LINCOLN Get Behind the Wheel

A ride in a Lincoln is one continuous trip of comfort and enjoyment. Changes in road conditions bring scarcely any perceptible difference in the smoothness with which your car travels.

Rear springs shackled at both ends; final drive through a torque tube; combined with superior control of the motor power itself, afford a master sense of security in any driving emergency.

Portable Refinery For Use in New Oil Fields.

A crude-oil refinery that moves on wheels from one field to another is the recent invention of an oil man of Dallas, Tex., and is described with illustrations in the September Popular Mechanics Magazine. The portable refinery is designed to meet the needs of the oil fields where pipeline facilities are lacking. It will supply the pioneer producers with a market for their oil while the big companies are laying lines to the field and independent refiners are building plants. Units of the portable refinery are built on specially constructed steel flat cars, 65 feet long, which will carry 110,000 pounds each. These cars are mounted on six-wheel trucks and are specially constructed and insulated. The first refinery of this type is now being built at East Chicago, Ind. This particular plant has three stills, with an estimated daily capacity of 4000 barrels.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will hold a special stockholders' meeting on November 8 to act on a proposal of the directors to increase the capital stock from $110,000,000 to $225,000,000 and to declare a stock dividend of four new shares of common stock for each share of the common stock outstanding.

CITY COUNCIL MEETS.

Donaldsonville, La., Oct. 11, 1922. The commission council met this day in special session, with the following commissioners present: Jcs. N. Gischard, mayor and commissioner of public health and safety; Charest Thibaut, commissioner of finance, and D. Ohlmeyer, commissioner of streets and parks.

Mayor Gischard explained that the object of the meeting was for the purpose of canvassing the returns of the special election held in the city of Donaldsonville, Louisiana, on Tuesday, October 10, 1922, as per resolution adopted at a meeting of the council held on September 5, 1922. The commissioners then proceeded to open the ballot box and count the ballots.

PROCES VERBAL
Of the manner in which the ballot boxes were opened, and the returns canvassed of the election held in the City of Donaldsonville, parish of Ascension, Louisiana, on Tuesday, Oct. 10, 1922.

He is known and remembered, that the commission council of the city of Donaldsonville, of the parish of Ascension, state of Louisiana, met this day pursuant to a resolution adopted on September 5, 1922, for the purpose of opening the ballot box, examining and counting the ballots in number and amount, examining and canvassing the returns and declaring the result of the special election held within the limits of the city of Donaldsonville, of the parish of Ascension, Louisiana, on Tuesday, October 10, 1922.

That the said ballot box was opened and the ballots therein contained were counted separately upon the proposition submitted at said election; that the list of voters, the tally sheets containing the names of all voters participating in said election, and the compiled statement of the total vote cast for and against the said proposition, together with the amount of assessment of each voter, were carefully examined and scrutinized and we find the same to correspond with the ballots contained within the ballot box, and from which we find the following result of said election, at which was submitted the following proposition:

To authorize the commission council of the city of Donaldsonville, Louisiana, for and on behalf of the city of Donaldsonville, to create an indebtedness of forty-five thousand dollars ($45,000) and issue negotiable bonds therefor, said bonds to bear interest not to exceed six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and to run for a period of ten years (10 years) from their respective dates, for the following purposes, to-wit:

That of constructing paving, graveling and improving the streets of the city of Donaldsonville, together with all culverts, drains and other appurtenances and accessories thereto.

The total number of votes cast in favor of said proposition were the sum of thirty-nine (39).

The total number of votes cast against said proposition was the sum of one (1).

The total amount of value of property taxed in favor of said proposition was $150,000.

The total amount in value of property taxed against said proposition was the sum of fifteen thousand five hundred ($15,500) dollars.

The majority in number of taxpayers in favor of said proposition was the sum of thirty-eight (38).

The majority in number of property taxpayers in favor of said proposition was the sum of two hundred and eighty thousand, four hundred and eighty ($280,480) dollars.

And finally the said above named and mentioned proposition having been carried by both a majority in number and amount of the property qualified taxpayers, said election on Tuesday, October 10, 1922, said election on Tuesday, October 10, 1922, the commission council of the city of Donaldsonville, of the parish of Ascension, state of Louisiana, do hereby in accordance with Act No. 45 of 1921 declare and promulgate the result of said election as having been legally adopted.

In testimony whereof we have closed this process verbal, within the limits of the city of Donaldsonville, of the parish of Ascension, state of Louisiana, on this 11th day of October, 1922, after having signed the same in triplicate, a copy of which was forwarded to the secretary of state for the state of Louisiana, for recordation in his office; to the clerk of court of the parish of Ascension, state of Louisiana, to be recorded in the mortgage records of the parish of Ascension, and a copy retained by us, and filed in the archives of our office.

