THE short horn business pays in Kentucky. At a sale on the Woodburn farm, in Woodford county, near Lexington, last Saturday, ninety-one head of short horn cattle brought $36,530. The most of these were young, the majority not being over three years old. So much for good stock and careful breeding.

THE Tenth Congressional District, as now constituted, has two Representatives in Congress, C. B. Simonton and Wm. R. Moore; consequently the people may reasonably expect a double portion of "pub. docs." and garden seed from now until after the November election, when one or both of the gentlemen will retire.

GENERAL Wm. B. Bate, for Governor, to succeed Hawkins next January, then to succeed himself, after that to succeed Howell E. Jackson as United States Senator at the expiration of the latter's term of office, unless he sooner resigns, is the LEADER'S programme and will be that of the people—aided by the Hon. Isham G. Harris in the canvass, the latter to be his own successor in the United States Senate.
The programme is a good one, will increase in strength and popularity and is one to drive the wind out of the Avalanche's purposeless drivel.

COL. C. W. Falkner, the gifted son of Mississippi and of Tennessee—for he was born at Knoxville—whose "White Rose of Memphis" had such an extensive circulation North and South, has written another book, "The Little Brick Church." It is a neat volume of 429 pages, issued by Lippincott, and in a literary sense is far superior to his last book. The scene is laid upon the banks of the Hudson, and the story goes back to the days of the Revolution. The style is very attractive, realistic and terse. The book will no doubt have a general circulation. It is creditable to the pen of the gifted author and to the literature of the day.

THE Courier-Journal has always taken a lively interest in and devoted much space to Tennessee news and politics, and there is no denying that it has through its editorials and correspondence exercised at times a large influence upon the public mind of this State. It has been sentimentally on the high credit side for years, but in the present exigency it recognizes General Bate as the nominee of the true and united Democracy, and will give him a hearty support.
The reasons which may lead some so-called Democrats in Tennessee to co-operate with the Republicans do not exist and are not felt at Louisville Hence the Courier-Journal's course is free from suspicion, its expressions free and untrammelled. It will have a decided influence in the coming campaign, and, judging from its initial editorials, we may expect encouragement and valuable moral support from that quarter.

NEXT Sunday will be the first anniversary of the assassination of President Garfield. On Friday the miserable assassin will say his adieu and invite the public to meet him in the realms of glory. He will then have lived three hundred and sixty-three days too long. His execution by a mob on the day the crime was committed would have been more in accordance with the fitness of things and more creditable to American character at home and abroad than the farcical trial which brought our judiciary into disrepute in the eyes of the world, and the long lease of life granted the brazen-faced assassin. Two very creditable efforts were made to take the cowardly wretch off—one by a man named Jones, and the other by Sergeant Mason. These men acted outside of the law, it is true, but they merely expressed and attempted to carry into effect the feelings that prevailed all over the land. Mason languishes in the penitentiary at Albany.
Technically he is guilty of violating the law, morally he is not. It is a shame that Guiteau is alive to day, while Garfield died a lingering death many months ago, and Sergeant Mason is locked up in a State's prison.

If Mr. Bailey thinks that half a dozen Independent Democrats can, with the aid of the Republicans, elect him to the United States Senate, he is as badly mistaken as he was when he made the last race expecting to be returned. We doubt whether there will be any Independent Democrats, that is, in the sense of faction, and we are still more certain that there will not be as many Republicans in the next Legislature as in the last, notwithstanding the gerrymandering bill—concocted by high tax Democrats and Republicans with a sole view to keep "low tax" Democrats out of future Legislatures for ten years to come. We are not inclined to believe that Mr. Bailey would lend himself to an alliance with the Republicans, but that is not necessary to make the scheme plausible in the minds of his few and enthusiastic young Bourbon followers. It may have occurred to some of those desperate political cranks that it would be a good time for extremes to meet.

Disappointed ambition often strikes out blindly for revenge. Roderick Random Butler led off in support of Howell E. Jackson for Senator, and and under similar circumstances would gladly do the same in behalf of Mr. Bailey. That if successful would defeat Harris and get him out of the way. He is the man the Republicans are after, and as he supports General Bate for Governor, it is not improbable that some of the "Troley Street" crowd would be only too glad to cooperate with Butler, Hawkins and Hook. The mouse will be born on the eleventh of July if there is no miscarriage.

