St. Joseph's Church-Many Richmond People Present... Father McCarthy's Sermon on the Oceasion.

CHICAGO, July 2.—As a result of the general tie-up of the Stock Yards railroads, six thousand men and four hundred girls employed in the big packing houses were laid off this morning. During the early morning the Burlington road succeeded in bringing in five trains of live stock, each train containing thirty cars. The receipts of live stock at B o'clock were 8,060 cattle, 0,000 hogs, and about 2,000 sheep, and these were killed to-day for local consumption. No coal has been received at the Stock Yards since last Thursday, and orders were issued this morning for a general clean up, preparatory to shutting down the packing houses to-night.

At noon 7,900 hore employes of the packing houses were laid off, making fully 80 per cent. of the employes now out. There is nothing for them to do, and the houses have shut down indefinitely. PETERSBURG, VA., July 2.-Special .-Yesterday was a big day with our Catholic citizens and the occasion brought to Petersburg a very large crowd from Norfolk, Portsmouth and suchmond. Among those who came were the different Catholic societies of the cities named. On the arrival of the visiting societies, which were met at the depot by the Catholic societies of Petersburg, the pro-cession was formed, with Colonel John Murphy, of Richmond, as chief marshal.

The procession, headed by a platoon of police and St. Mary's band, of Richmond, marched through some of the and the houses have shut down indefinitely.

The report telegraphed from Des Moines that General Master Workman Sovereign, of the Knights of Labor, had ordered all employes of the Stock Yards to strike this morning is laughed at by the officials of this district. None of the twenty thousand employes are organized or belong to any labor organization, and it is doubtful if they would strike, as the whole plant will close to-night.

The Burlington road has 467 cars of live stock on the road between Chicago and Galesburg, and the Rock Island have turned 20,000 head of live stock into pasturage at Geneso, Ill. The stone was laid by Bishop Van de Vyver, and the ceremony was very impressive. The priests who took part in the exercises were Rev. T. I. Wilson, the pastor of the church; Rev. Francis T. McCarthy, of Washington, D. C.; Rev. Father Riley, of Richmond; Rev. J. J. Doherty, of Norfolk; Rev. P. F. Donahoe, of Richmond; Rev. H. T. Cutler, of Alexandria; Rev. J. FATHER M'CARTHY'S SERMON.

The laying of the stone was followed by a sermon by Father McCarthy, of Washington, who spoke in the open air and extemporaneously. Before entering upon the chief theme of his discourse Father McCarthy said; "When the 'greatest soldier of modern times,' General Robert E. Lee, left the sylvan beauties of Arlington Heights and the series joys of a happy home to cast his lot with his native State, and led with peerless gkill and bravery the armies of the Confederacy the delicate and generous consideration of the poople for whom he acrificed so much, relieved him of solicitude with regard to his wife and family by providing for them a home. You, dear friends, are gathered here to-day to build a home for the indwelling of one to whom your debt is infinitely greater, who is the most perfect of men, and, at the same time, very God. When I consider the dimensions and the artistic decorations called for by the plans for his new church and the expenditures involved and the smallness of this congregation, I cannot but admire the faith and generosity of the small flock equal to the carrying out of such large designs. As you do not wish your church to be distinguished by the lottiness of its spires and the largeness of its mortgage and shrink from allowing any man or company from owning, even in part, this home erected for your God, it is necessary that you give largely and at once. They who are come from distant cities are surely not present simply to witness a pageant or by words only to express good will towards the Catholics of Petersburg, but will by their substantial offerings help to complete the good work so well beguin." Father McCarthy next entered upon the discussion of his theme and selected as his text, "And his name shall be called Emanuei onterpreted, God with uso." Father McCarthy spoke for fifty minutes, and it would be impossible to do justice to the sermon in a short synopsis. It was, however, a very able exposition of the text, and was heard with deep interest. ORDINATION SERVICES.

