Local Notes and Other News.

Remember, Mrs. Lou Flynn will not be undersold in millinery goods.

An elegant line of collars and cuffs, neck-wear, etc., at Mrs. Lou Flynn's.

Monday was St. Patrick's Day, perhaps the most notable of all the Irish holidays.

Real special notice of J. H. Winston & Son, in which they offer a splendid corn fertilizer for sale.

Look out for pig arrests for the ensuing week. A raid is going to be made on the swine.

We will make liberal reductions to campaign subscribers, in clubs of five, ten and upwards.

To steal an umbrella is at least a crime. But if a man steals a bottle of Dr. Bill's Cough Syrup to cure his cough, can it be called a crime?

At Bristol the other day a negro, in trying to get into a hen-roost, fell into a barrel of molasses. He spears it as "a time with the hens."

Dr. Asley R. Fulton has our thanks for an invitation to attend the commencement exercises of the Medical University of Maryland.

A freight car was derailed on the North Carolina division, near Newport, last Thursday, delaying the passenger train from Warm Springs almost an hour.

Mrs. Lou Flynn is receiving, and will continue to receive during the season, the latest styles in hats, bonnets, trimmings, etc. Now is the time to make your selection. She defies competition.

Dr. C. P. Duncan's Liver and Kidney Medicine is becoming quite popular throughout the country. It is said to give splendid satisfaction. Read advertisement in to-day's paper.

A destructive cyclone passed near Gustavusville, Ala., the night of the 15th inst. Two persons were killed and three seriously injured. About thirty houses in the path of the storm were blown to stumps.

The Johnson City Enterprise is progressive. It has enlarged to an eight-page paper, double its former size, and presents a neat and healthy appearance. Guide her straight ahead, friend Mitchell. Pluck is bound to win.

The ladies appreciate pretty and durable goods best of all. They can be accommodated by visiting Mrs. Lou Flynn, who will make happy their hearts and put bright smiles on their faces. Her motto is: "To Please."

It may not be generally known by those who continue to hunt and kill birds that the season, according to law, is now over. The law makes it an indictable offense to shoot, kill or trap any kind of birds from the 1st of March until the 1st of September. Take warning.

Ray and Anderson, the men charged with the murder of Chris. Smith, in Mitchell county, N. C., about three weeks ago, surrendered Saturday, the 8th inst., and are now in Asheville jail to await the action of the Grand Jury of Mitchell county. The reward offered for their capture amounted to $4,800.

It seems some of our citizens are not paying much attention to the 'hog law' now in effect. Hogs continue to run at large. Town marshal Bartley, however, requests us to say that he will proceed this week to take up all hogs running loose in the corporate limits and hold them in accordance with the city law passed a few weeks since.

In order to live up business and create a healthy boom in the spring trade, our enterprising merchants would do well to take advantage of the advertising columns of THE GAZETTE as early as possible, so that the country people may know what they have in stock, what they expect to receive and what inducements they propose to offer the trade. Now is the time to advertise.

The mail route from Morristown to Bean's Station in the future will go via Noe's Ferry, instead of by Marshall's Ferry as heretofore. The change takes effect to-morrow (Thursday). John Noe is contractor on this route and says that hereafter the mail will be delivered by hack, and persons wishing to reach points on the route will be afforded passenger accommodations at a nominal price.

We have a message from our sweet-heart at Knoxville, Ed. S. Shepard. He writes a touching epistle saying that we are mistaken about his sweetness, and begging us to send him all the tree sugar we can find, for which, in the fullness of his generous and loving heart, he proposes to pay the highest market price in cash. Any one having any tree sugar for sale will please send it to Ed. He is a nice boy, and likes a good deal of sweeten'in' in his.

Rev. Jas. A. Lyons, of the M. E. Church, South, was recently married to Miss Maggie Legair. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Judge Key, of Chattanooga, and the ceremony took place at the residence of the Judge. Dr. Cunningham, of Nashville, officiated, assisted by Rev. G. C. Rankin. Miss Legair is also a sister of Mrs. Jas. A. Carriger of this city. The newly-wedded couple have the best wishes of THE GAZETTE for a happy and prosperous future.

The vagrant must go. The place here that once knew him are to know him no more. That is the edict of the 'city fathers,' and it meets with our unequivocal endorsement. Idleness is a great sin and wields a bad influence. If every idler in Morristown would give up his idle pursuits and seek honest labor, the community would be much more prosperous and happy. Let the law embodied in the city ordinance on this subject, and published elsewhere in THE GAZETTE, be enforced to the letter.

ON HEARING BILL ARP.

To the Editor of the Morristown Gazette: Was you ever a countryman? If so, did you ever happen to be in town the night of a lecture. If so, you may have some idea how I felt, when I found Mr. William Arp was going to lecture over Goodson's store. You see we country folks don't know much about lectures, except one kind—they are called certain lectures! My wife is a perfect snore in that line. She can beat Mr. Arp and give him two in the game—but I never could laugh at her lectures, and some how I never did like to constitute a whole audience, and she never likes a crowded house.

Well, I thought I would see if Mr. Arp could make the thing go to a good deal with the broom and shevel act, unless he had an accomplice. In fact I didn't think any man could get that off—naturally. Then there are peculiar expressions of the countenance and various things I have seen my wife do when she is lecturing. I know no man could do. So I was determined to see and hear Mr. Arp. Anticipating danger I kept back as far as I could and let some one else get the benefit of the shovel speech.

