PULASKI, TENN

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 17, 1886.

Ellis Wood, of Vermont, made last year 860 pounds of butter from two old and one two-year-old Jersey cows, besides raising two calves and fattening one, and supplying a family of five persons with milk and cream.

The veterinary editor of Wilkes' Spirit of the Times recommends the following for scratches in a horse: Take sulphate of zinc, one drachm; glycerine, two ounces, apply every morning.

The "Aurora Beet Sugar Company," Ill. has purchased 485 acres of land, at a cost of $33,000, near Montgomery, on which they propose to raise beets for sugar.

The strap-leaved turnips are raised at very small cost by sowing among corn at the last cultivating, say the first week in August. If the corn is cut up by the roots, say early in September, the turnips have the ground the rest of the season and frequently make, on good soil, 400 to 500 bushels per acre.

Sow plenty of turnips. If not convenient to market they are the most profitable food for cows, sheep, &c. Besides, this crop does not exhaust the land more than the weeds that would grow in their place. Sow about the first of August.

With good culture and a good season, 300,000 pickles may be made from an acre of cucumbers, on which the grower expects to clear $300. It takes about four hands per acre to pick them. The cucumbers are usually assorted into three sizes, the largest for table use and the two smaller ones are sent to the factory.

Hints to Farmers.

What Hoes to Use.—In planting or hoeing corn, use the ordinary hoes in general use. Neither India rubber hose nor iron hoes would be of any account in a corn-field; no more would one of Hoe's eight-cylinder presses.

How to Hold the Plow.—Don't try to hold it out at arm's length. You can't do it.

If you haven't a plow of your own, get out an attachment on your neighbor's who owes you. Any justice will tell you whether you can hold it or not.

The Best Time to Put in Rye.—I asked an old farmer once when was the best time to put in rye. He looked at his watch and replied, "This is about the hour." The rye was immediately put in.

All seasons are the same for putting in rye.

How to Keep Corn.—The best place to keep corn is in a barn-house, though some prefer to keep it in the system—in the juice. If they don't keep corn, they keep corn'd.

Fences and Fencing.—Good fencing is essential on a farm. Get a good 'fencing' master to learn you. A rail fence is better than an ordinary one. You can't repair a rail fence by taking vermicite.

To Make your Stable Warm in Winter.—Set fire to them.

To Make Stone Fence.—Take equal parts of whisky and cider. This is the reciprocal stone fence; the more you lay it off the more it will "lay" you.

Easy Way to Draw Saw Logs.—Draw them on a piece of paper with a crayon pencil. After a little practice you will be able to draw the largest kind of logs with perfect ease.

Pork.—Packing thread is of no use in packing pork. In curing ham the time varies. Hams that have got trichina can't be cured at all.

The Radicals are guilty of crimes too monstrous for palliation—too unnatural and damning for forgiveness. But some of us would let the luxuriant weeds grow, producing a rich harvest of shame, degradation and ruin, because any effort to uproot the evil might possibly be considered "reactionism."

Decision of Chancellor Shackelford in the Great Medical College Case—Dr. Jennings, Eve and Jones Sustained.

On yesterday morning, Chancellor Shackelford delivered an elaborate written opinion upon the points involved in this case, from which we make the following abstract. After reviewing the facts of this case, and referring to the questions made by the parties. He was of opinion,

1. That no contract or agreement made between the parties composing the original faculty, before they procured the lease of the Medical College from the University of Nashville, can be looked to in determining the rights of these parties.

2. That this lease made by the University of Nashville to Drs. Watson, Buchanan, Bowling, Winston, Porter, Lindsley, and their successors, on the 19th of October, 1850, is the only thing that can be looked to, and it does not in law create a partnership in the legal sense of the term; therefore the court cannot appoint a receiver, as it might have done, to take charge of the partnership property and close up the firm, but,

3. The lease having been made to those parties and their successors, it was not the intention of the University of Nashville to vest in them any right of property in the Medical College, but simply the right to conduct a Medical School in the property leased; and this right was vested alike in them and their successors.

4. And therefore, upon the death of any one of them his interest in the institution, did not descend to his personal or real representative, nor was it liable to his debts during his life time, neither did it survive to the remaining original lessees.

5. For by the terms of the lease, when a chair became vacant, or a new one was created, the faculty of the Medical Department had the right to nominate the party to fill it, but when nominated, he became a "cessor" in the language of the lease, embraced in its provisions, drew his powers and privileges from it, and the university which granted it became at once equal to and independent of the other members of the faculty as fully as though he had been named in the lease instead of being embraced under the term of successor.

6. In as much as complainants, Jennings, Eve and Jones, have been regularly constituted "successors" in accordance with the term of said law, they are entitled to all the rights, privileges and perquisites arising from their partnership, and as the power creating the Medical College has not provided any mode by which they can be expelled, no such power exists either on the part of the University of Nashville which yielded up all control over the Medical College during the existence of the law, nor on the part of the original lessees because they did not exercise any such power under the provisions of the law.

7. Therefore, the act of defendants, Bowling, Lindsley, Winston and Briggs, in attempting to expel Doctor Jennings, and to vacate the chairs of Doctors Eve and Jones, was unauthorized and not warranted by the provisions of the lease, or the powers vested in them. That the complainants, Jennings, Eve and Jones are entitled to fill the several chairs in the College, to which they have been respectively appointed, and are entitled to be protected in the enjoyment of their rights and privileges pertaining thereto. That the defendants, Bowling, Lindsley, Winston and Briggs, be enjoined and restrained from interfering or molesting them, and that they be permitted to lecture in the College, enjoying all the rights and privileges pertaining to their chairs, and bearing their proportion of the expenses of the institution.