Very impressive ordination services were Very impressive ordination services were held at St. Paul's Episcopal church yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. In the absence of Bishop Randolph, of Southern Virginia, who was detained by sickness. Bishop Whittle, of the diocese of Virginia, presided. The sermon was preached by Rev. E. L. Goodwin; after which Messrs, Joneph B. Dunn and James F. Frummer, both of Petersburg, were presented by Rev. C. R. Hains, and were ordained deacons, and Rev. William A. R. Goodwin, pastor of St. John's church, and Rev. E. Stirling Gunn, of Brandon church, Prince George county, presented by Rev. E. L. Goodwin, were advanced to the priest-hood. NEW YORK, July 2.—A dispatch from Albany to the Herald says; The rumor that Senator Hill intends to take the nomination for Governor this fail, and that his opposition to the income tax
feature of the tariff bill in the Senate is designed to strengthen him with the people of the State in the gubernatorial race, is revived here. It is, however, asserted that Richard Croker's return from abroad has a direct bearing on the plan, Mr. Croker's presence beling necessary for the perfection of the preliminary arrangements.

Democratic delegates to the convention,
who are the only prominent Democrats
in town just now, were reluctant to express an opinion on the rumored programme, fearing to declare themselves before the matter is definitely settled.
Some of them, however, consented to talk. David McClure, of the Twelfth district, in New York, said: "I have heard Senator Hill's opposition to the income tax spoken of as a possible indication that he might be again a candidate for Governor, but I do not think much of it. If Governor Flower wants

Prior to 1825 all shoes made for women's wear were without heels, and after that date all heels of that class were of the concave patterns up to 1857. From the earliest dates in shoemakins down to 1849 women's shoes were all 'straights,' that is to say, they were made so as to be worn on either foot without inconvenience. The first set of "rights and lefts" lasts were made in Philadelpain and hought by Daniel Silsbee, a manufacturer, whose works were located in what is, or was, known as "Woodend," Lyun, Mass. All flannel can be kept from further shrinking if it is first soaked in cold and then in hot water before it is made up. And all cloth, elifter of the flanner family or smooth-faced, as lady's cloth, should be sponged before it is cut into. This would save a good deal of after trouble in the way of spotting and soiling. Many of these materials will show, unless they are thus attended to, every spot of water dropped upon them as if it were grease. A rainstorm will almost ruin them.

The shelves should not be more than fourteen inches wide and about nineteen inches apart. Where they are wider than this the tendency is to pile too many dishes upon them and they are apt to give way. There is no reason why we should cling to tradition and cover these shelves with white paper or muslin. Why should not corrugated rubber, such as has already found its way at the side of kitchen sinks, be introduced. There is a slight odor about this material, but china does not take it, and the chances of dishes slipping or breaking by falling upon the shelf would be decreased fifty per cept.

A serviceable device for use when piates are stood on end is to use a rope instead of a cleat to hold them, and to fasten it at the corners and in the centre by double-headed tacks driven down tightly into the shelves. Being slightly yielding, the plate is less apt to fall over from a sudden jar or slight blow.

Where possible, glass should be store, by itself, in the most modern houses cabinets are built in the dining-room for this purpose. The narrow side shelves found in most china-closets are best for glasses. All drinking-glasses should be arranged in groups, and far enough apart so that there will be no confusion or mistake in bringing them out when needed.

Where plates and saucers are piled one upon the other they should have rounds of felt or Canton flannel placed between them. Whereas, adverse criticisms have arises adopted:

Whereas, adverse criticisms have arisen concerning the speech delivered by Dr. R. C. Cave, on the occasion of the unveiling of a monument to the private soldiers and sallors of the Confederate States; and, whereas, the women of the South consider that their various memorial associations are truly representative Confederate organizations, the women of this, the capital city of the late Confederate, feel that an expression of opinion from them is due to the distinguished orator, whose noble effort made glorious our last Memorial-Day; therefore, be it Resolved, That we, the Hollywood Memorial Association, do most cordially and heartly endorse every sentiment expressed in Dr. Caves oration, and do hereby solemnly deciare that the said cration contains the honest and unalterable opinion of the women of the South to-day, and the truth of history.

