An Elegant Wedding.

Miss Kittie G. Fitch of this village and Mr. Marion E. Chadwick of Decatur were married at the home of the bride's mother on Wednesday afternoon. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion and Rev. R. R. Claiborne, of St. Luke's church of Kalamazoo, officiated, using the entire Episcopal service—always impressive and beautiful. Miss Lottie Showerman played the wedding march. Miss Minnie Sellers of Jackson acted as bridesmaid and was handsomely attired, while Mr. Lewis Showerman acted in the capacity of groom's best man. The bride was beautifully attired in white silk, trimmed with point lace. She has resided in this village from childhood and is highly esteemed for her many social qualities, and admired because of her special care and companionship of her mother, to whom she is devotedly attached. Their lives have been beautifully intertwined up to this time. The groom is the only child of a widowed mother and a prominent business man of Decatur until recently, when he retired from business and enjoys a competence. His mother from Decatur was present at the ceremony. Many invited guests were present from Jackson, Kalamazoo, Gobleville, Decatur, and Paw Paw, and the bride was remembered by friends in Detroit, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Grand Rapids, and elsewhere. The presents were numerous, appropriate and beautiful, gold coin being included among the others. We congratulate Mr. Chadwick, and wish the newly wedded couple the full measure of happiness which their union presages.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank our friends for their words of sympathy and kind assistance during our recent bereavement.

Obituary.

Harriet Chapin was born July 25th, 1806 in Manlius, Onondaga County, N. Y., where she resided until 1828, the last few years having been spent in teaching in public schools. At this latter date she was married to Jehiel Glidden and removed to Orleans County. In the autumn of 1852 the family came to Michigan and after about one year, located two miles east of Paw Paw. With tender, loving care she reared to man and womanhood four children (three of her own and one her husband's by a former marriage); but earthly joys came not unmixed with pain and three churchyard mounds attest the wounded mother-heart. In 1887 the home was broken by the death of her husband, since which time she has been, for the most part, with a son living near the old homestead.

She possessed an active, inquiring mind and reading was a lifelong passion. It was her pleasure to keep abreast of the times and she found great enjoyment in reviewing with her family and friends, important passing events and matters of public interest. As a neighbor and friend she was kindly, sympathetic and helpful and through all vicissitudes of life maintained a consistent christianity and faithful, useful membership in the Free Will Baptist Church with which she united on coming to this state, and for the welfare of which she was ever solicitous so long as conscious life was hers.

At the time of her husband's death she suffered a severe illness after which she never fully recovered her former strength; and time while weaving with silver threads the hair and deepening lines on cheek and brow, stole softly of the remaining store. Almost imperceptibly she weakened and faded until she sank beneath the pressure of the years. Her last moments were quiet, unconscious ones marked only by the shortening breath; the wearysome bonds of the flesh which so long had bound her to earth were, on the night of Nov. 30th., at last broken and the freed spirit sped joyously away to that better land toward which her wistful eyes had long been turned. There three children gave her glad welcome while here three sons looked their last on the peaceful face of the dear mother on the afternoon of December 2nd, as she lay in the casket with a handful of ripe, golden wheat clasped close to her silent breast.

Rev. Anna Barton spoke a few comforting words of hope suggested by Heb. 4: 9: "There remaineth therefore, a rest to the people of God;" after which she was borne to her last resting place by the side of the one who had been, for so many years her husband and companion.

Mysterious death! that in a single hour
Life's gold can so refine;
And by thy art divine
Change mortal weakness to immortal power.
Bending beneath the weight of many years,
Spent with the noble strife
Of a vigorous life,
We watched her fading heavenward through our tears.
But ere the sense of loss our hearts had wrung,
A miracle was wrought,
And we, as happy thought,
She lived again, brave, beautiful and young.
Age, pain and sorrow dropped the veils they wore,
And showed the tender eyes
Of angels in disguise,
Whose discipline so patiently she bore.
The passing years their harvests brought of love,
Their crosses and their pain,
Commingled loss and gain,
That drew her tender, trusting heart above.
We should not weep above her narrow bed,
For here is only peace
That followed glad release,
And nothing but the weary dust is dead.

Harper's Weekly

IN 1895.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is a pictorial history of the times. It presents every important event promptly, accurately, and exhaustively in illustration and descriptive text of the highest order. The manner in which, during 1894, it has treated the Chicago Railway Strikes and the Chino-Japanese War, and the amount of light it was able to throw on Korea, the instant attention was directed to that little-known country, are examples of its almost boundless resources. Julian Ralph, the distinguished writer and correspondent, has been sent to the seat of war, and there joined by C. D. Weldon, the well-known American artist, now for many years resident in Japan, who has been engaged to cooperate with Mr. Ralph in sending to HARPER'S WEEKLY exclusive information and illustration.

During 1895 every vital question will be discussed with vigor and without prejudice in the editorial columns, and also in special articles by the highest authorities in each department. Portraits of the men and women who are making history, and powerful caustic political cartoons, will continue to be characteristic features. This Busy World, with its keen and kindly comment on the lesser doings of the day, will remain a regular department.

FICTION. There will be two powerful serials, both handsomely illustrated: The Red Cockade, a stirring romance by Stanley J. Weyman, and a novel of New York, entitled The Son of His Father, by Brander Mathews, several novellas, and many short stories by popular writers.

Send for Illustrated Prospectus.

The volumes of the WEEKLY begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order. Cloth cases, for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, postpaid on receipt of $4.00 each. Title-Page and Index sent on application.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.
