THERE has never been an election held in Michigan in which the working men of the state are more interested than in the election to be held on the third day of next month. And there is not a working man in Michigan who does not fully realize his relation to that election. He knows that when new houses are being built, when the mills are in operation and the factories are running full time; when there are more jobs looking for men than there are men hunting for jobs, when fear and doubt as to the future are removed—when these conditions exist the working men of Michigan know that good days are ahead of them. And is there a working man in Michigan who does not know what election result will be most likely to produce this state of affairs? Some may not sympathize in full with republican policies and others may be prejudiced against republican candidates, but there is not a man in Michigan who owns a house and lot who does not realize that its value will be increased rather than lessened through a republican victory on Tuesday, November 3rd. Whatever the working man may imagine that he owes to some party or to some candidate he should not fail to keep it in mind that he owes far more to his family and to all the interests that will be related to their wellbeing future. And that obligation to his family and his home should be an important consideration with reference to his vote on November 3rd.

SIXTY-TWO of the eighty-four counties of Michigan have thus far in this year received more money from the state treasury on primary school account than the total of their taxes, and there is yet another large payment to be made from the state treasury to the counties in November. If the democratic candidate for governor wishes to gladden the people of the state rather than to criticize his political opponents he could do nothing better than to review the accomplishments of Michigan during the past ten years in the way of adding to its income, to its earnings from corporation fees, inheritance tax fees, insurance fees and license fees. Many more thousands of dollars have been added to the state earnings than have been expended, and every dollar of this increase goes directly for the benefit of the tax payers though being added to the primary school fund. The business affairs of the state of Michigan have been as well conducted as that of any business firm in our state, and the result gives to Michigan a position not equaled by any other. These are the facts that should influence the voters of Michigan at the coming election.

In connection with the recount that has been in progress at Lansing during the past two or three weeks one fact at least will be noticed with satisfaction everywhere, and that is that there was no evidence of intentional fraud presented. Carelessness on the part of election inspectors was made manifest, and loss of votes to candidates was occasioned through failure to observe the technical requirements of the primary election law, but not a single ballot suggested effort on the part of any election official to prevent the purpose of the voter from having its full force. No cloud rests on the title of a single candidate on the republican state ticket. The selections were fairly and squarely made, and whatever divisions before existed the present duty of all republicans to stand by the result reached through participation of over 200,000 members of their party is plain and unquestioned. Not a thing has been disclosed through the election investigation which does not add to reasons why cordial and complete support should be given to their state ticket by the republicans of Michigan.

THERE is not a farmer in Michigan who is not directly interested in Republican success at the coming election on Tuesday, November 3rd. The value of his farm and all his products will be influenced by that election. And merchants and laboring men and mill and factory owners are interested just as directly as is the farmer. If all those who will be benefitted through Republican victory in Michigan and in our country at large will do what they can to assist in a republican victory, the day after the coming election will be one of the gladdest in material direction that Michigan has known for several years.

THE "Bills" of the country are surely in control of the making of national history. "Bill" Donovan has a good lead at this writing, but "Bill" Taft, "Bill" Bryan, "Bill" Hearst are still within striking distance of the pennant. It is no handicap to name a baby "Bill," particularly where there is a chance for him have a brother "Charley."—Ex.

SIMPSON SAYS HE IS WELL SATISFIED

Hartford Candidate for Auditor General Just "Keeps on Smiling."

WHAT THE DAY SPRING SAYS

Accepted Defeat Gracefully, and Began Planning the Details of County Campaign

"Nate" Simpson of Hartford, Who is a Good Loser.

Declaring himself to be satisfied with the result and with his genial smile as expansive as ever, Hon. Nathan F. Simpson, who was defeated by Hon. O. B. Fuller, of Ford River, for the republican nomination for auditor general at the state convention last week, is apparently indulging in anything but particularly keen disappointment.

Following the convention Mr. Simpson returned to Hartford and immediately left for his farm west of Keeler. There he was found by a party of local friends Monday afternoon busily directing the packing of the last picking of luscious grapes from his forty acre vineyard. To all appearances he was as contented as when directing a political campaign and said he had been farming the past few days as energetically as he had previously been campaigning.

"No," he stated, "to use a familiar political expression, there are no 'sore spots' on me. I made the best campaign of which I was capable, and the result is all right. For, I do not think that after receiving the support that I received and making the showing that I made that I have a right to feel particularly disappointed."

"I had the largest vote upon the first ballot in the convention and while my friends failed to triumph in the end, still the result is not a source of dissatisfaction to me."

Then turning to the Day Spring writer, he added, "there is one thing I wish you would say to the republicans of Van Buren County and to those of the fourth district and that is I heartily appreciate the generous support they accorded my candidacy. No man could ask for more loyal support at home than was voluntarily accorded me."

"They put up a strenuous fight in my behalf, and entered the convention with even greater strength from over the state than they expected. I consider such support sufficient to warrant a belief that I won something of a victory with the result as it stands. At any rate it is a source of considerable gratification."

Then turning to the farm he led the party over the fertile acres that comprise his vineyard, probably one of the finest in this section, and discussed farming with the same degree of interest that a political discussion affords him.

As chairman of the Van Buren republican county committee Mr. Simpson is busily planning the details of the county campaign, which will probably include a tour of the county by several prominent speakers who will travel with automobiles.

CONGRESSMAN E. L. Hamilton has been suggested as the logical candidate for speaker of the next house of representatives. "Uncle Joe" has outlived his usefulness in that important position and Mr. Hamilton would be just the one for the place. He is eminently qualified by reason of his natural executive ability and years of experience in congress. He would be a presiding officer of whom not only his home state would be proud, but the nation at large.

A card from J. H. Serrine dated from Big Rapids Oct. 12, says: "We don't want free trade, nor coxy armies. We don't want Billy Goat for president we want Billy Taft."

Right you are brother, and if all signs don't fail we will not be disappointed.

Let Him Alone. Don't be too ready to blame the man who indulges in self-praise. It may be the only kind he ever gets.

The Next Door Neighbor.
An eastern man has started a humming bird farm, and perhaps we may hear later that the next door neighbor has put up a spite fence and appealed to the police to relieve him from the maddening effects of the constant humming.

A High Aim Indeed.
Uncle Rooster filled his corn cob. "Aim high, young feller," he said to his city nephew. Chuckling, he struck and held at arm's length a blue-headed sulphur match. Then he grunted: "F'rinstance, try to live up to yer mother's estimate of ye."

Wonderful European Formula

All Forms of Bronchial and Lung Troubles Disappear by Magic Wherever Abbey Syrup, the Famous European Remedy, is Used.

The grim specter of death lurks in every neglected case of Asthma and Bronchitis. The delicate membrane lining of the air passages becomes irritated and inflamed with the continuous coughing spells, and forms the best breeding-place for consumption germs. Abbey Syrup, which is prepared from a formula handed down through the ages by the monks of Sancto Paulo in Spain, has proved its wonderful efficacy as a permanent cure for every form of lung trouble with a record that has made it famous throughout Europe.

It not only allays the irritation, diminishing and finally stopping the cough altogether, but builds up and strengthens the tissue and acts as a splendid tonic. Even a single bottle has been known to completely cure the disease, though in more stubborn cases and those of long duration, a longer treatment may be necessary.