Full details of the plans and purposes of the Louisiana Farm Bureau Cotton Growers' Association are contained in a bulletin recently prepared by the headquarters office at Baton Rouge, now ready for distribution. The bulletin discusses the organization plan of the association, and gives details of the manner in which the association will function to the benefit of the cotton growers of Louisiana. It also submits answers to every question that can possibly be asked by a prospective member of the organization, a list of 100 more having been prepared by men experienced in commodity selling. This bulletin may be obtained by applying to the secretary of any Parish Farm Bureau, or by writing direct to the office of the Farm Bureau Federation, University Station, Baton Rouge, La.

TO PRESS WAR ON CATTLE TICK

North Louisiana Plans No-Fence Law and Big Fund to Stamp Out Pest.

The Anti-Cattle Tick Association, composed of representatives of police juries of sixteen parishes of north Louisiana, and live-stock and land owners of prominence in that part of the state, held its third meeting at Monroe a few days ago with fifty delegates in attendance. Harry D. Wilson, state commissioner of agriculture; Dr. George Paxton of the Louisiana division of the bureau of animal industry, and Dr. E. P. Flower, secretary of the state live stock sanitary board were also present.

Charles W. Phillips of Monroe, president of the association, advocated a no-fence law and a means of combatting the tick and raising the far reaching quarantine.

A campaign has been started to help the police juries of the sixteen parishes comprising the association to obtain from $150,000 to $200,000 each year until the entire territory has been cleaned of cattle tick and the quarantine raised. Each of the parishes will be required to raise $10,000 a year to conduct the fight and in some, double this amount will be necessary. The association, it is said, will endeavor to help each parish finance its part of the program. The plan being to make the sixteen parishes entirely free from ticks by 1924.

It was shown that there are about 500,000 cattle under quarantine in north Louisiana and that it is impossible to buy and sell cattle in the restricted territory, and this involves the loss of millions of dollars annually.

The association will work through sixteen parish police juries through an executive committee. This executive committee is authorized to aid each police jury in its efforts to finance the anti-tick campaign.

"Treasury Savings Certificates are finding favor in foreign lands as well as in every section of the country and are outlying possessions," said Lew Wallace, Jr., director of the U. S. Government savings system. "Every state in the union has purchasers, and the treasury receives orders from Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines, the Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands and Porto Rico. But it is not alone in the United States and its possessions that this savings security is in demand. Orders also come from Canada, Cuba, Mexico, San Domingo and Peru, while just recently there was a request for information about the certificates from Rome, Italy. Some of the purchasers of the certificates in these distant lands take the limit, $5000, while others buy the smallest denomination, a $25 certificate. This widespread sale shows that the savings spirit is becoming an American trait, for usually these purchasers of certificates are American citizens."

Motor Truck Convertible into Tractor

A motor vehicle that is interchangeable a truck or a tractor is in use on farms in France. It is described and illustrated in the September Popular Mechanics Magazine. To transform the truck into a tractor, a wheel rim of considerable larger diameter than the front-truck wheels is mounted around each of them, with connections formed of radial struts. Just in front of the rear-truck wheels are a pair of tractor wheels on a special axle that can be lowered to bring these wheels to the ground when the tractor rims are on the front wheels. The rear-truck wheels are then taken off, and on their driving axle a sprocket wheel drives a chain which engages a second larger sprocket on the tractor wheels. The change can be made quickly.

"HOLD UP!"

A call, a night call,
Is now on hand;
It says to hurry, come
As soon as you can.

Get all of my grips,
As it does not say
What is the trouble, nor
How long I'll have to stay.

Hold on! cried my wife,
What is the meaning of that;
You are about to leave
Without any hat.

Have you got all of your
Grips, medicines and gun,
As traveling at this hour
Is really no fun.

No, said I,
But if it is to please,
To comfort you and
Put you at ease,

Give me the boy
With 100 shells,
To comfort you and
The children, as well.

After leaving home
I began to feel
My blood running backward;
I got cold in my heel.

I looked up close in
The shade of the pickets,
Two men I saw; the
Balance in the thickets.

Hold! cried the talker,
One of the two;
My hands on the lines.
Was all I knew.

It was such a sudden
Shock and least expected,
At that present moment
My mind was affected.

I came to in a hurry; to kill
I was against my religion;
I grabbed my shooting iron
Which aroused my cowboyism.

I looked into his hands
Also into the other one;
I saw, much to my surprise—
Neither had a gun.

He walked upon my gun
Even though I had him covered
Allowing him all the chance
Not to be murdered.

With his hands almost on my buggy
Wheel,
The other on the top,
I called to him, "Just one step
More, and to hell you will drop."

He fell back. I went on
To see about my call;
It was then midnight; arriving
At the place to find no one at all.

