

OPENING OF THE BLUES' BAZAR

Took Place Last Evening Under Auspicious Circumstances.

THE MASONIC TEMPLE CROWDED

Governor Tyler Makes a Brief Address and Mrs. Jefferson Davis Holds an Informal Reception—Many Valuable Articles for Sale.

If an elegantly decorated hall filled with costly articles of every description and crowded with the very best people of Richmond promises anything, then the Blues' Bazaar, which opened last evening in the Masonic Temple, is bound to be a success in every respect.

The center of the room was occupied by a costly booth draped in black and yellow. It is in charge of Mrs. James Gray who is assisted by a large number of charming young ladies.

There were five other booths located in various places of the hall. The booth of Company A, which is in charge of Mrs. Lawrence Wyatt, is like all the other booths, filled up with all sorts of attractive articles that are useful to ladies as well as gentlemen.

The Blues' Battalion appears in the Confederate colors, red and white and Mrs. N. V. Randolph has full control of this booth for artistic articles.

The Blues' Battalion assembled shortly after 7 o'clock at the armory on Ninth and Cary streets in full dress uniform and marched from there to the Masonic Temple to act as a guard to Governor Tyler, who had kindly consented to be present at the opening of the bazaar.

Governor Tyler, with Colonel Woodruff, Colonel Stern, Colonel Coulter, and members of his staff, arrived at the Masonic Temple at 8 o'clock and were greeted by the Blues' Band and Blues' Battalion.

When the temple was reached Governor Tyler, upon entering the hall, was warmly greeted by Mrs. J. W. Richardson, the venerable and beloved president of the Blues' Association, who at once escorted the Governor and his staff to the platform.

The Blues' Battalion, in charge of Major Cutchen, had in the meantime formed a circle around the Governor. When silence was restored Major Richardson stepped to the front and presented Governor Tyler to the assemblage, who greeted him with applause.

His Excellency then made a few brief remarks, saying that at this time he had been expected to make a Sunday school address in Staunton, but he did not think it would be appropriate to deliver such an address at the opening of a bazaar.

After the grave crisis which was now pending he was speaking to soldiers, the right arm of this country, when some more serious talk might be expected. He then welcomed such a distinguished assemblage, and he was very proud of the Blues, each one of whom he hoped to shake hands with.

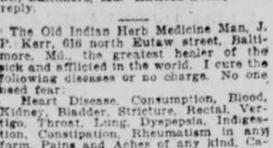

This ended the official part of the program. The Governor and his staff then descended from the platform and were greeted and welcomed by a large number of the visitors.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis was escorted by Mrs. E. C. Martin to an elegant and informal reception followed.

Mrs. M. E. Stoddings presides over the culinary department. Mr. William Krause, who is well known to all Masons for the tempting suppers which he supplies, is the caterer for the Blues' restaurant.

to the attractiveness of the festival, which has been planned upon the most progressive, liberal and attractive lines. This response to the prevailing public sentiment would seem to make the concert as complete as they could possibly be, and the rendering of these grand old airs, which are so tenderly remembered, will be sure to create great enthusiasm.

The club met on Wednesday as well as last night and the programmes were fully rehearsed. Really splendid results have been attained, and the work of the organization is being carried to a degree and admirable all its parts.

The Philharmonic Association sang the several numbers which had been assigned to them and were liberally applauded, for their work was brilliant, showing the highest training and intelligence.

CUBAN CHEERS FOR PRO-PRESIDENT.

Imposing Demonstration Takes Place in Key West.

TROUBLE WITH NEGRO TROOPS

One Arrested for Resisting an Officer on the Streets is Released by Members of the Same Infantry Company—To be Investigated.

KEY WEST, Fla., April 20.—The Cuban population literally went wild to-night, having apparently reserved its enthusiasm for an imposing demonstration of the procession marching through the principal streets of the town led by a brass band, which took particular care to play only American airs.

The procession serenaded Commandant Forsythe at his home fronting the harbor and then Americans at the principal hotels. There were "vivas" and cheers for Andrew Jackson, General Grant and President McKinley.

After the demonstration an affray occurred which shows that considerable feeling exists against the colored troops, or rather their presence here. Sergeant Williams, of Company G, Twenty-fifth Infantry, was, with a brother soldier, examining a revolver at a street corner when a policeman asked him to put the weapon away.

According to the story of the policeman, Sergeant Williams refused, and the policeman drew his revolver, but the weapon missed fire. He was overpowered by any one was hurt. During the struggle to overcome the negro several men were struck him in the face. Williams was locked up at the city hall. The police say Colonel Daggett has issued an order forbidding the troops to carry side arms. The episode has raised feeling here to a high pitch, and race trouble is feared.

