival at 333 Main street, corner of Union, Tuesday and Wednesday, 6th and 7th instants, day and night. Cream and cake twenty-five cents; also music and recitations.

Professor Anderson.

Professor Fletcher Anderson died of paralysis at Grand Junction last night, while on his way home to Holly Springs from this city. Professor Anderson was a fine scholar, and for many years principal of the high school in this city, and recently removed to Holly Springs, where he had charge of a prosperous school.

CHICAGO.

Horse-shoers on a Strike—The Crops.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The journeymen horse-shoers have gone on a peaceable strike to the number of 350 men, the bosses having refused a rise in machine made horse shoes. Incidentally the Union demand an increase of twenty-five cents per day wages, which would be acceded to if not coupled with other demands. The strikers say they are certain to win, and will go to work in a few days.

The rains of Friday, Saturday and Sunday have brought out gloomy reports from some of the low counties in Illinois. Farmers began to fear that it would be impossible to finish planting in time to secure a crop, and that the growth of corn already up would be seriously retarded. This morning, however, the sun rose to a clear sky, and the weather is growing warmer every hour, and prospects are fine for corn weather that will largely compensate for the rains. A little warm weather would work a revolution in the appearance of farm lands outside of Illinois. All dispatches continue to predict a splendid condition of all cereals.

A Moorehead (Minn.) special says: The bodies of two murdered men—Mr. Washington and Fred Fehrbach—were found in Red Eye, seventeen miles north of Perham, Saturday. Washington was killed with buckshot and Fehrbach had his throat cut, and a bullet wound in the left cheek and a wound from a club. Washington was a surveyor and lived in Bay City, Mich. Fehrbach lived near here. John Treblett, aged fifteen, is suspected.

Railroad Matters.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The report that Commissioner Fink examined the condition and finances of the Louisville & Nashville Company, and because of such an investigation declined to accept the Presidency, is officially denied. The net earnings of the Chesapeake & Ohio increased $45,000 for April. The Sun says William J. Hutchinson, the stock broker who recently paid John Duff $750,000, in settlement of a suit for money for which Duff charged he had been defrauded by him, and whose transactions in the matter are now the subject of proceedings by the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange, has been sued again by Duff for other and additional sums, of which he alleges he has been wrongfully defrauded in the course of his stock operations. The litigation promises to result in some interesting developments of Wall street ways and methods.

Sunday River Dispatches.

EVANSVILLE, IND., June 4.—Departed: Sharpe McDonald, New Orleans, 6 a.m.; Paris C. Brown, Cincinnati, 2 p.m.; John Gilbert, Tennessee river to Cincinnati, 2:10 p.m.

VICKSBURG, June 4.—River stationery. Departed: Will Kyle, New Orleans. Arrived: City of Providence

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—For Tennessee and the Ohio valley, slightly warmer with fair weather, westerly to southerly winds in the eastern portions. In the western portions lower barometer. For the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys warmer and fair weather, winds shifting to southeast and southwest, with falling barometer by Tuesday morning.

The Iron Workers.

CINCINNATI, O.—The action of the iron workers, at a meeting on Saturday night, having amounted virtually to a declaration for a general strike, on the ground that the committee which made the agreement last fall with mill owners, had exceeded their constitutional powers. There is a shutting down to-day of all mills. President Jenet has been sent for, and either his presence or a message from him, is expected at a meeting to be held this afternoon. The plasterers' strike has been successful in obtaining the wages asked—$1.50 per day.

Army of the Potomac.

DETROIT, MICH., June 5.—Arrangements for the coming reunion of the Army of the Potomac in this city next week, June 14th and 15th, are now perfected. The occasion promises to be the most brilliant one that ever distinguished these annual gatherings. The first meeting will take Wednesday evening, when General Charles Devens, President and Secretary of the Army of the Potomac, will call the meeting to order. Prayer will be offered by the Chaplain, G. W. Taylor, an address of welcome to the State will then be delivered by Governor Jerome, and one of welcome to the city by Mayor Thompson. General Devens will respond. A poem will be read by John Boyle O'Reilly, followed by an oration from General Edward S. Dragg, with impromptu addresses from distinguished persons present. All the exercises will be interspersed with choice selections of music. Thursday evening there will be a camp fire, with toasts and responses from Secretary Lincoln, ex-President Hayes, General Sickles, Governor Jerome, General Bragg and others. There will be a corps meeting on the 14th, and a parade and prize drill on the 15th. Public meetings will be held in Music Hall, which will be elaborately decorated for the occasion. The City Hall will also be handsomely illuminated with Chinese lanterns and set off with one thousand flags and fountains provided with two hundred gas jets in red, white and blue globes. Generals Grant, Sherman, Sheridan and many others will be present.

The National Convention of the Friends of Froebel will hold their two and three first meetings in Detroit June 21st. Quite a number of Friends will respond to the call. There will be addresses by Miss Peabody, Prof. Gill, Hon. J. W. Dickinson, Secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Education; President John Ogden, of Fayette College, Ohio; Mrs. Louise Pollock, Washington; Mrs. Kate Smith Wigan, San Francisco; Prof. W. N. Hailman, Detroit, and others. Miss Susan Blow, St. Louis; Hon. Henry Bernard, Connecticut; Mrs. A. H. Putnam, Chicago; Mrs. Gourlay, Philadelphia, and others whose names are quite familiar with the reading community are also expected. The meetings will take place under the auspices of the Detroit Kindergarten Association. It is hoped that the convention will lead to a permanent organization and will do much for educational progress.