The propriety of erecting a monument to the Confederate women was discussed, and the meeting put itself on record against the movement, as follows:

Whereas, an association has been formed with the design to promote the erection of a monument that shall commemorate the patriotism of the women of the South in the late war between the States, and, whereas, while such a movement cannot fail to attract the admiring appreciative notice of the women themselves, yet we have certain views concerning the matter, not unworthy of us, we trust, and to which we wish to give expression, therefore, be it. Resolved by us, some of whom were women of that period, and others the daughters of true and brave women who have passed away. I. That while we yield to none in according equal honor due to the memory of the noble women who suffered and died, as the result of the trisls of the times, with that awarded the soldiers and sallors, yet, in our judgment, such an enterprise as the erection of a monument would be repugnant to their ideas, and should not be initiated until at least the shaft is in place which shall worthly represent the love and honor of the Southland towards their litustrious Chief and President, Jefferson Davis. IT IS REPUGNANT.

Resolved, 2. That we believe we faithfully represent our mothers and sisters of that suffering time in the jentiment which would rather positively decline any material memorial, whether in marble or gold, and would prefer and covet the manuscript of the programment of once more enduring and material memorial, whether in marble or gold, and would prefer and covet the monument at once more enduring and more modest, which we should find in the valiant defence, ever maintained by our fathers, brothers, husbands, and sons, of the truth and principles which entered into the memorable conflict on the part of the South, and in the fidelity of coming generations is the herote virtue of self-sacrifice when God and right demand it. This moral glory would be our choke in preference to a storied urn or monumental pile, as the inscription in the shadow of St. Paul's cathedral, London, which tell the birth and death of Sir Christopher Wren, adds, simply, "If you would see his monument, look about you," so in the true and loyal Southland we would find our ideal memorial.

The meeting was not an open one, but a lady who was present last night said that its action was unanimous. She also stated that those present only spoke for the Hollywood Monument Association, and the Confederate Memorial Literary Society, as the other memorial associations were not well represented, but that these latter would be heard from in good time.

Pickett Camp's Hearly Endorsement.

Pickett Camp's Hearty Endorsement.

At the meeting of Pickett Camp last night, which was largely attended. Cap-tain M. W. Haziewood offered the fol-lowing resolutions endorsing Dr. Cave's activess, and they were unanimously lowing resolutions endorsing Dr. Cave's address, and they were unanimously adonted:

"Whereas public attention has been called to the public oration of Rev. Dr. P. C. Cave, delivered on the occasion of the unveiling of the morument erected to the memory of the private soldiers and sailors of the South, May 20, 1894, by the adverse criticism of that class of people who have ever manifested a cruel rpirit of malignant hatred to the South, and who have never scrupled to falsely stigmatize us as rebels and traitors; and whereas certain parties in the North have written letters to members of this camp which seem to be a menace to our future peace and prosperity; therefore, it seems advisable and opportune that we should give a full and free expression of our views in regard to the questions involved.

"I. We cordially and unreservedly endorse the address of Dr. Cave as a truthful and eloquent vindication of the patriotic people of the South, who nobly fought for home and country, and to maintain the fundamental principle of all free government—that the right to govern arises from and is co-existent with the consent of the governed. Traitors and rebels we were not, but patriots striving in the last court of appeal to defend the principles of our Revolutionary sires, as embodied in their Declaration of Independence, which proclaimed our local governments as free and independent States.' We were defeated in our efforts, but the results of the war, in the trenchant words of our orator, afford but another instance in the world's history of 'truth on the scaffold and wrong on the throne."

A PABT OF THE UNION.

"2. Defeated in 1855, we were held in A PART OF THE UNION.

"2. Defeated in 1865, we were held in military bondage until 1869, when we were forced by our conquerors to incorporate as the organic law of Virginia the following positive enunciation, to-wit:

"That this State shall ever remain a member of the United States of America, and that the people thereof are a part of the American nation, and that all altempts, from whatever source or upon whatever pretext, to dissolve said Union or to sever said nation are unauthorized and ought to be resisted with the whole power of the State.

"Thus ended our 'free and independent States,' and in their stead we have an indissoluble Union. We were true to the first; we will be true to the last. Should any of our ultra-loyal traducers attempt (as some have threatened) to withdraw from 'the United States of America,' they will never again question the loyalty of the people of Virginia.