RELEASSED BY FORCE. Twenty minutes after Williams' arrest, twenty-five soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Infantry fully armed with side arms filed bayonets, and entered the house of Sheriff Knight and demanded that he release his prisoner. The sheriff was alone and ill. The negro troops gave him five minutes to comply with their demand, and he decided that discretion was the better part of valor, and he complied with their demand. The matter was brought to his attention, said he would investigate it thoroughly, and if the report were true, would discipline every man severely.

ULTIMATUM RECEIVED. Minister Woodford Will Present It to the Government To-Day. MADRID, April 20.—Midnight—United States Minister Woodford has received president McKinley's ultimatum and will present it to the Spanish government to-morrow.

The Spanish employees at the legation will pass the night at Minister Woodford's residence. LONDON, April 21.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing at 11 o'clock Wednesday evening, says: "General Woodford's family left to-night by the ordinary express for Biarritz. The American minister himself has taken tickets for the same train, and has received extensive dispatches of instructions. It is doubted whether he will have an opportunity of presenting the American ultimatum since in all probability Señor Cullon, the Foreign Minister, will send him his passport at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning (Thursday) with a declaration that diplomatic relations between the two governments have been broken off. General Woodford has handed the archives of the Legation to the British Embassy, where he dined to-night.

The Republican minority met this afternoon and agreed to grant the government whatever measures that might be necessary for the moment. Some uneasiness is felt at the movements of Don Carlos, which are being closely followed. "It is asserted that the government will not resort to privatising."

WHERE IS THE CINCIINNATI? She Leaves the Squadron—Cable Between Havana and Key West. KEY WEST, Fla., April 20.—The United States torpedo boat destroyer Marbled, which arrived here to-night, and anchored near the flagship New York. Additional precautions have been put in force here to insure the safety of the big ships since the resolutions of Congress were passed. The Marbled left for the New York, Iowa, and Indiana, which lie out of Key West harbor, are now extinguished before 8 P. M. when the battle ports are screwed on and the formal ships are filled with shot and shell. The Marbled's dark outlines, which reveal their dark outlines. Besides this precaution, the night patrol has been doubled.

Last evening both the Cincinnati and the Marbled, accompanied by two torpedo boats, went out on picket duty. The cruiser Cincinnati is missing from her squadron of six ships tonight, and there is some reason to fear that disaster or accident has befallen her.

This morning the Marbled returned as usual, but not the Cincinnati, which had not been sighted at night. Her whereabouts is not known. A message was signalled to her from the flagship early this morning. Its import has not been ascertained as yet, but the answer was waved back: "Still nine miles out." What these orders here are known only to the commanding officers of the fleet and the Cincinnati.

The probability is that no alarming significance attaches to the incident, as the Cincinnati was most likely south of the entrance to the waters from the Cuban side. It has been learned that the cable between here and Havana was cut about a mile south of Port Taylor, and eventually the cable was cut with cable work. The strand which is of the double armored, heavy shore end type, was not cut in twain, but merely cut open. The conductor was then pulled out and cut in two near the shore. The cable is now repaired, and the whole matter is under investigation.

PASSENGER STEAMERS NEUTRAL. Blanco So Notified the British Consul in Havana. HAVANA, April 20.—Quiet prevails here. War preparations continue. The Centro Gallego Society has given up several houses belonging to it for use by the Government in case of war.

The Union Constitution, in an editorial to-day, commenting upon the resolutions adopted by the Congress of the United States, says: "Intention means war for Spain. But it is easier to vote than to execute."

Although the Plant Line steamers have suspended their trips between Tampa and Havana, possibly fearing seizure in the event of hostilities, Captain-General Blanco has notified Mr. Alexander Gallon, the British consul here, who is acting for position would prevent him being present. At the reception before the banquet at the Duke of Cambridge's specially singled out Colonel Hay, cordially shaking him by the hand and after the banquet Colonel Hay, the Duke of Cambridge and Consul-General William McKinley Osborne, talked a long time on Cuba.

Lord Mayor Davis when proposing the health of the members of the diplomatic corps, wished the United States "much success and success in the name of the citizens of London," that there would be no war.

Colonel Hay's reply was the event of the war being declared, with a certain energy and pertinacity. I may say, in the spirit of pride rather than contradiction, that it only shows what a stock we have in the peace growing more firm and solid as the years go by, and a friendship which is sure to last for a certain number of both peoples hope and trust may last forever. The good understanding between us is based on something deeper than mere expediency. All who think cannot but see there is a sanction like that of religion which binds us in partnership in the various spheres of our life.

