

ANOTHER CREMATORY SITE.

The Council Sustained the Mayor's Veto Last Evening.

A LOT IN JACKSON WARD SELECTED.

The Resolution Was Adopted Almost Unanimously—The Location—Routine Business Which Was Transacted.

The Common Council at its meeting last evening accepted a new site for the crematory. This last position for this much-abused project is on St. Paul, between Orange and Bacon streets.

St. Paul street is north from Duval, and Orange and Bacon streets are on the eastern limits of the city, being on the outside of the section best known by the name of "Africa," the residents of that section being for the most part negroes.

The Council met last evening to consider the question as to whether the site for the crematory shall be on the vacant lot in rear of the almshouse, or whether they should sustain the action of the Mayor and put the new establishment in some other part of the city.

Mayor Ellison, it will be remembered, vetoed the resolution which provided for the site of the almshouse site, but at a recent meeting of the Board of Aldermen the resolution was passed over the Mayor's veto. The matter then went to the Common Council, and the matter was laid over at the last meeting until last evening, when Mr. W. L. White stated that he could be held by that time offer to the Council some more advantageous site.

Some objection to the almshouse site was raised by the Northside Land and Improvement Company, the Richmond Locomotive Works and the residents of Barton Heights, in reference to these people's wishes and Mr. White's statement, action was postponed until last evening.

There were quite a number of spectators to the proceedings last evening, among them being Messrs. S. B. Witt, John S. Elliott, J. H. Barton, H. Lee Lorraine, Peter A. Sublett, J. M. Ferguson, Jack Temple, J. M. Mosby, K. Taylor, Pemberton, W. C. Taylor and R. B. Chaffin.

Councilmen, however, were scarce, for it was with difficulty that a quorum was gotten together. Two points connected with the meeting unfortunately occurred to keep them away. The Chamberlaine, who was invited to Richmond, and many were evidently of the opinion that the discussion would be heated and tiresome. These facts being probably taken into consideration by the hard-working City Fathers, many of them were absent from the front porch at the various park benches, hence it was half past 8 o'clock before a quorum could be counted.

After roll-call President Campbell stated the history of the resolution, as referred to above. This was read by the clerk, Mr. W. L. White, who then stated that he hoped the Council would sustain the Mayor's veto, as a site in another part of the city would be offered. That there was a gentleman present who had a proposition to make, which he felt sure would be satisfactory, and by sustaining the Mayor the Council would then prepare itself to receive any proposition for a new site for the crematory.

A PROPOSITION. There seemed to be no disposition on the part of the Council to act thus blindly, and several members asked where the new site was situated. Clerk August had in his possession the proposition, and at the request of Mr. White it was informally read. The paper was signed by Messrs. J. S. Elliott, J. M. Ferguson and H. Lee Lorraine, and read as follows:

"Thanking you for your courtesy in granting us the delay requested in establishing the proposed crematory, and desiring to aid and assist you in the same, feeling assured we have obtained a site not only suitable, but less objectionable on St. Paul street between Orange and Bacon streets, we hereby propose to exchange the same for the lot recently purchased by the city on Buchanan street."

"Especially desiring that the city by our delay shall suffer no pecuniary loss, therefore, we propose to indemnify it to the extent of $300, although we cannot believe that your honorable body could or would exact a penalty from us under the existing circumstances."

Mr. White spoke in advocacy of the change and stated in his remarks that the new site had been the dumping ground for garbage of that section of the city for many years, and is situated several hundred yards from any dwelling. Its topographical situation is such that it precludes any building improvements near it for many years to come.

A vote was then taken on the resolution, which resulted in the Mayor's veto being sustained and the resolution lost. There were twenty-five yeas, with no ayes, and the following members voted: Messrs. Elliott, Carter, Carzell, Christian, Courtney, Dickson, Ferguson, Ferriter, Gaines, Garber, Glover, Grimes, Guigon, Houston, Jackson, Mann, Stratton, Thomas, Thon, Trower, J. W. White, Royal White, W. L. White, Campbell.

As soon as the roll had been announced Mr. White moved that the rules be suspended, and the foregoing proposition be formally presented and read to the Council.