"2. We have no unkind word or thought for those soldiers of the North who have honestly received us with fraternal friend-ship and treated us as coequals in the brotherhood of States, and it is without hesitation we aver that in thus asserting the integrity of our own motives, we do not in any sense impeach their fidelity to what they believe the right. Reared in different schools and under different influences, we concele to them the same purity of principle which we claim for ourselves, and we declare to them that though we were once armed enemies we now only remember that we are brothers in a perpetual Union.

"4. We cordially and without mental reservation welcome to our genial climate all true citizens of this country who are willing to accord us the rights and privileges of American citizenship. We promise all such the same kindness and consideration we demand for ourselves."

Chicago Comments I pan Br, Cave's Address.

Chicago Comments I pun hr, Cave's Address,
One of the points made by the Rev.
Mr. Cave in his address at Richmond was thet "the South was in the right and its cause was a just one." Commenting on this the Chicago Tribune says: "If the Confederate veterans are wise tney will not hesitate to disown Mr. Cave, to the extent at least of regretting that anything was said by him about the causes of the war, and that they would have been much better satisfied if he had stuck
to his text and praised the unquestioned bravery and endurance of the Confederate soldiers. No one expects the exrebels to make public declaration that their cause was a bad one, and that they were hopelessly in the wrong when they rebelled. Weak human nature cannot bring itself to make such admissions.
But the members of Lee Camp should go so far as to say that they are opposed to raking up dead issues, intend to keep their mouths shut about secession, and that they want all southern orators to imitate their example. It appears very strange to us that the Tribune cannot see that Mr. Cave was right in all he said, but if it really cannot and wants some body to say the South was wrong and its cause unjust, it should apply to some of its "New South" friends who are trying to turn a speculative penny. The veterans, and all whom they represented, endorse everything Mr. Cave has said. Chicago Comments Upon 3 r. Cave's Address.

Church Notes.

Large congregations attended the services in Union-Station Sunday morning and evening. Rev. Dr. Ray preached on "A New Creature in Christ Jesus," and administered the communion, which was largely attended. In the evening he took as his subject, "The murmurings of the Hebrews at the waters of Marah," from which he drew wholesome lessons that the strength which the Hebrews at the waters of Mainter from which he drew wholesome lessons touching the hard times through which we are passing.

In the afternoon, the formal opening of the new mission chapel, connected with the church, occurred. At $200 A. M. the Sunday-school assembled in the new room, and Dr. Ray and Captain C. E. Hasker (the latter being the founder of the school) made pleasant and effective addresses. At $20 P. M. Dr. Ray reviewed the planting and history of the school, and after prayer by Mr. Cheat.am, superintendent of St. James' M. L. church, Mr. A. Diacont made an address of welcome and congratulation, which was strong and thoughtful, and flev. J. W. Moore spoke well on the strength and broadness of Methodism. And then Hon. J. Taylor Ellyson made a characteristic and happy speech, in which he said that while he had achieved success measuring up to his hopes in this life, he wanted to testify that his highest happiness is found in the service of the Son of God. He rejoiced in the coincalence that his first day as Mayor of Riemmond, was spent in the Sabbath-school work, and he was now spenaing his last day as chief officer of this city in this prosperous Mission-field, and wanted to say that the best polite force a city could have is found in the faithful ministration of the world of God, and the Sabbath instruction of the children.

Misses Sallie Smith and Bessie Diacont made beautiful recitations, and the singing was charming.

The erection of this commodious chapel is largely due to the faithful work of Mr. Adam Diacont, the superintendent, and his able assistant, Mr. Frank T. Bates, and others connected with the school. The cost of the same is something over 100 nearly all of which is allready provided for, Mayor Ellyson, Captain Hasker, C. S. Braner, Messrs, Hunton, Chapman, James Fox, Harnes and others made handsome contributions to the fund.

The Concert To-Night.

The Gorrett Ie-Night.

The Gorrel Choir had their last rehearsal last night before the concert tonight, in the Young Men's Christian Asseciation hall. The rehearsal was satisfactory in every respect. A large number of tickets have been sold by the members. Mr. W. C. Mercer, the leader of the choir, has engaged several wellknown soloists, and a concert of unusual merit will be given.