THE LEDGER is not so lonesome in its position on the State debt question and collateral issues as it was a few years ago. Almost alone for a long time, it now sees a large majority of papers and the Democratic people of the State occupy a position approximately the same as that taken by this paper nearly ten years ago. This is a matter of great satisfaction, and it is an endorsement worth far more than any temporary success that might have been gained by plunging into what seemed to be the popular current.
We sought what was reasonable, right and practicable, and in doing so were governed only by the sense of duty to the public and fairness which should be the mainspring of every paper. It was not necessary to quarrel with those who honestly differed with us on this question. We occupied high, safe middle ground, to which both extremes were bound to come, and could afford to wait. The day has come, the hope is realized, and the Democratic party of the State is reunited and will march up to victory next November. After that the debt will be settled just about ten years from the time the LEDGER began to discuss this question, and very much in accordance with the general line then pointed out. But for misunderstanding, misrepresentation by unworthy leaders and the manipulations of powerful rings, a proper settlement could have been arrived at five years ago. When the people are aroused, the rings and self-constituted leaders are impotent for evil as they are incapable of good. This was fully demonstrated at the late convention.
The voice of the masses prevailed, and men who could on former occasions have secured the floor by a motion of the forefinger at the chairman, found that they could not even handle a hopeless little minority. The platform adopted appeals to the sense of justice and the intelligence of Tennessians and of the world. The few who may bolt from it will be credited with other motives than the maintenance of public credit or the success of the Democratic party. Of course, much of this talk about a bolt comes from men who are at heart Democrats, and after a little reflection and cooling off they will support the ticket heartily. A few who desire to play into the hands of Butler and Hawkins will persevere in that direction. The Democratic party is strong enough to spare them, and can afford to lose a few votes to find them out.
The outlook is all that could be expected or desired. By an earnest determination and a pull altogether we can elect General Bate by an overwhelming majority. Then will follow the re-election of Senator Harris and the final and satisfactory settlement of the vexed State debt question. To these ends all true Democrats will work.

Suicide—The Lariat.
Sr. LOUIS, June 27.—Yesterday morning Mrs. Low, the wife of a well known citizen of Flag Springs, Gentry county, near St. Joseph, committed suicide by cutting her throat with a razor. Cause, mental derangement.
She was 55 years of age.

A special from Las Vegas says: Saturday night as a man named R. H.
Hutter, while walking in the street with his wife, an Indian desperado named Francisco Tajaya, better known as Navajo Frank, threw a lariat around Hutter's neck, put spurs to his horse and rode off at a rapid rate, dragging the man over the rock street for a hundred yards or more. The shock came so suddenly that Hutter did not have time to take in the situation, the lariat being so tight around his neck that his face became black.
About 100 yards from the spot from where he was lassoed, a by-stander pulled a revolver and shot at the Indian, who then drew a knife and out the lariat near the pommel of the saddle. Hutter was left lying in the street. He was terribly bruised and mangled, his long beard being entirely torn out. He was taken home and will probably recover. The fiendish Indian made his escape, but in a very short time a posse of mounted men captured him, brought him to the city and placed him in jail. Yesterday between 12 and 1 o'clock, a crowd of citizens assembled at the jail and demanded the release of the prisoner, but were refused. They then entered the jail by force, all the keys were handed over, and Navajo Frank was taken out, and after a desperate resistance by him, a rope was put around his neck and he was marched to a telegraph pole, where the noose was tightened, and he was raised up and left dangling in the air.

THE OUTLOOK IN TENNESSEE.

The Cat in the Clarksville Meal Tub.
Talk That Bailey is After Harris' Seat.
Courier-Journal, 26.

With the Tennessee debt question, the country at large concerns itself but little. To the Tennesseans it absorbs every other interest. Yet it is certain that the Tennessee Republicans have played with the question as a cat plays with a ball, and that there has been no time when they were not prepared to take the side of it which promised to pay best. Only the Tennessee Democrats have been divided and purpose-less, exciting themselves over details, which, at a distance, seem out of proportion to the character and extent of the dispute.

In discussing the situation of affairs in Tennessee during the progress of the canvass, which has just begun, we shall not trouble ourselves with the complications of this debt question. It properly belongs to the Legislature.
Taking little stock in the local portions of the platform adopted by the late Democratic Convention, which indeed do not concern us, the Courier-Journal will support the nomination and election of General Bate upon grounds of public and Democratic policy, which far outrun the limits of Tennessee. The convention which nominated him was undoubtedly a regular, authorized and representative Democratic body. He is himself an orthodox Democrat of unquestioned integrity and ability. If he bothers put a ticket in the field, they cannot hope to get a tithe of the Democratic vote, and their object can only be the election of Hawkins. With such a scheme no Democrat can sympathize, and we are sure, that before the 11th of July, the time appointed for the bolters' conference, those of them who are really Democrats will abandon a position which is at once illogical and untenable.