Mr. White then offered a resolution that the city accept the exchange, and also the $300. This latter was offered by Messrs. Elliott, Ferguson and Lorraine to pay the city for any pecuniary loss it might sustain in removing the building material from the almshouse lot to the new site on St. Paul street.

Mr. Glover said that he did not think it best to make the gentleman pay $300 when the people in the vicinity of Buchanan street had to pay a cent when the material had been taken from their vicinity. He moved that the clause in reference to the $300 be stricken out of the resolution. This was done, Messrs. Christian, Grimes and Mann voting in the negative.

A RESOLUTION ADOPTED. The resolution was then adopted—yeas, 22; nays, 1. Councilmen Jackson, Layne and White of Jackson ward voting in the negative. Mr. Carzell, as soon as the vote had been announced, moved that the rules be suspended, and the building permit for Gordon S. Witt be granted. These men wish to build the gas station on Henry street, between Broad and Grace.

After some little discussion the Council refused to grant the permission. The body then adjourned.

The crematory matter will now go back to the Mayor for his approval, and if that is done the resolution will be sent to the Mayor for his approval.

JUSTICE JOHN'S COURT.

Little Charlie Ross Was Before His Honor—A Case of Love. "Charlie Ross" (Charles Ross) came the loud and the small congregation of whites and blacks leaped to their feet in eager expectation to see the result of the trial of the boy, who for years ago left the parental roof, and who for years has furnished work for the busy-eyed detectives and many a column for enterprising daily journals.

It seemed perfectly natural that after trying cases other than in the country Charlie should come to Richmond, and it was a foregone conclusion that our efficient police would capture him at once. Up came Charlie, but lo! he was not the "long leg," he was about three shades of color, and was only about ten years of age, although he looked, however, somewhat like the boy, although not so exceedingly smooth, and had distinguished himself by stealing fifteen cents' worth of choice bonbons. The Justice ordered him whipped in court, and his father duly applied the lash.

There was another love case on hand yesterday and around it centered about all the interest that the sweethearts could find the life to manifest. Love is a great word at the police court, and Colonel Sam Face always grows eloquent when he mentions it. It is a good all-round utility word with the lawyers and witnesses, and Colonel Face yesterday in his decision cried out in a loud voice: "Oh love, what crimes are committed in thy name."

The case yesterday was of an artless-looking telegraph operator, with a rosy, round face and a delicate suspicion of a moustache, who had made love to Katie, the daughter of a city grocer. Katie in Kansas would be a voter, she has attained a sufficient age but, as the heart never grows cold, it is said that Katie loved. At any rate, the gay manipulator of the wires had but little trouble in borrowing Katie's watch, which was valued at $38. Pausing about long enough to tell the time, he added to his deplored exchequer by leaving the golden time-piece embower the sign of the three brass balls. How much he got on it was not revealed, but Katie has since had to content herself with cutting a notch on the kitchen door and telling the time by the sun.

Katie's father seemed to be the prime mover in the matter, and the Justice thought that if time was given the case would be "all in the family," so it was continued to September 19th.

Amie Grath hath not pleasing features. This she made some inroads upon the once pure white face and the ambient fluids have left a peach-blow tint upon her nose. Henry Grath, her husband, seems to keep her company in the revels which almost nightly have been held at her home. Some years ago Amie's first husband climbed the golden ladder and left her $2,000. Amie then on pleasure bent selected a good trotting mate and proceeded to buy up in convenient quantities $2,000 worth of intoxicants. She has done well and her task is about completed, much to Henry's disgust. They were sent to jail for sixty days.

George Miller, a silver colored boy, admitted the stealing of a small colored boy, from the house of J. W. Gordon. The Justice required security for one year, and George went to jail in default.

Allice Friday and Napoleon Johnson were fined $2.50 each for disorderly conduct. Ralph Braxton was fined $2.50 for using profane language on the streets.

Walter Vincent (white) was dismissed on the charge of assaulting J. T. Keiser, but was assessed $2 for being drunk.

