Three Dollars a Year.

A Great Gambler Dead.
One of the best known sporting men of the country, George W. Hill, better known as "Cooley Keya," died in this city on the 15th ultimo, aged thirty-nine. He was apprenticed to a brass founder, but he liked gambling better and had been a professional gambler for twenty years. His remarkable coolness and his former connection with the brass foundry suggested the nickname of "Cooley Keya." Hill first became proprietor of a gambling house in 1860 in Washington City, and he soon made it yield a larger revenue than any other in that city, his customers being mainly the wealthiest class of politicians.

Near the close of 1861 he sold his gambling house in the federal city, and coming to New York opened a house with Lee Knight and John C. Heenan, playing what they styled a combination game to rival if not ruin John Morrissey. The partners lost $250,000 in less than six months, and then closed their house. Then two influential New York politicians fitted up a palace for Hill at No. 8 East Twenty-fifth street, themselves being silent partners, and for two years the house successfully rivaled Morrissey's, yielding to Hill alone thirty or forty thousand a year clear profit. A quarrel broke the partnership and the house was closed. Then Hill went to Saratoga. John Morrissey had a monopoly there, but Hill had political friends, who secured him the privilege of opening there, but the police sided with Morrissey and bothered Hill so much that he came back to New York. Then Hill began to play against the gambling houses, and for years he played with recklessness, alternately winning and losing large sums. In 1872 he opened a gambling palace on Broadway, with Andrew Sheehan as partner, and the game was very successful, having for its patron the wealthiest politicians in the city, but Hill fell into his old way of playing against the gambling houses and lost all his profits in those places, and that led to another dissolution of copartnership and the closing of the house. He opened a bank in James Mace's public house, on West Twenty-third street, but was thrown out by the failure of Mace. Hill's last venture as the keeper of a gaming house was over James Collier's, the retired actor, of the Wallack's Theatre. There consumption overtook him and it finally killed him. Hill was noted for his extravagance in dress, and he was known as the best dressed man in town. He once sent to Paris and imported for his own use eight horses that cost $250 a dozen each. He kept $1500 worth of gloves at a time and threw away four or five pairs a day. He died poor. The funeral services were performed by Rev. Dr. Houghton, in the Little Church Around the Corner. —New York Correspondent Philadelphia Times.

From the St. James Sentinel of the 11th inst., we extract this item:

About one o'clock Thursday evening, the hands on Dr. J. J. Gauthreaux's plantation, in the fifth ward were engaged in burning bagasse, at a distance of about one acre from the sugar house, sparks from the fire, lodged on the shingles of the purgery attached to the sugar house, and in an incredibly short time the whole building and contents were destroyed by the devouring flames. Three cabins in the vicinity and an old stable used during the grinding season, were also burned to the ground.

The sugar house building was of brick, and with the machinery, was valued at about $20,000 upon which there was no insurance. The loss will fall very heavily upon Dr. Gauthreaux.

Remnants.

Keep your feet warm and your head cool.

The vote in the Rhode Island State election resulted as follows: Lippett, the regular Republican, supported by the big or dealers' league, received 8341; Hazard, independent Republican, supported by the protectionists, 8747; Cutter, a straight Democrat, 5169. Under the constitution, there is no election by the people and the Legislature will name the Governor. The Democratic candidate is ruled out of the contest, however.

An expedition is forming for the Black Hills, to consist of 1000 men from Kansas City, Missouri, under Colonel Carpenter and Colonel Mander, of the Jesse Scouts, during the war. They expect to leave about the twenty-fifth instant, and will go to Denver, thence to Cheyenne, where they will be joined by other parties, swelling the whole number to 1800 men. They will be fully armed and able to cope with any body of Indians they may meet.

A telegram received at the Navy Department from Rear Admiral Mulhany, commanding the North Atlantic station, announces that the United States steamer Plymouth has sailed from Key West for Matanzas and windward ports; the Ossipee for Vera Cruz and the coast of Mexico, and the Shawmut for Nassau and Walling's Island. The other vessels attached to the station were to sail for Hilton Head soon.

