DANA'S SARSAPARILLA
On Crutches 10 Years!
EATING SORES THAT WOULD NOT HEAL! CURED! CURED!

DANA SARSAPARILLA Co., Proprietors, Boston, Mass.
For several years I was suffering from a bad blood condition called by different names by the doctors. I tried many remedies but which failed the skill of them all. I then tried my friend's BLOOD PURIFYING AND TONIC, and having a persistent skin disease, which had been on my face for over ten years, I was cured. For months I was confined to my bed and had been unable to walk without crutches for over ten years.
Last July I received a box of your medicine and in ten days I was able to walk without crutches for over ten years.
DANA'S SARSAPARILLA
of Davis Bros. It helped me from the first. I took it faithfully and I can now attend to my household duties and walk as well as any other man.
I am sure that my case is as near a miracle as anything that happens at the present day.
MRS. J. M. OLIVER CHERRIER, 149 N. W. 10th St., St. Paul, Minn.
Dana's Sarsaparilla is a strong recommendation of your valuable medicine. I have no statement to make but I am sure it is true in every respect.
We are very respectfully yours,

AGRICULTURAL.
TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

CABBAGE INSECTICIDE.
There has been considerable discussion recently as to the best insecticide for cabbage. The latest report is from the Pays du Vaud, a bulletin from which says: Among numerous insecticides tried, the best for destroying caterpillars on the cabbage were soft soap and pyrethrum and liver of sulphur and soft soap. The last is made by dissolving 300 grams of soap and fifty grams of liver of sulphur in ten liters of water. The cabbage must be repeatedly sprayed, as new caterpillars are hatched every day. On account of its corrosive action it is not possible to employ this insecticide on tender plants or on the grape in bloom, but on the cabbage its effect is entirely satisfactory.—New York World.

SOAP SUDS NOT INJURIOUS TO TREES.
Soap suds are valuable as a fertilizer, both for the potato and soda of the soap and the matter which is washed from the skin or clothing. The skin wears quite fast, and the soap dissolves the exfoliated scales from it, as well as some other animal matter of a nitrogenous character. This soon decomposes and evolves ammonia, as any one may discover by the odor of the waste of the wash tubs if it is kept a few days in the warm weather. Ammonia is one of the most valuable of all fertilizers. If this waste of the household is gathered in any convenient receptacle and deodorized by means of plaster added to it, or by the addition of some sulphate of iron dissolved in it, it will make the best liquid fertilizer for flowers.—New York Times.

PREPARING A RAIN BARREL.
Though barrels may be used for catching a supply of rain water, if only the best should be selected, yet they will prove bad enough; so bad, in fact, that every household should discard them and put in a cistern, which, for a small family, should hold not less than thirty barrels. Thousands of housewives with large families are obliged to depend upon the common rain barrel for a supply of soft water for dish washing, scrubbing and the weekly family washing. An oil barrel, whether kerosene or other oil, is the best for the purpose. Knock out the head and clean out the barrel with scraping with a knife. Throw in some lighted papers, and let it burn for at least three minutes, or until the outside of the staves feel hot, then throw in water or loose earth to extinguish the flames. Even if the inside be a little charred, there will then be no danger of the oil tainting the water. The oil left in the staves will prevent the expansion and contraction which destroys common barrels.—American Agriculturist.

HARDNESS OF BUTTER.
The New Hampshire experiment station has been conducting some experiments as to the effects of different foods upon the hardness of butter, and though the work in this direction is not as yet extensive enough to justify the drawing of conclusions, their experiments thus far indicate that gluten meal tends to produce a much softer quality of butter than cornmeal or cottonseed meal, and other things being equal, tends to lessen the churnability of the butter fat. That with the same cows the hardness depends much more upon the character of the food than upon the nutritive ratio; that ensilage produce a much softer butter than does good hay; but it is also favorable to the flavor and texture of the butter product; that skimmed milk has a very favorable effect upon the churnability and quality of the butter fat, and in a single trial apparently reversed the general rule that the volatile fatty acids decrease as the period of lactation advances; that cottonseed meal tends to produce an unusually hard quality of butter, and that cottonseed meal and gluten meal might be used together with excellent results; that contrary to general belief the melting point of butter fat is not a good index of the commercial hardness of butter; that while in general a soft butter melts at a lower temperature than a hard butter, there is no definite relation between melting-point and actual hardness; that no relation can be traced between foods and volatile fatty acids, except in the case of skim milk; that usually hardness and volatile acids vary inversely, hardness generally increasing and volatile acids decreasing, as the period of lactation advances.—New York Tribune.

benefits to be derived. As to durability, cedar stands at the head of the list, with oak as second choice.—American Agriculturist.

