REV. MR. CUTLER WILL PRESIDE

State Convention of the Prohibition Party to Meet Here Next Thursday.

The State convention of the Prohibition party will meet in Smithfield Hall this city, at 10 o'clock on Thursday next. The local members of the party have made all necessary preparations for the meeting.

The convention will be called to order by the chairman of the State Committee, and Rev. L. A. Cutler, of Louisa, will be introduced as temporary chairman. No man in Virginia has worked more and written more for the advancement of the cause of temperance than has Rev. Mr. Cutler, and his keynote speech on taking the chair will be interesting. Rev. H. E. Johnson, D. D., of Norfolk, has been spoken of quite frequently for permanent chairman of the convention. Dr. Johnson is one of the strongest preachers in the State and by experience and habit of thought is qualified to make an ideal presiding officer.

No candidates in the Prohibition party has shown any strength for the head of the ticket to all rival Hon. O. C. Ruckler, of Bedford, and he will probably be nominated without opposition. Such good men as Wm. H. Vincent, of Southampton; Dr. R. S. Griffith, of Basie City; and O. A. Broughton, of Croaker, James City county, have been mentioned for second place on the ticket, and the choice of the convention cannot be forecast. The nomination for Attorney-General will probably go to South-west Virginia.

A very desirable, though unusual feature of the convention will be some excellent singing furnished by Rev. E. T. Dadrman, of Petersburg and a trained double quartette of singers.

The night before the convention (Wednesday) a gold medal contest will be held in the same hall. In this five young ladies will declaim temperance selections for a gold medal. A chorus of twenty, of Bedford, and he will furnish the music for this entertainment and it is needless to say that it will be of a high order. Three judges will decide the medal winner. No charge will be made for admission.

A popular mass-meeting will be held

THE GRANDFATHER CLAUSE IS BAD

So Says Mr. O'Flaherty in His Rescution Offered Yesterday.

THE PRINCIPAL IS ALL WRONG.

Tendency Would Be to Build Up a Voting Aristocracy—Convention Held a Boiling Session—Only Two of the Committees Met.

It required just twenty-five minutes for the Constitutional Convention to get through with its work yesterday. Only two resolutions were presented. One by Mr. O'Flaherty was a vigorous protest against the "grandfather clause." The other was by Mr. John Garland Pollard and had reference to the division of cities into wards.

The Committee on Reduction of Expenses asked that an amendment be adopted to the resolution providing for the appointment of this body, more clearly defining its powers. The amendment presented was adopted.

There were ninety members present when the roll was called. About the usual number of spectators were on hand.

It was rumored, before the body was called to order that some member had something "up his sleeve," but if he had it, he did not produce the paper.

Mr. Carter Glass was one of the absentees. He has gone home to recuperate and to get ready for the debate upon his resolution to submit the Constitution to the new electorate.

The Routine Proceedings. The prayer was made by Rev. W. B. Beauchamp, of Broad-Street Methodist Church.

Mr. Gordon, of Richmond, offered a resolution directing the Auditor of Public Accounts to include license taxes in the information called for in the resolution offered by Mr. Newton a few days ago.

Mr. Walker, from the Committee on Accounts and Expenses, presented a resolution authorizing the Auditor of Public Accounts to employ such additional clerks as may be necessary in order to promptly furnish the convention with all information asked for in the resolution not to exceed $1 per day. This was adopted.

Mr. Walker, from the same committee, reported a resolution authorizing the secretary of the convention to employ an additional clerk at $1 per day to keep the accounts of the convention. It was agreed to.

Leaves of absence were granted Judge Epler, of Powhatan, two days; Judge Portlock, of Norfolk county, three days, and Mr. Lindsay, of Charlottesville, three days.

Mr. Withers, from the Committee on Reduction of Expenses, presented a resolution broadening and more accurately defining the duties and powers of that body and it was adopted.

Grandfather Clause. Mr. O'Flaherty presented the following: Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that the adoption of any provision whereby a privilege is given one citizen over another in the matter of suffrage by reason of his or his ancestor's military service in the war of the most vicious kind, and in violation of the principles of the Bill of Rights as promulgated to the world by Virginians more than a century ago, wherein they declare that no set of men are entitled to exclude the citizens of a State from the rights of citizenship, and in violation of both the letter and spirit of the Constitution of the United States, which we as voters have sworn to defend, as well as in violation of the principles of equal rights which are inherent in the body politic, which we represent, and to which we are amenable in the forum of political ethics, and the specific application of which test, without any exceptions, provisions or alternatives would sweep millions of our fellow citizens from the body of the people, and members of this body if applied to them.

And we further declare it objectionable, because it establishes a permanent hereditary governing class which is undemocratic and contrary to the spirit of a Republican form of government, and because it is impracticable of administration, unnecessary, unwise and will involve us in an untold realm of political expediency.

