

SUBSCRIPTION—ONLY $3.00 A YEAR. OFFICE: Corner of Hahn and Front Streets.

HAHNVILLE, LOUISIANA. Saturday, September 25, 1875.

LOCAL ITEMS.

DIED.

At Hahnville, on Tuesday, Sept. 21, 1875, at twenty minutes to five, a. m., at the residence of Col. F. B. Earhart, MRS. SARAH ROSS, aged 67 years, a native of Philadelphia, Pa.

This estimable lady, endeared to numerous friends and relatives for her many excellent qualities, breathed her last on Tuesday morning, after a short but severe illness. Mrs. Ross was the mother of Mrs. F. B. Earhart, of this village, and to her and family, in their hour of gloom and sadness, we extend our deepest sympathy and condolence.

THE BOUGERE SUCCESSION.

Quite a number of lawyers were up from New Orleans, this week, attending the Parish Court, engaged in trying a rule to dismiss Mr. Fillet from the executorship of the Bougere succession. There was much legal spouting, and one night it lasted until 11 o'clock. The legal luminaries followed Shakespeare's advice: "strive mightily but eat and drink as friends."

EARLY GRINDING.

We are informed that the grinding season in this parish, will commence earlier than heretofore. Sugar cane is looking fine and will be cut as soon as matured, the planters believing it safer to do, than leave it remain until the usual time the general supposition being, (in consideration of the cool weather now prevailing) that severe frosts will occur early in the Fall.

A PLEASANT VISITOR.

We had a visit this week from Captain Francis Sternberg, the accomplished and popular editor of the Lafourche Republican. He was present conversing with several gentlemen on Front street, while some photographers were taking a view of the first church erected in Hahnville, and they succeeded in taking the Captain in the picture, with the church in the background. As we looked upon the photograph we could not avoid the reflection that it was a happy circumstance to catch our editorial friend within the hallowed influences of a church, and we but express the earnest wish of our christian spirit that he may never go to worse places. Captain Sternberg, while with us, looked the picture of health. May his shadow never grow less!

DEAD ANIMALS.

Some of our citizens, unacquainted with the law governing the disposal of carcasses of dead animals, are in the habit of hauling the bodies of their dead beasts on the bare ground in front of their village. When decomposition takes place there arises a disagreeable, sickening stench, which is productive of pernicious fevers and malignant diseases, which may, at any time, seriously disturb the public health. The law imposes a fine and imprisonment on all who offend the public health in this manner, and we would advise the community to carry their dead animals to the woods, the proper place for interment.

AMUSEMENTS.

Front street, in the vicinity of Chapsky's store, on Sunday last, presented an interesting and animated appearance, the occasion being a number of impromptu horse and foot races. The first trial was a five acre run between Mr. C. W. Keating's bay mare and Mr. H. Vallas' bay stallion. This race was expected to be a very close one, but proved the contrary, the stallion jumping and balking at the start, thus giving the other an advantage which the stallion could not make up. The second contest was between a spirited little gray mare and the stallion. In this race, the stallion, now thoroughly aroused, shot ahead at the start and maintained the lead, crossing the line several lengths ahead.

Next was a foot race of 100 yards to decide the running capacities of Mr. Keating and Mr. Allen, overseers of the Danjean and Duggan plantations, respectively. Mr. Keating darted ahead at the word, and though hard pressed, managed to hold his own, and "toed the mark" about two feet in advance of his competitor. Several minor races then took place, and the crowd lounged into Chapsky's and Hunzelman's stores to "flek" and indulge in "horse talk." On dit, that Mr. Gorton, of this place, and Mr. Keating, have arranged a contest between their nags, to come off shortly.

PHOTOGRAPHS.

Messrs. A. & A. Moses, of photograph celebrity, have displayed excellence and talent in workmanship in the numerous views of Hahnville and surroundings which they have taken during the week. They will leave in the early part of next week for Bonnet Carre; thence to College Point in St. James; and from that place to Donaldsonville. To the citizens of these places, we unhesitatingly recommend the Moses Brothers as artists who thoroughly understand their business, and who take in consideration the pressing hard times now prevailing, charge very reasonable for portraits and scenic views.

THEATRE AND BALL.

