

JOYOUS MANCHESTER.

OUR CITY ACROSS THE RIVER FILLED WITH REJOICING.

Chesterfield Joins in the Great Parade. Granite Swells the Ranks of the Marchers—Other News Items.

MANCHESTER BUREAU RICHMOND TIMES, 1121 HULL STREET, BEATRICE BLOCK.

Nothing was talked of in Manchester yesterday but the parade of last night, and preparation for it began about 6 o'clock.

The Blues' Band were in place at the Leader building at 6 P. M.

Everything moved promptly, and the procession began moving towards Swansboro to meet the Chesterfield men.

The Band preceded a carriage with Judge Ingram, Mayor Maurice, Colonel Macon and Mr. John O'Brien in it.

They came the members of the city Democratic committee in carriages.

The mounted Chesterfieldians fell in with Judge B. A. Hancock and Judge William I. Clifton at their head.

There were at least five hundred of them, and Swansboro sent seventy-five alone.

Five hundred more from Manchester swelled the representation to goodly numbers in Richmond.

Hull street was bright as day with the torches of the paraders and the red fire and fireworks from end to end.

Some of the transparencies read: "We are again at home."

"Bully Mahone's own city wallops him."

"Stevenson will use his axe."

"Sit down, 'Shanty' Smith."

"In memory of Haskins Hobson," "Mr. John S. Wise, of New York."

"Grandpa's hat did not save little Ben," and many other good ones.

The Alert Fire Company, in full uniform, paraded twenty-five men, and pulled their reel along.

This reel was surmounted by young Graham Gallagher, dressed as the Goddess of Liberty, and a very charming Miss Liberty made, too.

Captain Hatcher commanded the Democrats from Granite, 72 men.

The march was from the start at the Leader office to Swansboro and back via Hull street to Richmond via Mayo's bridge, over which free passage was kindly given by the Mayor.

The chief marshal of the Manchester men was Mr. A. J. Bradley, and of the Chesterfield men Captain H. Clay Chamblin.

Their aides have already been published. Arriving in Richmond, the visitors from Manchester, Chesterfield and Granite were given a prominent place in the procession.

They attracted great attention in the line of march.

Miss Erma Hall, of Bedford, is the guest of her cousins, the Misses Hall, of Decatur street.

Mr. W. L. Robinson, the superintendent of the Old Dominion Cotton Mills, of Manchester, was called to his mother's house, in Chesterfield, near Petersburg, yesterday, by the sudden death of his brother, Everett L. Robinson.

The latter was widely acquainted in Manchester, and the news of his death will bring out much sympathy.

Judge Hancock, of Chesterfield Circuit Court, will try the suit against the Farmville and Powhatan Railroad Company next week. The county of Powhatan is interested largely in this suit.

Hopewell church, in Chesterfield, will be dedicated on the first Sunday in December.

Rev. R. N. Sledd, of Centenary church, Richmond, will have charge of the services, which will be very interesting.

Mr. Ernest Bradshaw and Miss Nannie J. Malone, both of Manchester, went to Washington to be married yesterday.

old Fifteenth Virginia regiment, of Pickett's command. The pipes for the water supply to the Male Orphan Asylum have been laid, but much work is yet to be done before the water can be turned on.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST.

An Able Lecture to be Delivered at the Mozart Academy.

To-night a large audience of Richmond's most cultured people will enjoy an intellectual treat at the Academy of Music by an account of the drama of the life of Christ.

Mr. Finney has chosen a subject of more than ordinary interest, and one that appeals to all that is best and noblest in man.

The life of Christ is a matter that all the Christian world is familiar with and interested in.

From infancy to old age we are all taught of the wonderful love of Christ in dying for the sins of the world.

And why is it so? Is it not for the same reason that the play, no matter how beautiful the language in which it is written, is never impressed upon our minds by more readings as the life of Christ is?

Not to do anything, however, or to put off doing anything as long as possible, and then do as little as possible.

This is the popular mandate, but notwithstanding the timid cry is heard even in influential quarters.

Not now; not now; wait till next Congress meets, though next Congress is more than a year off, and then act so that, though legalized robberies are as thick as leaves that strew the brooks in Vallambrosa, nobody will be disturbed, as if possible to cut off limb or organ and the patient not suffer.

As well expect the thief to feel the halter draw with good opinion of the law as to disturb abuses, however gross, and not expect a great outcry of a ruined country.

The party must be prepared for heart-rending wails from the whole family of protected parasites whenever the knife is applied, whether an extirpation or regular session, so nothing can be gained by delay.

WHAT WILL CLEVELAND DO?

Shall There be an Extra Session?—That is the Question of the Hour.

Editor of The Times: By an overwhelming majority the people have decided that protection is unconstitutional and that the Democratic party must radically amend if not repeal that monster of protection.
