Trepagnier & Boston, owners of the Happy Hour moving picture theatre and lessees of the Gondran Theatre, have renewed their lease of the latter playhouse for the ensuing two years, and, beginning Sept. 1, will present moving pictures in the Gondran theatre nightly. After that date the Happy Hour will be operated only on Saturday and Sunday nights, instead of every evening, as heretofore.

Mrs. John F. Landry and her daughters had as their guests for the Blanchard-Landry wedding on Thursday: Misses Noutte and Ida Dardanne, of Plaquemine; Miss Clara Stuart, of Belle Helene; Misses Eustalia and Corinne Morrison, of New Roads; Miss Camilla Skolfield and her brother, Will, of Lusher; Miss Oma Landry, of Baton Rouge; Jack Landry, of Waggaman; Sam Landry, of Gramercy, and Miss Inez Greenwood, of Belle Alliance.

At a regular meeting of the Elks' lodge Thursday night, three bids were received for the purchase of the two frame buildings situated on the lot in Railroad avenue owned by the lodge, and upon which it is proposed to erect in the near future an Elks' home costing in the neighborhood of $25,000. The bid of V. L. Duffel, of this city, being the highest, was accepted by the lodge. Mr. Duffel proposes to move the two buildings on to his lot in the Lemann Addition and to convert them into a modern residence to be occupied by himself and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand Braud and their little sons, Graydon and Beverly, spent a few days during the early part of the week with Mr. Braud's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Braud, of Faubourg la Pape. They left Wednesday afternoon for New Orleans, from whence Mr. Braud will return to Nicaragua, where he is filling a responsible position in the employ of the Bluefields Steamship Company. His wife and children will remain in the Crescent City, where they are pleasantly domiciled with relatives. Mr. Braud's many friends here were delighted to greet him and his interesting little family, and regret that their visit was of such short duration.

Miss Marjorie Hanson entertained the Pleasure Seekers Card Club and a few other friends very charmingly on Tuesday evening at her home in Lessard street. After a number of highly enjoyable games of five hundred, the lovely club prizes were awarded to Misses Kate and Rena Landry, while the pretty trophies offered to the guests were captured by Miss Nita Sims and Charest Thibaut. During the evening refreshing beverages were served and at the close of the delightful entertainment a tempting two-course supper was partaken of. Miss Hanson was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. John D. Hanson, and Mesdames J. P. Kock and J. S. Thibaut, and her guests included: Misses Lee, Maud and Rosalie Landry, Adele Blum, Laura Fernandez, Rena and Kate Landry, Louise Colomb, Alice Kock, Genevieve Baer, Miriam Blum and Nita Sims, and Messrs. Charest Thibaut, H. Vernon Sims, Charles Maurin, Karl Leche, Will Blumhardt, Jaffray and E. J. Vega, Hubert Richard, Charles Kock, Ward Guillot, Pierre Blanchard, Percy and Arthur Lemann and Delwayne Hanson.

Blanchard-Landry.

The most fashionable event of the mid-summer season was the marriage of Miss Ethel Landry to Ferrier Blanchard, which was solemnized at the Catholic church at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The handsome edifice was elaborately decorated for the occasion with a wealth of pot plants, evergreens and cut flowers, the color scheme, white and green, being carried out with artistic effect. An arch of greens, tied overhead with white satin ribbon, and intertwined with white blossoms, extended from the main entrance to the chancel, forming a spring-like bower which lent added charm and grace to the beautiful scene.