8. And as a result of the foregoing principles the court is further of opinion that the appointment of Drs. Maddin, Calender, Nichol, Buchanan, Van S. Lindsley and H. M. Compton was unauthorized and void; that it was done in violation of the injunction of this court, and that they have acquired no rights thereby; that they are intruders and will be enjoined from lecturing or interfering with the complainants, Jennings, Eve and Jones, in their duties as Professors in said College, and a decree will be entered in conformity with this opinion.

The Influence of a Good Life.

Our experience and our conflicts with the world, lead us at times to indulge in misanthropic sentiments, and charge all men with selfish or impure motives. The play of pride, prejudice and passion, and the eagerness manifested by the great majority of men to advance their own interests, often at the expense of others, and in violation of the golden rule, cause us to look with suspicion upon the best intents of others. Atrrogance, hypocrisy, treachery and violence, every day outrages justice, till we are almost disposed to distrust human nature, and become discouraged. But amid all that is sad and disheartened in the busy, noisy world, now and then there is presented to us a life of such uniform virtue, that we recognize in it a character that brings hope for the perfect development and ultimate regeneration of our race.—Such characters are precious, and such examples should be held up to the world for its admiration and imitation; they should be snatched from oblivion and treasured in the hearts and thoughts of all who are in process of forming habits and maturing character.

Restored.—Judge Horace H. Harrison, of the State Supreme Court, on Tuesday, resigned the judicial ermine to become a candidate for Congress.

Clippings from the Louisville Journal.

For his losses he (Grant) had something to show, which cannot be said of the other commanders.—Pittsburg Commercial.

No, that can't be said of the other commanders. It is true, Butler had his sponges and Banks his cotton, but the rest of them—Sherman particularly—didn't have "a darned thing."

A radical paper boasts that the "new constitution of Alabama places the State in hands of the tried Unionists." This is lucky for "the tried Unionists." The old constitution of Alabama, with a little help from her old laws, would place a good many of them in the State prison.

The editor of the Oneida Republican is willing to swear that Grant will be elected. The One-idea editor had better do his swearing a little more circumspectly.

The opposition press frequently assert that Grant was unsparing of the lives of his men.—Pittsburg Commercial.

And the duce of it is, they have the facts and figures to prove it.

The iron ladle belonging to the town-pump of Lowell, Mass., was missing the other day. Butler had taken it through force of habit.

Grant "proposes" to saw himself off of a limb for the Presidential bird's nest "if it takes all summer."

Butler is fond of music because the notes are silvery.

Eclipse of the Sun in August.

The great celestial phenomenon of a total eclipse of the sun, which will be visible longer than any other eclipse observed in historical times, and which takes place on the 18th of August, still occupies the attention of the learned societies of Europe. Besides those astronomers whom, on a former occasion, we mentioned as joining the English and French expeditions, we now find the names of some remarkable men in Germany, who have been authorized to make a visit to our antipodes, or to that neighborhood at least, to observe the eclipse. Mr. Engelmann, of Leipzig, Dr. Tietjen, of Berlin, and Professor Sparer, of Anklam, are ordered to Bombay; whilst Drs. Zenker and Vogel accompany the expedition to Aden as photographers. Dr. Thiele, the assistant astronomer of the observatory of Bonn, on the Rhine, has started already to Masulipatan in the East Indies. Whether or not American astronomers are going to join any of the expeditions we do not know. The time from now till the middle of August is not too long for a journey to the East Indies.

The Louisville Journal says: "The radicals boast that the Arkansas bill passed over the Presidents head. Many a buzzard has passed over a gentleman's head—bill and all."

Radicalism has made a Pandemonium of the South. It has trampled upon the Constitution, robbed the white man of his liberties, disfranchised him and enfranchised the negro. The press, whose mission it is to lash depotism, villainy and usurpation, should pour out a lava of burning indignation at the atrocity of Radicalism.

The special correspondent to the Cincinnati Commercial has an amusing on dit about our "Wizard of the Saddle" which is characteristic of that out-spoken, honest and intrepid soldier. The night before last a New Yorker entered the room of General Forrest, of Tennessee, who was in bed, and introducing himself as a Chase Democrat. After conversing a few moments he directly proposed to buy Forrest, who slapped him in the mouth, and springing up in his shirt tail he gave the pecuniary messenger a violent barefoot kick as he fled through the door.

Strange Phenomenon.

At one of our city hotels yesterday a very strange phenomenon occurred. A large piece of ice was put in a large glass of milk for one of the guests. The ice was allowed to entirely dissolve before the gentleman proceeded to drink the milk; as he was bringing the glass to his lips his penetrating eye detected some things moving in the milk, and, on examination, the moving things were found to be very small fishes which had been congealed in the ice for five or six months, and were revived by the congenial heat of the milk. The gentleman immediately improvised a little aquarium, and his little pets, as he calls them, are growing vigorous and lively by the hour.—Nashville Press and Times.

It takes a long time to start a newspaper and bring it up to a good established paying condition. The publishers of the Stockholm (Sweden) Gazette, after trying it one hundred and three years, have at last abandoned the enterprise.

A few years since, at the celebration of a national anniversary, a poor peddler, who was present, being called upon for a toast, offered the following: "Here is health to poverty; it sticks to a man when all his friends forsake him."