John J. H. Newman was sent to jail in default of $100 security for sixty days. He was charged with being disorderly on the street. H. C. Baltz, Plaquemin Bros. and W. F. Clarke were all fined $2.00 each for keeping their stores open on the Sabbath.

VISITORS FROM OHIO.

Board of Managers of the Penitentiary on a Tour of Inspection. The board of managers of the Ohio penitentiary arrived in the city last evening and are registered at Ford's hotel.

The board consists of Messrs. Watt Watkins, president, J. H. Newman, secretary; Frederick Hoer, Nathaniel Adams, J. H. Barton, Colonel Ferdinand Rempel and Warden B. F. Dyer.

The object of the present visit of the board to the East is to investigate the various Eastern penitentiaries and also to learn the manner of employing the men and considering the desirability of working by contract or piece-work. As this information of course can be obtained to so much greater advantage by a personal investigation, the board are making an extensive trip.

They left Columbus, O., one week ago yesterday, and have already visited Auburn, Sing Sing and the Kings county penitentiary at Brooklyn.

They left New York on Tuesday and came by boat to Norfolk, and thence over the Chesapeake and Ohio to Richmond. They will visit the penitentiary today, and will leave over the York River line for Baltimore this afternoon. The individual members of the board are men of experience and ability and their observations during this trip will doubtless result in many good reforms.

Mr. J. H. Newman, the secretary of the board, is an old newspaper correspondent. He reports that they have been received with the utmost courtesy by the officials of all of the prisons they have visited, and have obtained many points of interest. The members of the board were much fatigued by the long journey, and retired early in preparation for a busy day.

SPOTSWOOD D. CHAMBERLAYNE.

Funeral Services Yesterday From St. Mark's Episcopal Church. The funeral services of Mr. Spotswood D. Chamberlayne were held yesterday afternoon at St. Mark's church and were conducted by Rev. Dr. Dashiell.

The floral tributes were numerous, and attested the great personal popularity of the deceased. The services were singularly appropriate and sweet, and the solo by Captain Frank Cunningham was simple and affecting.

The deceased was in his forty-eighth year and was a son of the late Byrd Chamberlayne, a former well-known citizen of Richmond, and a cousin of the late Captain John Hamden Chamberlayne. He served gallantly in the war with the Blues and afterwards in the Ninth Virginia Cavalry.

The following were the pall-bearers: E. S. Rose, Frank Cary, A. N. Pizzini, Richard Gentry, J. W. Kemler, William J. Foy, O. N. Keeningsham and Thomas C. Tinsley.

Examination Not Held on Account of the Wounded Man's Condition. The preliminary examination in the case of Luigi Mastino, charged with feloniously shooting Peter Augustine last Sunday evening, was set for trial at the Henrico County Court house yesterday, but the wounded man being unable to appear, the case was continued until Wednesday next. Dr. Archer was in court and stated that Augustine was improving and would be able to be in court next Wednesday. Augustine's wife was present, besides a number of friends of the injured man and the accused.

Nockels, president; William Doloff, vice-president; and Barney Bret, secretary and treasurer—all of Fairfield district.

G. W. Eanes, sergeant of Petersburg, arrived yesterday with John Chavers (colored), convicted of grand larceny and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

CITY CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

Manchester Democrats Ordered Ward Meetings to Be Held.

OLD CONFEDERATE RELICS DISCOVERED.

They Belonged to Lieutenant Nathan Egan and Were Hid When Richmond Was Evacuated—Other News.

The City Central Democratic Committee held a meeting last evening in the office of A. J. Bradley & Co., Leader building, and the following stirring young Democrats answered to the roll-call: J. W. Cordle and Preston Stark, from the First ward; Lawrence P. Pool and E. H. Hooker, Second ward; J. E. Redford and A. J. Daffron, Third ward; A. J. Bradley and James Holliday, Fourth ward. Chairman A. J. Bradley called the meeting to order, and Secretary Lawrence P. Pool read the proceedings. The only matter of business transacted was the instructions to the chairman of the different wards to call a meeting of their wards for Thursday, August 27th, at whatever time and place they felt disposed to designate.