BY CABLE.

CALCUTTA, June 5.—It is stated that the Khonds, an aboriginal tribe in the central provinces, have taken Bhawnapatna, the chief town of a tribe called Khultas, whom the Khonds accuse of agrarian encroachments. They sacked the treasury and murdered over four hundred people. Portions of hair and flesh of the victims were distributed among the hill Khonds to induce them to join in the revolt.

Queen Victoria Amazed.

London Truth says that during the marriage of Prince Leopold the Queen happened to look up at the knights' banners, and to her amazement and indignation, she discovered half a dozen opera glasses peering from behind them, all pointed straight at her own face. An inquiry was speedily made, when it turned out that a prominent official at Windsor had secretly constructed a small private gallery up behind the carving at the top of the knights' stalls, from which, after reaching it by the aid of a perpendicular ladder, his friends had an excellent view, perched up like owls in an ivy bush. The offender went down on his knees to John Brown to induce him to "represent the thing properly." So he got off with a tremendous wigwig.

Cleopatra's Needle.

N. Y. Letter to Philadelphia Ledger, June 1. The prospective disintegration of the Egyptian obelisk, in consequence of the injurious influences of our harsh climate, is by no means a false alarm, as some have supposed. General Di Cesnola, who certainly is qualified to know something about it, says: "There is no doubt about the injurious action of a cold winter upon Egyptian granite. The action of frost is slow but sure. The frosts of London and Paris are nothing compared with those we have here, besides which there is a dryness in our American atmosphere which seems to be injurious to calcareous stone." The obelisk must either be sheathed in winter or put under cover. The proposition to put it in the great hall of the Museum will amount to nothing. The Museum is not the place for it; besides, the Directors would never give their consent. Moreover, the cost of the transfer would be enormous; $50,000 is the lowest estimate; one end of the building would have to be knocked out, and the ponderous machinery and inclined plane of enormous timbers would have to be constructed all over again. The Museum would also have to be closed for a year or more. Sheathing the obelisk in winter would not cost so much as putting it in the Museum, and it is a monument peculiarly suited to the open air."

Pictures supplied with all kinds of printing at the LEDGER job printing office.

Decorative Art.

The way Oscar Wilde was set off, the way he looked and acted, as well as spoke, a few weeks ago, when he lectured at Wallack's Theater, in New York, is thus alluded to in the Tribune, of that city: "A tall ebony pedestal stood in the center of the stage, and on it was a glass of water. The scene set represented a library finished in modern Gothic style. Brie-a-brac in large quantities from art stores and numerous paper vases from the property room of the theater were placed around indiscriminately. Mr. Wilde walked on the stage and was applauded with the decorum that was characteristic of the audience and its manner from first to last. The lecturer wore a new suit, consisting of dark velvet coat and knee breeches, with a profusion of lace around the neck, down the front and at the cuffs. He had on dark stockings and patent leather pumps. Mr. Wilde spoke for an hour and twenty minutes, without notes. At first he assumed an attitude which has been made familiar by his full length photographs, and maintained it, with occasional lapses into gracefulness, until he had finished. At the conclusion of the lecture a lady threw a lily from her box. The audience applauded, and as the lecturer returned he was greeted with a bunch of Jacqueminot roses. He picked them up, again bowed his acknowledgements and retired. The receipts were estimated to be $900. P. T. Barnum was present and occupied a front seat."

Italian Celebration.

At Estival Park, to-morrow night, the Societa di Unione e Fratellanza Italiana will celebrate their twelfth annual picnic. Arnold's brass band will be in attendance, and every arrangement has been made for the comfort of those who may attend. The refreshments furnished will be strictly first-class, and a glance at the names of the gentlemen who compose the Floor Committee is assurance that the affair will pass off in a quiet and delightful manner. The price of admission will be fifty cents.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

Deputy United States Marshal Neill has gone to Oxford to attend Court. The suit of Norman against Colburn, for trespassing upon his property by tearing down a fence, was on trial in the Circuit Court to-day. John McLean was sentenced by Judge Horrigan this morning to three years for stealing a horse and a like term for stealing a cow. The J. D. Britton case has been laid over to next term of Court.

DIED.

MADDER—THOMAS MADDER, at Hopfield, Ark., this morning at two o'clock. Friends and acquaintances are invited to attend his funeral to-morrow (TUESDAY) morning, June 6th, from St. Peter's Church, at nine o'clock.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

SCHNEIDER—The friends and acquaintances of Sam'l Schneider are invited to attend the funeral of his wife, SARAH, from his residence, 66 Main street, this (MONDAY) afternoon at 5 o'clock.

MASONIC NOTICE.

THE stated communication of Angels' Sons Lodge, No. 104, F. & A. M., will be held this (MONDAY) evening at 8 o'clock, for dispatch of business. Visiting brethren fraternally invited. By order of JOHN BEAMISH, W. M. D. C. TRADEN, Sec'y.

WORKINGMEN'S Building and Loan Association.

The regular monthly meeting of this association, for the payment of dues, etc., will be held on TUESDAY, June 6, 1882. In default of prompt payment, fines will accrue. The law as to six months' delinquency will be enforced without further notice. N. W. SPENNER, Jr., Pres't. J. W. HAMMON, Sec'y.