"Who will or will not be associated in that work by the very nature of things, and no man and no group of us did not forget and that we cannot break. We are joint members in the same sacredness of freedom and progress, charged with duties we cannot evade by the imposition of irresponsible hands."

THANKS THE POPE. Grateful for His Intercession—Don Carlos Leaves Italy. LONDON, April 21.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing Wednesday, says: "The following are the terms of a letter the Pope received to-day from the Queen Regent of Spain. All who think cannot but see there is a sanction like that of religion which binds us in partnership in the various spheres of our life."

After dwelling on the exceedingly critical character of the situation, her Majesty says: "I thank your Holiness in my own name and that of the entire nation for your efforts in favor of peace, and I am all the more grateful for this expression of our gratitude at this critical moment, when human passion and greed have gained the upper hand, and the noblest of us are finally separated. It is Providence has decreed to expose Spain to a tranquil conscience, aware that her sons will know how to die for her honor."

The letter concludes with a request from her Majesty that the Pope be fortified by the prayers of the faithful. Don Carlos has left Italy at the request of the Italian Government.

TROOPS AT CHATTANOOGA. Chickamauga Battalion Will be Covered with Tent. CHATTANOOGA, TENN., April 20.—Cavalry and artillery from all parts of the country poured into Chattanooga to-day. Following upon General Brooke's arrival came the first section of the train carrying two squadrons of the Third Cavalry from Jefferson Barracks, Mo., in command of Major Wessel and Loud. The horses, wagons and camp outfit, and equipment, from the convalescent city of the thousands which had gathered in the Union Station and vicinity had occasion to give vent to their enthusiasm.

When the second section came in with the ten coaches filled with the cavalry, blue-coated warriors from the West cheer after cheer went up. The soldiers cheered in returned, while a bugler on the platform of the front coach sounded the call to arms, and as the train slowly pulled into the depot, the outstretched hands and equipment of the provisions, and several tons of gun powder for Havana.

A pleasant reception and supper took place at the conclusion of the rites, in which contributions were showered unstintingly on both bride and groom.

WOMEN OF THE CONFEDERACY. A Memorial Institute in Texas to be Dedicated to Them. The following is self-explanatory: Comrades and Friends.—Since the dawn of civilization history has recorded the evidence of the wisdom, virtue and patriotism of the great military chiefs from the earliest dawn of history has been bly commemorated by the erection of beautiful and costly monuments to their memories.

Nor has American history been less profuse in its record of evidence, commendations of American statesmen and warriors from Washington to McKinley, inclusive.

Passing over the earlier history of our country, and coming down to the period from January 1, 1861, to June 1, 1865, we discover most of the great military chiefs to the memory of American heroes, North and South. The magnificent monument erected to Mr. Lincoln testifies a nation's gratitude to the man who stood so firmly at the helm of the Union, and his persistent efforts for the preservation of our great Republic. Nor will posterity be permitted to forget the faithful performance of duty by those brave generals and soldiers of the United States Army and Navy, who were commanded by their Commander in Chief Abraham Lincoln. But while the world will ever applaud the efforts made, and the success that attended the efforts of the northern heroes, it will not forget that no higher mark of statesmanship has ever been exhibited, than that shown by the noble, self-sacrificing, self-denying defender of the State sovereignty, Jefferson Davis. The greater military genius was ever shown than that displayed by the immortal Robert E. Lee, ably seconded by those brave subordinates, Stonewall Jackson, Braxton Bragg, and Longstreet, Hood, Fitzhugh Lee, Kirby Smith, Dick Taylor, and a host of other brave soldier leaders. That no private soldiers were ever more faithful in the performance of duty, and more true to their homes and friends, and to the life, or braved the dangers of the battlefields more fearlessly than did the Confederate soldiers who proudly sustained the banner and stars of the Confederacy, and who were met during that terrible struggle between the States has fully recognized the noble services rendered by our country's statesmen on both sides of the bloody chasm.

Monuments and monuments have been erected to the memory of our great military leaders, north and south. The Daughters of the Confederacy, ever willing to do honor to whom honor is due, have erected monuments to commemorate the noble services rendered by the private soldiers.

But comrades, where is the evidence which we have left to posterity of the noble services of the noble soldiers of the Confederacy? They laid their fathers, brothers, husbands and sons, as well as loved ones, upon the altar of their own loved southern. They gave up their homes and friends, and far from home and friends, and were met during that terrible struggle between the States has fully recognized the noble services rendered by our country's statesmen on both sides of the bloody chasm.
