

UNION AND AMERICAN

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1872.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTIONS are rather fashionable just now, and Missouri wants one.

It is stated that cars are being built for mail trains between New York and Chicago, to consist of three cars and one locomotive. No stoppages are to be made except for coal and water, and the trains are expected to make the distance between the two cities in twenty-four hours, running about fifty miles an hour.

The Supreme Court of Arkansas has recently decided in the case of the Real Estate Bank Mortgage Loan, that the bondholders must be paid. These lands, amounting to about 137,839 acres, are valued at $2,000,000, were mortgaged in 1836. The interest brings up the sum now to about $6,000,000.

No body who knows the stuff out of which Dr. Grant is made, will be disappointed that he has recognized the usurping government in Louisiana. The wonder is that he did not do the same by Alabama. He will probably come to it yet. It matters not how unshrinking the fraud by which Radicalism asserts its sway in the South, he will uphold the carpet-baggers and their co-conspirators.

The people of London have ascertained, by actual experiment, that fish brought from fresh water can live in the water which they drink in the great city. The Pall Mall Gazette very sensibly says that "the human frame is capable of withstanding stronger doses of poison, and only a certain proportion of the population sicken from the use of this water, while, except during bad weather and in cholera seasons, probably only a small per cent."

The most curious of the many strikes which are now vexing the employers of the old world is that of the leading Paris actresses. They do not want more pay, but are growing under the necessity of paying large sums for gasoline jewels, and costly silks and velvets. In old times tinsel ornaments and cotton velvets were thought good enough for the stage. Of late such imitations have not been allowed, and as the actresses cannot afford to buy robes and jewels fit for a real Queen or Duchess, they are struck.

The Court of Appeals of Virginia has recently decided in a case appealed to that tribunal, that an executor may pay over to the Confederate authorities under the confiscation acts of that government a legacy left by a Northern testator cannot now be compelled to "pay the amount of the legacy to the legatee. The Court says of the executor that "he wisely declined a contest with a government which the whole naval and military power of the United States could not subvert under four years," and having yielded to the duress of a de facto government is absolved from being held responsible for the legacy which it was not in his power to hold.

The most decided specimen of malignant journalism which we have seen lately is in the Banner of yesterday. Under the head of "Tennessee Politics" we find extracts from the Shelbyville Rescue, the Huntingdon Democrat and Franklin Review, papers with which we do not exchange, defamatory of the UNION AND AMERICAN. Some of these articles and we believe all of them appeared during the last political contest, and are not therefore from recent issues of those journals. If we entertained the disposition manifested by the Banner, we would not have to go back to the files of an existing political contest, but could find in the very recent columns of the Pittsburg Post and the Courier-Journal, besides Tennessee papers, denunciations quite as severe upon the notorious organs of the Banner, as anything that has ever been said about the UNION AND AMERICAN.

GRANT has recalled Col. Markheim, United States Minister to Bolivia, and appointed Gen. Croton, of Kentucky, and "thereby hangs a tale," which is explained by the Cincinnati Enquirer. "The point doesn't lie in the Secretary of Croton, for it is one of Grant's peculiarities to drag known men to the surface. This is the point: The present Minister to Bolivia is Col. Markheim, of this city. He was a warm supporter of Grant and his Administration, and the affairs of his mission have been conducted at all times in a satisfactory manner. But Col. Markheim is a brother-in-law of Hon. Fred Hassarek. The Administration could not strike Mr. H., but it thought it could annoy him by removing his relative. It was a mean thing to do, and of course Grant did it. The reader will appreciate the act when informed that Hassarek is a Liberal Republican and opposed Grant in the late election.

