

Pulaski Citizen.

L. W. McCORD, Editor and Publisher.

OFFICE TO EAST CORNER PUBLIC SQUARE—UP STAIRS.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. Four Dollars per Annum, Invariably in Advance.

PULASKI, TENN., FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 3, 1866.

Wheat Wanted. Wanted, immediately 1,000 bushels good merchantable Wheat, for which the market price will be paid on delivery.

Classical and Mathematical School. We will open a school in the Cumberland Church on Monday, 13th of August.

For each pupil, $5.00 per month, to be paid in advance at the end of each month.

For the session a contingent fee of $1.00 per scholar will be charged, to be paid at the end of first month.

N. W. MOTHERAL, C. G. ROGERS.

New Books. Just received by Osborn & Co.:

"Four Years in the Saddle," By Harry Gilmer.

"Jergals," By Victor Hugo.

Also another fresh supply of "Bliss Art," and "Prison Life of Jefferson Davis."

AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY.—Osborne & Co. are agents for the American Bible Society, and will furnish Bibles and Testaments at publisher's prices.

LUELLA.—Your refreshing communication received just as we go to press. It will appear next week.

No RAIN YET.—It has been seven weeks since we have had a reasonable rain in this locality. Crops are almost a failure.

Our space is so limited this week on account of legal advertising, that much interesting matter is excluded.

New Advertisements.—We have not the space to notice them in detail. If you want brick-work or plastering done, call on F. J. Henry. See also advertisement of Reid, Chadborn & Co., Commission Merchants, Nashville.

REVIVAL.—A revival of Religion has been in progress for a week or ten days at Mt. Moriah Church, six miles West of Pulaski, under the preaching of Rev. Mr. Mitchell, of Athens, Ala., both of the Cumberland Church. The good work still goes on.

Death of an Old Citizen. Dr. J. P. EPPERSON, one of our most esteemed citizens, as well as one of our oldest and best physicians, died, after a short illness of inflammation of the Brain, yesterday morning at 1 o'clock. He was a good neighbor, an honest man, a useful citizen, and a physician of rare scientific attainments.

Public Meeting in Giles. Pursuant to a call for the Giles Mass Meeting to appoint delegates to the Shelbyville Convention to assemble on the 4th of August, a large number of the citizens of Giles county convened at the Court House in Pulaski on the 23rd of July—when Dr. C. N. Ordway was called to the Chair, and A. Cox appointed Secretary. James McCallum, Esq., having explained the object of the meeting, on motion of Major T. M. Jones the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That at this meeting cordially endorse the object of the Convention at Philadelphia.

Col. S. E. Ross offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That we recommend to Shelbyville Convention Hon. Ed. Cooper, of Bedford county, and Thomas Martin, Esq., of Giles county, as suitable delegates to the Philadelphia Convention.

On motion, a committee, composed of D. Parsons, A. Buford, A. H. Abernathy, D. Harwell, Dr. Mayes, Dr. Campbell, T. S. Fogg and B. L. Evans, were appointed to assist the Chair in selecting delegates to attend the Convention at Shelbyville. The following delegates were selected:

Ed. W. McLaurie, Jas. A. Jackson, W. Willford, D. A. Alexander, Dr. J. H. Campbell, Dr. M. S. Waters, Thos. Hannah, Joseph S. Edmundson, C. N. Ordway, T. H. Noblett, B. H. Hancock, Geo. M. Brownlow, D. H. Parsons, T. F. Winston, Jas. M. Wagstaff, Thos. Martin, Burwell Abernathy, Columbus Beattie, Albert Buford, Thos. S. Fogg, R. N. Jones, Levi Reed, W. E. Baird, Dr. Theo. Westmoreland, James McCallum.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

A. Cox, Secretary.

This last thing done on Saturday, in the House of Representatives, was the reception of a veto from the President of a land bill. It seemed to settle the House that the President should have the last word.

The only important bill, which did not become a law, is that admitting Nebraska into the Union as a State, the President did not notify either House that he had signed. He has therefore reserved his signature, which secures its defeat.

It is claimed in Washington that General Grant and Sherman are both warmly in favor of the Philadelphia Convention, and will use their influence to insure its success.

Andrew Johnson for the People and the Constitution.

WASHINGTON, July 30, 1866.—To Andrew S. Herrod, Attorney General of Louisiana: You will call on Gen. Sheridan, or whoever may be in command, for sufficient force to sustain the civil authorities in suppressing all illegal or unlawful assemblies who usurp or assume to exercise any power or authority without first having obtained the consent of the people of the State. If there is to be a Convention, let it be composed of delegates chosen from the people of the whole State. The people must be first consulted in reference to changing the organic laws of the State. Usurpation will not be tolerated. The laws and Constitution must be sustained, and thereby peace and order. (Signed) ANDREW JOHNSON.

