Actual Conditions Played No Part in Speculation. (By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, April 4.—To-day was one of the most violent in the stock market. Prices fluctuated in an unprecedentedly violent and erratic manner. The speculative spirit had apparently run wild, and to a great extent to attempt to control the market. The excitement was not equalled on the New York Stock Exchange for many years. Shares of stocks were tossed backward and forward, and millions of dollars were ventured with no more concern than would be shown in the purchase of a few shares of a common stock. News of actual conditions of properties played no part whatever in the speculation. The market was largely to follow designated leadership. A sudden and violent advance in any stock was immediately followed by a corresponding decline, in which the scramble for profit caused a volatile rise, with quick profits for the leaders, who hastened to unload.

FRONT ROYAL, VA., April 4.—The first of a series of Easter entertainments here was given Monday night by Misses Maecy Roy and Kate Cook at the home of Miss Maecy, No. 3 Cook Row. An especially pleasant feature was the way guests were paired off to go to supper. Strings with the name of a lady gentleman at an opposite end were crossed and re-crossed in cob-web style, and each one requested to find his name and follow up the string to which it was attached. This was done, and each met his partner for the evening at the middle of the string. Another feature was an advertisement contest. Among those present from a distance were: Mr. James H. Crown, editor of the Clarke Courier, Berryville, Va.; Messrs. Thompson Sowers and Ernest Meade, Millwood, Va.; Mr. Benjamin Wilson, of Collierstown, in burning her chimney, lost her house.