But when Mr. Arp got up I saw there was no immediate danger, and I ventured up close enough to hear him. Oh! if my wife would just wear lectures with him. What a success she would be—and what small audiences he would have in the future!

When he was telling about Ben McGinnis I couldn't help thinking about Bill Collins. You know I live near Squire Johnson's. One morning before day I had started a fox-hunting, and stepped at the Squire's and was talking to the Squire, when here comes Bill Collins. He came up and said: "Squire, I want a warrant." The Squire asked him who for, and Bill said, "Dad." "What for, Bill?" "For fighting," said Bill. "Did he hurt you, Bill?" "No; by—do you think a man that gets up before day and eats auben of mush can hurt me with a stick?"

I would like to see his McGinnis tackle Bill Collins. And I will tell you how Bill got even with his "Dad"—he never liked his father. Bill was a great hunter, and especially a bee hunter; so he had a beehive on the side of his hill, and he and his brother Tom and the old man went to cut it down. Bill was anxious for it to fall up the hill so as to save the bees and honey—so he took two bed cords and climbed up the tree and tied them, then he came down and took the two ends up the hill to a hickory sapling and asked his father to come up there all pull. So he tied one cord to the old man's hands on one side of the sapling and the other to the other hand on the other side of the sapling, and told the old man to brace himself against the sapling and pull like the tree. So he and Tom cut the tree down. Just about the time the tree started to fall the ropes began to tighten on the old man's arms, and Tom he followed to the old man, and "Let go daddy! let go daddy!" and the old man only had time to say, "How the H—! can I let go when I am tied hard and fast!" The sapling bent and the old man's life was saved, but he lost a good suit of clothes, and we had to sit there a week. Bill told me he knew which way that tree would fall. I wish my wife would take to lecturing on Bill Collins like Mr. Arp on Ben McGinnis. I hope you will use your paper to get married women to aspire to larger audiences when they get too much lecture on hand. I am his ally yours, T. H. WINSTON & SON.

THORN HILL. March 12, '84. To the Editor of the Morristown Gazette: The neighborhood I was very much excited over the arrest and trial of John Owens and James Offler, charged with the taking and selling of a part of a raft of saw logs, belonging to Joe and Lee Cloud. The case was finally compromised, the defendants paying $150. Our mail line from Morristown with this place to Tazewell, has been very irregular this winter, owing to high water, bad roads, ice and poor ferry-boats.

A son of Jas. Lathin, who lives on the top of Clinch mountain, aged 10 years, had his leg broken yesterday by a wagon wheel passing over it. Dr. J. R. Wilkinson was called in and soon gave the little sufferer much relief. Winter crop prospects very flattering. Winter oats looking fine. Farmers very much benefited with their work. Clinch river is still on a boom. It only lacked a few feet of being as high last week as it was in 1867. The distillery formerly run by Rhea & Moore, near this place, will go into operation the first of April, and will be run by M. Moore. Dissolution by mutual consent. NORTH CLINCH.

PERSONAL. Our office was complimented with a call from Col. Jas. H. Smith, better known as "Bill Arp," during his visit to the city last week. Col. Smith is a Georgian, and is a fine type of the affable, cultured gentleman of that period. He is a well-to-do man, and has enjoyed his entertaining manner. Messrs. L. R. Traver and Henry Rustling, of Trenon, N. J., who have been spending the winter in the South, friends of Rev. J. S. Hill, principal of Morristown Seminary, are now in the city. The made this office a pleasant call on Saturday. These gentlemen are men of large ideas and intend returning in the fall with a view of investing in Tennessee. We bid them welcome and assure them that should they be located to locate here they will be heartily welcomed by our citizens.

THE TENNESSEE ON A BOOM. CHATTANOOGA, March 11.—The Tennessee river at this point continued to rise until 10 o'clock this morning, when it became stationary at forty-three feet. The Fourth and Fifth wards are submerged most. Hundreds of houses are submerged and the sheet of water is now over a mile wide. People living in two-story buildings are compelled to seek safety in the second story, while those living in cottages were driven to higher ground. No lives have been lost. Considerable suffering exists among the extremely poor classes. Several large mills and manufacturing establishments on the low lands have been forced to suspend operations, water to fires being put out by the water. The Roanoke Works are completely submerged. It is thought the river has reached its maximum and will continue to recede rapidly. The damage done amounts to many thousand dollars.

SAVE

Don't Spill the Milk. "There is no crying over spilled milk," says the old saw. If you are not only but have no life in the roots of your hair, there is no use crying over that, either. Take both time and yourself by the forelock while there is a forelock left. Apply Parker's Hair Balsam to your hair before matters get worse. It will arrest the falling off of your hair and restore its original color, gloss and softness. It is a perfect dressing withal, clean, richly perfumed, cools and heals the scalp.

OUR CORN FERTILIZER. A good fertilizer pays a better corn than any other. With a good season it will more than double the crop. We have in our "compound" a complete fertilizer for this crop. We want all the farmers to use it. Price is very low—only $27.00 per ton at Bristol, Va.

To any tobacco planter we will send free England's book on tobacco. Write for it. J. H. WINSTON & SON.