A correspondent, writing us from Columbia, tells us that ex Senator Bailey, of Clarksville, is the real out in the meal tub, and that his idea is to secure half a dozen Independent Democrats in the next Legislature, who may return him to the seat in the United States Senate, state, which he lost two years ago.
There is nothing in the character or antecedents of Colonel Bailey to contradict the plausibility of this theory, although, to achieve the end suggested, he would have to sacrifice and displace his old friend and patron, Governor Harris. But, one thing is certain, if it can be carried out, it means such a union in Tennessee between Bailey and the Republicans as we have seen in Virginia between Mahone and the Republicans, with simply a reversal of the terms. All such but aims inure to the benefit of the Republicans, and are reached at the cost of the Democrats. If our correspondent is wrong in his surmise, we shall be glad to hear it. But, if he is right, the Democrats of Tennessee ought to be warned in time, so that they may know precisely what awaits them in certain contingencies covered by the alliance named.

The Tennessee debt question cannot last forever. It is temporary in its conditions and local in its bearings.
The honor of Tennessee is no more involved in the settlement made by the last Legislature than in the settlement proposed by the just adjourned Democratic Convention. In either event, it is partial repudiation. Meanwhile, the Democratic party, outside of Tennessee, can not fail to look with anxiety upon a division, which may lose us the State in the next Presidential contest. They see in General Bate a tried and true national Democrat. They believe he was fairly nominated by a fairly constituted convention. They want him elected, and he will have the moral support of the party throughout the Union. At long range, it is inconceivable that, between a choice of modes of repudiation, Democrats should, for a master of ten cents, deliberately prefer the Republican to the Democratic nominee.

At present it looks as if the prognostic of our Columbian correspondent will be realized, and that when the canvass is fairly started it will develop a triangular fight between the Democrats, the Republicans and the Proslaves.

The Democracy of Tennessee, in State Convention assembled, declare: That the Democrats of Tennessee, with their majority of the popular vote, and the rightful guardians of the honor and good name of the State, and that they willingly accept the duty and personal responsibility of preserving them from taint or suspicion, and that it is equally their right and duty to settle its indebtedness.
That while we accord to all an honest difference of opinion, we regard the enactment of the 60-3-4-5-6 as unwise, because it is, in our opinion, not in accord with the views of the people.
That there is a portion of the State's debt, such as the bonds issued for the building of our capitol, for the purchase of the Hermitage, etc., and complicity known as the State debt proper with accrued interest, the validity of which has never been disputed by any portion of our party, we consider as a valid and sacred obligation of the State, and favor the payment of the same in full, less war interest.

That we tender to our creditor a settlement of the remainder of the State debt by paying one-half the principal and accrued interest by issuing the bonds of the State bearing interest at the rate of 3 per cent per annum.
That the twenty-nine bonds held by Mrs. James K. Polk shall be paid like the State debt proper, in full.

That we are in favor of paying in full all bonds held on the first day of January, 1882, by educational, charitable and literary institutions.
That we are opposed to the calling of a Constitutional Convention at this time because the principal object of the same, as declared by the Republican party through its Executive Committee, was to make coupons receivable for taxes, and this we forever oppose.

That we are unalterably opposed to every species of monopoly as destructive of liberty and the best interest of the people, and to this end we favor the establishment of a commission, the object of which shall be to regulate the tariffs charged by the railroads of the State, so as to put an end to the unjust discrimination by said roads in favor of through as against local freights, and we are in favor of such a system of taxation as will force railroad companies to pay their just proportion of the taxes of the State according to the real value of their property.

That the Democratic party is opposed to all unequal taxation upon the mercantile and manufacturing interests, or any other person in Tennessee.

That we favor the time honored doctrine of instructions and recognize the right of the people at all times and upon all questions to communicate their views to their representatives.

That we favor an efficient public school system, and the liberal education of all the children of the State.

We arraign the Republican party for its venality and corruption in the administration of the State and Federal governments, and for its total disregard of all civil service reform; and do hereby declare our qualified opposition to the practice of said party in levying upon the employees of the government a tax for political purposes.
