AMUSEMENTS.

There was one of those typical first-night audiences at the Bijou to welcome the return of the Bijou Musical Comedy Company last night. Of course, every seat was filled, and standing room was made. As the company entered, they received salutes of applause, and everybody settled down to enjoy the best entertainment that has yet been seen at the Bijou. "A Stranger in New York" is one of the best of Hoyt's pieces, and it was done full justice by the Bijou company. One Harlan, as usual, carried off the honors. "The stranger" is a part that fits him like a glove, and his bright lines, punny antics and comic songs completely captured his audience. Second honor probably went to Tony Hart, as Baron Lands. He gave an excellent bit character work that even his admirers did not expect to see. David Andra, Lindsey J. Hall and John W. Earley sang some very pretty songs, and acted well. The feminine portion of the cast was very attractive. "The Girl in Lavender," Gertrude Hayes, petite Eva Burdman, and Nellie Harvey were three distinct types of stage beauties, and they added much to the attractiveness of the entertainment. Maude A. Scott was very good as Hattie. The musical numbers were unusually good. The old songs "Patience" and "Gayest Old Sport in New York" were sung by the quartet. "Lover, Me, Lizzy," and the other successes composed by Mr. Hoffman cannot be compared to it, and nearly everyone was humming or whistling it as they left the theatre.

The verdict of the public is that it is the best song of recent years. It is the greatest hit of "The Jolly Belles." All civil and common law cases were continued for Judge Ingram. Judge Witt continued the case of Marshall Savory until to-day.

The case of W. H. Stone, charged with running a wheel of fortune on the streets, was given into the hands of Judge J. B. Clark. Mr. Stone was represented by Mr. W. L. Cox.

A lamp was overturned Sunday night at Mr. Cox's, causing a slight blaze. The Fire Department promptly responded and soon had it under control. The damage was about $15.</
