Three cracksmen wrecked the safe of a Siate Hank of Savannah, securing the money, Government bonds, and lington engineer, saw three men working at the front door of the bank. He asked them what they were doing. One of the robbers, without replying, knocked Garting down, carried him into the lobby of the bank, and then bound and blindfolded him. He then stood guard over Garting with a cocked pistol, while the remaining two robbers cracked the sate, which was an old-fashioned affair.

At 9 o'clock this morning Bank President William R. Wells found Garting in the condition described. In the mean time the robbers, to whom there is no cline, had thenty of time to make their escape. to emphasize the fact that we are in a bet-ter position now to cater to the wants of the people than ever before. The past year we have done the largest business in our life experience, exceeding by nearly one hundred thousand dollars our sales of the previous year. For months past we have been making preparations to make a still greater increase this year. To make this store a better store-with better service-better assortments of goods-and what is all-important, the lowest prices for reliable merchandise that it is possible to obtain anywhere.

We shall soon open the finest, largest, and most elegant Crockery, Glass and Silverware Department in the city. This department will occupy our entire basement floor, which has been made more easy of approach by the erection of a grand stairway to the right of our front entrance.

About the same time we shall open a mammoth Millinery Department on our second floor, which will be a modern, up-to-date department in every way.

We have secured the services of one of the leading modistes of this country, who is now selecting for the Richmond ladies' approval the choicest productions of the foreign modistes. The opening of this department will be made a special occasion-a day of interest to every lady in our city. Other less important improvements in our business are being made-preparatory for an unusually successful season.
