General Butler, in one of his speech es last winter, replying to certain strictures made on his course by the newspaper correspondents here, shook his fist at the reporter's gallery, and comparing the gentlemen who occupied it to a forty jackass-power mud machine, defied them to do their worst. Heavy Betting in New York on the Elections - John Morristey's Gains nud Losses.

New York Sun, Nov. 7. Some of the betting before election was solely for political effect. The late John Morrissey, for example, tried to bluff the frien is of Jones in Johnson's pool rooms on Saturday night by a bet of $1,000 even that Hays would carry the city by 10,000 majority. He was astonished to find a taker in the person of Tom Ferris, who desired to invest some more money in the same way. Sheridan Shook bet right and left on Dix, some say over $25,000, but this great loss was made up to him by his winnings on Jones whom he backed heavily from the first, and on Archibald M. Bliss, who was elected in Williamsburg. He caught John Morrrissey heavily on Hayes, but the latter came out about even, his losses being made up by his winnings on Tilden and Wickham. James McConnell, who has the inside track for the clerkship of the Assembly this year. went plind on Hayes, but as he was also on Tilden he came out unscathed. The other heavy betters in the pools were Jas. Me-Cloud, James Kelly (who is said to have cleared $30,000), Edward Kearney, John Kenva, Thomas Lynch, John McCormack, lames McCormack, the horseman, Charles Reed, William Walsh, and Reed, the parter of Morrissey in the pool business. The pool room proprietors made splendid profits. In Johnson's pool rooms the boxpools aggregated over $300,000, which, at 24 per cent. commission, gave him $7,500. n addition to this, he sold 6,417 French pool tickets, which netted him, at 25 cents

HABEAS CORPUS.

Applications in Four Cases Argued Yesterday.

Galloway's Petition Dismissed-An Alleged Delialb County Murderer Releaged-How a Wiley Convict was Baffled-James Bush Gains His

Upon the opening of the United States Circuit Court yesterday morning, Judge Trigg announced his decision in two habe sa corpus cases, which were argued last week, and excited considerable interest.

The petition of David Galloway, colored, praying to be released from the city work-house, where he is working out a fine of $50, imposed by the Recorder, for cohabiting with Melinda Vine, a white woman, was dismissed and the prisoner remanded to the work-house. The court did not deliver a formal epinion in this case, as was anticipated, inquiring into the constitutionality of our State laws regulating marriage, but held that this question proper did not regularly arise in the case under consideration. The prisoner was in custody to work out a fine for the offense of cohabitation, and the court had no jurisdiction of that offense per se. If the question of the right of the races to intermarry, regardless of the State laws, was involved, it was in so irregular and remote a manner that the court did not feel disposed to interfere; especially as there were regular modes to bring the question to the test and before the higher courts of the State or the Supreme Court of the United States. Judge Trigg incidentally remarked, however, that he considered it pretty well settled that the whole matter of regulating the institution of marriage belonged exclusively to the States. | A WARTIME HOMICIDE. McAdoo Venatta, a resident of DeKalb county, indicted and held to answer before the Circuit Court for that county, now in session, for a murder committed during the war, was taken before Judge Trigg on a writ af habeas corpus and released. The prosecution introduced a large number of witnesses to prove the prisoner guilty of the charge, and the evidence was to this effect: On the 18th of January, 1864, Venatta, who was then a soldier in the Federal army, killed in DeKaib county a brother-in-law of his, named Simson Adamson, in the Confederate army, and with caped punishment, and, although he has

Judge Trigg, before pronouncing judg his clerks were kept hard at work until 1 ment upon the application of the defen P. M. Then Mr. Johnson went to the dant, stated that it was unneccessary to aces. The French pools on Tilden and Dix cided several similar cases. The act of Congress passed in 1806 provided that a soldier of the United States army, committing a felony in any State should be turned over to the authorities of that State for trial and punishment. This act was absolutely and entirely repealed by a law enacted in 1863, conferring the jurisdiction of all such offenses exclusively upon courtsmartial. The defendant was, therefore, relieved from amenability to the jurisdic tion of all other than a military court.

TRICK OF A COLORED CONVICT. At the September term, 1870, of the Criminal Court of Davidson, a negro named Ben Fletcher was convicted of larceny and sentenced to the penitentiary for three years. He was placed in confinement, but at some subsequent period made his escape. He was rearrested a short time, ago and replaced in the State prison though insisting that he was not the man-

He was taken before Judge Frazier, yes terday, and the court was engaged nearly the whole day on his case. A large nummissed the petition, and ordered the prisoner to be remanded to the penitentiary. He was attired in his convict suit. AND STILL ANOTHER.

GEN. WALKER'S essay on the center of opulation brings into new prominence the eadiness with which this center clings to he thirty-ninth parallel, along which are situated Baltimore, Washington and Cincinnati. At no time from 1790 to 1870 has the center of population departed north or south of this line more than twenty-five miles. It has marched westward 399 miles in that period, the greatest leap being from 1850 to 1860, (eighty-one miles), when the transfer of a small population to the Pacific coast gave a sudden elongation to the western arm of the lever, and necessitated the moving of the fulcrum quite a distance? It is now forty-eight miles east of Cincinnati, and in 1880 will nearly coincide with

THERE can be no denying the fact that all business done in Virginia City, Nev., is ransacted upon a specie basis, for the city s built upon a silver mine of inexhaustible wealth. For instance: The Enterpris urges the consolidated Silver Mining Com pany to sink a shaft on E street, just east of Piper's Opera House. There is no doubt in the mind of the writer that Piper's Opera House is built over a deposit of ore rich beyond the untrammeled flight of

IF a national loan were proposed in England to-morrow, asks Kate Field, how many peasants would, or rather could, subscribe o it? Perhaps a dozen. What happened in July, 1872, in much-abused France, over whose so-called downfall English states men shake their clever heads? Her loan was subscribed to fourteen times over, and very largely by her peasantry, the very class that bore the brunt of the late terrible war. Why this difference? Because French peasants have land and possess old stockings in which they hoard stray coins for safe investments. British peasants have no land and no stockings saving the wretched pair on their wretched feet. In Paris they observe that young France is growing up fat. Obesity, which hither-to only attended maturer years, now seizes upon youth itself.

The Effects of Dosing. Many persons, who are wanting in natural rigor, endeavor to supply the deficiency by constantly dosing themselves with drugs (often of a | hold at 94@95c. very pernicious nature,) which, they are credulous enough to mistake for invigorants. There can be no doubt that many lives are shortened can be no doubt that many lives are shortened in this way. All that such persons require is a pure vegetable tonic which, like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, also possesses the regulating properties necessary to rectify those organic disturbances which are but the result of weakness. The feeble and the nervous cannot be too carnestly advised to ahandan the dangerous practice of swallowing mineral tonics, sedatives, and vegetable alkaloids, which disorder the stomach and produce the most hurtful reactions, and to substitute, in their place, this standard strengthening cordial and corrective of the numerous disorders proceeding from debility of the nervous system, as well as of the stomach, liver and bowels.