COLTS IN THE FALL AND WINTER.
The one most important item with colts during the fall and winter is to maintain a vigorous, healthy growth, writes J. N. Shepherd. In doing this it is of course quite an item to lessen the cost as much as possible, but the cost of keeping should never be lessened at the expense of the growth of the stock. More than any other class of stock, growing colts need plenty of exercise. In no other way can they make a good growth and development of bone and muscle. They will, in a majority of cases, fatten faster and often will grow more rapidly if kept closely confined, but with colts neither a rapid growth nor fat is as desirable as a good development of bone and muscle. In the fall a good plan is to shelter at night, and feed whatever ration is necessary to keep thrifty, and allow them to run out during the day every day and as long as the weather will permit. While it is the item that allows them to run out all the time that is possible, it is of no possible advantage to expose them to cold or storms. It is usually best to commence feeding them in good season in the fall, giving a light ration at first, and gradually increasing as their condition may require. There are two advantages in this; one is that they can be kept in a good, thrifty condition much easier, and the other is that the change from green to dry food being made gradually will not produce any ill effects. But there will be only a few days during the fall and winter but that it will be desirable to have the colts run out at least two or three hours during the day. On account of their inclinations to romp and play when turned out, a lot should be provided separate from the cows and sheep, at least where they could have a free run, and there will be no risks of their injuring other stock. Their quarters should be warm and dry—arranged conveniently so that they can be fed economically and conveniently. The ration should be largely of good roughness. Unthreshed oats makes one of the very best rations that can be applied to growing colts, as it supplies both grain and roughness, and the grain supplies the materials most needed by them. Good fodder, with middlings and oil meal, can be used as a change, with an occasional feed of corn to make up a variety. Water regularly and keep salt where they can help themselves. In this way they can be kept growing and thrifty with very little trouble, and this with colts is what is necessary.—Nebraska Farmer.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.
Air-slacked lime is good for galls. Provide the horses with low mangers. Beef scraps are excellent for fattening. With fowls grit takes the place of food. Impure water will cause chicken cholera. It pays to shock well the corn cut for fodder. Fowls enjoy a change of diet and pay well for it. Never give young chickens water before feeding. Do not try to keep too many varieties of poultry. Gather up the sorghum seed to give the poultry this winter. A duck-legged breed of chickens would not be a bad idea. Do not feed your fowls for twenty-four hours before killing. Do not allow the spurs on the roosters to grow too long. Chickens pay better than old fowls which are past their usefulness. Separate the pullets from the cockerels when three or four months old. Fowls enjoy the dust bath and it helps to keep them free from vermin. It pays well to develop the fast-walking gait of draught and farm horses. Boiled beets make an excellent, succulent food for chickens during the winter. Let every generation of your poultry be an improvement on its predecessors. It is the way your ground is tilled rather than the number of acres that counts. If you have no range for poultry, cut a little grass or clover every day for them. Wheat is an excellent food for laying hens. Now that it is cheap lay in a good supply. A scrub will hardly pay for the cost of raising, but good draught horses bring good prices. Horses fed on early cut and well cured hay will come out in good condition next spring. It is harder to find a first-class road or carriage horse to-day than it has been for many years. Guinea fowls are said to be excellent for driving chicken hawks away when nothing else will. It is a good plan to feed the moulting hens liberally now in order to have them in good condition. The small breeds begin to lay when six months old. The large breeds do not begin until they are eight. Turnips will produce larger crops when weeded, but will do well on the average ground if not cultivated. Every foal inherits equally from both parents. It is important to look to the mare as well as to the sire. It is said that the water used by blacksmiths for cooling iron is a good tonic for fowl if given occasionally. Look to the cleanliness of your fowls and you will find they require less food and give better results for it.