I suppose the animal
Must have died;
The owner, no doubt,
Was awfully tired.

So he went to bed and
Fell asleep;
I called and called. No
One not even peeped.

A stranger I met
At midday said:
"Hold on doctor,
I have something to say."

"They were not going to kill
"You, it is true;
"Only whip you; but when they
"Saw that gun they flew."

Among the entertainment features for ex-service men at the American Legion convention in New Orleans next week, will be a banquet next Wednesday night at the Southern Yacht Club at West End, at which 1200 guests will be served, among them being Gen. John J. Pershing and Gen. John A. Lejeune. This it is said will be the largest banquet ever held in New Orleans.

Sanitary Hen's Nest Made of Metal

The old-fashioned dirty hen nest seems to be doomed to extinction by a metal nest, shown in the September Popular Mechanics Magazine, which can be sealed periodically. A false bottom is another feature of the nest. It consists of a metal frame with holes, through which the eggs roll out of sight. This prevents the hen from sitting on the eggs, eating them, or getting them dirty.

Indictments in Mine Murders.

The special grand jury of Marion, Illinois, investigating the twenty-two killings at the Lester strip mine, June 21 and 22, has returned 214 indictments and in a partial report adjured the state administration, Adjutant General Black of Illinois; Sheriff Melville Thaxton of Williamson county and local police. The jury after making its report recessed until October 23.

The report emphasizes that the murders, the report emphasizes, are beyond the power of words to describe. "A mob is always cowardly, but the savagery of this mob in its relentless brutality is almost unbelievable. The indignities heaped upon the dead did not end until their bodies were interred in unknown graves."

The jury returned a total of forty-four indictments for murder; fifty-eight for conspiracy to commit murder; fifty-eight for rioting and fifty-four for assault with intent to murder. A telegram sent by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, to state senator Wm. Sneed, a district president of the miners' union, is blamed as one of the causes of the riot. In the telegram Lewis said that union men "are justified in treating this crowd as an outlaw organization and in viewing its members in the same light as they do any other common strike-breakers."

Trappers Fight For Their Rights.

About 400 trappers from the parishes of Lafourche, St. Charles and Jefferson, a few days ago obtained a temporary injunction in the civil district court of New Orleans against the Delaware-Louisiana Trading Company, restraining it from interfering with trapping in the wild lands of those parishes. The Delaware-Louisiana company recently obtained a lease on the lower coast and has agreed to permit trappers to operate on the lands for $50 each a year. The trappers charge that the wild lands are not subject to ordinary ownership or physical possession and claim the right to trap as they and their forefathers have done for thirty years.

BIG PUBLIC SALE

Entire $60,000 Stock of David Israel to Be Offered Regardless of Cost.

In a full page ad appearing in this issue of The Chief, David Israel announced the inauguration at his Avenue dry goods store on Monday, October 16, of a big ten-day public sale, at which his entire $60,000 stock will be offered regardless of cost. The stock is in the hands of E. R. Taylor, famous sales wizard, who is under contract to sell the stock in ten days.

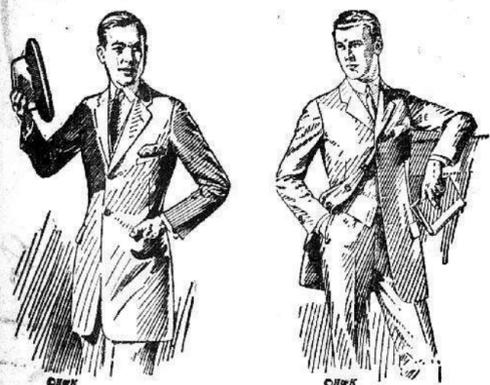

In the next ten days, available in the next ten days, will be slashed left and right sure quick adjudications. It says that this event will attract man, women and child in the community, coming as it does at the opening of the winter season. "Never again in the history of Donaldsonville," he says "will the people of this community have such an opportunity to supply themselves with the necessities of life at next to nothing prices."

The big stock of merchandise consists of men's women's and children's furnishings, such as gingham, cotton, hosiery, heavy underwear, shirts, collars, Sox, hats, towels, sheets, comforts, blankets, outing flannels, serge suitings, silks, etc.

The sale will begin at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning and will last ten days only. There will be a large number of salesmen and salesladies on hand to give prompt and quick service to customers. Mr. Israel expects that the unprecedented low prices at which merchandise will be offered at this big event will draw purchasers from far and near and he has made preparations for the handling of a large crowd. There are bargains for everybody, he says, and guarantees that all who patronize the sale will leave well satisfied.

Last Thursday, Columbus Day, was observed with appropriate exercises by the Knights of Columbus and by other societies in New Orleans and in the parochial and public schools. Banks and most of the exchanges were closed for the occasion. The day marked the 430th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus.