THE NEW YORK World institutes a comparison of figures in the last two Congressional elections in California, which shows that the people of that State are terribly in earnest in their war against railroad aggression and subsidy spoliation. In four of the Southern counties the Republican, or railroad, majority was 1,232 last year; this year the Democratic, or anti-subsidy, majority is 747, a change of 1,979 votes, or about one-eighth of the entire vote cast. Six of the Northern counties, which have also had experience of the railroad yoke, gave the Republican candidate, who ran as the Republican candidate pure and simple, professing an utter innocence of railroad subsidy, a majority of 1,205 last year. This year the same man came out loudly for subsidy, and his anti-railroad antagonists beat him 1,330 votes in those very counties, a change of 2,741 votes, equal to one-sixth of the total poll. No wonder the railroad interest is the best friend of laws extending Federal supervision over the ballot.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA SENATOR. The Southern question in South Carolina appears to have been resolved into an auction, and the man who was to buy up the greatest number of votes is John J. Patterson, a carpet-bagger from Pennsylvania, and is a pet of Senator Cameron. He is said to have been the master spirit of the ring who got control of the Greenville Railroad, and who by this and other manipulations succeeded in adding over ten million dollars to the State debt. But the profits on these transactions were probably divided among a considerable number. The Washington correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal says, Dec. 11: "The money used by Hon. John J. Patterson, the newly elected Senator for South Carolina, is said to have been furnished by Simon Cameron, his old rival in Pennsylvania. As a part of the programme, Cameron had ex-Gov. Orr, of South Carolina, appointed by Gen. Cameron as Minister to the United States, and as a reward for his services in maintaining loyalty in South Carolina. A good many of the carpet-baggers are now in the State, and it is feared that their elections will be investigated."

EXPORTING TIMBER AND LUMBER.

We have not the data to state the rapid increase in the quantity of timber, staves, and lumber of various kinds annually exported from the Pacific, Atlantic and Gulf States. We happen to know, however, that oak staves for making wine casks in the Kentucky and Tennessee. A Frenchman engaged in making these purchases told the writer that it cost as much to buy a new wine cask in France as the price of the grape to fill it, so scarce is stave timber in that country.

The Secretary of the Iowa State Board of Agriculture states that within a few months one man has contracted to furnish the British Government with five million cubic feet of white oak, which will be cut from forests within fifty miles of Cairo, Illinois. This is carrying valuable timber away from the great prairie States, where it will be needed before new forests can be raised. Oak fire wood is now worth seven or eight dollars a cord in Washington City, and fence rails are selling in the District of Columbia at one hundred dollars a thousand; yet the writer has seen a three masted ship in the United States Navy yard loaded with railway ties to be laid in Cuba. The writer has several times visited farms with timber, and once in the District of Columbia, for less money than the timber was worth for foreign consumption. Farmers should ponder the fact that it takes a long time to raise a crop of board, stave or ship timber, and save it while they have it. In six years the United States will contain two hundred million people, and probably have five times more capital to each person than we now have. A much higher standard of comfort will be required for each man than we now have. The writer has seen a large number of farms in the West, where the soil is fertile, and the climate is healthy, and the land is well watered. If iron, and other incombustible substances, take the place of wood in many fabrics, wood will be needed in quite as many new inventions, arts and structures. Advancing civilization tends to the wood, wrought into endless forms, as naturally as does take to water. Mark the progress from a small cabin with a dirt floor, a few stoves, a gun, an ax and a log, to the present farmer's good house and furniture, his barns, stables, cribs, and sheds, his wagons, carts, and endless farm machinery, and recognize in this change the many ways in which the same number of people may consume ten times more timber than at present.

WEALTH, ambition and industry will create such a demand for round wood that the production will pay better than any other branch of agriculture for general consumption at home and abroad. We have at least a thousand million acres of arable and grazing lands, in open prairie. Settle this wide, continental expanse as you will, and your farm wagons and railroad ties alone will consume timber beyond computation. An investment in timber lands near water's sound on the Pacific, or in Southern Georgia, Florida, Alabama or Mississippi, will soon convert one dollar into ten, and give you an income of one hundred. There is magnificent timber and available for market, in Washington Territory and Oregon, to be bought at nominal prices. Very few land holders in Tennessee rightly appreciate the present and prospective value of the woods and forests in the State. How many crops of corn can be raised on an acre, before one can raise a pine that will make from 500 to 1,000 feet of plank? Yet, such pine trees are sold, less by the acre. The writer has seen good white pine timbered land sold in New York at a dollar an acre; and seen, in after years, trees worth $20 each, and their lumber $74 a thousand. The rise in the future will be greater than in the past.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer says: "To be a 'Doctor of Laws' would imply that a man so designated was a learned publicist or jurist. Not one of Gen. Grant's friends will claim that he is either. His studies in life—if he has ever studied—have been precisely of that character the further removed from this college designation. This is really an imposition upon the real 'Doctors of Laws' to have a horde of honorary associates who happen to know no more about laws than they do about the last Plowden."