Senor Salmeron, a professor of the Madrid University and formerly president of the ministry, and Professor Azarato, also of the university, have been arrested. The former has been sent to Lugo; the latter to Miranda. Other arrests are expected. The government declares its intention of exiling all professors who protest against the recent educational laws, or who resign their chairs on account of their promulgation.

Jackson was startled yesterday, about noon, by a report that James Williams, treasurer of Hinds county, had been killed by Tazewell Jones, a colored resident of that city. It appears that there was an old grudge between the parties, and Jones had been arrested and imprisoned for making threats against the life of Williams. Yesterday the parties met on Main street, near the corner of Pearl, and Williams seeing Jones approaching tried to get out of his way, but Jones followed him closely, having a large knife in his hand. While Williams was running across the street railway his foot struck one of the rails and he fell, and while down Jones ran up on him and stabbed him in the back, inflicting a mortal wound, causing the death of Williams in a few moments. Jones was arrested, and is now confined in the county jail at Jackson.

The little town of Edwards was the scene of a fatal conflict yesterday, which resulted in the death of one man and the wounding of two others. It appears that Mr. Clarence Kidd, feeling himself aggrieved at some wrongs at the hands of Sid Whitehead, the city marshal, met him on the street yesterday and commenced an attack on him, and, cutting him several times, attempted to escape. Mr. Joe Bankston, a colored man attempted to arrest Kidd, when he turned upon him and cut him in the abdomen, inflicting a fatal wound, causing almost instant death. Mr. Lewis Thomas has also slight wounds. Kidd was arrested and confined. —Vicksburg (Miss.) Times, April 13th.

Don't Do It.—"As mad as a March hare," is a familiar and well known proverb, but from recent events we are inclined to think that a new reading would be appropriate, and that the old saw should be arranged to read "as mad as an editor." During the last month a Virginia journalist received a cowardly, a New Jersey editor was the recipient of an ounce of lead in his cranium, in Mississippi and actor fought a duel with a quill driver, and sent him "to that bourne from whence no traveller returns," and at West Point, in the same State, two editors had a little difference of opinion, which resulted in sending (per pistols and lead) one of the parties "where the woodbine twines." And, to cap the climax, Storey, of the Chicago Times, was said to have carried out his name and was sent to jail for ten days. These are only the few cases heard of, there is no telling how many more injuries have been inflicted upon the talented and able ink-slingers of this great and glorious country. And yet there are fond fathers and dotting mothers who encourage their sons to become editors. We say in all kindness of spirit, take warning ye misguided parents, and don't do it.—E.R.

THE ROTHSCHILD GIRLS.—The Jewish Messenger says: We take pleasure in referring to the merits of the Rothschild family, not because they are wealthy, but for the simple reason that in spite of their wealth they strive to be useful to their kind. The men are immersed in business; they are charitable, but the people will say that it is easy to be charitable, if you are rich. The women are public-spirited, intelligent, and warm-hearted, founding hospitals, reformatories, children's homes, endowing scholastic institutions, encouraging struggling professionals, and taking a personal interest in the doings of the poor. Baroness Lionel makes weekly visits in the meanest portions of London, brightening the home of the Jewish artisan, giving her good counsel to the earnest teachers of the free schools, the matrons and assistants of the various charities. The daughter of Alphonse of Paris teaches a good lesson to her sisters in faith, and to rich young ladies of every creed, by receiving a well-deserved diploma as teacher, Anselm's daughter, in Vienna, is prominent in music, not only composing songs that attain popularity, but adding struggling musicians by pen and purse.

The following item is taken from the New Orleans Louisiana of April 10th:

An agreeable feature of the visit of Senators Morton and Cameron to our city was the reception given these distinguished gentlemen at the residence of Senator Pinchback on last Friday night. Aware of the short stay of the Senatorial party, Gov. Pinchback invited a few friends at his mansion to greet and meet socially Messrs. Morton and Cameron. Lieut. Gov. Antoine, Postmaster Ringgold, Superintendent Broderick and several other prominent gentlemen were present. Music, the cultured singing and playing of some of our cultivated Creole ladies and gentlemen, and pleasant interchange of thought gave an hour or more of social intercourse all present enjoyed.