At the appointed hour, and to the strains of the march from "Aida," rendered in a superb manner on the great pipe organ by Dr. John S. Thibaut, the bridal party entered, led by the ushers, wearing white linen suits with boutonnières of bride roses and asparagus fern, who walked in the following order: Messrs. Jack Landry and Dr. James Fortier, Sabin Dalferes and Dr. Guy Darcantel, and H.G. McCall and Jos. Simpson. Next came the lovely young maid-of-honor, Miss Nita Sims, gowning in an exquisite creation of white marquisette over chamoisee, made low neck and trimmed with wide bands of filet and Chiny lace, chiffon and plaited satin. She carried a shower bouquet of Shasta daisies and asparagus fern, tied with streamers of white ribbon. Lastly came the bride, a winsome brunette, who looked beautiful in a rich robe of duchesse satin, the waist cut Dutch neck and trimmed with plaited and embroidered chiffon. An embroidered panier of chiffon extended down the front of the skirt, and the long court train fell from just above the waist line. The bridal veil, an heirloom of exquisite real lace which was worn many years ago by the bridegroom's grandmother, was draped from a Juliet cap encrusted with orange blossoms. Her sole ornament was a diamond pendant, a gift of the groom. She entered leading on the arm of her brother, Sam. Landry, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses, tuberoses and asparagus fern, tied with white tulle. At the altar the groom and his best man, Pierre Blanchard, both wearing white linen suits with boutonnières of bride roses and fern, awaited the coming of the bride with Right Rev. Canon J. M. T. Massardier, who performed the ceremony which joined the happy pair in wedlock. As the bride reached the foot of the chancel stairs she was met by the groom, who took her into his keeping and escorted her to the altar.

Throughout the ceremony Dr. Thibaut softly intoned Gottschalk's "Ricordi," and during the signing of the register Mrs. Ferdinand Lemann sang with exquisite expression and rare sweetness "Poppies." As a recessional "The Song of the War Priests," from "Athalie," was played by Dr. Thibaut with brilliant effect.

Following the ceremony an informal reception to the bridal party, the immediate family and a few close friends was held at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. John F. Landry, in Nicholls avenue. Mrs. Landry, wearing a handsome lingerie gown, was assisted in entertaining by her boys of pretty daughters and their attractive house guests.

Amid a shower of rice, congratulations and good wishes, Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard left at 2:15 o'clock via the Valley route for New Orleans and Gulfport, Miss., where they will spend a short while. Upon returning to Donaldsonville, they will take up their residence with the groom's parents Mr. and Mrs. P. Leo Blanchard.

The fair young bride is the third daughter of Mrs. John F. Landry, and is one of Donaldsonville's loveliest and most attractive girls. The groom is a handsome young man of fine habits and splendid character, with hosts of friends. Many beautiful and costly gifts were received by the popular pair, attesting the high degree of esteem and admiration in which they are held, and carrying with them a world of congratulations and good wishes for a long and happy married life.

A Unique Display.

A feature of the firemen's parade last Sunday that attracted a great deal of attention was the unique advertising float displaying an immense Columbia graphophone, which brought up the rear of the interesting procession. The giant music box was the handwork of Messrs. Alfred Landry and Dick Ohlmeyer, and was a most ingenious and artistic piece of work. It was an exact duplicate, on a greatly enlarged scale, of a Columbia graphophone, and was so constructed that an actual graphophone could be placed within it. With the real machine in operation, and the disk of the imitation machine revolving in time, the illusion was complete, and many people were confident the records were being actually played on the enlarged instrument. The display was a most unique one, and elicited a most unique one, and elicited many flattering comments. Mr. Landry is local agent for the Columbia Company.

SAM. ST. MARTIN DEAD.

Former Sheriff of Ascension Parish Passes Away in New Orleans. Where He Had Lived for Past Year—Remains Interred in Donaldsonville.

It is with profound regret that The Chief performs the sad duty this week of chronicling the death of Samuel H. St. Martin, former sheriff of Ascension parish and for more than fifty years a resident of Donaldsonville, who passed away at 8:15 o'clock last Saturday night at his home in New Orleans, after a short illness. Though in bad health for some weeks, Mr. St. Martin refused to take to his bed until a few days before his death, and the announcement of his untimely demise came as a distinct shock to his hundreds of friends throughout this parish and section. A particularly sad feature connected with Mr. St. Martin's death is the fact that his wife gave birth to a boy on the Fourth of July, and was unable to minister to her husband in his last illness, or to attend his funeral.