Not as Wicked as Painted.
It has become so much the custom for those who are jealous of the greatness and fame of Chicago to publish envious and malicious libels upon her Christian character that it is a pleasant surprise to find in a voice from Canada a fair-minded description of Sunday life in Chicago. In the course of an interesting letter published in a widely circulating Dominion newspaper the correspondent thus disposes of that venerable slander, the "wickedness of Chicago."
"There are over 350 churches in this city, from the pulpits of which ring out 700 warnings each Sabbath to those who have ears to hear. These churches have a seating capacity of 250,000. In addition to this three of the theaters and one large hall and several smaller ones are utilized on Sunday morning for religious purposes. Supposing that each of these churches are but half filled at each service, that would possibly be a fair average for this or any other city, would give an attendance of 125,000 for each service, two services each Sunday (the Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches have more). Add to the 8,000 or 10,000 who attend the several services in the afternoon theaters and halls will bring the total up to considerably over 300,000 church attendants each Sunday in Chicago out of a population of 800,000. Then take into consideration the many Sunday-schools, some of them having an average attendance of 4,000 and 6,000. So, notwithstanding all that might be said about the wickedness of Chicago, she will compare favorably with like cities even in Puritan Canada."

Playing with an Iceberg.
A few years ago a French man-of-war was lying at anchor in Temple Bay, and the younger officers took it into their heads to amuse themselves with an iceberg. They would have a sumptuous picnic on the very top of it. All the warnings of the brown and simple fishermen went for nothing with these gentlemen who had seen the world.
It was a bright summer morning, and the jolly boat with a flag went off to the berg. By twelve o'clock the colors were flying from the top, and the wild midshipmen were reveling on the ice mountain. For two hours or more they hacked it and clambered over it. They frolicked and feasted, and laughed at the very thought of danger on this solid ice.
When, like thoughtless children, the young men had played themselves weary, they descended to their cockpit-shell of a boat and rowed away. As if it were no distance had been measured on purpose for the men to view the scene in safety, the great iceberg lay silent until the boat was a certain distance off. Then, as if its heart had been volcanic fire, it burst with awful thunder, and filled the surrounding water with its ruins.
Aved and subdued by the scene of destruction, and thrilled at their narrow escape from death, the picknickers returned to their ship. It was their first and last day of amusement with an iceberg.

The shortest line that can be drawn upon the earth's surface, one between at the mouth of the Mississippi River and the other at Pekin, China, will cross the Bohring straits. If you doubt this assertion, take a large globe and a piece of thread or string and make the measurements to suit yourself.

Rubber Boots vs. Rheumatism.
Since the general wearing of Rubber Boots among farmers and other outdoor workers, rheumatism has very sensibly decreased. Keep your feet dry and you can expose the rest of your body with less danger. Among the various kinds of Rubber Boots, the "Colchester Spading Boot" has become the most popular of all. The great improvement of the Spading sole gives ease and comfort in walking, prevents the sole from injury and adds to the general stability of the Boot. Be sure and see the "Colchester Spading Boot" before you purchase any other kind.

even if you merely keep them as a diversion. In order to handle Fowls judiciously, you must know something about them. To meet this want we are sending a book of 100 pages, written by one who not only has a practical poultry raising for 25 years, but all his spare time, and money to making a success of Chickens raising—not as a pastime, but as a business—and if you will profit by his twenty-five years' work, you can have many Chickens annually, and make your Fowls earn money for you. The point is that you must be able to detect trouble in the Poultry you raise as soon as it appears, and know how to remedy it. This book will teach you. It tells how to detect and cure disease; to feed for fattening and fattening which fowls to use for breeding purposes; and everything, indeed, you should know on this subject to make it profitable. Sent postpaid for twenty-five cents in stamps.