The French artists who gave two delightful performances at Hahnville a few months ago, are to give a grand theatrical entertainment here on the evening of Saturday, the 25th of September. The performance is to take place at the Hahnville Concert Hall, and is to commence at 8 o'clock. After the performance the managers and their friends are to have a ball. This is to be one of the most re-cherche affairs of the season; and all the intelligence, worth and beauty of the parish will be assembled.

EMPTY SACKS.

Adam Schneider, of Hahnville, the only authorized agent of the Louisiana Rice Mill, will furnish empty sacks to responsible parties in this parish on application. He will also attend to all matters connected with the consignment of rice to that establishment.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Furniture is needed by every person that keeps a house. Good furniture is useful and ornamental, and makes every house look neat and comfortable. Mr. Kraemer, one of the best furniture manufacturers in the country, has located in Hahnville, and any person giving him an order will be well treated, and receive what he bargains for.

Mr. August Almodet, with whom cabinet making and furniture repairing is a specialty, has established a shop on Front street, between Lincoln and Julia streets. His motto is expressed in his advertisement—"all orders executed with dispatch and satisfaction guaranteed."

The store of Mr. Chapsky, corner of Front and Lincoln streets, and painted red, has received the popular name of the "Red Store" of Hahnville. For abundance of stock, size of store and excellence of arrangement it is an excellent place for the coast.

Planters of this parish need no longer keep regular harness makers and saddlers on their premises. Mr. Gorton, of Hahnville, attends to all branches of the saddlery business. He makes harness, trims and paints carriages, and undertakes every kind of work in his line of business. He works for cash, and will trade for old buggy and buggy iron.

Persons who desire shifts and other kinds of boats should give their orders to Mr. Peper Korn, of this place. He is a most skillful mechanic, both in boat-building and all kinds of carpenter work. He does his work well, quickly and at reasonable rates.

F. B. Earhart, attorney at law, located permanently in this parish, will practice his profession in the Fourth Judicial District, embracing the parishes of St. Charles, St. John, St. James and Ascension. His law office is at Hahnville, where all communications will reach him. See his card in another column.

Mr. Hunzelman, who keeps the store and coffee-house on the corner of Front and Julia streets, adjoining the Hahnville Concert Hall, has an excellent stock of groceries, wines and liquors, and other articles. He sells cheap, gives full weight and measure, and is entirely to his business, and polite to his customers.

Mr. Adam Schneider, in this village, is a most excellent carpenter and cabinet maker, furniture repairer and varnisher. We can recommend him as a man who understands his business and who will faithfully carry out his contracts.

Those wishing anything done in the black smith or carriage making line of business will do well to call on Mr. Fox, our village blacksmith. He is no common mechanic, and has already astonished the people of our parish with the elegance and finish of his work. He makes and repairs wagons and buggy shoes, harness, and does all kinds of iron work.

We call particular attention to the large stock of groceries, dry goods, and various articles at the store of W. I. Moditt, and to the fact that he can sell at as low figures as those of any merchant in New Orleans. Mr. Geo. W. Clamman is connected with the establishment and will treat you as well as his accustomed politeness and business accuracy.

Mr. Joseph Strain, the shoemaker of Hahnville, is doing a "land-office business." Customers come to him from all parts of the parish, from Boutte Station, up and down the coast, and from the opposite side of the river. His work gives general satisfaction. He is equally good in making new boots and shoes as well as repairing them. He is always found at his last, and is attentive to business. Give him a call.

As there is much building constantly going on in this village and vicinity, it would be well to remember that the gutter are better than wooden ones, inasmuch as they do not dry up, shrink and leak; and in this connection we would suggest that better work, and at more reasonable prices, can be obtained from Mr. Henry Aichel, of Hahnville, than from mechanics in the city. Mr. Aichel does a general business in the tin, copper and sheet iron line, and always gives satisfaction to planters and others needing his services or goods.

We have often wondered why it is that men who smoke a good deal do not buy a box of cigars at a time, considering that in this manner they could purchase cigars at four or five cents each which retail at the shops and stores at ten and fifteen cents. This would be a great saving every year. And we have also wondered why the stores along our river coast bought their cigars at New Orleans, when the same kind of cigars might be manufactured at reasonable prices in our midst! But we will no longer have cause to notice these strange things. Mr. Maudsle has removed his cigar manufactory from St. John parish to Hahnville, and now keeps his men constantly employed in making good cigars for the people of this parish and more distant places. The quality and cheapness of his cigars are not excelled anywhere. Just try him!