Samuel St. Martin was born in Donaldsonville fifty-six years ago, and obtained his education and early business training in this city. When a young man he spent seven years in the north and east, working in clerical positions. Later he returned to Donaldsonville, and some twenty-odd years ago he entered politics and became a candidate for the office of sheriff of Ascension parish. Because of his great popularity and excellent reputation he was easily elected to the position, and after serving in that capacity with distinguished ability and success for seventeen years successively, he retired from the office four years ago and was succeeded by his former chief deputy, E. C. Hanson, who is the present sheriff. Three years ago Mr. St. Martin was appointed registrar of voters, which position he held for two years, and then removed to New Orleans, where he purchased a cigar and tobacco store at No. 111 Decatur street, which he operated with considerable success. At one time he conducted a hotel in this city in the building now occupied by the Knights of Columbus, and at the same time he owned an interest in the X-Ray Pharmacy, then situated at the corner of Mississippi and St. Patrick streets, and conducted by the firm of Richard and St. Martin. Upon retiring from the sheriff's office Mr. St. Martin disposed of his hotel and his interest in the drug store, and shortly afterward purchased the suburban property known as Green Gables, situated on the east bank of Bayou Lafourche one mile below Donaldsonville, where he resided with his family for about a year, after which he removed to New Orleans. He recently purchased a residence in that city, at No. 1623 Esplanade avenue.

Mr. St. Martin's first wife, who was Miss Palmyre Dugas, of this city, died ten years ago, leaving five children, one of whom, Dr. Jos. V. St. Martin, died just a year later. The surviving children of this union are Messrs. Emile and Richard and Misses Lucile and Marie St. Martin. His second wife, who was Miss Edna Landry, of this city, with her four children, Samuel H., Dimond, Eloise and Charles D., the latter only two weeks old, survive him. He also leaves two sisters and four brothers, namely: Mrs. Sabin Savois and Mrs. Ida Dossat, of Assumption parish; Michel, a farmer of Bunkie; Hepburn, a traveling salesman, whose home is in Baltimore; John, a resident of San Francisco; and Edward, an employe in the New Orleans customhouse. His aunt, Mrs. Emile St. Martin, of Pellico plantation, Ascension parish, reached the bedside a few hours before his death. Mr. St. Martin's father, Capt. Victor St. Martin, of the Eighth Louisiana Regiment, was killed in the battle of Gettysburg.

The body was brought to Donaldsonville via the Valley route and steamer Virgie Sunday morning, and was conveyed to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Gabe Blanchard, in St. Patrick street, from whence the funeral took place at 3 o'clock p. m. Despite the inclement weather the obsequies were attended by a very large gathering of sorrowing relatives and sympathizing friends, including delegates of members of Donaldsonville Lodge No. 2659, Knights of Honor, Mohawk Tribe No. 33, I. O. F. M., and Capt. Victor St. Martin Camp U. S. C. V., of which organizations deceased was a prominent and valued member. Impressive services were held at the Catholic church, Rev. J. M. T. Massardier officiating, and interment was made in the family tomb in the Catholic cemetery.

Generous to a fault, charitable, big-hearted, loyal; fearless in the discharge of his duty, courageous in his convictions, and at all times genial and courteous, Sam. St. Martin was a type of man who made friends of all with whom he came in contact, and of whom it can truthfully be said that the world is better for his having lived in it. May his beautiful soul rest in eternal peace.

An Unusual Opportunity. A big clearance sale of men's shoes, clothing and hats is now going on at the Lemann store, and some of the most sensational bargains in high-grade merchandise ever offered in this city are being displayed. This is an unusual opportunity to provide yourself with a new suit of clothes, a pair of shoes and a stylish hat, all at a greatly reduced cost. It will pay you to call at Lemann's next week and look over the many tempting bargains.

FIREMEN'S PARADE.

Annual Celebration of Local Department a Brilliant Success—Rain Fails to Mar Enjoyable Fete—Volunteer Hose Company Display Notable.

Despite the handicap of muddy streets and a rainy day, the annual parade and celebration of the Donaldsonville fire department, which took place last Sunday, proved a success in every detail and was one of the most interesting and enjoyable fetes in the history of the department. A steady rain commenced to fall at about 2 o'clock and continued until nearly 4:30 p. m., but the downpour could not dampen the enthusiasm of the gallant fire ladders or the hundreds of people who thronged the streets, and had very little, if any, effect toward diminishing the attendance of visitors from the surrounding country.