Had Senator Pinchback been admitted to the Senate, to which he was duly elected, we would have had an appropriation from Congress for the levees, as the Senator would have undoubtedly voted for the bill. As it is, General Gordon, a Southern Democrat, dodged the vote, and we are to be threatened with overflow for years. Louisiana is treated badly by the "oldest and best." All the beneficial legislation we have, is due to the exertions of Republican Congressmen. —Attakapas Register.

The overflow from the Mississippi river has again suspended travel over the North Louisiana and Texas Railroad. For the present trains leaving Monroe will run as far as Waverly, and thence leaving Delta will run as far as Tallulah. In order to bring the mail through the intervening distance will be crossed by hand cars and skiffs. —Monroe Intelligence.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

"The Leading American Newspaper." FOUNDED BY HORACE GREELEY.

In the recent elections people have declared in favor of honesty in politics, and independence in journalism. The Tribune, which years ago declared that it was not and never would be a party organ, claims the verdict, as the popular vindicator of its course, and recognizes in the result the voice of the people for reform and integrity in government, for candor and independence among newspapers. During the campaign which has just closed, the Tribune has fully maintained its right to the title of the "Leading American Newspaper." This position it has earned and retained for the following, among other reasons:

It publishes all the news, earlier, more fully, and more intelligently than any other paper.

It insists on peace throughout the whole country, the right of local self-government, and the protection of all classes in the exercise of their just and legal rights.

It advocates candor and good feeling between North and South, labors for an honest and abiding reconciliation.

It maintains fairness and candor toward all public men and questions, and dignity and courtesy toward associates and rivals.

It publishes scientific news, reports, discussions and discoveries to a degree of fullness and accuracy never before attained by any paper.

It gives every week ten or more columns of the most carefully prepared agricultural matter during the year, much more in the aggregate than the entire contents of any other agricultural publication, and the whole forming a department of which an eminent agricultural editor said: "It has done more to make farmers than any other influence which ever existed."

It has published a series of scientific and literary extras which have met a wider sale and more emphatic popular approval than any similar publication of the kind.

What the Southern Press say of the Tribune.

We consider the Tribune a valuable paper.—Ashville (N. C.) Citizen.

The New York Tribune, in its faithful and searching exposure of outrage slanders on Alabama and other States, has done immense service to truth and justice.—Macon (Ga.) Telegraph and Messenger.

We thank the New York Tribune for its manly and powerful words in demanding justice for the people of Alabama.—Montgomery (Ala.) News.

The best newspaper in the world is the New York Tribune. It combines the dignity and sagacity of the London Times with the representative news enterprise of America.—Baltimore Bulletin.

Any one who wants a first-class paper which keeps fully up with the times in literature, science and art, should subscribe for the Tribune.—Spartanburg (S. C.) Carolina Spartan.

The imperial sheet of the world, the New York Tribune.—Jacksonville (Fla.) South.

We regard the New York Tribune as all published in the United States.—Morristown (Tenn.) Gazette.

To-day the New York Tribune is undoubtedly the first of American newspapers; whatever may be said of its rivals, it has clearly won precedence of all, and is creditably due to represent the journalism of the country. While dealing with all the topics coming within the range of a newspaper, the Tribune makes a specialty of the great subject of agriculture. It becomes therefore a matter of vital importance to the country that the direction of the ideas of this vast section should be in able and conscientious hands, and a matter for congratulation that the former newspaper par excellence has the high standing of the Tribune.—The South N. Y.

The New York Tribune is doing a great work in popularizing science, by the publication of cheap extras to that great daily.—Our Monthly, Clinton, S. C.

American newspapers in general are probably at this time more fully illustrated in the daily issues of the New York Tribune than in any other journal.—Wilmington (N. C.) Star.

