Times Bureau, Rapley Building, a Washington, November 2, 1894.
There is one lesson taught by the recent election which is so plain that he who runs may fead, and that is. This country, at least that part of it north of the Mason and Dixon line, does not of the Mason and Dixon line, does not favor the free and unlimited coinage of favor the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. Not a single cingressman, except Magaire, of California, who voted for silver when the Sherian law was repealed has been returned in any of the Northern, Central or Western States. Even in Missouri, which has always been considered a silver State, and whose delegation in Congress voted unanimously for silver, except Cobo, sends back only Cobb and Tarsney, leaving "Silback on the country homes their advocacy of fifty-cent dollars.

Clark to repent at lessure in their quiet country homes their advocacy of fifty-cent dollars.

Lafe Fence, of Colorado, whose brilliant speeches in favor of silver gave him such prominence in the last session of Congress, will remain at home to revise his financial views, while Jerry Simpson, who was arxious to flood the country with debased currency, is now floundered in the stream of his own creation. Messrs, williams and Fithian, of Hinois, who led the dobate for silver against Bourke ckrun and others, are not found in the returned column, and Banker Sibley, of Cennsylvania, who reveiled in silver staistics, is elected to remain at his counter, were which no cheap dollars are likely to be counted for some time to come. The Democratic contingent from the North and West will be nearly as limited in the next Congress from the northern, middle and western States. In the present Congress from the northern, middle and western States there were of Denucrats; this number is now reduced to it, and of these only 5 are members of he present Congress. The notable quincite is composed of Bartlett, New York, From the entire South there will be in the next Congress of Hinois, Fitzgrand, of Massachusetts, and Waish, Miner, Sulzer and McClellan of New York. From the entire South there will be in the next Congress but 61 Democrats who belong to this House, although in a recat many instances the incumbents volintarily declined to be renominated.

FAMILIAN FACES MISSING.

Never before, in the history of the country, has there been such a change in the ersonnel of a succeeding Congress, and he oldest correspondents here will have a begin making new acquaintances in the lifty-fourth Congress, just as the novice the begins with the session. Many of the good old friends of the press gallery ave been lost in the shuffle, and familiar nees and forms that for a decide or more have been seen the House will pass with this forgress from the scenes of such activity into political retirement forever, there is something pathetic in many of he instances, and personally I know of hore than one case where comparatively cood lawyers have given up their practice or years and devoted their attention to heir representative duties. The years ave sped swiftly by, their daughters are married and removed to distant States one grown to manhood, and fighting their vay in the western wilds to the short-need homors of time. One and visit persons to the final resting-place at home, the ompanion of years and the mother of his children, and now comes defeat, and lis means a return to the old home without mency, for he was honest, without spatice, for his time was given to his onstituents; without plaudits, for he as been defeated now, and shouts are for reterors, and without many friends, for Friendships but a name.

A shade that follows wealth or fame, And leaves the wretch to weep. With the defeat of Judge Holman, of Indiana, and Bland, of Missions, the title of "Father of the House" will have to be packed away in camphor until Time shall have prepared some honorable gray head for its reception. Judge Culberson of Texas, who came in the Forty-fourth Congress, is the oldest member, in point of continuous service, and to him would naturally fall the duty of swaring in Czar Reed as the next Speaker, but the Judge will probably not riamor for the office and it may fall to Cannon, of Illinois, or Harmer, of Pennsylvania, who came to Congress before Judge Culberson, but who have each been defeated for one it who have each been defeated for on

There seems no doubt that the next Senate will be organized by the Republicans. Including the votes of Senators Stewart and Jones, of Nevada, they have thirty-eight, to begin with. They gain like senators in States which, by their failure to elich have now only one senators the States which, by their failure to elich have now only one senators these Wyomans, Mentana and Washington make forty-one Republicans. With New Jersey West Virginia and Kansas wided to this, a fler of forty-four votes is had, and then the vote of Populist Peffer, who has always affiliated with the Republicans, would make forty-five, a majority of the Senate. Then in addition to this comes the sad story of North Carolina, which now gives but little promise of anything but one Republican and one Populist senator. These are likely to be Dr. James J. Mott, of Statesville (Rep.), and Marion Butler, of Goldsboro, the Populist leader. One of these, at least, and most likely both, would vote with the Republicans to organize the Senate that When December, 1896, shall come the Senate will be organized by the Republicans.

MR. FAULKNER RESTING.

MR. FAULENER RESTING.

Senator Faulkner, of West Virginia, chairman of the Democratic Consressional Campaign Committee, who has been in party harness for the past four years, has gone home for a short rest. During the campaign just ended he was an earnest, consistent worker, and the result so disastrous to Democracy cannot possibly be traced to any lack of creeky or ability on his part.

The last few days have not been pleasant ones at Democratic headquarters, but the Senator has stood bravely at his post and received and recorded the verdict of the country with a quiet dignity which places him beyond criticism and raises him to a plane lofter even than that on which fickle public opinion has placed the chairman of the victorious party.

THE SENATOR'S STORY.

THE SENATUR'S STORY.