As soon as the rain stopped the parade formed in Louisiana Square, and at 5:15 p. m. the pageant moved off, with a detail of mounted police in the lead, under Chief Henry Schaff, Sr. Next came the grand marshal, Mayor Charles Maurin, and his aides, George H. Richard and A. J. Schroeder, followed by the chief of the fire department, John Schaff, and Assistant Chief Morris Schneider.

The first company in line was the veteran Phoenix Steam Fire Company No. 1, who were preceded by their marshalls, Messrs. C. H. Landry and D. M. Ferry. The Phoenix wore a uniform of red shirts, black trousers and fire helmets, and displayed their steam fire engine, Lady Clara, which was drawn by a pair of coal-black horses. The Napoleonic brass band furnished music for this organization.

Next in line came the Ascension Hook and Ladder Company, garbed in blue shirts, black trousers and white fire helmets. Their marshals were C. Kline, Dr. E. K. Sims and Capt. Harry C. Whitman. The hook and ladder truck was prettily decorated to represent "Nature in Her Splendor," the living characters included in the theme being depicted by three pretty little girls, Misses Elsie and Lillian Schroeder and Heloise Rodriguez, who were appropriately gowned. The Homer brass band of this city furnished music for the marching of the blue-shirted Hooks.

The third company in line was Volunteer Hose Company No. 2, whose marshals were Sheriff E. C. Hanson, Henry Baquet and Alfred Janel. The uniform of this spirited young organization consisted of blue jackets, white trousers and blue caps, and the showing made was an extremely attractive one. Their hose-wagon was decorated with an airship of the monoplane type, poised at the instant of leaving the ground, and the effect was striking from both a mechanical and an artistic point of view. The idea was carried out in detail, the aeroplane being equipped with a propeller in actual operation and wings and rudder which were warped from time to time as though the craft were in motion. Little Miss Dorothy May Thibodeaux, the daughter of E. A. Thibodeaux, superintendent of the municipal power plant, was the lovely aviatrix who sat enthroned in the tonneau of the beautiful airship. The Volunteers marched to music furnished by the St. James brass band.

Vigilant Hose Company No. 3 followed, and made a display scarcely less effective than that of its predecessor, and one which was enthusiastically applauded all along the line of march. Its marshals were Dr. D. C. Brumfield, Edmund Maurin and J. C. Dabadie, and the men wore white trousers, white shirts and white caps, with black belt and black shoes. The subject portrayed by the Vigilants was "Cupid's Garden," the hose-wagon being converted into a beautiful percola, in which were suspended flower-entwined swings occupied by pink-garbed Cupids. The latter were delineated by Misses Aline Melancon, Anna Hartrampf, and Georgia Theodore, and Masters Cecil Dabadie, Leo Bloch and Alvin Veltier. Pink roses and lustrous gold fringe were used in the decorations, and the effect achieved was most attractive. The Vigilants were led by the crack Claiborne Williams brass band, of this city.

Protective Hose Company No. 4, the youngest company in the department, and one of the largest in point of membership, occupied the next position in line, and was led by five marshals: Hon. Walter Guion, E. C. Wathan, Emile LeBouef, W. J. LeBlanc, and George Forrest, who in turn were followed by the Smoke Bend brass band. The stalwart firemen from the rear portion of the city wore a uniform of black trousers, dark blue shirt, and fire helmets, and their hose-carriage was tastefully decorated to represent "A Scene in Holland." In the foreground were seated a diminutive Dutch couple, garbed in appropriate costume, and in the background a windmill was seen in operation.

The rear of the procession was brought up by a float, entered by Mohawk Tribe No. 33, Improved Order of Red Men, depicting the motto of that order, "Freedom, Friendship and Charity." Miss Ruth Park, gowned as "Columbia," portrayed the spirit of freedom and liberty; Edward Braud, as an Indian chief, and Florian Michel, as a paleface, with little Misses Olive and Beryl Whitman as Indian papooses, symbolized the friendship existing between the Red Men and their conquerors, and a large heart represented the virtue of charity. Mounted Indian scouts accompanied the pretty float.