Division into Wards. The following was offered by Mr. Pollard: Resolved, It is provided by law that any city or town shall be divided into wards, and the representatives in the City or Town Council are elected from such wards, the Council of such city or town shall, in the year 1901, and every tenth year thereafter, redistrict such city or town on the basis of the last preceding United States census, so that each ward shall include an equal number of voters as nearly as convenient may be with well defined limits of each ward; and whenever the Council of any city or town fails to perform the duty herein prescribed, a mandamus shall lie on behalf of any citizen of such city or town to compel its performance.

Reduction of Expenses. The Retrenchment Committee had a short session yesterday morning. The only definite action taken was the framing of a resolution to report to the convention, asking that the resolution creating the committee be so changed that the committee could have some power and prestige. At present they have no assurance that their work amounts to anything. The resolution creating the committee was "amended in such a manner as to kill the committee," a member remarked.

It was agreed to take up each article of the Constitution, beginning at the Executive and make reports on each amendment as soon as they have agreed on a recommendation, this report to be referred to the committee regularly devoted to that department. It was also agreed to meet every night at 8:30 o'clock until this work was completed. But all this, it was understood, was predicated on the fate of the resolution to be offered to the convention extending the powers of the committee.

If the resolution failed to pass, the committee agreed that their work would be thrown away and the convention would be asked to discharge it from further duty.

The committee continued in existence, the first work to be taken up is the expenses of the Executive Department. Governor Tyler will be assured the committee that he has a mass of valuable data and information that he will cheerfully lay before them.

The following is the resolution agreed on by the committee: The committee desires to submit the following recommendation and report as an amendment to the resolution creating the committee: The said committee shall report its recommendations to the convention with all convenient speed, and all various subjects therein reported on shall be received by the convention, and after same shall have been fully and completely explained by said committee shall be referred without delay to the convention for its consideration, with instructions to consider and report upon same in connection with their several duties and powers.

The unanimous adoption of this resolution by the convention at the session held an hour later means that the Retrenchment Committee will have to be reckoned with from now on.

The Suffrage Question. The Suffrage Committee is at a dead heat. It was thought when the poll tax principle was adopted there would be great progress made. Not so. Two meetings have been held since then, and yesterday morning's meeting was but a repetition of the debates at the former one.

The trouble is over the disposition to be made over the poll tax. Whether it shall go to the educational fund, support of Confederate veterans, for State and county purposes, or for roads, etc.

There were no set speeches made but almost every member of the committee had something to say on the subject. The committee rose without having reached any vote.

It is thought and freely expressed by some members that the committee was made too large for real work.

A member of the committee this morning said that a committee of seven would have reached a conclusion that one of twenty-three will in less than half the time.

An unsuccessful effort was made several meetings ago to carve out a subcommittee to formulate and report to the full committee. The committee was defeated.

JUSTICE JOHN'S COURT.

The Miller Slot Machine Case Continued Until Wednesday Next.

The leading case before Justice Crutchfield yesterday was that of Lewis Miller, proprietor of a saloon at Broad and Adams Streets, charged with operating two slot machines found in his place by Officers Amos and Sowell a couple of days ago.

Every tenth year thereafter, redistrict such city or town on the basis of the last preceding United States census, so that each ward shall include an equal number of voters as nearly as convenient may be with well defined limits of each ward; and whenever the Council of any city or town fails to perform the duty herein prescribed, a mandamus shall lie on behalf of any citizen of such city or town to compel its performance.

WANTS TO PAY OLD BOARD BILL

Troubles of a South Carolinian are Unfolded.

ASKS THE GOVERNOR'S HELP.

Wants His Excellency to Collect Money to Settle Old Account Contracted During the War—A Life of Ups and Downs.

Governor Tyler receives a great many unique letters and requests from all over the country, but one came in yesterday that easily "leads all the rest." It was from J. B. Crooks, postmaster at Walton, S. C., and asked that the Governor collect by subscription, a sum of money sufficient to settle a board bill with a Mrs. Tabb, of this city, contracted by Crooks during the Civil War, and turn the same over to the "good lady," provided she is still a resident here.

Accompanying the letter is a thirteen-page pamphlet, giving the ups and downs of the writer's life, and entitled "The Autobiography of a Man Who Always Got Left and Was Lucky in Being Left."

"I have been a sort of cast off all my life, and my father was so before me," the pamphlet opens up.

Crooks says, going on with his life's story, that he was born in Union county, S. C., in 1838, and is the twentieth of twenty-one children born to his parents, all of whom save himself are now deceased.

"At the age of nine," he says, "I was fire-maker, and am yet. In '48-'49 my father owned five slaves, and was doing pretty well. In 1850 we made 43 four-horse loads of corn."

"In '51 my father fell out with a kinsman, and soon all our property was destroyed by fire. Father never got over it and mother died shortly afterwards."