The election of delegates to the Senate and House Convention to be held September 9th in the Leader building, Manchester is entitled to eleven delegates, as follows: Two from First ward, two from Second, three from Third and four from Fourth. The meeting adjourned at 9 P. M. to meet again September 3d.

Yesterday morning while workmen were renovating the old frame building at Ninth and Everett streets, now occupied by Mr. Morton Adams, they unearthed an old Confederate coat and a scabbard and a sword. The coat was a trifle worn for want of wear and constant association with dirt, mice, and the like for the past twenty-seven years. The sword and scabbard were not in such bad condition. Mr. Adams clipped the buttons from the old coat and turned the things over to Chief of Police Lipscomb. The Chief showed the relics to a Times reporter and said: "That coat you see has the marks of an officer with rank as second lieutenant of artillery." Speaking further, the reporter said: "The coat is that of an old Confederate soldier, it looks just like Nat. See the shape of it, and I think Nathan lived in that house during the late war." Upon receiving the above information the reporter called at Mr. Eubank's residence on Melbourn street.

When told his errand the reporter was invited in and informed by Mr. Eubank that the things were evidently his, and that his wife could tell all about it. Mrs. Eubank very kindly gave the following account of the relic: "The coat was made at an old Richmond tailor, Mr. Eubank, who was here at the time, was summoned to the Langville shop to assist in getting up a train. Before going my husband said to me, 'Conceal everything that would give my rank to those people. Richmond will go to-morrow. Accordingly I hid the scabbard, musket, shotgun and a few other things and hid them between the plastering and the whidderboarding. The house we were living in was not quite completed and I took the things up-stairs and hid them down there. The letter was hidden from my memory, but I recall it very plainly now.' Mr. Eubank in speaking of the matter, said: 'I moved into that house the first year of the war. I was then second lieutenant in the Manchester Artillery, Norfolk division. At the evacuation of Richmond in May, 1862, I was transferred to Stonewall Jackson's brigade, and was with him from Winchester, May 10th, till the battle of Malvern Hill. During all of that time I wore the old coat you saw to-day. I was in it when we first left the city, and I wore it that old until the summer of 1863, when I got a new one. Never were there better soldiers than the old Manchester Artillery, or more devoted fellows of the Lost Cause. I got the gun and musket from their hiding place some time after the close of the war, and I have had the coat weatherboarded. The coat and other things I have never thought of since.'"

Mr. Clinton Broadbent met with another robbery Tuesday night similar to the one of last week, an account of which appeared in the Times of the 10th inst. Several weeks ago Mr. Broadbent, who is a great admirer of fancy poultry, purchased a setting of Cornish India game eggs, and taking them to his home, on Porter street, put them under old birdy. They were faithfully performed her duty, but a week or so ago in the still midnight darkness an unknown visitor quietly relieved the old cackler of her charge, and the eggs were taken to parts unknown. Mr. Broadbent was greatly worried, but got himself some more eggs, and this time placed them under a hen in his back part of the house, and the cash drawer robbed of about ten dollars. The police are looking out and expect to get the guilty party.

ATIMES reporter was yesterday given the very interesting information that it was hot. The name of the party is withheld, but come to think about the matter, it has been a trifle warm. Range of thermometer at the Times Bureau was 3 A. M., 81 degrees; 12 M., 96 degrees; 3 P. M., 90 degrees. This speaks well for old Sol's ability, and makes the people hustle for shady nooks in the rural districts and mountain regions.

Mr. J. T. Canada, who was hurt by a thrown missile of some description while on his train, an account of which has already appeared in these columns, is doing as well as can be expected, and will be brought home as soon as his injuries will admit of removal. He is now in Danville.

Mr. George W. Holt, a prominent confectioner on Hull street, said to a Times reporter last evening: "I want your paper, please have it left with my store in the morning. I am well pleased with the interest you are manifesting towards our city and people."

Mr. J. T. Canada, of this city, preached a Venable-street church last evening. Considering the great heat, the regular Wednesday night prayer-meetings in the different churches were well attended.

Eight cars of negro excursionists from Raleigh, N. C., passed through the city last evening en route to Richmond. There were about six hundred of them and they made the air loud with their hurrahs as the train rolled through the city.

