Cloudiness of Vision.

Do you know the reason why? It is because the lens of your eyes fails to focus perfectly on a certain spot. The lens, being imperfect, all the rays of light do not meet properly. Consequently, partial blindness, headaches and other ills sure to increase if not relieved. I measure these defects carefully and scientifically. Tired Women.

What numbers of women drag their way through the endless drudgery that crowd about a hand and heart. But life's work must still go on. Pain is a price we soon and blinding to the eyes, and the nerves are tired and quiet to the tired nerves, tones the digestion, improves the appetite, brings restful, refreshing sleep, restores the vigor, fits the system of malaria, puts rest on the cheeks and joy in the heart. And it does it in a way that is different from the ordinary medicines that it calls forth the loudest praise. Pleasant to take as lemonade. For sale by F. L. Trepagnier, J. J. Leche and Edmond Richard.

Theatrical Notes.

J. A. Coburn's Barlow Minstrels held the boards at the Gondran Theater last Sunday night and put up a show that was far and away the best thing of its kind ever presented in Donaldsonville. The first part consisted of a pot-pourri of funny jokes, witty sayings and catchy songs, both sentimental and comic, Dan Holt's "Never No More," followed by "Some Time" in response to an enthusiastic encore, being alone worth the price of admission, as the press agent would say. The olio kept the audience in a roar from beginning to end, and each of the seven stunts presented was a winner. Dan Holt, negro monologist and laugh-producer, is in a class by himself and has the happy faculty of being able to produce a titter without saying a word. John Goss gave a remarkable exhibition of bone-playing and held the audience in a spell all the time he was on the stage. Frank T. Tinney, billed as "Paderewski's only rival," is a pianist, comedian and entertainer of wonderful ability, and scored the hit of the evening. Lively, the contortionist, the Devere brothers, comedy acrobats, and Dunlevy and Galvin, "dancers, singers and foolish fooleries," rounded out the attractive program. Every seat in the house was occupied, and it's a cinch the box office man wasn't called upon to make good Manager Coburn's offer of "your money's worth or your money back."

A Charming Affair.

An elaborate and very enjoyable social event of the current week was the whist party given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. F. B. Lemann at her attractive home in Houmas street. Upon arriving, the guests were ushered into the handsome reception hall, where they were met by the charming young hostess, who was assisted in receiving by Mrs. R. N. Sims, Jr. The card tables were arranged in the spacious drawing-room, which was transformed into a formal bower of surpassing beauty. Tall vases held clusters of exquisite roses, crysanthemums and ferns, and the chandeliers were intertwined with smilax and asparagus, while graceful maiden-hair ferns and other growing plants were placed in every available space. At the conclusion of a highly interesting series of games of euchre and bridge, the superb prizes were awarded as follows: First euchre prize, cut-glass bottle, Mrs. John S. Thibaut; second, Japanese cup and saucer, Mrs. C. C. Weber; third, china plate, Mrs. P. Klopman; first bridge prize, silver vase, Mrs. E. C. Wathen; second, silver belt buckle, Miss Noemie Landry; third, silver match stand, Mrs. R. N. Sims, Jr.
