The past has been a very dull week in tobacco, and the amount sold has been very small, especially by auction at the Exchange. The small sales by auction were owing mainly to the poor or unsound character of the tobacco, and for which there is no demand, except at miscrably low prices, while sound, desirable grades are still wanted, and at good prices. WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The conferrees on the River and Harbor bill have agreed to everything except a question as to railroad bridges. It was proposed that when a railroad bridges was deemed an obstruction to navigation the company should be notified to change it within one year. The railroad companies protested against this, and maintained that the obstruction, to require a change of the structure, should be unreasonable, and that they should not only be given ample time, but that the War Department should specify the changes required. The conferees, or some of them, have inserted provisions to this effect, and that has caused the friction and delay.

EDMUNDS' RECESS RESOLUTION. The resolution introduced in the Senate oday by Mr. Edmunds, praying for a retess from Septrmber 19th to November 19th, as suggested by the recent discussion of graphs 357 to 359, relating to raw wool, s the feaders of the Republicar Sparty action or agreement. Some Rypublican Senators say that the resolution will never come to a vote. Democratic Senators say that this proposition is a violation of the agreement under which the Tariff bill is now being hurried through the Senate, which was that the Federal Elections bill should not be considered at this session of Congress. If Congress should take a recess till November 10th, the time between November 10th and the first Monday in December would be meluded in the first session of the dist Congress, and any attempt to bring the Elections bill up at that time or to bring about a change in the ruise under which the Elections bill could be disposed of, would be regarded by some at least of the Democratic Senators as a violation of the agreement recently unde. Senator Hoar, who is in charge of the Election bill, and who is anxious that it shall be passed, said to a United Press reporter, this afternoon, that he had not seen Mr. Edmunds' resolution and only knew by hearsay what it contained. Taking a recess instead of an adjournment would relieve the fPresident of the necessity of calling an extra session of Congress to enable the Senate to pass the Election bill. It would also make it unnecessary for Congress to inform the President that a quorum of both houses had assembled and were ready to receive any message which he might desire to communicate. A quorum of both houses is necessary at a called session, whereas when Congress re-assembles after a recess each house proceeds in the Same manner as if it had adjourned from the previous day.

Mr. Powderly has taken a new tack. He said Mr. Webb had stopped talking, and he did not see why he should say anything. Mr. Powderly is very enthusiastic jabout the proposed investigation of the strike by the state Board of Arbitration and Mediation, but he says he has made no preparations to put in a case. There is, ns to put in a case. There is, doubt, that Chairman Donovan will no doubt, that Chairman Donovan will have a long list of witnesses whom Mr. Fowderly thinks will damage the Contral road and prove his contention that the men were discharged because they were Kuights. The investigation is held to make the Board solid with the labor vote, and there is no doubt that these witnesses will be given a good show.

He replied that he had been busy organizing assemblies of the Knights of Labor. I then asked why he neglected his work on the road for that purpose. Because I can make more money, he replied. 'I get four dollars a day and my expenses for organizing, and that's better than running trains.'"

Now can this state of affairs be remedied? You have heard a great deal said within the past ten years by our Democratic friends about the iniquity of the Republican party keeping up the war tariff. As a matter of fact, the war tariff has not been kept upt but has been amended over and over again until the revision of 1883 left scarcely a trace of the actual tariff that was in operation at the close of the war and for a few years afterwards. So entirely has the war tariff been abolished that in the fiscal year ending June 39, 1890, the articles admitted free were considerably more than one-third of all the imports. The inevitable tendency is, I think, toward an increase of the free list. Our great mistake was made when we began to repeal the war duties on so large an amount of imports. Any duty repeal was a favor and an advantage to the exporting country, and we have asked nothing in return. Instead of this course (which I must say was one of carelessness and wastefulness by both political parties) every repeal of marks that would show the specific necessity for women as inspectors. Mrs. Bremer complied by making a statement, the details of which shocked many of the male delegates. She told of atrocities that girls employed in factories were were compelled to bear in this State, and even in this city, and of instances in which the sufferers had told her of them. Inadequate sanitary arrangements, and immoralities that were not discovered when the first inspection was made, were called to her attention afterwards by girls who almost foared to speak to her even in private. Mrs. Bremer, by her bold speech, convinced every doubter as to the usefulness of female inspecters. from the United States and thus stablish reciprocity of trade it should ave been done. With all the uties we have thus far repealed it has been question of whether we should get somehing or get nothing. I hope now, with our yes open, that we shall in future choose to get something.

THE GRAND ARMY FOR ALGER.

The Grand Army of the Republic has outlined for itself a stupendous task. It is no less a work than the nomination and election of General Russell A. Alger for the Presidency on the Republican tecket in 1892. The late cacamanaent of the veterans in Boston made clear the plan of the leaders in the Grand Army. Alger is their Presidential idor. Hundreds of them, when asked whom the Republicans would nominate for President in 1892, answered unhesitatingly, "Alger."

This feeling of the veterans throws some light on the rather cool reception accorded to President Harrison during his visit among the veterans. The only enthusiasm found was ambug those outside the Grand Army. So it may be safely said that the Grand Army in 1892 will not be for Harrisson, and that it will be for Alger.