He has accepted the situation without comment and while hundreds of others have furnished him with reasons for the unexpected reverses of his party, he has had no explanation to offer and has cast to blame on anyone. Yesterday, however, his pattence was sorely tried, and for the benefit of one of the "I told you so" genus he told the following story:

you so genus he told the following story:

Near my home in West Virginia there lives an old colored man, whom I have known from my boyhood as Unele Lewis. He is known throughout the county as a butter. Young negroes and old ones had the most profound respect for Uncle Lewis' hard head, with which he generally settled all his difficulties. He had tackled everything in the neighborhood from an inch plank to Stewart's petram, and always came off victorious. Last summer, however, he came with a gaing of negroes to this city to work on the streets. He had never been to a city before and of course had a great deal to learn. Standing on Pennsylvania avenue one day before he had been here a week, he regarded with wonder the approach of a cable car that was coming down on him at the rate of twelve miles

He escaped with only a few slight bruises, but his prestige had fled forever. The other negroes wrote home that Uncle Lewis had at last met his match. He had tried to butt a cable car off the track and had come off second best in the encounter.

Two weeks ago I was home and in front of one of the country stores I saw Uncle Lewis surrounded, as usual, by a knot of his admirers.

Stopping to speak with him, I asked him, pleasantly, if his head was as hard as it used to be. Yes, Marse Faulkner, the ole nigger aint done gone back one bit. Done knock out ebery thing I eber tried."

"Oh, you shet up nigger, dat thing nebber notify me. It he let me know he was coming I would have gin him a square butt or I would got out de way.

"That, gentlemen," said the genial Senator, "is the way I feel about this thing. Probably if I had known the many conflicting elements opposed to us in the fight just over, I would have either made a bigger, fight or else stepped aside and allowed the train to pass by.

TAMMANY'S REORGANIZATION.

Resportlonment Comes First—Mayor Giroy Wants to Quit Fol tiles.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Mayor Gilroy has no plans of a definite character as to what he will do on his retirement from office. It has been known to his friends that he has no character to continue in active political life, and it can be safely asserted that he will not be the new leader of the reorganized Tammary Hall.

Although the Mayor has been in politics many years, and has held many public places, he has long had a desire to get into commercial life, for which he hinks he has a natural bent. He has in all his public places given evidence of great executive and business ability, and in the receivership of the Mitchell-Vance Company he was so successful that his friends advised him to desert politics for business.

The Mayor's desire to make such a change may be said to date from the time he held the receivership referred to, but the engineers of politics demanded his repeated sacrifice of this ambition in the interest of the organization to which he repeated sacrince or this amount of the belonged.

It can be said that the Mayor's special desire is to become the manager of some big business enterprise, and he is said to be considering several offers.

Concerning the future of the Tammany Hall organization, it is said that nothing definite will be done about reorganization until the boundaries of the thirty-five Assembly districts are fixed by the Board of Aldermen. The fixing of these boundaries will determine in great measure who will be best fitted to lead the organization in every one of the districts, for the feader must be chosen with reference to his popularity with, and his ability to manage, the peculiar elements of the population in the district.

By the time the re-districting is accomplished, it is believed, l'ammany will have a new leader, who will make a wise choice of district leaders for the new districts, and it is equally certain, according to wigwam prophecies, that several of the present district leaders will not appear in the new executive committee.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Attorney-General Olney, in conversation with friends during the past few months has expressed himself anxious to return to private life, stating that the drudgery and reresponsibilities of the position is wearing on him. reased if he were free from official trainmels.

It is also asserted that Mr. Olney when he accepted the office of Attorney-General, which he did with reluctance, made it a condition that he might resign before the expiration of his term, if he found the duties distasteful. That time, it is said, is near at hand. Mr. Olney's relations with the President are of the closest character, and his intimate friends believe that he has remained in the

In the event of Attorney-General Olney tendering his resignation, the possibility is suggested that William L. Wilson might be tendered a seat in the Cabinet. This, however, is a matter upon which no intimation has been had, directly or indirectly, from the President.

port that General Gourko, military governor of Warsaw, has received a petition for the release of Kilinski convicts. The correspondent adds that more Catholic priests in Russian Poland have been arrested or suspended for refusing to swear allegiance to the Czar. Alsong them, he says, are the Bishops of Lublin and Sandomier. The Princess Alix is said to have interceded for some of the priests released yesterday. The Daily News' correspondent in Paris says:

"While services were in progress in Protestant and Jewish places of worship the Catholic Church stood aloof from the universal mourning. Cardinal Richards' silent disregard of the popular wish for a requiem mass in the cathedral of Notre Dame prompted accusations of a lack of patriotism. The Catholics then threatened to ask the government to convert the Arc d'Triomphe into a chapel and to invite the Russian popes to say mass at an impromptu altar beneath it. Cardinal Richards has now aumounced a service to be held at the cathedral of Notre Dame on the 11th. He himself will officiate, and will offer prayers for Russia and France, but not for the Czar. ROSEBERT ON THE CZAR.