Councilman W.D. Park, Town Treasurer Joseph N. Giscard and Town Collector Robert E. Dill occupied a carriage, and in another vehicle were veteran members of the pioneer Phoenix Steam Fire Company. All the marshals rode handsome horses, gallantly captioned, and accompanied the Phoenix and Vigilants were two splendid specimens of horse-flesh, whose proud bearing and gentle behavior attracted much attention. U. A. Rousseau's dainty little black mare was the pretty animal which paraded with the Phoenix, and the Vigilants displayed their well-trained fire horse, a powerful bay. At night the companies partook of their annual feast, as follows: Phoenix Fire Company, in the general lodge room of the Masonic Temple; Hook and Ladder Company, at their hall; Volunteer Hose Company, at the Wilson House; Vigilant Hose Company, at the Hotel Donaldson; Protective Hose Company, at Schroeder's Hall. The several functions were characterized by much good cheer and merriment, and constituted a fitting climax to a most successful and enjoyable celebration. The day's festivities were concluded with a firemen's ball at the hall of Protective Hose Company, given under the auspices and for the benefit of that organization.

Pelicans Again Batter Burton. Notwithstanding the fact that a steady rain was falling last Sunday afternoon at the hour set for the beginning of the game between the local Pelicans and the much-touted Burton bunch, these persistent rivals proceeded to "mix it up" on the Cleveland Park diamond in a very interesting manner. The score at the conclusion of the thrilling pastime read 8 to 4 in favor of the home boys, this being the third time the Pelicans have defeated the lumbermen this season. The game preceded the firemen's parade, and was witnessed by a small crowd.

The attraction at Cleveland Park tomorrow afternoon will be a game between the Pelicans and Thibodaux, and according to the dope the engagement should be one of the hottest of the season. The visitors have several classy college players in their line-up, and should be able to make things interesting for the birds. "Billiken" Howell, the crack L. S. U. twirler who was given a try-out by the St. Louis National League team, and Braud, a Springfield College "phenom," will do the slab work for the invaders, with Ed. Prejean receiving. The Pelicans will present their peerless battery, Dugas and Vegas, supported by the same nifty bunch of diamond artists who have cleaned up all contenders thus far. Weather permitting, the fireworks will be touched off at 3:30 p. m.

Treille-Robertson. Hubert Treille, chief engineer of the municipal power plant, and Miss Sadie Robertson, the pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robertson, of this city, were quietly married at Painscourtville, Wednesday morning, Judge Charles Dugas officiating. The wedding was a great surprise to the many friends of the young couple, who surmised that the ceremony was pending, but had no idea that it would take place at such an early date. Miss Robertson had been visiting relatives and friends at Painscourtville for several days, and in accordance with a previous understanding, she was joined there Wednesday morning by Mr. Treille, there being present a few close relatives and intimate friends. The newly-wedded pair returned to Donaldsonville Wednesday evening and have taken up their residence in the commodious Treille home in Port Barrow. The groom is a young man of ability and promise, and the number of his friends is limited only by the circle of his acquaintance. The bride is an accomplished and prepossessing young woman, and is endowed in generous measure with all the graces and virtues that serve to constitute the perfect wife and helpmate.

Back from Cuba. Fred. Werner, Jr., returned Wednesday from Cuba, where he was employed as chief sugar-boller of the C. J. Teresa Central factory at Ceiba Hueca, in the province of Manzanillo. Grinding was started at Teresa Central Dec. 18, and on June 27 the mill closed down, after grinding 104,807 tons of cane and turning out 73,501 bags of 96-degree test sugar, each weighing approximately 325 pounds. The factory operated smoothly throughout the season and there were no breakdowns of any kind, but the weather was extremely unfavorable and much time was lost on account of prolonged rains. As a result of this condition, in conjunction with a shortage of labor brought about by the instruction, the grinding campaign was summarily terminated, sufficient cane to produce something like 30,000 bags of sugar being abandoned in the fields. Chas. Vives, of upper Assumption, held down the post of assistant sugar-boller, and with such a competent crew as Messrs. Werner and Vives in charge of the sugar-making department, it need not be stated that this particular section of the big mill was conducted with a marked degree of smoothness and efficiency, and that excellent results were obtained. Mr. Vives arrived here a couple of weeks ago, but Mr. Werner came home by way of New York and spent a few days in that city, returning Wednesday.