WAS IN THE ARMY. "When the war broke out I went to Columbia and joined Kershaw's Brigade, Third Regiment South Carolina Volunteers. We were sent to Richmond, and I was in the first battle of Bull Run. I was in eleven battles in all. Fredericksburg was the worst of all. I wished to be a "gal baby" about that time. I was shot through the right arm at Fredericksburg. My last fight was Gettysburg, and here I was taken prisoner and sent to Fort Delaware, where I was kept till the war was over. When I was released I returned to my home, where trouble awaited me. I had my ups and downs and lost more than I made till I was appointed postmaster at Walton twenty-five years ago."

A FEW DEAD-BEATS. Toward the end of the story, Crooks, in his pamphlet, says: "I will now mention a few of the 'dead-beats' that I ever had to deal with. The first one borrowed $10 from me in a hotel in Richmond during the war. He is now rich and I'm poor. He says he has money, but can't get it out of the bank. I have written him repeatedly, but he neither pays attention nor the money. When about to meet me he dodges."

"Another fellow took twenty-five years to answer a letter. I bought $10 worth of corn from him. He was to deliver it. He got my money, but I never got the corn. He now writes he is 'still broke' and can't pay up."

"I sold another fellow a horse for $10. He paid me the money, but I finally sold his note for a pair of boots. I gave another fellow my Winchester rifle to sell, and told him he might have all over $100 he could get for it. He got $14, but did not come back. I saw his next kin, and was informed that I was to get $7, but that there was no money in hand after paying funeral expenses."

"The next fellow that 'did' me owed me $20. He paid me $10, but I had to wait for more than $10, the other having been put down in pencil writing on my books and rubbed out, so I lost the $30."

"Next, I bought a store from an agent and gave him my note. My family didn't like it, but he wouldn't take it back. I sent him the money in two payments, but he won't send the note."

ABOUT GONE UP. "I am about gone up," the paper concludes, "and I owe some money that I would like to pay if possible. I have tried to do all I could for my family. I insured my life twice. Once the company broke; the next time I broke. You see what a row I have had to hoe. What am I left for?"

But the letter to the Governor was written for another purpose. Crooks says he was sick of measles here during the war, and wants His Excellency to raise by subscription enough to settle a board-bill he left unpaid in those troublous times.

Says the letter: When I got well enough to leave the hospital the doctor told me to find a better place. A gentleman named Henry Perkins and I went to the house of a lady named Mrs. Louisa Tabb, wife of Captain Tabb.

"We remained there a month and never paid the good woman a cent. She had three of the prettiest kinds of children I ever saw."

The letter winds up by unfolding a scheme by which His Excellency is to raise the money and settle the bill, so the old man can die with a clear conscience.

BARTON HEIGHTS' STREETS.

People of the Suburb Asked to Sweep Before Their Own Doors.

The Barton Heights Town Council held an important meeting Friday night, and at that time measures were adopted looking toward the keeping of the thoroughfares in proper condition. A resolution was introduced and the chairman of the Health Committee, Howard Harlan, was instructed to prepare an appeal to the citizens. This appeal will ask the residents of the attractive Richmond suburb to help the authorities in the laudable task of keeping the streets in presentable shape.

Formal Transfer. The formal transfer of the Baltimore and Richmond Christian Advocate to the Advocate Publishing Company by Dr. John J. Lafferty and the Rev. Herbert M. Hope was made yesterday. The consideration was $25,000 in the capital stock of the Advocate Company and the assumption by the company of debts not exceeding $4,000 incurred by Dr. Lafferty and Mr. Hope in the conduct of the publication.

A WISCONSIN PIONEER

Recommends Pe-ru-na as Being Worth Its Weight in Gold.

JOHN PAULIN SR.

HON. JOHN PAULIN, Sr., a pioneer of High Port Washington, Wis., is held in high esteem by the residents of that place. He is one of the oldest citizens. In a recent letter he says:

"I have used Peruna with good results for coughs and colds. It has also cured my catarrh, which always became worse when affected with but a slight cold. I am recommending Peruna because it is worth its weight in gold."—John Paulin, Sr.

J. R. Prince, East Leon, N. Y., writes: "Peruna has saved my life, and made a strong, healthy, jolly old man of me. Peruna is just what every family should have taken very few colds since I have used Peruna, but when I do catch cold, Peruna is my medicine."

"A minister came to me last summer and said that he had seen my testimonial in the paper, and began taking Peruna. He said that it straightened him right up—he was troubled with kidney trouble and Peruna cured him. I cannot express my thanks for the benefit your medicine has been to me."—J. R. Prince.

Mr. A. Howell (Marietta, Ga.), writes: "I have been troubled with catarrh in head, throat and stomach for several years, and from accounts that I have read in several newspapers of the good effects of a number of prescriptions from different doctors but none seemed to relieve me until I commenced the use of Peruna, and from its use I can truly say that I have been greatly benefited."

"I am now in my eighty-seventh year, and can walk and get about as well as many much younger than myself, and attribute it greatly to the use of Peruna."

"I keep some on hand all the time and consider it the cheapest medicine in the world."—Mr. A. Howell.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.