Parties are boring for coal in the neighborhood of Tomahawk creek in Chesterfield, and say the prospects are good for a splendid find.

Mr. Gustave Kahn, of Baltimore, Md., who has been visiting friends in the city, returned home yesterday, accompanied by his cousin, Miss Hattie Kahn.

One can only get transfer tickets now on the Hull street line and electric line at Seventh and Perry streets or the Richmond end of the Free Bridge.

D. P. MONTAGUE. He Died Yesterday at the Residence of His Brother. Mr. D. P. Montague died at 8 o'clock last evening at the residence of his brother, John H. Montague, 115 east Franklin street, after an illness of about two months' duration. Mr. Montague was a native of Richmond, and commenced his career early in life as a clerk in the old well-known house of John Ender, Sr. A few years later he went to Baltimore and with the firm of Spence & Reid, sugar importers, and ultimately became a partner, when the firm name was changed to Spence, Montague & Co. After several years he went to New York city and conducted a business for several years in the purchase of sugar and also spent several winters there while carrying on transactions with the merchants there. Mr. Montague lacked only three days of reaching his fifty-ninth year, and though comparatively a young man, he retired from active business pursuits fifteen years ago. Since that time he has lived in New York and Morristown, New Jersey, but has traveled extensively during the same time. Early in the summer Mr. Montague came to Old Point and spent some time, and from there came to Richmond and took rooms at the Exchange Hotel. While there he was taken sick and was taken to his brother's residence. He had been a sufferer from gout for several years and lately his trouble took a tropical turn and finally, with other complications, caused his death.

Mr. Montague, while possessing the force of character to make him highly successful in business and a man of affairs, his nature was as gentle as that of a woman and a lovable spirit filled all his intercourse with a large acquaintance. He was never married, but expended much affection upon his niece and adopted daughter, Miss Kitty Montague, who came from New York to his bedside here and was with him in his last hours. He had a large number of warm friends in both Baltimore and New York, and besides his brothers, Messrs. John W. and William L. Montague, of this city, Mr. W. P. Montague, of New York, and Generals Charles F. Montague, of Howard county, Maryland, also survive him. The funeral will take place from St. James Episcopal church today, and the interment will be made at Hollywood. The arrangements will be announced hereafter.

The Week of Prayer. Owing to the fact that last evening was the regular evening for mid-week services in all the Methodist churches, the union prayer meeting was passed and each church had its independent meeting. The regular subject was adhered to, however, and was, as follows: Prayer for the increase of our church and the interment will be made at Hollywood. The arrangements will be announced hereafter.

AN OPINION RENDERED. Justice Crutchfield Dismissed the Case Against the Road. Justice Crutchfield yesterday delivered an opinion in the case of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad Company, charged with running passenger cars over the connection track on Belvidere street.

The Justice said that he was satisfied that the company had violated the ordinance, but that taking into consideration the attendant circumstances he should dismiss the case, just as he was often called upon to do in cases of individuals who, without intent to willfully violate the ordinance, had kept within the strict interpretation of the law.

The engine had the right to pass over the track, and Major Courtney ordered the two empty coaches to be attached. They had been at the repair shops and he did not consider it a violation of the law to have them there. He also recommended that the company give positive orders regarding the observance of the ordinances.

FOUND IN THE DOCK. The Body of an Unknown White Man Taken from Its Grave of Water. The body of an unknown white man was found on the south side of the dock opposite the old York river depot yesterday about 1 o'clock. Coroner Taylor examined the body and had the remains removed to the morgue. No inquest has been held, and it has not been established the identity of the man had not been ascertained, but he probably came from Newport News.

The deceased has on a pair of coarse overalls and a black coat, and is about the age of five years of age, and weighed some 150 pounds and was about five feet seven inches in height. The body had evidently been in the water for several days, as the face was much swollen. There were no marks or papers on the body by which it could be identified, except some visiting cards bearing the name of a man named Shutz at Newport News.

James W. New. The remains of the late James W. New, a former citizen of Richmond, whose death in Hartford was published in the Times of Tuesday, is arrived in this city by the Richmond and Fredericksburg railroad yesterday at 2:30 P. M.