MARRIED.—In Memphis, Tenn., on the 24th ult., by Rev. Dr. Allen, at the Second Methodist Church, Rev. Sterling M. Cherry, of Huntsville, Ala., to Miss Emma Capers, daughter of the late Dr. B. H. Capers, of Memphis.

In Memphis, on the 24th ult., at the residence of Col. John F. Mills, by Rev. Guilford Jones, Col. John B. Sale, of Mississippi, to Miss Anna E. Conzelius, daughter of Judge Cornelius, deceased, of New Orleans.

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

"The Rose that so early bloomed, and flung forth its delicious fragrance, has faded away into the mists of oblivion, and its beauty and goodness is fading."

"The darling child Ross was all that the fond parents could desire—of beautiful features, graceful form, refined tastes—thoughtful—dutiful—affectionate. She was the light and joy of the home circle, and the admired and beloved of all who knew her."

Walking near, as it were, in the shadow of her parents. Oh, how they will miss her!—miss her in the bright morning—at dewy eve, and from around the hearth-stone. The joyous earth—cheerful is absent; but the image of the sweet one is deeply engraven on the mind and heart."

The voice of the prattler is hushed; but the soft whispers of the Angel are heard in its stead. "The lovely one—our 'earthly'—has been transformed into the image of the 'heavenly.'"

Afflicted parents, receive the sympathy of all. Your great loss is appreciated; but oh, the gain of your angelic Rose! By what earth has lost, Heaven has been enriched. Here is now your treasure. Ob! father and mother, let us your hearts be there also.

Why should I vex my heart, or fast? My soul will mount to her at last, And there my child I'll see."

In Memoriam. Died, in Limestone county, Ala., July 27th, of Diphtheria, Ross, only child of S. C. and Anna L. McFERTY, aged 5 years and 4 hours.

DOMESTIC MARKET.

CORRECTED EVERY WEEK BY JOHN D. FLAUTT & CO.

ARTICLES. QUANTITY. WHO SALES. RETAIL.

Apples, dried, per bu. $ 4.00 $ 5.00

Bacon, hams, " lb. 25 35

" clear sides " 25 35

" shoulders " 25 35

Butter, " lb. 25 35

Brandy, apple, " gal. 8.00 10.00

" punch " 8.00 10.00

" french " 10.00 12.00

Beeswax, " lb. 25 35

Coffee, Rio " lb. 25 35

" Java " 25 35

" Java " 25 35

Corn, " bu. 1.25 1.30

" Meal " bu. 1.25 1.30

Cheese, " lb. 25 35

Candles, Star, light weight, " lb. 25 35

" Tallow, " lb. 25 35

Dyes—Indigo " lb. 25 35

" Madder " lb. 25 35

" Logwood " lb. 25 35

Eggs, " doz. 15 20

Flour, superfine, " bu. 10.00

" Family, " 11.00 12.00

" Extra Fine " 15.00

Grass Seed, Clover, " bu. 6.00 6.50

" Hungarian " 1.50 1.50

" Blue Grass " 1.50 1.50

Iron, Bar, " lb. 12 12

" Hoop " 12 12

" Sheet " 12 12

" Nail Rod " 12 12

" Castings, " 12 12

Lard, good, " lb. 25 35

Lead, " lb. 10 10

Molasses, " gallon. 1.00 1.25

" Syrup " gallon. 1.25 1.50

Mackerel, " No. 1 Kit, " 4.00

" " " " 4.00

Nails, " lb. 10 12 1/2

Oil, Lard, " gallon. 2.50

" Coal, " 1.25

" Linned, " 2.50

Potatoes, Irish, " bu. 1.50 2.00

" Sweet " 1.50 2.00

Pumpkin, " lb. 75 75

Paunch, Dried, " bushel 75 80

Sugar, Brown " lb. 22 25

" Coffee " 22 25

" Crushed and powdered " lb. 22 25

Shot, " lb. 18 20

Salt, " bu. 5.00 6.00

Sorghum, " lb. 12 12

Spirits Turpentine, " gallon. 2.00 2.50

Tar " gallon. 1.00 1.25

Tallow, " lb. 15 20

Tea, Imperial, " lb. 5.00 5.50

Vinegar, cider, " gallon. 65 75

Whisky, common " 2.50 3.00