Unequaled in culture, dignity, comprehensiveness, breadth, polish of expression, and intellectual purity, fettered by no party ties, untrammelled by indecency of speech, and by no vulgar sensations.—Baltimore (N. C.) Agricultural Journal.

Since the paper has maintained successfully the high popularity which he has acquired, and the name of an able and independent journalist, which it now deserves even more justly than at any time during Mr. Greeley's life.—Petersburg (Pa.) Index and Appeal.

Terms of the Tribune.

Daily, by mail, $10 per year; Semi-weekly, $3 per year; Five copies, $2 50 each.

Weekly, $2 per year; ten copies, $1 25 each; twenty copies, $1 10 each.

Postage in all cases is paid by the Tribune, and papers are sent to each subscriber, free of charge.

ARTHUR'S ILLUSTRATED HOME MAGAZINE FOR 1875.

Bright, cheerful, progressive, always up to the advancing thought of the times, The Home Magazine takes rank with the leading and most influential periodicals of the day. It is on the side of temperance and true christian morality. Whatever is hurtful it condemns without fear or favor, and makes itself felt in the homes of the people as a power for good.

THE GREAT HOUSEHOLD Magazine of America, is more thoroughly identified with the people in their home and social life than any other publication in the country.

"DEBORAH NORMAN," a work and her reward." A new serial story by T. S. Arthur will be commenced in January.

"FIFTY YEARS AGO," or the cabins of the West, by Rosella Rice. We announce this new series of articles with real pleasure, knowing as we do that it will afford our readers next year. Miss Rice, besides holding the pen of a ready writer, has in her possession a large number of original material from which to draw, and a wide acquaintance with people whose personal reminiscences are rich with pioneer incidents and experiences.

"HOMES FOR THE PEOPLE," a series of admirably suggestive articles on homes and how to make them pleasant and attractive, by Mrs. E. B. Duffey.

"THE STORY TELLER." This department will be unusually rich. Besides an abundance of short stories, two or three serials will be given during the year.

"PIPSISSIYAYE" Poets the humblest delineator of home life and character, will have an article in every number.

"FUTURICK'S" newest patterns for ladies' and children's dresses are given by special arrangement every number.

THE MOTHERS' Department will be carefully edited and have suggestive articles from our best and most experienced writers.

THE HOUSEKEEPERS' Department will be full and practical, and contain many contributions from experienced housekeepers.

"THE LION IN LOVE" and "The Interrupted Reader," two large and splendid premium engravings. One of these is sent free to every subscriber.

$2 50 a year is the price of ARTHUR'S ILLUSTRATED HOME MAGAZINE. In clubs: 3 copies for $6; 6 and one extra to get up of $10; 12 and one extra to $20. 15 cents must be added to each subscription for postage for the year. Specimen numbers 10 cents, in currency or postage stamps.

WILD OATS.

Prospectus for 1875.

Champion American COMIC PAPER!

ILLUSTRATED BY A CORPS OF THE BEST AMERICAN ARTISTS, and contributed to by the most popular humorists and satirists of the day. Wild Oats now enters its sixteenth year, upon the sixth year of its existence, and has become the established humorous and satirical paper of the country. It was started and continued the first year as a monthly, then, to satisfy the demand of the public, it was changed to fortnightly. Still continuing its good work of hitting folly as it flies, and showing up the political and social shams by its masterly cartoons and pungent editorials, it achieved even greater success than before, and was recognized as the ablest and brightest of its class. Since then we have yielded still further to the public demand, and now publish Wild Oats weekly! It has literally grown into its present shape on its intrinsic merits, being the first and only successful weekly humorous paper ever published in this country.

Among the artists especially engaged to furnish illustrations for Wild Oats are Frank Bellow, Thomas Worth, Hopkins, Wiles, Shelton, Wolf, Jump, Keetle, Stuckard, Day, Poland, and several others who are yet unknown to fame.

In its literary departments Wild Oats will, as it always has, stand alone and unapproachable. At least one first-class serial story will be found in its pages, by the best humorous, satirical, and character writers in the United States; while its sketches and squibs will be sparkling, original, and pointed.

