That Amputation Was Necessary.

DANVILLE, VA., July 25.—Special.—
Mrs. L. II. Worley, formerly of Neapolis, but now of Lynchburg, and widow of Joshua Worley, a former engineer on the Richmond and Danville, fell from the vestibule train this morning. She had bearded the mid-dight train in Danville, but found the door locked. She kept on the platform, thinking the train would stop in Neapolis, and she would enter other car, but it did not stop, and in turning a curve she was thrown, and her foot so badly mashed that it was amputated to-day. Mrn. Worley had been here on a short visit, and was on her way home. That Amputation Was Necessary.

John Nichols, the desperado from Nichols' Hollow, who several months ago was superchended at the point of a doubleharrelled shot-gun and brought before a magistrate and forced to marry the girl whom he had ronged, is now a fugitive from justice. He lived with her but a short while, and never contributed to her support. He returned to the house of his wife, and created a disturbance. He was arrested and fined. In default of same he was sent to fall, where bright and early this morning, by picking the lock of his cell, he made good his escape. Rewart will be offered for his capture. It is thought he has gone direct to Nichols' Hollow.

The Proposed Chicago Conference.

a Score of 4 to 3.

LYNCHEURG, VA., July 25.—Special.—
A great game to-day, with a heart's-discase finish, was what the rooters saw here to-day.

Lynchburg won by a score of 4 to 3 from Padden's braves, while the spectators shook in their seats with nervous ague. Both teams put up a gilt-edge exhibition, but the locals outhit the visitors, and to this alone was due the victory. The fielding of both teams was great, but Padden was clearly entitled to the paim for all-round work.

McLaugnlin, the umpire, was off, as usual, but not so much so, He called Smith out at the rubber when he was clearly safe in the first inning. Score:

The Senate of the United States constitutes county-six members, not including the Vice-President, who only votes in case of a tie. A careful poil of that body, according to the records of last section and public unterances through the press as to how the new members stand, snow that on the disancial question the silverites control that body by a small majority, they having forty-eight as against thirty-seven sound-money men. The Republicans cannot organize the body unless the five Populist free silecties so to them. Senator Alen, of Nebraska, who has acted with the Democrats in the past on most every question; Senator Pfeiffer, of Kansas, who acted with the Republicans, also senator Siewart, who has up to a late date been a Republican from start to finish, and Senator Jones, of Nevaria, who is classed with Senator Stewart.

The new senators, Butler and Pritchard, the latter a Republican, will be found on the Republican side.

But as to Butler, no one knows with what party he will caga his vote on the organization of the Senate II the silver Populists can dictate who shall be the members on the Finance Committee, it is likely they will vote for either party who will make this concession.

It is thought here, as the patronage is now about equally divided, that this will not cut much of a figure in the organization, as the committees constitute the most important matter, and the line of hattle will be fought out on this line.

Whether there will be a caucus of filverities and anti-silverites is now the question which is taking some shape. Whether the old party lines will be dropped on the organization is also a question. Some politicians think that the Phannee Committee should be for a soundmoney policy rather than have complete control of everything else.

A poli of the body also shows that there are 29 Lemocratic members, if Republicans, and 5 Populists. There is also a vacant seat from Delaware, which will be settled by a contest before a soundmoney policy rather than have complete control of everything else.