The Young Head ou Which the Crown Has Fellen May Prove Unequal to the Task.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The most notable feature of the Lord Mayor's banquet at the Guild Hall this evening was the Prime Minister's speech on the political situation at home and abroad. The British Government had given strong and tangible proof of its friendship for Japan by concluding the recent comparative treaty with her, Lord Rosebery said. It had also shown its benevolent neutrality by attempting to promote peace between the two.

The Government, he continued, had gone hand and hand with Russia. Great Britain's relations to Russia were most cordial, the difficulty as to spheres of influence in Asia having been terminated. If all the European countries concerned could only proceed cordially and without suspicious in Asiatic affairs a great step would be taken to secure the peace of the world.

But recently the civilized world had bewailed the assassination of the President of a country with which England ought to stand shoulder to shoulder in generous commercial rivalry. Now she had to regret the death of a great Emperor, the master of peace. The young head on which had fallen the terrible responsibility of the Russian crown might prove unequal to the task.

After paying high compliments to the wisdom and moderation of Alexander III., Lord Rosebery spoke of his services in preserving the peace of Europe. Few persons realized, he said, the difficulty of keeping a good understanding among the nations.

There was also danger in the mighty engine of the press, which often spoke under the influence of fierce competition and without weighing the effects of its announcements. He must ask the press to sift its news carefully before publishing it. The foreign policy of England was strictly conservative and had nothing to do with party. The Government wished things to remain as they were. It coveted nothing abroad, It was not worth England's while, with interest all over the world, to disturb the existing conditions. The Young Head on Which the Crown Has Fallen May Prove Unequal to the Task.

WANT A NEW BOND ISSUE

AN AGITATION TO THIS END IN NEW YORK FINANCIAL CIRCLES

Secretary Carllele, However, Will Permit the Gold Reserve to Reach a Much Lower Point Before He Will Yleid.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Treasury of-ficials have been aware for some days of an agitation in New York financial circles in favor of a new bond issue. It has not escaped their notice that the financial papers that voice Wall street sentiments daily call attention to the Treasury gold reserve, and suggest that it should be built up to strengtnen pub-lic confidence in the Treasury's condi-tion. Tellers have been sent to Secretary Carlisle by financiers, all having the same end in view.

A B'G SURPLUS OF MONEY. The surplus money in the New York banks is very great, and Treasury officials here, who watch the course of money matters, do not hesitate to express the opinion that the solicitude expressed by Wall street magnates for the Treasury is not entirely unselfish, but that a new bond issue is desired by Wall street simply as a means of providing an investment for their surplus and accumulating funds.

CAN PORCE IT IF THEY WISH. Intimations of gold exports to force the Treasury to issue bonds have reached here through broker sources and others who keep in close touch with New York financiers. That they can do this by presenting United States notes for gold and thus reducing the gold reserve is only too true, as proved by past transactions of the kind.

CARLISLE WILL NOT YIELD. The opinion, however, is expressed in Treasury circles that Secretary Carlisle will permit the gold reserve to reach a much lower point than it now is, $61,000,000, before he will feel justified in the present good condition of the Treasury in making another issue of United States bonds.

WALL STRIET SAYS IT WILL BE DONE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—It was stated on Wall street to-day that there will be an issue of $50,000,000 or $100,000,000 five percent. Government bonds before Congress again assembles. When the last issue of $50,000,000 was made, and the public declined to take the bonds, a sydnicate of bankers, hended by John A. Stevens, president of the United States Trust Company, and Edward Kins, president of the United States Trust Company, and Edward Kins, president of the United Trust Company, made the sale. A banker who was actively interested in that movement, makes the following statement:

"There will be an issue of bonds shortly. The President and Secretary of the Treasury have determined that the gold. They have been advised that an export movement of gold will begin in a few weeks, and they, accordingly, have determined to take prompt measures." WALL STREET SAYS IT WILL BE DONE.

A SYNDICATE MAY BE FORMED. When asked whether a syndicate would be formed which would be guaranteed a commission to float the bonds, he replied: "I do not know. That lies it the discretion of the authorities in Was ington. This much is certain—the five per cent, bonds will be issued upon the three per cent, basis as before. They will be offered to the public, but the same gentelmen who made the last issue a success, have assured the President that they will carry through the forthcoming issue."

The banker added that if $50,000,000 was insufficient, $50,000,000 more would be igsued.

BIG COFFEE FIRM FAILS,

Busch & Co., of Havre, Announce Their Suspension.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—A private dispatch received at the Cotton Exchange to-day announced the failure of Busch & Co., of Havre. The announcement caused a drop of four points in cotton. Later it was said that the firm has véry little interest in cotton, being involved principally in coffee. The firm consists of Busch, his son and his son-in-law.

Herrmann Selicken, of the firm of W. H. Crossmann & Brother, said to-day: "Busch & Co. have been in business for about forty years. They have been the largest dealers in produce in all Europe. They have been dealing in wool, cotton, wheat, coffee, sugar, etc., as well as in furs, skins and other articles. But, while the firm's dealings have been extensive, I do not believe that its failure will affect our merchants. So far as I know, they had no special representatives in this city. In yours gone by, however, they dealt with all the large American coffee and cotton houses. The firm's failure, I think, will affect Paris and London bankers principally. Their credit was unlimited."