Wild Oats will be first-class in every particular, and on that account may be taken into the best families without fear or suspicion, as no word or illustration will appear that can offend the most fastidious.

A Representative and Champion of American Art Taste!

Prospectus for 1875—Eighth Year.

THE ALDINE.

The Art Journal of America, ISSUED MONTHLY.

"A Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal, did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—the ALDINE.

The ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or hurriedly interested characteristics of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light, and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of the ALDINE will be most appreciated when it is bound up in the closest of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, the ALDINE is a unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The publisher of a complete volume can not duplicate the quantity of the paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then, there is the enormous, besides.

The national feature of the ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While the ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the patrons of the ALDINE as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, of which the ALDINE is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious selection of landscape, marine, figure, and animal subjects, such as an artist would interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of the ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment to the artistic features, with only such technical discussions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium For 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

will be welcome in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life, that it seems the veritable presence of the animal at your side. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his Newfound dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural, no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to the ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union was the original of all the ALDINE pictures, which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 3,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of the ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

TERMS: One Subscription, entitling to the Aldine one year, the Chromo and the "Art Union."

$4 00 per annum, in advance. (No charge for postage.)

Specimen Copies of the ALDINE, 50 Cents.

The ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rates; cash for subscriptions not sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the lowest auctioneer, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fac-simile signature of JAMES SUTTON, President.

Canvassers Wanted.

Any person wishing to act permanently as a canvasser will receive full and prompt information by applying to

PROSPECTUS OF THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

For 1875.

The Most Popular Scientific Paper in the World.

THIRTIETH YEAR.

VOLUME XXXII.—NEW SERIES.

The publishers of the Scientific American beg to announce that on the first day of January, 1875, a new volume commences. It will continue to be the aim of the publishers to render the contents of the new volume more attractive and useful than any of its predecessors.

To the Mechanic and Manufacturer! No person engaged in any of the mechanical pursuits should think of doing without the Scientific American. Every number contains from six to ten engravings of new machines and inventions which can not be found in any other publication.

It is the Most Popular Paper in the World, having the largest circulation of nearly 50,000 per week.

A year's number contains over 800 pages and several hundred engravings of new machines, useful and novel inventions, manufacturing establishments, tools and processes.

The Scientific American is devoted to the interests of Popular Science, the Mechanic Arts, Manufactures, Inventions, Agriculture, Commerce and the Industrial pursuits generally; and it is valuable and instructive not only in the Workshop and the Manufactory, but also in the Household, the Library and the Reading Room.

By the new law, the postage must be paid in advance in New York, by the publishers, and the subscriber then receives the paper by mail free of charge.

THE SUN.

DAILY AND WEEKLY FOR 1875.

THE approach of the Presidential election gives unusual importance to the events and developments of 1875. We shall endeavor to describe them fully, faithfully, and fearlessly.

The Weekly Sun has now attained a circulation of over seventy thousand copies. Its readers are found in every State and Territory, and its quality is well known to the public. We shall not only endeavor to keep it fully up to the old standard, but to improve and add to its variety and power.

The Weekly Sun will continue to be a thorough newspaper. All the news of the day will be found in it, condensed when unimportant, at full length when of moment, and always, we trust, treated in a clear, interesting and instructive manner.

It is our aim to make the Weekly Sun the best family newspaper in the world. It will be full of entertaining and appropriate reading every sort, but will print nothing to offend the most scrupulous and delicate taste. It will always contain the most interesting stories and romances of the day, carefully selected and legibly printed.

The Agricultural Department is a prominent feature in the Weekly Sun, and its articles will always be found fresh and useful to the farmer.

The number of men independent in politics is increasing, and the Weekly Sun is their paper especially. It belongs to no party, and obeys no dictation, contending for principle, and for the election of the best men. It exposes the corruption that disgraces the country and threatens the overthrow of republican institutions. It has no fear of knives, and seeks no favors from their supporters.

The markets of every kind and the fashions are regularly reported in its columns.

The price of the Weekly Sun is one dollar a year for a sheet