Stylish hats are still in plateau shape. The bell skirt still maintains its vogue.
Hard times have notably affected the attendance at Vassar College.
Epaulettes appear to be quite as much a feature of fashion as ever.
Lady Isabel Morgesson has devised a woman's pocket that, she says, cannot be picked.
The English Queen's South journey cost her $25,000 a year for traveling expenses.
Five men and a woman recently ran a foot race of 200 yards in Henderson County, North Carolina. The woman won easily.

The number of unmarried women in England and Wales exceeds the number of unmarried men by the majority of nearly 200,000.

When Queen Elizabeth of Austria entered Paris in 1751 she dragged after her a train seventy feet in length. It was borne by thirty-five pages.
It was after Mrs. Martha Lumpkin, now Mrs. Campton, that Atlanta, Ga., was first named "Marthaville," in 1843. Her father was Governor of the State.
Birds of paradise will be worn on the most costly and fashionable hats, and ostrich plumes will still be regarded as one of the most effective trimmings.
Velvet is to be much used as a trimming for hats. Black jetted wings will also be popular. In combination with black, sapphire and peacock-blue will be seen.
Queen Victoria is a skillful and indefatigable knitter. She and her ladies in waiting have knitted many quilts for the use of soldiers in the hospitals.
For autumn hats and bonnets the prevailing colors will be black and white. Eminence shading from the darkest to the palest shade of lavender will also be proper.
The new winter coats are thirty-three inches long, made with a very tight waist, and tremendous sleeves. Nearly all have cape effects about the collar and shoulders.
The most beautiful silk which has appeared to tempt womankind this season is of heavy satin, with a Bayadere stripe in velvet. The combinations of colors are simply exquisite.
Soft, rich tartans of all wool, finished with a corded silk blouse-waist, completed by bretelles, sleeve-puffs, and collar of velvet, are among the pretty dresses designed for misses' best wear.
The autumn tints in dress take their hue from the dying woods. Browns, reds and yellows, with modifications of sea greens, are the tints of fall. Such are seen in the gowns, such in the hats.
An old-time-looking dress has the skirt finished with seven ruffles, the lower one about five inches deep, and each one growing narrower, the upper very slightly over-lapping the lower ones.
George Pullman's daughters give the names to the palace cars which their father has built—very pretty names they are, too—and the very pretty little sum of $100 is the fee for the name.
Mrs. Sealechi, the operatic singer, has a collection of eleven parrots in her home at Turin, Italy. The parrots are accomplished birds, and among them speak all the languages of modern Europe.
The Albanian girl puts all her fortune into gold and silver coins and mounts these on her high cap, that not only the groom but all the assembled company can discern her value at a glance.
There seems to be a reaction in favor of high cut dresses for dinner and evening wear. Some of the most exquisite importations of the year have been dresses with square necks or those slightly cut away in V shape.
A pretty example of the gray hats is a turban with gimp crown. Gray velvet is folded loosely around the crown to form a brim and falls at each side in an ear. White applique lace drapes the velvet and the hat is completed by steel ornaments.
Several men fired at a cougar which had been treed near Five-Mile Lake in Washington the other day, but failed to hit it. Finally a Mrs. Glover asked to be allowed to take a shot at the beast, and she brought it down dead at the first discharge.
Black Heronets and other braids are used with remarkable liberality as trimming for cloth wraps. Jackets have the skirts trimmed with rows of braid in graduated width. Colored cloth capes are overlaid from rear to lower edge with black braid put on in waving cross lines and other designs.
A notable Louisiana woman is Mrs. Bechet of Haynesville, who, though eighty years old, rides on horseback to and from her farm every day, a distance of six miles, superintends all the details of its management and disposes of the crops in a business-like way that would do credit to any man.
The will of Esther Pomeroy, which was filed for probate at Springfield, Mass., is a peculiar document. It specifies with great detail how each article of personal property is bequeathed, and even gives direction to the executor to finish quilting a bed-quilt, that it may be in good condition to give to a relative.
Tight-fitting velvet coats are to be worn in black, dark green; also in plum color. The skirts, or basques, longer than short, but certainly not reaching to the knees; the new basque is close-fitting round the waist, but being cut out of material folded crosswise, there is very considerable fullness at and near the edge of the basque.
